Western bankers, gaining wisdom through long experience, have prepared for the condition that, now exists and their vaults are packed with money. The government also has offered to deposit twenty-five to fifty million dollars in banks in the chief grain centers to facilitate the financing of the crops.

IN THE BILLIONS.

Some idea of the immensity of the crops this year is shown by the latest government report, which indicates that corn will stop just short of three billion bushels. The oats crop, also the largest ever known, is about half that of corn in the number of bushels. The wheat crop is the fourth largest ever produced in the United States, but is 58,000,000 bushels short of the top record, according to government estimates. Experts in the grain trade put the estimate much higher.

The production of potatoes sets a new mark with 398,000,000 bushels, or 105,000,000 bushels more than last year and 9,000,000 bushels more than the record crop of 1904.

The barley crop exceeds that of last year by 50,000,000 bushels, with the yield of hay stands forward with 25,000,000 tons more than last year and 2,000,000 tons more than ever before known in the United States. It is admitted by government officials that all these figures are conservative.

EUROPE FARES ILL.

It is fortunate that the United States has such a surplus of everything, because Europe is facing a serious crop shortage. For thirty days rain fell continuously in England and other countries during the harvesting season, destroying the crops. There will be urgent need abroad for all the surplus this country has grown, and that means the driving of good bargains by American business men.

A SOUND BASIS.

General business has been undergoing a rather thorough and prolonged liquidation and fundamentally is on a sound basis to respond to the unusual crop conditions. Naturally, this bears heavily on the money market at a time when the crops must be cared for and marketed. Added to this is a congested railway condition that entails an unusual use of credit. Under these conditions, it is perfectly natural that the money market should experience some firm rates at a higher level than has been reached thus far during the current year. Railroads will look to the East for finances they need so badly, while the western financiers will provide funds to move the crops.

Slason Thompson, statistician of the Western Association of Railroads, estimates that the various lines need $200,000,000 to bring their equipment up to requirements. Adverse legislation and general warfare on the railroads by every jackleg politician and Socialist howler all over the country, coupled with constantly-increasing taxation and demands of labor, have left the roads in poor condition to meet the extraordinary demands upon them at this time. They have been unable to purchase new equipment, or keep what they had in proper repair.

HEROIC MEASURES.

To the credit of the managers, it may be said that ten months ago they began heroic measures to meet the unprecedented traffic conditions. They have stored approximately 75,000 cars in the crop district, meanwhile urging all other shippers to help in the emergency by prompt release of cars and by putting their shipping orders ahead as far as possible in order to get everything cleared and give the crop movement the right of way.

With a certain strong European demand for American foodstuffs, it is doubtful if the tremendous crops will result in any material decrease in prices. It is certain there will be no lower price for beef cattle, at least for a year, and prices of pork are not likely to diminish much inside of seven months. The reason for this is plain. There is a scarcity of cattle all over the United States and the supply of hogs that are marketable also is limited. Now that the farmers are overstocked with forage, they will stock their farms with cattle and hogs and feed the corn, rather than market it at a reduced price. Thus the problem of bread and meat adjusts itself.

FROM THE ECONOMIST.

The Economist, which views trade conditions with an accurate eye, calls attention to the danger of the immense crop production. In an editorial warning to the country to go slow, it says farmers and merchants are banking too much in advance on the record crops. They are buying heavily and taking on obligations on the strength of crops that are not yet in the market and may experience many vicissitudes before they reach market—chiefly, the lack of labor to harvest and the inability of the railroads to get the crop to market. The Economist also considers it fortunate for the countrythataPresidential campaign is in progress during the year of bumper crops, as the unsettled condition of business due to the campaign will act as a sort of a brake on the country at a time when the boom would be a misfortune.

A MILLER'S VIEW.

Bernard A. Eckhart, one of the largest western millers, speaking of conditions, said:

"I believe we are entering upon a period of the greatest prosperity in the history of the country. The new wealth from our agricultural resources is going to enlarge the country's purchasing power, give a new impetus to manufacturing, assure full employment of labor and make conditions excellent for all. Merchants and manufacturers are already as busy as they can be and the outlook is wonderfully bright. A change of governmental policy might very easily undo much of what the big crops have brought and will bring us."

THE COMMERCIAL VIEW.

Fred W. Upham, head of one of the greatest commercial concerns in the country, said:

"There is scarcely a manufacturing concern in Chicago or elsewhere that could not at present use twenty-five to fifty per cent. more men than it is able to get. That means that

DOUBLE LOVE TRAGEDY IN DASH TO DEATH.

Young Los Angeles Lawyer, Accompanied by Infatuated Woman Twice His Age, Drives Auto Off High Beach Cliff, Killing Both—Letters Left With Friend Bare Hearts' Strange Secrets.

DEATH, in a wierd mountainside tragedy, came to Niles C. Folsom, a young lawyer and deputy constable, of this city, and Thelma Bartee of San Diego last night when Folsom, with the consent of the woman, deliberately drove an automobile off a high precipice at Topango Pass, at the mouth of Topango Canyon, about seven miles from Santa Monica, killing himself and the woman.

Love, with the threads crossed and recrossed in a wonderful blending of human passion, caused Folsom and his woman companion to end their lives, and yet it was not love for each other that led them to seek death. Folsom, according to letters left by him and the Bartee woman, was infatuated with Ethel Jones, a Los Angeles chorus girl who lives at No. 808 California street. Because she had repulsed his suit he sought to die. The Bartee woman, in a letter which bares the innermost secrets of her heart, shows that her love for the young lawyer was so great that she tried to bring him and Ethel Jones together, and failing, decided to share his fate rather than grieve over his great unhappiness and his certain end.

An automobile party, made up of young National Guardsmen, who had been on a hunting trip, found the wreck of the automobile and the bodies at a sharp turn on the road up the pass. The machine had been run off the turn and lay seventy-five feet below. The machine was still smoking, as it had caught fire and burned. Beneath it lay Folsom. He was still alive but unconscious and bleeding. A few feet away, her dress badly scorched and singed, lay the corpse of the woman.

Folsom's unconscious form was carried to the roadway with difficulty and placed in the soldiers' machine. They started with him on a rapid run to Santa Monica, but he died before they reached the long wharf.

BARES HER HEART.

Thelma Bartee, the dead woman, bared her heart to a friend of Folsom's, and this man last night produced a letter that the woman had written to him a few days ago which shows that she was willing to die if she could shed but one ray of light in the pathway of the man she loved, but who loved another.

The letter frankly states that the writer was old enough to be Folsom's mother and that she knew he loved Ethel Jones and was drinking himself to death because he could not win the girl's affections. She speaks of Folsom's wanting to die and says she would be only to glad to give him and his love into the keeping of the girl if, by doing so, he could be broken of the drink habit. With a pen which was dipped in bitterness and self-abasement, the Bartee woman bared a life branded with the "scarlet letter." Her message shows a love utterly unselfish, its only object being to make Folsom happy.

The letter left by Folsom in the hands of the same friend to whom Thelma Bartee wrote her sorrow, throws a peculiar light upon the mind and actions of the young lawyer. He was only 22 years old and the Bartee woman was past 40. He frankly wrote her that he loved the Jones girl and that with her refusal of his affections he hated all women and intended to drink himself to death with absinthe.

The rescue party found an empty absinthe bottle and several empty whisky bottles in the wreckage of the automobile.

FOLSOM'S LETTER.

Folsom, who for the past year, until a month ago, roomed at the home of Thomas Jones, father of Ethel Jones, and who had been working around the office of Ben Cohn, former constable, wrote the following letter to Thelma Bartee:

"Dear Thelma:

"When I first met you I tried to be your friend. I felt sorry for you. I did everything I could for you, but many and many a time I told you it could be nothing more than friendship and you seemed satisfied. And this is the way you have repaid me. Well, it was what I should have expected from such as you. You have done me more injury than you can ever do me again. I often wondered if you hadn't gone back to doing Jack's dirty work and now I know it. Well, I hope you are satisfied as well as the rest. You might just as well make good your threat and commit suicide, because you nor no other girl will ever have me again.

"I hate women and as for love, there is no such a thing. I don't expect I'll ever leave this room alive, if I do it will be only to drop dead some day not far off, drinking absinthe. I asked the messenger boy to go and ask her to come and see me, but he said she refused, then I sent for another whom I thought was my friend and he refused, and I hope that some day you will be in the same fix and have to lay in bed all by yourself and have everyone refuse to come and see you. I hope that some day

FATHER WHO SLEW DAUGHTER'S ASSAILANT FREED.

Oklahoma Chief Justice Holds that a Parent Is Justified When in Good Faith He Kills Under Circumstances Like Those in the Litchfield Case.

OKLAHOMA CITY (Okla.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "The father who kills in defense of his daughter's honor will receive protection and not punishment in Oklahoma," were the words of the Chief Justice of the Criminal Court of Appeals today when he reversed the five-year sentence imposed upon C. M. Litchfield, who killed Bill Collins, a prominent Democratic politician, in the act of attacking his daughter.

Collins went with Litchfield's daughter, Willie, 16 years old, to a lake on the edge of Winnewood, Okla., and her father, pursuing, fired and killed Collins.

Litchfield was charged with murder and the lower court imposed a five-year sentence upon him. In reversing the jury sentence, the Chief Justice said:

"The father has the right to defend his daughter and he may do this immediately, with the most effective means at his command, and if he kills her assailant, the law will hold him guiltless, even through it may afterwards turn out that he might have prevented the offense b yuse of some other means, provided only that the father acts in good faith and upon reasonable appearances of imminent danger to his daughter. To every true father, his daughter is the core of his heart, the pride, the joy and the inspiration of his life."

IMPERATIVE TO MEXICO.

Order to Release An American.

Threat Is Made by the United States to Land Marines at Tampico.

State Department Tired of Dilly-Dallying With the Latins.

Force Becomes the Alternative to Get Innocent Man from Vile Prison.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21.—Ignoring intercourse, the diplomatic intercourses, the American Ambassador, Henry Lane Wilson, has made a peremptory demand on Gov. Matias Guerra of the State of Tamaulipas for the immediate release from the jail at Tampico of W. C. Nichols, an American fruit grower.

Nichols was arrested six months ago on a charge of having killed a notorious bandit, Caballos.

The embassy was authorized by the Washington officials to employ whatever means were considered necessary to bring about an amelioration of Nichols's condition.

TO LAND MARINES.

Ambassador Wilson declares he will procure his release even if it should become necessary to land marines from the cruiser Des Moines, which is now in port at Tampico with 250 marines aboard.

The American Ambassador regards the treatment accorded Nichols by the Mexican authorities as persecution, and has so stated in his message to the Governor. In support of this belief he pointed to the fact that a Mexican has confessed in court to being the slayer of Caballos.

This confession was disregarded by the court, which declared it was prompted by belief on the part of the witness that a reward had been offer for Caballos, dead or alive. The Mexican was not arrested and the process against Nichols was continued on appeal from the sentence of eight years' imprisonment imposed upon Nichols by the Tampico court. The appeal is being heard before the court of Ciudad Victoria, the State capital.

The jail in which Nichols is confined is filthy and overcrowded.

AUTHORITATIVE NOTE.

Ambassador Wilson has been treating the matter for several months diplomatically, but has met with delays and accomplished little. In his note to the Governor, the Ambassador reminded him that his message was not official, but that it was to be considered none the less authoritative. He demanded that Nichols be placed "in surroundings more sanitary and in keeping with the usage of civilized countries" pending the proceedings against him, which Ambassador Wilson suggested be hastened.

THE CABALLOS TRAGEDY.

The killing of Caballos occurred at Tampico. Nichols had been vested with authority to arrest the desperado, which he succeeded in doing. He was taking him to Tampico on a train when in the confusion at the crowded station the captive escaped him. Nichols admits firing, but the evidence showed that he fired into the air. The body of Caballos was found later several hundreds yards from the spot with a bullet through his heart.

Nichols's high character had been testified to by a petition signed by 100 American residents of Tamaulipas which was sent to the embassy begging intercession.

London Preparing the Public Mind for Political Catastrophe.

Motive Is the Necessity of Preserving Order for Trade Interests.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The practical division of Persia between Great Britain and Russia is almost assured as the result of conferences which Sergius Sazanoff, the Russian Foreign Minister, has had with British statesmen. All the newspapers in close touch with the Foreign Office, particularly the Times, looked upon recently as Sir Edward Grey's mouthpiece, are forecasting this arrangement and are apparently preparing the public mind for it. The necessity of preserving order in the interests of trade is the principal reason advanced.

The Manchester Guardian and other Liberal papers oppose the project bitterly. The Guardian says:

"The Foreign Office, though not ordinarily over-solicitous about their trade interests, knows well how to create them for its own ends.

"Since the signing of the Anglo-Russian convention of 1907, for the maintenance of Persia's independence and integrity and incidentally for the division of the country into British and Russian spheres of influence, there has been a steady growth of this influence and a corresponding shrinkage of independence in Persia. The exact division of territory will not be easy. The Russian papers claim Teheran. If the Emperor gets the capital, Great Britain's share will be decidedly the smaller value."

Some of the Liberal papers bewail the disappearance of Persia as the buffer state and foresee a great increase in the British military establishment when the British-Russian boundary is drawn across the middle of what is now Persia.

Nowhere is the outcome of the conference between Sir Edward Grey and M. Sazanoff awaited with greater interest than in the capitals of the Balkan States, as it is believed they have a vital bearing on the crisis in the near East, the gravity of which, unless the powers induce Turkey immediately to introduce reforms in Macedonia, all are agreed upon. The representatives in London of Bulgaria, Servia, Greece and Montenegro are watching closely the progress of the conferences which began in London today and will be continued at Balmoral Castle on Monday.

There is no confirmation here of the reported alliance of the four Balkan states to make common cause against Turkey, but it is acknowledged that a rapprochement exists for their protection.

PLAY AND SING FOR STOKERS.

MRS. ASTOR AND A COUNTESS POPULAR WITH THEM.

After the Ladies Had Collected Money for Family of Coal Heaver Who Died Aboard Ship They Invite the Co-workers Into the First Cabin to Lounge.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mr. and Mrs. Waldorf Astor arrived on the Baltic today from England and before they left the ship they had won the everlasting friendship of every stoker and fireman on board. This came after a tragedy enacted when the Baltic was two days out from Liverpool.

William Sullivan, a stoker, became crazed by the intense heat, and, before his fellow workers could stop him, leaped overboard and was drowned.

Mrs. Astor heard of the suicide and started a subscription for the man's family. She was aided by the Countess of Essex, formerly Miss Adele Grant of Long Island. More than $500 was collected.

The stokers and firemen sent Mrs. Astor their thanks through one of the officers. Mrs. Astor expressed a desire to meet the men at work and the Countess of Essex was equally desirous. They went below and Mrs. Astor declared she was charmed with them. She said:

"They are all fine men. They are splendid. Why, do you know, during all the time we were on the boat I never heard one of them say so much as 'damn.'"

On three different evenings the firemen and stokers were invited up to lounge and Mrs. Astor and the countess played and sang for them. The two ladies also joined in a friendly game of shuffleboard with them in their quarters.

CALIFORNIA DRUIDS EXPELLED.

Supreme Grove Gets Rid of More Than Half of Membership of the Entire Order.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 21.—California Druids numbering 14,000, more than half the entire membership of the general order, were expelled tonight by the action of the Supreme Grove of America, United Ancient Order of Druids, at its closing session.

It was charged that the California Druids twice failed to make annual reports and failed to pay per capita tax.

Julius S. Godeau and James Mantinoni of San Francisco, representing one faction, say they will be able to reorganize the groves and bring them under the jurisdiction of the Supreme Grove.

L. F. Dunand said the Californians had been flattened out with a steam roller at the trial. He said the case would be carried to the civil courts and that an independent order would be organized. He said the western Druids had refused to pay the tax because of the extravagance practiced by the officers.

IDLERS DIE YOUNG.

It is only the workers who survive. Indolence spells poverty, and means that after a brief stay on earth you will shuffle off into the great unknown—unwept, unhonored and unsung.

Work stands for achievement, prosperity, long life and the esteem of your fellows. Which will you be, a consumer or producer, a slinking camp follower or a front rank soldier in the battle of life?

If you are disinclined to exertion, don't obstruct the line of march. Get out of the way and let the future captains of industry pass by. If hard, honest toil has no terrors for you, join the army of doers, serve faithfully, and in a short time you, too, will be a commanding officer.

You don't know the route the army has taken? Then read and use Times "Liners"—they are sign posts on the road to success. No matter what your want may be, it can be filled quickly and satisfactorily through Times "Liners."

Buyer and seller, renter and owner, borrower and lender, manufacturer and consumer, employer and employee, all get prompt and certain results from Times "Want Ads."

For the week ending Saturday, September 21, The Times printed 16,912 separate "Liner" ads, 5657 more than its nearest local contemporary.

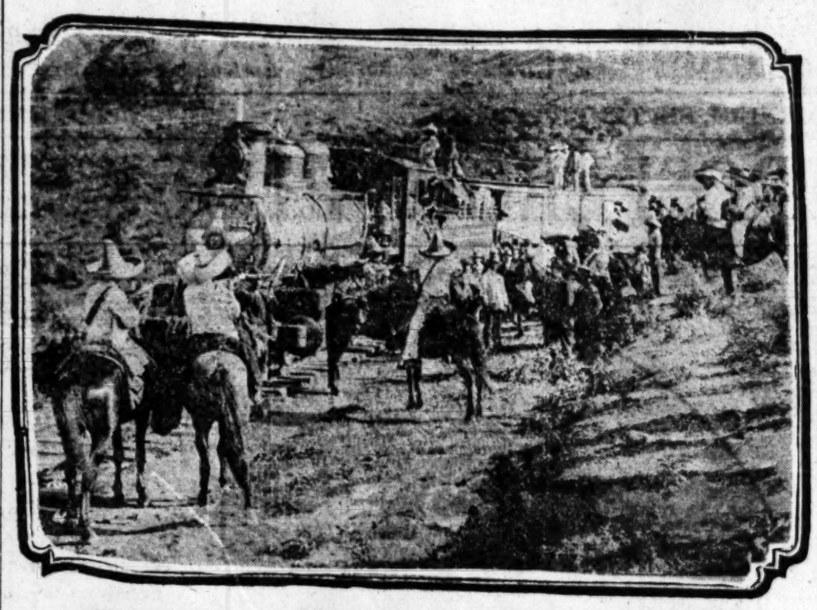
Rebels "Mugged" in the Act of Holding Up a Train.



The War in Mexico.

These photos were received from The Times Bureau in Mexico City and show a gang of rebels near Cuautla in the act of holding up a train of mixed passenger and freight cars. The rebels in Mexico have become past-masters in the business of holding up trains, robbing the passengers and attacking defenseless women and girls whom they find on the cars. The atrocities committed by them are described in dispatches to be worse than those committed by the Turks in the most barbarous era. The other picture shows a regiment of rebels in the State of Morelos.

BANDITS RAID A RANCH OWNED BY ROTHSCHILDS.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] Small bands of rebels are terrorizing the unprotected sections of Mexico and outlawry prevails in a number of districts, according to messages received by the Department of State today.

Among the depredations committed by the rebels was a raid on a ranch owned by the Rothschild interests near the mouth of the River Balsas in Michocan, about a week ago. The manager of the property, which is known as the Laguna ranch, was forced to pay the raiders $4000 and was then driven away with his family. On Monday night, a band of rebels took Carrichal.

Another uprising in the vicinity of La Unsion was reported today. Revolutionary conditions are the cause of much unrest in the district, according to another dispatch and there is much looting of property and other lawlessness. One report was to the effect that the rebels have made their appearance in the State of Jalisco, and that there is more trouble in the State of Mexico, indicating that the rebels have shifted the scene of their operations to new territory. It is reported that conditions are quiet at Saltillo and Ensenado.

Two hundred rebels under command of Satiagi Cambreros have joined the forces of Gen. Campa at Bolubo, according to information received by the State Department.

Things Are Lively.

ONTARIO PLANS ITS ANNUAL STREET SHOW.

ONTARIO, Sept. 21.— Ontario, growing city among the orange groves and alfalfa, is all aglow with enthusiasm these days and teeming with plans for its annual celebration of its progress and prosperity, the "Festivo de Ontario," which will be held October 25 and 26.

The management of the festivities is in the hands of some of the same competent men who made such a success of the celebration of last year, when hundreds of visitors came from all the surrounding country, and the nearby cities and entered scores of automobiles in the grand parade. Paul W. Nichols is the general chairman. James Aubrey is at the head of the advertising committee. Dr. J. B. Harvey is chairman of the decoration committee, C. E. Christensen chairman of finances, Gordon Whyte is in charge of the queen contest, and L. C. Kennedy, of the night parade, while many other minor committees are working with enthusiasm and effectiveness.

Two names have already been entered in the contest for the queen of the Festivo, and others will doubtless be put up by other organizations.

Miss Elizabeth Taylor has been chosen by the Chaffey Union High School as its candidate, and Miss Jessie Chaffin by the Yoemen as their representative in the contest. Miss Taylor is the daughter of Jefferson Taylor, principal of the grammar schools of this city.

The Festivo will come to a grand climax on Saturday night, October 26, when the auto racers in the Phoenix road race will pass through Ontario over the ocen-to-ocean highway.

The festivities will open Friday morning with the crowning of the queen in great state. She will reign for two days over a merry world, its undisputed monarch.

There is to be an industrial pageant in which practically every establishment of the city will take part, and an evening parade, which will probably follow the lines of the unique display of last year, when a long line of gaily-lighted automobiles formed a pretty parade.

A parade of products will be a great feature. Farmers and ranchers will be offered prizes for exhibits of what the soil and climate hereabouts will produce.

George T. Barr, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has suggested a big pageant illustrating the birth, growth, and future of Ontario. His idea is to have an elaborate scheme of seven floats, each typified by a female figure, depicting Ontario, beginning, booming, asleep, awakening, regeneration, prosperity, present and future.

Games of various kinds have been planned to add to the enjoyment of the occasion. There will be football, races, tournaments and what not.

A number of concessions have already been applied for, and will add further festive features. One of the streets downtown will probably be closed, for amusement features, and Euclid avenue, the broad, beautiful avenue leading straight to the foot of "Old Baldy," down the center of which runs the Pacific Electric road from Los Angeles, with a wide street each side of the track, will be for a block or two in the center of the city, reserved for booths and concessions.

Elaborate decorations of palms, and the Festivo colors, green and orange, which symbolize the yellow of Ontario's oranges, and the deep green of its alfalfa fields, are planned.

A series of automobile excursions from Ontario through all the surrounding regions will both bring in money for the expenses of the Festivo and help to boost the celebration in the country through which the excursions will pass.

Spokane Commissioner Will Introduce an Ordinance to Limit the Number of Saloons.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Feduction in the number of Spokane saloons to a maximum of 150 instead of 230 as at present, increase in license fees, and a gradual thinning out of dringing resorts all over the saloon district is now practically assured, following the defeat of the local option petition in the Superior Court.

Immediate steps will be taken by Commissioner Hayden to introduce an ordinance providing for the changes.

"We propose to follow the Los Angeles plan of saloon limitation," said Commissioner Hayden.

SIGNING RULE FOR ELECTORS.

Almost Twelve Thousand Names Are Needed.

Only Stay-at-Home Voters Will Be Counted.

The Document Must Be Filed by October First.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 21.—According to figures prepared in the office of the Secretary of State by Statistician James Cremin, a petition for the purpose of placing the name of a Presidential elector on the ballot at the November election as an independent candidate or a candidate by petition, must contain 11,817 signatures. A nominating petition under the State election law must be filed in the office of the Secretary of State thirty-five days before the November election.

Electors qualified to sign these petitions—and each Presidential elector of the several parties who secures the double nomination must circulate a separate petition—are those who have been on the Great Register since January 1, and who have taken no part in any primary election or in any way participated in the nomination of any man for any office. The petition circulators must, therefore, secure 11,817 names of the stay-at-homes, men and women who have taken no part in politics since January 1, 1912.

ONLY FEW NAMES LACKING.

Supplemental Petitions Will Like Assure Vote on Proposed Abolition of State Poll Tax.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) Sept. 21.—With the filing today of a supplementary petition of 4933 names, secured in San Francisco, the initiative measure proposing amendment to the State Constitution for the abolition of the State poll tax is practically assured of being qualified for a place on the ballot at the next election following that of next November.

These 4933 signatures on the supplemental petition bring the total petition to 31,793. Under the law it requires slightly over 32,000 names to insure an initiative proposal to be placed upon the ballot. The poll tax petition, therefore, with the filing of 300 more names on supplemental petitions will be safe for submission to the voters of the State.

Commoner Tells People of Idaho That Roosevelt Trust Regulation Plan Is not Practicable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

POCATELLO (Idaho) Sept. 21.—From the rear platform of his train William J. Bryan campaigned for Woodrow Wilson from Montana to this city today, speaking at a number of towns where short stops were made. In an address of one hour at Idaho Falls this morning, Mr. Bryan assailed Col. Roosevelt's plan for a Federal commission to regulate trusts.

In his Pocatello speech in the afternoon he expressed his belief in the personal honesty of President Taft, but maintained that the President distrusted the common people.

Mr. Bryan will go from here to Ogden, Utah.

Name of Lucy Goode White, Socialist Candidate for Superior Judge, Will Appear on Ballot.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Despite the fact that Miss Lucy Goode White, nominated at the September primaries as a Socialist candidate for Superior Judge, failed to pass the examination for admittance to the bar, her name will appear on the official ballot, according to the statement yesterday of Registrar of Elections Zemansky. This statement was made after the election commissioners had considered the case.

After she failed to pass the bar examination, Miss White, who formerly was a stenographer in a law office, gave to Frank Sawyer a written statement informing the Registrar that she withdrew as a candidate and asked that the certificate of nomination be issued to Sawyer. Before action could be taken, however, she hurried to the Registrar's office and filed a declaration revoking her statement of withdrawal as a candidate.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HARRISBURG (Pa.) Sept. 21.—Gov. Wilson traveled homeward today from his first real campaign trip since he was nominated for the Presidency. "It is hard for me to view the trip objectively," said the Governor when asked about it today. "What interested me most was the friendliness of the people toward me and the friendly look on their faces. I observed especially that the plainest fellows were the most cordial. They seemed to feel that there was no offishness and that I was accessible to them all."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A $50,000,000 tobacco company, now in process of formation here, is reported today to have the financial support of Daniel C. Reid, chairman of the Chicago Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company, and several of his associates.

According to the report, options have already been obtained on a large number of independent tobacco companies in all parts of the country. The present plan, it is understood, is to manufacture all forms of tobacco and to make a speciality of cigarettes.

The decree of the United States Supreme Court dissolving the American Tobacco Company, it is reported has brought about favorable conditions, in the opinion of the promoters, found.

President Will Visit the Home of His Ancestors.

Plans Motor Trip to Mendon to End Vacation.

Family Tree in Massachusetts in Colonial Days.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BEVERLY (Mass.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] President Taft will probably take a motor trip to Mendon, Mass., to visit the home of his paternal ancestors before he concludes his present vacation here. Several days ago the President received a letter from a friend there saying that the home of Robert Taft, the first-known American Taft, has been definitely located in that town. Documents recently discovered show that Robert Taft's homestead is that located in the town records as "Fort Field," which is situated easterly of "Nipmuck Great Pond."

In 1679, according to the records, Robert Taft bought from Col. William Brown a twenty-acre lot and house. This tract is located near the road leading from Mendon to Chestnut Hill. By deeds on file at Mendon it has been proved that the home of Robert Taft was on the estate now owned by Luther Taft.

FIRST KNOWN ANCESTOR.

Robert Taft, the first known ancestor of President Taft in this country, was one of the founders of the town of Mendon. He was a man of influence and served on the first board of selectmen in 1680. Robert Taft was a carpenter and with his sons built the first bridge across the Mendon River. His sons were Thomas, Robert, Daniel, Joseph, and Benjamin Taft.

The President is descended from Joseph, the fourth son of Robert Taft. Joseph Taft's son was Capt. Peter Taft, who participated in the battle of Bunker Hill. His son, Aaron Taft, who was a minute man in 1775, moved to Windham county, Vermont, in 1799 and died nine years later. Aaron's son, Peter Rawson Taft, the President's grandfather, was the first member of the family who was a lawyer.

GOES TO OHIO.

Judge Peter R. Taft was married in 1810 to Xylvia Howard, from whom the President received his middle name. Their son, Alphonso, was the President's father. He was a graduate of Yale University and moved to Cincinnati in 1839, and established the Ohio branch of the family. Alphonso Taft was married twice, his second wife, who was Miss Louise M. Torrey of Millbury, Mass., being the President's mother. The President was born in Cincinnati on September 15, 1857.

The President is greatly interested in the homestead at Mendon and if he can find an opportunity will visit the estate where his ancestors lived.

SCHOOL TRUSTEES ELECTED.

Lancaster Enjoys Delight of Political Fight and Then Votes in Lopsided Sort of Way.

LANCASTER, Sept. 21.—Electing trustees for the new Antelope Valley High School District was the programme Friday. Considerable local feeling was injected into the contest and as a result Lancaster polled the largest vote ever brought out at an election. The following ticket carried the day by overwhelming majorities: R. B. Cameron, O. S. Bulkley, J. H. Holland, J. A. Searing, L. C. Tilghman. The fight was seemingly on R. B. Cameron, only, a man who has made a most excellent record on the Board of School Trustees of Lancaster, and was evidently in retaliation for certain acts which he had performed in pursuance of his duty as such trustee.

Yesterday's vote in Lancaster gave Cameron 116 out of a total of 132 votes cast in the precinct. His majorities in many of the outlying districts were equally as convincing. The plans for the new High School District will now be finally formulated and the trustees will proceed to carry them out, the County Supervisors having made a few days ago an initial appropriation of $6000 to start the work.

SHORT NEWS STORIES.

A well attended meeting of the Farmer's Institute was held in Lancaster last Friday and Saturday under the superintendence of Prof. J. R. Neff of Anaheim, acting for the University of California. The chief subjects treated were "The Care and Pruning of Deciduous Fruits" and "The Economical Use of Irrigation Waters" by H. Culberson of El Cajon, "The Management of Dairies" and "The Feeding of Farm Animals" by Dr. S. S. Twombly of Fullerton, "Agricultural Training in Primary Schools" by Prof. E. B. Babcock of the University of California, "The Principals of Dry Land Farming" by Prof. Neff, and "Alfalfa Growing in the Antelope Valley" by T. K. Temple of Lancaster.

The Southern Pacific Railroad is awakening to the growing importance of the Antelope Valley and has this week had men in this territory gathering data for use in getting out a folder descriptive of the valley and its resources, the intention being to distribute the folder in the East and elsewhere, wherever homeseekers and prospective land investors are to be

When It's Warm, Drink Pure

The Distilled Water That is Sure

The tendency with most of us during warm weather is to drink large quantities of water.

And that is an extremely dangerous thing to do—providing you select the two things.

The first is—don't drink hard water—its action upon the stomach is not beneficial, and its effect is chilling.

The second is—don't drink just any water—for more disease germs are contained in the average drinking water than you can get into your system through any other means. These germs entering through the mouth become into direct contact with the delicate internal organs, and their effects are frequently immediate and very dangerous.

The only safe course to pursue is to secure a generous supply of PURITAS Distilled Water—to have it in your home, your apartment, your office—and to partake of it freely and plentifully.

You know that PURITAS is a pure, soft, aerated, distilled PURE water—it cannot harm the most delicate constitution.

You will find that PURITAS will quench your thirst in a natural manner; that its action upon your kidneys is decidedly beneficial, and that the whole general health will improve.

PURITAS is not expensive—5 gallons cost but 40 cents, delivered—unless you happen to live beyond the old city boundary lines, in which case the charge is a trifle greater.

If you live out of town, and your dealer cannot supply you with PURITAS—we have agents throughout Southern California—a 'phone message or 'phone request to us—Home 10284, Sunset Main 8191—will bring you prompt supply. Los Angeles Ice & Cold Storage Company.

Redondo Beach Swimmers Report That They Are Bound to Will Invade Northern City.

REDONDO BEACH, Sept. 21.—Although for some unknown reason word has been received from the southern swimmers will not be allowed to compete in the meet of the Pacific Amateur Athletic Union at San Francisco, September 28, as was at first understood, Cliff Blake and Ludy Langer, accompanied by their trainer, George Freeth, will leave Monday for San Francisco and Save Money."

Langer, who was expected to enter in the 440 and 880 yard races, who was to enter in the 100 yard tests, have new suits, their transportation from the Southern Pacific and all arrangements made for the trip North, as it was understood the Olympic Club of San Francisco would entertain them. The receipt of a telegram was received by Langer that southern swimmers will not compete.

A telegram has been received by Answer by Henry Schlueter, secretary of the Olympic Club, from Commissioner Stewart of the A.A.U. stating that the boys have the A.A.U. card and the customer, they can form an association to print their own stamps and handle their own business. Members of the association made it very clear that they will not patronize the trading stamp plan only that they are forced to do so by the action of other merchants using the trading stamps. It is believed by the Olympic Club swimmers that a meet with young Langer and Blake and others are dangerous competitors for the 880 and diving contests at the Y.M.C.A., swimmers will be sent to capture the honors in the 100 and 200 distances, while others from the Olympic Club will capture the honors in the other events.

...KERSFIELD, Sept. 21.—On September 30, Kern county oil men members of the Board of Trade will be hosts to members of the Third International Chemistry Congress now in session in New York. It is expected that 150 of the chemists, many foreigners, will visit Kern county and it is the plan of the Board of Trade to meet them at the Santa Fe depot with autos and take them over the oil fields.

A representative of the board will meet the chemists before they arrive here and ascertain how many wish to make the long trip through the oil fields, and how many will take the shorter trip through Kern county. Two parties will be made up if necessary. Among the visitors will be not only practical chemists but those who are interested in various industrial and commercial enterprises in which chemistry plays a part, and they will study the oil fields with a view to their bearing on these enterprises.

One of the main purposes of the Board of Trade members and others, aside from the duties of hospitality, will be to show the visitors the extent and richness of the Kern county oil fields and to give them the proper assurance that the supply of oil on this coast will be equal to the demands likely to be made upon it.

...ROST EXCURSION.

...s meeting of the Merchants' Association last evening preliminary plans were laid for an auto excursion through the farming sections of the northern part of the county to promote the trade of Bakersfield merchants with those points. The dates of these excursion will be on September 3 and 5, and the towns to be visited on the trip are Wasco, Famoso, McFarland, Earlimart and Delano. At a later date a trip may be made to Lost Hills. Not only will Bakersfield merchants visit the towns but they will call on farmers in their autos and everywhere they will meet farmers in the form of pennants, inviting the people to "Buy in Bakersfield and Save Money."

...Weill, Fred Gunther and ...ter were appointed to complete arrangements. The excursion will cover about 125 miles, and the invitation to make the trip will be sent all Bakersfield business men, regardless of whether they are members of the association or not.

The merchants also debated the question of trading stamps and decided that in the event they are not able to persuade a number of local business men to issue stamps in as expensive alike to them as and the customer, they will form an association to print their own stamps and handle their own business. Members of the association made it very clear that they will not patronize the trading stamp plan only that they are forced to do so by the action of other merchants using the plan. In the latter event, however, instead of using stamps issued by a big outside concern, they will handle the business themselves. BRYAN KNOWS; HE WAS THERE.

Should Have Followed Time-Honored Custom.

Commoner Bitterly Upbraids Third-Termer.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

POCATELLO, (Idaho) Sept. 21.—In his journey from Montana to Idaho today, William J. Bryan made several speeches from the rear platform of his train and in all assailed Theodore Roosevelt. Mr. Bryan spoke for almost an hour in Idaho Falls this morning and confined himself in most part to an attack on Col. Roosevelt's plan for regulation of the trusts.

In Mr. Bryan's principal speech of the day, delivered here this afternoon, he defended the action of the National Republican Committe in seating the Taft delegates at the Chicago convention. He said the system was wrong, but the custom was a time honored one and similar action was taken by the Democrats in control at Baltimore. He criticised the Progressives for having failed at their convention to make any effort toward remedying the old methods.

DENOUNCES ROOSEVELT.

In his speech here Mr. Bryan was bitter in his denunciation of Col. Roosevelt's commission plan for the regulation of trusts. He declared this to be the reason that "trust representatives are backing the colonel's campaign."

Mr. Bryan was accompanied on his trip through Idaho by John Nugent, the Democratic Senatorial candidate. He left here tonight for Ogden, Utah.

Prophetic.

KEALING SEES TIDE TURNING.

PARTY POLLS AND STATE REPORTS FAVOR MR. TAFT.

"There Is No Roosevelt Sentiment in Wisconsin," It Is Said, and an Out-and-Out Republican Organization Is Demanded by Badger Leaders.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] That the political tide among Republicans throughout the country is turning toward Mr. Taft and away from Roosevelt is the contention made today by Taft leaders in Chicago based on returns from party polls, reports from State chairman and observations by men in the field in various States.

As further evidence that the President is rapidly gaining ground in regular Republican States, Joseph B. Kealing, head of the bureau of organization of the Republican National Committee, today cited an increasing demand among Wisconsin Republicans for an out and out Taft organization in that State.

NO ROOSEVELT SENTIMENT.

"There is no Roosevelt sentiment in Wisconsin," said Mr. Kealing. "The fight there, as in many other States, is strictly between Taft and Wilson. If the people of Wisconsin and elsewhere can find time to get away from their prosperous business on election day and vote, President Taft will win this election hands down."

SINISTER PREPARATIONS AT BINGHAM MINING CAMP.

Strikers Reoccupy Breastworks While Officers Survey District With an Eye to Military Strategy and Sheriff's Posse Is Increased—Climax Will Come When Management Attempts to Protect Its Men.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BINGHAM, Sept. 21.—Nothing in the appearance of the mining camp today suggested a reign of terror, such as was feared five days ago, when 4500 men, chiefly foreigners, exchanged their tools for firearms and celebrated their sudden accession to mastery of the mines by promiscuous firing and intimidation of all who attempted to climb the hills where the mines are situated.

SINISTER PREPARATIONS.

Not a shot echoed in the canyon today nor was there an alarm to interfere with mine officials and officers who inspected the surface of the mining properties. All of the expensive machinery of the Utah Copper Company stood cold, but unharmed, and a check of the various explosives ready for blasting purposes have proved that the story of dynamite thefts was ill founded. Despite the appearance of calm there was a sinister suggestion in the activities of the peace officers in strengthening their forces, now raised to 300 armed deputies, and a survey of the district with an eye to military strategy by officers of the National Guard.

MAY FORCE CLIMAX.

A large proportion of the Sheriff's force was scattered along the Bingham and Garfield Railroad, the line upon which most of the low-grade Bingham ore is carried to the reduction works at Garfield. The interpretation put upon all these preparations was that the mining camps, led by the Utah Copper Company, were about to make an attempt to operate their mines with non-union men. This, it was known, would bring the strike controversy to a climax, which once passed in safety, would relieve the high tension of the district.

General Manager Jackling of the Utah Copper has insisted ever since his return to Salt Lake that a majority of his men were not in sympathy with the strike and has repeatedly declared that all who wish to work should have an opportunity to do so without molestation, but he has refrained from setting the date upon which operations would be resumed.

COUNTER STRIKE.

President Charles H. Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners asserts that there will be no trouble unless it is provoked by the deputy sheriffs. He is busily engaged in preparing for a counter strike at Ely, Nev., where he expects 2500 men employed by the Nevada Consolidated, a mine controlled by the Utah Copper, to walk out, if their demands for high wages and union recognition are not acceded to.

BREASTWORKS REOCCUPIED.

Three hundred strikers reappeared this morning in the fortification on the mountainside known as the "shooting gallery" from which the firing was done toward the Utah Copper mine on the first day of the miners' strike here.

The men are supposed to be a part of the force which came down from the breastworks to hear the address of Gov. Spry on Thursday. The fortress was deserted yesterday and it is supposed that its reoccupation is due to the predictions that non-union men would be put to work by the Utah Copper Company today.

Superintendent Schilling of the company did not confirm the predictions.

WEST VIRGINIA STRIKE.

RESENT INTERFERENCE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHARLESTON (W. Va.) Sept. 21.—International officers of the United Mine Workers of America, assembled here to confer with Gov. Glasscock, representatives of commercial bodies and coal operators concerning the troubles that called 1200 West Virginia militiamen into the field and placed a large area under martial law because of the miners' strike, declared their disappointment with plans for the meeting.

It was stated today that the strike in the Kanawha coal field would not be permitted to enter into the discussion, as the coal operators had taken the position that they wanted no "interference" from persons outside the State.

BOYS USE SLINGSHOTS.

DULUTH CARS RUNNING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DULUTH (Minn.) Sept. 21.—Duluth's street car service was confused today as a result of the strike. Some cars ran without head lights, while some took sudden turns up avenues not marked on their signboards. Still others were so badly off schedule that the "walking clubs" again sprang into favor.

Aside from attacks by boys with slingshots on car men and the beating of one motorman, which resulted in the arrest of a strike sympathiser, the situation was quiet.

AMERICAN'S AUTO SAVES CAMPA.

Deserted by His Forces, Rebel General Compels Mining Engineer to Take Him Out of Danger.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 21.—The automobile of an American mining engineer named Hocksworth saved Emilio Campa, the rebel leader, from capture by Col. Giron's Federals Wednesday, the rebel chief abandoning his men to effect his own escape.

Campa's desertion of his men was described in a message from Altar, which stated that when the Federals were on the heels of the fleeing rebels after the rout of the latter by Giron, Campa met the mining engineer. He forced Hocksworth to turn about and take him out of danger, leaving his men to shift for themselves. Hocksworth took Campa to a point near Querobabi on the Sonora Railway.

The Altar district situation is serious because of its isolation and the looting of the district by the rebels. The residents are facing starvation. In their flights, the rebels looted Mababi ranch, which is owned by an English syndicate. They took all of th horses, leaving the American cowboys marooned on the desert.

PITH OF THE DAY'S NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cold, drizzling rain fell practically all of the day, beginning before daylight and causing postponement of the hydro-aeroplane exhibitions, the baseball games and the Vanderbilt races at Milwaukee. The temperature sank gradually all of the day. Farmers are apprehensive that the wet, cold weather will cause frost to nip much of the corn which has not yet hardened. This fear is reflected noticeably in the markets. Maximum temperature 64 deg., minimum 56 deg.; southwest wind, four miles an hour. Lowest temperature reported from Yellowstone Park, where the mercury dropped to 22 above. Other temperatures:

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CALIFORNIA SERVICE DEDUCTED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COUNCIL BLUFFS (Iowa,) Sept. 21.—Federal Judge Smith McPherson today sentenced E. C. Moore, who pleaded guilty Wednesday last to participation in the swindling operations of J. C. Mabray and his associates, to one year and one day in the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth. Judge McPherson in fixing the length of time took into consideration the fact that Moore has already served twenty-one months in jail in California while opposing extradition.

EARN VACATION MONEY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—A boy who worked as "bell hop" on a lake excursion steamer during the summer months was the prize-earner of 800 students of Lane Technical High School who worked during vacation. He reported to the principal, William J. Bogan, that he had earned $200. About fifty of the boys were employed as chauffeurs and earned a total of $5000. Altogether, $32,000 was earned by the students during the summer.

MILLIONAIRE AS MISSIONARY.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 21. — William Whiting Borden, son of the late William Borden, and Mrs. Mary Borden, whose share of his father's estate is said to be $5,000,000, is to become a foreign missionary and will begin his life's work at Kansu, China, as soon as his preparatory studies are completed. Tomorrow night he will be ordained a foreign missionary by the Island Missionary Society at a local church. Borden graduated from Yale University in 1909 and last spring finished a course at the Princeton Theological Seminary. Several years ago he gave $20,000 to found a students' mission. His sister, Mary, was a missionary in India for many years.

A Great Tonic For the Nerves.

Mr. Louis Gachman.

"For about ten years I was troubled with a nervous ailment; tried many different medicines and a specialist, but could not get right. Finally I tried Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, taking a tablespoonful four times a day. I improved from the first, and today am as well as any man could be; am 46 years old and feel as though I were 20. There is nothing to equal your excellent remedy. I know, for I have had experience. I will always recommend it, as I want to help my fellowmen, and in this way do a little towards repaying you for the great good you have done me."—Louis Gachman, 327 Tayco St., Menasha, Wis.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

through its tonic and rebuilding constituents, will relieve troublesome nervous complaints by supplying the system with those vital elements which it needs to bring about a complete restoration to health.

More than half the trouble with nervous run-down people is due to faulty digestion, and this is the result of tired, unexercised muscles. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey used as directed stimulates the digestion and enables you to get vitality, energy, nerve power and strength from the food you eat.

You should have it in your home. It will prove its value in the many ordinary illnesses of a family or for an emergency.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the only whiskey that was taxed by the Government as a medicine during the Spanish-American war.

Druggists, grocers and dealers, $1.00 a large bottle. Be sure you get Duffy's, and that the seal over the cork is intact. Substitutes and imitations are injurious. Medical booklet and doctor's advice sent free to any one who writes.

PICTURE UNION IS REPENTANT.

Rescinds Action Regarding Pressmen's Strike.

Resolution Says Socialism Is Grave Menace.

Slugging Is Denounced as Criminal.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]
CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] Members of unions misled as to the facts of the strike against Chicago newspapers today highly praised the action taken by the moving picture operators' union in rescinding its resolution forbidding members to read the daily papers.

The union officially declared it had done a great wrong in adopting it. Letters were sent out by Secretary Hall Johnson correcting the wrong.

"We wish to make clear to you that we were deceived as to the merits of the strike and were led into the action taken by an influence that we have since found emanated from the enemies of the trade union movement," read the letter from the union officials.

SOCIALIST INFLUENCE.

Socialistic influences were denounced as vicious and even criminal because of the method by which they tried to incite working men against the newspapers.

They were accused, in the letter, of encouraging slugging by denouncing the police and others selected to enforce the law. "Our union does not believe in violence. It is a Socialist weapon," the letter continued.

"It was no wonder that our members became inoculated with this venomous, anarchistic poison and thought by passing the resolution mentioned they would help the men they believe to be honest in their strike.

"But we have since found that it was not an honest strike."

NEED NOT PAY IN KANSAS.

Hawley Estate Exempt From Inheritance Tax in Sunflower State, According to Court Decision.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
TOPEKA (Kan.) Sept. 21.—No inheritance tax need be paid the State of Kansas by the estate of Edwin Hawley of New York, according to the decision here today of Judge A. W. Dana in the District Court of Shawnee county.

The State held it was entitled to the tax because of stock held by Mr. Hawley in the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient and the Missouri, Texas and Kansas Railway. The administrators refused to pay the tax on the ground that the reciprocal relations law made the State exempt. This law in Kansas provides that the State will not tax inheritances from States that do not tax Kansas inheritances.

Aviation.

PLAY LEAP FROG IN AIR TO FRIGHTEN OFFICIALS.

Lincoln Beachey, Incensed at Being Flagged, Gives Spectators a Thrill by Doing Circus Brother Acts With Aviator Kearney and Both Are Fined—Officers Killed in Germany While Flying.

(BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]
CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] Twelve aviators left the lake front this afternoon to take part in the air races after the birdmen had threatened to strike.

Lincoln Beachey qualified as a first-class acrobat during the afternoon and the crowds watched Beachey with open-mouthed wonder and saw the aviator defy death many times while he skimmed, darted, dibded and glided and swooped down on the field. Beachey thrilled the spectators when he did the "circus brothers" act in the air close to Aviator Kearney, who also was cutting capers in the air.

DUTCH ROLLS AND DIPS.

Dutch rolls, rollicking dips, dives into and out of the death pit, and thrilling "arm in arm" flying were never seen here before. Bud Mars took part in the flights throughout the day, though he is still propped up and barely able to be about.

CHASES FLAG BEARER.

Beachey, who was sore at being flagged down by the aviation meet officials, gave them a thrill by chasing the flag-bearer in his aeroplane over the entire course, and then going up again to play leap frog with Kearney and running the wheels of their machines on the planes of each other. They were fined $100 each for their dangerous stunts.

At a meeting behind closed doors, the aviators who are under contract with the Aero Club of Illinois agreed to "stand together" and threatened to strike if their demands for extra pay for Sunday and extra flights were not met by the officials. They asserted they had been imposed upon by the officials and several of the birdmen declared they would never contract to fly again in Illinois under the present millionaire officials. A drizzling rain fell during the day, but the crowds remained until the flights were ended at dark.

TWO GERMAN OFFICERS KILLED WHILE FLYING.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]
FREIBURG (Saxony) Sept. 21.—Two German military officers were killed while flying near here today. This makes the third double fatality in Europe within the present month in which members of army flying corps were the victims.

The machine, which was of the monoplane type, was being piloted by Lieut. Berger, who was carrying Lieut. Jungrans as a passenger in a flight from Chemnitz to Berlin. When passing over this city the machine suddenly plunged from a high elevation to the ground. The airmen were instantly killed and the monoplane was smashed to bits. The cause of the accident is not explained.

INDICTED IN INDIANAPOLIS, MAY TURN WITNESSES.

Fifty-one Defendants Are Urged by Attorneys to Come on for Conference Several Days Before the Trial So as to Get a Line on the Defense and to Be Schooled.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Attorneys for the fifty-one men indicted in the dynamite cases by the Federal grand jury have sent out notices to them to come here as early as possible next week in order thatt here may be a general conference as to the line of the defense and also that the testimony that is to be offered in defense of each may be gone over with the defendants before they are called for trial on October 1. The notices sent out by the attorneys urge attendance on the ground that the cause of one is the cause of all and that the defense ought to be thoroughly understood both by the defendants and their counsel several days before the trial opens.

DEFENDANTS AS WITNESSES.

There have been rumors that the government will make witnesses of some of the defendants, and it is said that as many as two, and possibly three, of the defendants, have sought through friends the ear of the District Attorney, with a view to turning State's evidence. Dist.-Atty. Miller will neither deny nor affirm these reports, but advises all inquirers to wait patiently and see. One of the men whose name is most persistently connected with these rumors is H. S. Hockin, acting secretary.

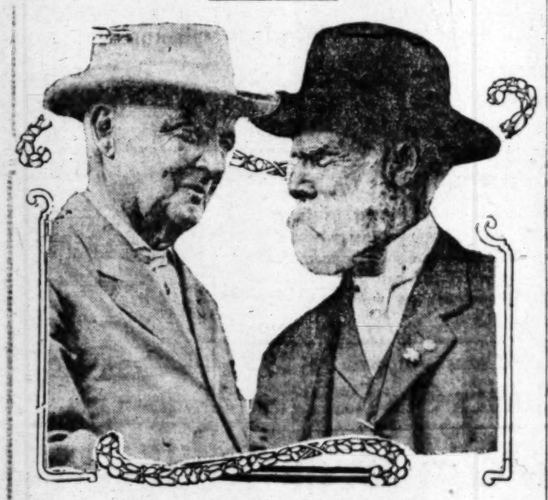
WILD TAFT ENTHUSIASM SHOWN BY REPUBLICANS.

County Convention Reverberates With Cheers for the President—Roosevelt and "Progressives" Denounced by Inspired Orators — Col. Fitch's Speech Thrills Seven Hundred Loyal Cohorts.



They're Truly of the Old Guard.

W. Lord, at the left, who helped organize the Republican party in California fifty-eight years ago, and R. H. Ryan of Tama, Iowa, at the Republican County Convention yesterday. Ryan is the G.A.R. veteran who started to put Lissner off the stage at the Auditorium meeting Tuesday night. Lord and Ryan are each 77 years old.

RESOLUTIONS pledging support to President Taft and indorsing the action of the Chicago convention, were unanimously adopted at the regular Republican County Convention yesterday in Blanchard Hall. Another resolution bitterly condemning the plot of the Johnson-Lissner "Progressive" machine to steal the Republican name and party machinery was also adopted without a dissenting voice.

The convention was marked by the greatest enthusiasm and every mention of President Taft's name evoked loud applause. When Secretary Oscar L. Horn of the temporary Republican County Central Committee called the convention to order at 10 o'clock, nearly 500 delegates, city and county were in their seats. Invitation had been extended to 700 real Republicans to attend the convention as delegates and the splendid representation shows that the Taft Republicans of this city are full of confidence and the old fighting spirit.

Col. W. H. Holabird was elected chairman amid applause and Horn secretary. Col. Holabird made a rousing speech in which he flayed Roosevelt, Lissner, Earl and others of the Bull Moose persuasion. He evoked tremendous applause when he referred to the magnificent record of achievement of the Republican party under the leadership of President Taft and Vice-President Sherman. He called Roosevelt a "false prophet" and "cheap demagogue" and said he is "gallivanting about the country preaching anarchistic doctrines and viciously maligning the President, he pleaded with the American people to elect four years ago."

He raked the Lissner machine with rattling volleys of shrapnel and referred to the grand jury investigation of the methods employed by the so-called "Progressive" leaders and election officers in carrying out their scheme to steal the election. "They stole everything in sight," shouted Col. Holabird, "and will do the same thing November 5 if steps are not taken immediately to prevent it. I sincerely hope that the grand jury will investigate this matter, for the guilty men dishonored the fair name of Los Angeles by their brutal and disgraceful violation of the law."

A committee composed of F.C.Roberts, Long Beach; H. M. Wisler and R. R. Garrett of this city was appointed to name the new County Central Committee. The committee is to consist of one committeeman from each of the 727 precincts in Los Angeles county. The Central Committee will name the county chairman and secretary and an Executive Committee of forty men and women which is to manage the Republican campaign in the city and county. Philip A. Stanton, former Speaker of the Assembly, and Dr. Norman Bridge of this city are mentioned prominently in connection with the chairmanship. In all probability Attorney Horn will be appointed secretary.

Roberts, Wisler and Garrett will meet next Tuesday afternoon at the Republican Club headquarters in the Merchants' Trust building to select the 727 members of the Central Committee. The committee will be called together at an early date to name the Executive Committee and outline plans for conducting a vigorous campaign for Taft and Sherman.

Frank Dominguez delivered an address during the morning session in which he exposed the shams of Roosevelt and the "Progressive" party. He spoke of the grand record made by President Taft's administration and referred to Taft as "one of the four greatest Presidents this country ever produced."

The afternoon session was opened with an eloquent address by Col. Tom Fitch, who poured hot shot into the Bull Moose hide. Col. Fitch fanned the delegates into a frenzy of enthusiasm and when he mentioned the name of the President the cheering continued fully two minutes. Delegates jumped on their chairs, and waved white handkerchiefs and small American flags. The din was terrific. There were many women delegates present and they were as enthusiastic as the men. Col. Fitch said:

"Circumstances may justify sharp criticism of those unthinking Republicans who are engaged in an attempt to divide and destroy the Republican party. But I will leave the task of criticism to others. Not mine shall be the tongue to speak words of denunciation of the sons and grandsons of the comrades with whom for fifty years I have marched shoulder to shoulder.

"These young men will come to their senses bye and bye. [Applause.] I look beyond the passions and turbulence of the storm-swept present into the peaceful future, when, with the acerbities of this unwise and unnecessary quarrel forgotten Republicans will again unite against the common enemy. [Applause.] To me even a Progressive Republican, who is laboring to progress the old party into a morass, looks better than a Democrat, who would tumble the land into a pit of utter destruction. We can back out of a mud hole speedily without much effort, but it would take longer to climb out of hell. [Laughter and applause.]

"Occasionally I hear some member of the old guard say, 'In order to be sure and defeat Roosevelt I will vote for Wilson.' Brother, don't do it. [Cheers.] Stand by your colors. Vote for Taft. Go down with the ship if she must go down, but don't help to scuttle her [Prolonged applause.] Maybe she will float after all, for there is a substratum of good sense in the minds of the American people.

"If we must have a Democratic administration, let it come, but let stalwart Republicans not help to bring it upon the land. In fact, I do not feel sure that we would suffer as much as we think we will. Democrats do not really want free trade. What they really want is the offices. [Laughter.] When they get those they will be content to do as they did in 1893—break all the promises and repudiate all the pledges on which they obtained power. The apprehension entertained by the country after the election in November, 1892, that the Democrats would enact a free trade tariff, brought bankruptcy and suffering upon the land. But when Democratic Congressmen gathered together in December, 1893, they abandoned their announced purposes and exhibited their patriotic determination to lie themselves out of their dilemma. [Laughter.] They enacted a tariff which, though bad enough, was yet so far from being the tariff that had been promised, that Cleveland called it a 'partisan perfidy.'

"In politics, as in the business and social relations of life, it is wise if you cannot have what you like then try and like what you have. [Applause.] I would have liked to vote for my old friend Holabird for Congressman, but because I cannot have that opportunity I shall not, therefore, vote for a Democrat. Mr. Stephens will vote against free lemons and free sugar and free wool, and we must be content with him for the present.

"An English poet, Samuel Rogers, wrote two poems, one entitled 'The Pleasures of Memory,' the other called "The Pleasures of Hope." Everybody can enjoy one or the other of these pleasures, and some people are fortunate enough to be able to enjoy them both. Just now the pleasures of hope are not much in evidence with the Republicans, but 'the past we have always with us.'

"In some things I envy the boys who are climbing the uplands of life with the light of the future shining in their faces. Their ships will steam through the Panama Canal propelled by electric power drawn from the air. Their aeroplanes will carry passengers across seas and shores, their achievements in discovery, in science, in letters, arts and arms, will make the nineteenth century look like a back number. But they will lack the inspiration of those memories which sometimes tingle our eyelids to tears and stir our blood like the blare of trumpets. What Republican, whose hair is white, can ever forget the struggle and successes of the grand old party in the grand old days. [Cheers.] Who can forget the electric enthusiasm its principles inspired? The up-lifted atmosphere of patriotism and high endeavor it created for the breathing of the newly unshackled North? Who can forget how the blood went leaping from Republican hearts in wild surges of passion for freedom, long suppressed, but liberated at last by the assault of slavery upon the flag, and coming as the tide comes on far northern coasts, in one wall of power—with every broken prejudice submerged in its mighty volume, rushing up the sands with voice of thunder and crest of foam? [Great applause.]

"In those days I lived in California, condemned by circumstances along with others to unwilling absence from a contest whereof we were entranced spectators. With clairvoyant sense we heard the drums tap and the bugles call. 'Fall in for the fight for liberty,' was the cry, and out of 1,000,000 northern homes they sprang at the call. Gray beards, and robust manhood and downy cheeks. We beheld them at Donelson, at Shiloh, at Vicksburg, at Chickamauga, at Gettysburg, and on a hundred fields of lesser victory we beheld them wreathed with the battle smoke, wrapped in the sheeted flame facing the iron hail, voiced with echoing thunders, listening to the screaming, whizzing concert of death, struggling through swamps, pacing the lonely watch, moaning in hospitals, starving in prisons, lying with strong faces upturned to the stars, obedient to duty, loyal to country, faithful to liberty, gone to God on chariots of freedom's fire. [Prolonged cheers.]

"'And did no Democrats go to the war?' I think I hear some young Democrat ask. Oh, yes; tens of thousands of brave patriotic Democrats went to the war. But they were not Democrats when they returned from the war. [Laughter.] They voted thenceforward as they had fought.

"I will not detail Republican history since the close of the war. Since then its measures of reconstruction of finance, of foreign and domestic policy have been written into the organic and statutory laws and woven into the very thought of the American people. It has successfully antagonized all the fads and fancies and follies of its opponents and its mission is not yet ended. Let no man venture to indulge in premature mortuary eloquence over its supposed remains. Its corpse is not yet ready for the cremation furnace. [Cheers.] Let the mercenary undertakers stand back and watch the old man spurn the shroud prepared for him, and leap to his feet with the war cry against Democracy upon his lips. [Prolonged cheers.]

OTHER ORATORS.

Deputy District Attorney Helms made a rattling speech in which he declared that "Roosevelt is all there is of the Bull Moose party." He said that "every look, every thought, every issue, idea and command is from Roosevelt, the boss Bull Moose bull-dozer. Hundreds of governments come passed from the earth of a disease called 'one-man power.' The real danger is half a century or a century hence, when trouble arises and the masses hearken to a still more dangerous Roosevelt, who, with the slogan: 'let the people rule,' will be content not with three terms of the Presidency, or six, but only as a dictator, 'to save the nation.'"

A stirring address was delivered by I. W. Lord of this city who, fifty-eight years ago, with seven other sturdy young men, founded the Republican party in California. Mr. Lord is 77 years old, but he is as lively as a man of 40, and there is not a rusty piece in his entire mental makeup. His talk scintillated with humor and brilliant epigrams, and he was given an ovation when he concluded.

"Seven other fellows and myself," said the speaker, "met one night in Volcano, Cal., a mining town, in the fall of 1854 and organized the Republican party in this State. The organization grew rapidly and in a few years the State was over-run with Republicans.

"I haven't any use for this fellow Lissner, who is bossing the third party. Why, if Lissner had come to Volcano in 1854, we would have appointed a committee to watch him and at the end of the third day we would have taken him to a handy tree and hung him."

PARTY VETERANS.

"How many here voted for Fremont?" asked Holabird.

Ten gray haired men raised their hands amid tremendous cheering. "Stand up, let's see you," shouted a delegate, and the ten men stood up while the delegates and spectators cheered again and again.

"How many here voted for Abe Lincoln," asked Holabird and twenty-two men stood up, while the delegates gave three rousing cheers for the Republican party's first President.

The following resolution introduced by J. L. Mathews of the Committee on Resolutions was adopted unanimously.

J. L. Mathews of Covina introduced a resolution condemning the gag rule and "steam-roller" methods of the so-called Progressives in the Republican county convention at Long Beach and denouncing the attempt to steal the Republican organization and turn it over to the "Progressive" party. It was also resolved that the convention "does hereby demand the resignation of Meyer Lissner, boss of the Progressives in California, as chairman of the Republican State Central Committee."

The following committees reported: Permanent Organizations—E. L. Brady, chairman; John Craft, T. M. Coughlin, Judge Casdus Clayton, J. C. Curran. Resolutions—Justice H. N. Wells, chairman; F. L. McCulley, Julius Heberlein, E. P. Goetz, George W. E. Griffith. Platform—F. C. Roberts, Long Beach, chairman; G. H. Wilson, W. T. Smith, John E. Bayle, P. J. McGarry. Credentials—Capt. Samuel G. Tyler, chairman; Otto Reiner, J. M. Fosler, Fowler Shankland, William Porter.

ON A SOUND BASIS.

The following comprehensive and sound platform was adopted:

Whereas, The State Executive Committee, masquerading as Republicans has, by resolution, declared that the Republican party of California is affiliated with the national organization of the Roosevelt party, and,

Whereas, The chief executive of the State, Hiram Johnson, who was elected to his present office by the Republican party, has voluntarily deserted that party and become an avowed and accepted subordinate under the leadership of Theodore Roosevelt, who now seeks to destroy the organization which bestowed upon him the highest honors within its gift, and,

Whereas, The party of Roosevelt and Johnson, in furtherance of its carefully-prepared plot to disrupt or vitally cripple the great Republican party, has freely and openly resorted to both theft and perjury in its efforts to filch from the real Republicans of this State the political privileges and right to which they are entitled, by both precedent and all the obligations of personal and party honor, and

Whereas, the repudiation of the Republican party of California by Messrs. Johnson, Earl, Lissner, et al., must logically involve also a repudiation of the record of that party during the time it has been under the absolute control of the individuals named, and

Whereas, The crisis which now confronts the Republican party of the State and nation urgently demands concerted, harmonious and effective action by its loyal members, assisted by the great body of reasoning non-partisans, in order that the common enemy of both may be conclusively rebuked by an aroused and indignant electorate; therefore be it

Resolved, That we indorse and ratify the platform adopted in the Republican National Convention in Chicago, June 18, 1912, and pledge our loyal support to the principles therein enunciated and to the nominees, William Howard Taft and James S. Sherman.

Resolved, by the Republicans of Los Angeles county, assembled in convention at Los Angeles, this 21st day of September, 1912, that we denounce the acts of political treason which marked the proceedings of the Roosevelt following in Long Beach one week ago today, and that we point to the gloriously illuminated records of the past in proof of our contention that the Republican party cannot be assassinated by any set of men. Jefferson Davis 'failed when backed by a million armed, loyal and enthusiastic followers. Theodore Roosevelt will have far less success. Be it further

Resolved, That both the great Republican and Democratic parties have for many years recognized but one flag as representative of American liberty and citizenship—the glorious old Stars and Stripes—and that we protest with patriotic zeal against the efforts of the Bull Moose to substitute therefor the red flag of Roosevelt; and be it further

Resolved, That we invite public attention to the inconsistency of the Johnson-Earl-Lissner crowd in their hysterical protests against the alleged stealing of delegates at Chicago when this same crowd is guilty of the theft of a United States Senatorship, the hallowed habiliments of the Republican party, the Socialist's platform, the Ten Commandments and the sacred gospel hymns; and be it further

Resolved, That we protest against the illusions of Rooseveltism being heralded as divine truths, and that we denounce the platform of the Bull Moose as fallacious, impracticable and specious in its entirety and as incorporating in its premises results which its author promises to accomplish in, figuratively, twenty-four hours which civilization has failed to accomplish in centuries; and be it further

Resolved, That we renew before the world our faith in and fidelity to the Republican party; that we believe the differences between true Republicans are merely temperamental, and that we appeal to the common sense and good judgment of all progressive Republicans, who are susceptible to such an appeal, to join with us in solving the vexatious State and national problems of the present and future in and through the medium of the only party that has ever demonstrated its ability and willingness to undertake and successfully complete such a work; be it further

Resolved, That the Republicans of Los Angeles county extend to our brethren of the State and nation felicitations because of the apparent fact that reason is again asserting itself; that its light is influencing aright the minds of men; that prospects of the success of our honored leaders, William Howard Taft and James S. Sherman, are daily and hourly becoming brighter, and that neither the designs of ambitious and designing men nor the larcenous propensities of the untamed beasts of the forest shall prevail against the Old Party, the Old Ticket and the Old Flag.

FOR DANDRUFF FALLING HAIR OR ITCHY SCALP---25 CENT "DANDERINE"

Save your hair! Danderine destroys dandruff and stops falling hair at once—Grows hair, we prove it.

If your care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous you must use Danderine, because nothing else accomplishes so much for the hair.

Just one application of Knowlton's Danderine will double the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its luster, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots famish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, don't hesitate, but get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter; apply a little as directed and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually—why not now? A 25-cent bottle will truly amaze you.

LA SALL GOLD DEPOSITS.

Official Report on Utah Field That Has Both Quartz and Placer Deposits of Small Extent.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] A report upon the gold deposits of the La Sall Mountains, Utah, has just been published by the Geological Survey. The author of the report is James H. Hill, who made a reconnaissance of the region in 1911. He finds the deposits are of little value.

Two classes of mineral deposits are worked in the vicinity of Basin and Mesa, according to the report. In the mountains there are several quartz-mining prospects and at least one locality where placer gold has been recognized. The quartz mines have made practically no production and it is probable that $500 would cover the entire output from both quarts and placer mining in the region.

The quartz prospect in the northern La Sall Mountains are small in number and of little value at the surfaces. The placers of Wilson Mesa are apparently of small extent. They contain only a small quantity of gravel and all the gold in it cannot be saved by sluicing because some of it is carried in boulders which require some sort of crushing. They indicate so much material that surely carries nothing of value that it would hardly seem advisable to install expensive crushing and amalgamating machines, unless it were found practical to sort the ore from the waste by hand.

MADERO STARTS ANANIAS CLUB.

Mexico's Minister of Finance Brands as an Unqualified Lie the Story of Juan Diddap.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] "Unqualified lie" was the comment, speaking for the Madero government that Ernesto Madero, Minister of France, made today, when asked regarding the statement of Juan Diddap, the revolutionary emissary in Washington, that the Madero revolution had been financed by Charles P. Taft, Henry Clay Pierce and the Harriman interests.

As to Diddap's detailed story that $5,000,000 had been advanced and repaid with a bonus for $20,000,000, for the service rendered, he said the statement was absurd as well as malicious and untrue. Ernesto Madero said that President Madero had already denied the same story. He suggested that a good way to get to the bottom of the report would be for Mr. Taft and Mr. Pierce to bring the author of the charges into court in criminal proceedings which would afford a chance of thoroughly ventilating the matter.

A circumstantial story is current here that Curtis Guild, Ambassador to Russia, is to be transferred to Mexico. The foreign office today said that it had heard nothing to this effect, but the statement is made that Guild unquestionably would be persona grata.

BANK RULING BY MURRAY.

CAUTIONS EXAMINERS TO INQUIRE FAITHFULLY.

Assets of Country Institutions to Be Reviewed Only in the Presence of the Boards of Directors—Concentration of Corporation Controlled Funds to Be Explored.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—A ruling of great interest to country banks was laid down today by Lawrence O. Murray, Comptroller of the Currency, in an address delivered here to a gathering of national bank examiners. On and after October 1, he said, he desired that at the examination of all country banks the board of directors shall be convened and the examination of assets made in their presence.

The comptroller cautioned the examiners "to inquire into very carefully any undue concentration of the loans of a bank in companies controlled by the banks' officers or directors."

"I speak now," he continued, "of any bank where such a concentration would ruin the bank if the loans are bad. Whenever you come across a case where the directors or officers are unduly concentrating the funds of a bank in corporations controlled by themselves and where you have no opinion as to whether the loans are good or bad, it seems to me you are clearly entitled to one of three things: First, that the books of the corporations be voluntarily opened to you; or, second, that the directors give you full statement in detail of the business of the concerns; or, third, that a copy be given you of a report on the company or corporation made by an independent auditor."

ANGELS BEAT BEAVERS AGAIN.

Hammer Spec Harkness for Many Easy Runs.

Perritt Heaves Fine Game and Is Never in Danger.

Fitchner Makes His Debut and Does Fairly Well.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

PORTLAND, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] Portland used thirteen men against Los Angeles today in an effort to stop Dillon's men from piling up runs, and also to break up the Los Angeles defense. But the Angels had on their batting clothes and they had in charge a lanky recruit, Perritt, who was the master of the game at every stage. The score, 10 to 2, just about indicates the relative worth of the two teams as they showed today.

Perritt was so slow that he drove the fans to desperation, but when he did make up his mind that it was time to throw the ball, he had something. He kept the hits well scattered and the only time he was in trouble, in the eighth, he worked out easily. He gave only one pass. The Angels were out to win and they pounded three Portland pitchers hard. Speck Harkness lasted until the sixth, when Gregg was sent in. Gregg pitched two innings but blew up in the eighth. Fitchner, an amateur, finished the game, and in the one inning he was on the slab he gave two passes and a hit which, combined with an error, counted for two more runs.

The contest had the semblance of a game until the fifth inning. Harkness had been going fairly well and the Angels had scored only two runs to the Beavers' one. In the first Howard singled and scored on Core's double. In the fourth Dillon doubled and scored when Rodgers threw through Fischer, but in the fifth Speck blew. Howard started by knocking the ball over the fence. The ball, however, bounded back, and it only went for two bases. Berger then singled and both scored on Heitmuller's hit. Dillon and Metzger then singled in turn, Heinie scoring on Metzger's drive through Baker at third.

Two walks and hits by Howard and Core in the eighth counted for three more runs. Metzger's drive through Chadbourne scored the last two in the ninth.

Howard took the batting honors of the day with four hits, two of them for two bases, in six trips to the bat. Berger was hurt in a collision at second in the second, and Metzger stepped into a ball which he wasn't looking for in practice. Both, however, stuck through the game. There will be a double-header tomorrow.

SENATORS HAVE EASY TIME WITH SEAL CLUB.

[BY FEDERAL (WIRELESS) LINE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] The Seals were so very bade today that they even made the Senators look in the same class. As a matter of fact, Sacramento played pretty good ball. Patsy O'Rourke was out of the game and so was Jimmy Lewis but still the Senators had it on the Seals so very far that there was even no chance for comparison.

Busher Bonner started out to hurl for the home guards. He gave us the bushiest sort of stuff that we have seen in moons. He walked Heister in the first inning then threw a grounder away, letting the runner go to third from where he was registered by old Deacon Van Buren with a sacrifice fly to left. nd he got worse as the inning progressed. White Hope Swain followed Van and knocked the ball over the right fence. What a beautiful layout for the home fans to face on a Saturday afternoon. No wonder they groaned.

The second spasm saw the finish of Mr. Bonner. He filled the sacks with two passes and a hit and nobody out. Reidy officed Bonner out of the box and put McCorry to work. The little fellow fared fairly well, getting by withone tally which Shinn registered with a sacrifice fly.

But the worst was yet to come. Mac passed Van Buren, Swain and Orr in a row in the fourth and after the first man had strolled in on Miller's Texas to left Irelan pasted one of McCorry's soft shoots for a drive into the right garden, sending two more of the boys home and then the game was a regular joke. Reidy pulled a few more of his silver locks out and then decided to oust McCorry and put the Adonis-like Fanning on the firing line.

Like Mac, he pulled out of that particular hole in a very fortunate way for only one more tally was gathered by the Senators in that particular spasm.

EASY FOR SENATORS.

Some of the fans believed that it would be a ball game after all the ups and downs. The Senators slammed out another one in the sixth by lacing the handsome bird hard and the Seals incidentally swung in and also grabbed a tally, which naturally caused the multitude to marvel. But it required the combined effort of three hits to coax this one over the plate.

The whole Sacramento team seemed to fall down behind Munsell in the supposedly lucky seventh. Reidy was so very much work over the prospects of a good finish that he put McAvoy in to bat for Fanning in the seventh with a couple on. Mac struck out. Still they managed to tack on a couple of tallies on the boots which Sacramento infield made. They were only five runs behind, still they might as well have been 100 to the bad.

Finally Pop Arlett made his little bow. He took up Fanning's burden in the eighth and they started the slam-bang stuff right away. Pop was as wild as any untamed redman who used to roam the plains. During his brief session on the slab the up-country swelled their already heavy run column with two more, bringing the grand tally up to ten and driving half of the fans away.

Big Munsell, late of the Bualo club, pitched a nice brand of ball for the Senators. In the earlier periods he had all the Seals under the spell of the magic wonders which he heaved When he saw the game was in, he slackened up and out of the goodness of his heart allowed the boys to grab off a tally now and then, otherwise they would have been blanked.

MURPHY FINED FOR BEING AVARICIOUS.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21.—[Special Disptach.] The Chicago National Baseball Club was fined $600 today by Judge Cott in the municipal court for overcrowding the grand stand in the West Side ball park August 15, 16, 17, 18, 20 and 21.

The judge made the fine $100 for each day. Charles W. Murphy, president of the club, who was made a defendant, was discharged. The court held Murphy was merely an agent of the corporation.

The prosecution was started by the Fire Protection Bureau, Fire Marshall Zeifrilich and John McConnell, chief of the bureau, being the chief witnesses. It was charged that the club had sold more tickets than there were seats and that the aisles were packed with spectators. The baseball magnate denied the charges and a motion for a new trial was made.

LONG QUITS TENNIS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Melville Long, former coast tennis champion, left yesterday for Philadelphia where he will study medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. Before leaving, Long said he would devote as much spare time as possible to tennis, and that he expected to represent California in some important eastern tournaments next season.

Long has been one of the leading tennis players on the Pacific Coast for the last eight years. He took up the game at about the same time as Maurice McLaughlin, and the two have been rivals for years. They played a five-set match on the Casino courts at Newport, three years ago, that led to their selection to represent America in the international matches for the Davis cup in Australia.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—George Lockner, and William Shields, the Syracuse motorcyclists, won the twenty-four hour team race at the Brighton motordrome tonight.

James McNeil of Scotland, and Earl Eckel of Washington, N. J., were second and A. Chapple of New York, and William Wray of Brooklyn third. The score at the finish after twenty hours of actual racing, was:

HITT AND ABLES TODAY.

Roy Hitt and Harry Ables are slated to hook up on the mound in the game between Vernon and Oakland this afternoon. These crack southpaws have been pining for a crack at each other for a week now, and unless Hogan and Sharpe make a late change in their plans, the fans will be treated to a great southpaw duel.

Two Policemen Charged With Accepting Bribes.

Dramatic Arrest in Basement of Japanese Cafe.

Flashlight Photo Completes Plan of Evidence.

"Diamond" Miller and "Civil Service" Kennedy, patrolmen No. 157 and No. 164 respectively of the Los Angeles police force, were arrested in the basement of the Yachiyo Cafe, No. 202 North San Pedro street, last night by Detective H. L. Varey and a force of assistants, while Kennedy was in the act of receiving gold, marked by the Chief, from M. Inouye, proprietor of the place.

Miller was suspended by the Chief pending investigation of the charge that he received $5. Kennedy was charged with bribery, the Chief swearing to the complaint, and was later released on his own recognizance by Police Judge Rose.

Theatrical and pitiful conditions attended the arrest. While Capt. Murray was taking Kennedy's badge and hat wreath from him, the most signal disgrace that can occur to a patrolman, his wife lay dying at the Kennedy home, No 2229 South Wall street. She has been rapidly sinking for several days. Kennedy made but one sobbing appeal as he stood in his shame.

"Don't let my wife know about this," he pleaded, "for it will kill her, and she'll die thinking I am a thief before I can explain to her."

It was to pay the bills that her long illness had created that, Kennedy says, he was accepting the loan from the Japanese and he says his arrest is entirely due to a misunderstanding. Miller denies ever having taken money.

James H. Kennedy and T. S. Miller, No. 231 West Fifty-second place, were working a double beat along San Pedro street. They were close friends. Miller won the sobriquet of "Diamond" because of his preference for that gem. He wore a large diamond ring, a diamond set watch-charm and other jewelry of a similar nature, offset by a jaunty tan waistcoat that gave him a dapper air. He joined the police force May 20, 1907.

Kennedy became known as "Civil Service" since his attempts to pass the sergeant's examination two years ago. On technicalities preferred by him the original examination was cancelled and a new examination ordered by the Civil Service Commission. He failed to pass the second test.

For several weeks the two men have been working the beat together. Yesterday afternoon, M. Inopye, proprietor of the Yaciyo Cafe, North San Pedro and Jackson streets, reported to the Chief that Miller and Kennedy had tried to extort $50 from him late Friday night. Not having the money, he told them to return Saturday night and he would give them the money, but said he had already given Miller $5.

The two policemen called at the cafe Friday night, he said, because of some quarrel in the cafe, and had told him that they would arrest him and order him before the police commission to show cause why he should not have his liquor license revoked. Later, the Japanese alleges, they told him it would be cheaper to give them the money than to risk having his license revoked and that $50 apiece would square the affair.

He arranged with the police to set a trap to catch the patrolmen. In the afternoon the Chief marked four $5 gold pieces, gave them to the Japanese, and told him to give them to the patrolmen if they called for the money. The Chief and Capt. Murray then made a tour of the district in which the cafe is located and detailed Detective H. L. Varney to catch the men.

By 7:30 o'clock last night the ambush was complete. Detective Varey and his assistants went to the Japanese cafe, were taken down the back stairs into the Japanese living-rooms. In a room adjoining the one in which the money transfer was to be made they were concealed.

About 9 o'clock Miller and Kennedy returned to the cafe. Inouye beckoned them to the basement. Three minuts after th Japanese had gone through the basement passage to the room arranged for, Patrolman Kennedy followed him.

Inouye delved into his pocket and jingled the marked gold coins. Kennedy stood before him with hand outstretched. Detective Varey and his squad with drawn revolvers entered. A photographer with the party took a flashlight picture for evidence.

Then came Miller with drawn revolver. When he heard the flashlight explosion he feared that the Japanese had shot Kennedy or Kennedy had killed the Japanese. He collided with the arresting party and was taken into custody.

KELLY FUND IS GROWING.

According to the latest reports, Fred Kelly will arrive on the U.S.C. campus late Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. In his last letter to Manager Bovard of the university, he stated that he was looking forward to the homecoming as he has had enough of the East. Kelly has been taking summer work at one of the Detroit special colleges.

The Kelly Olympic Scholarship, which is being raised by his friends through The Times, has nearly reached the required amount. Last night the total was $971 and only $29 is now needed to make the scholarship possible.

The big Kelly Olympic celebration will be held in the U.S.C. Assembly Hall, Monday, September 30, at which time the scholarship will be presented and Mr. Kelly will receive the congratulations of his Alma Mater for putting the university on the athletic map of the world.

On Kelly Day there will be a big automobile parade through the streets of the city and all interested in the movement are urged to put the Stars and Stripes on their machines and get in line.

Stages of a Cold

Lassitude or weakness, this is the very first symptom of having taken cold—a dose of "Seventy-seven" ends it.

Tickling or dryness of the throat an early symptom is controlled by "Seventy-seven."

Sneezing, running at the nose, are catarrhal symptoms that yield to "Seventy-Seven."

At any of these stages "Seventy-seven" will break up a cold without delay.

If the Cold is allowed to run on, till the cough or sore throat develop "Seventy-seven" is still the remedy, but may take longer—it pays to keep "Seventy-seven" handy. All Druggists 25c. Book free.

Go Up in Smoke.

BIG BONFIRE BURNS BONDS.

SHRINERS PAY OFF MORTGAGE ON THEIR AUDITORIUM.

Lively Celebration of Nobles Extends Far Into the Night and Zem-Zem Flows Freely in the Desert Sands—Flint Presented With Loving Cupful of Gold.

Two thousand voices rose in a chorus of wild approval, 2000 pairs of hands swelled the chorus of deafening applause and 2000 pairs of eyes watched with great satisfaction cancelled bonds to the value of $50,000 rise flaming from a big urn on the stage of the Shrine Auditorium last night, and float, still burning, through the haze of tobacco smoke that ascended to the roof of the great building.

The occasion of this expensive bonfire was the celebration by Al Malaikah Temple, Noble Order of the Mystic Shrine, of the wiping out of the $50,000 mortgage on the big auditorium.

A. A. McLaughlin and Jay Bailey, Frank Miller and R. A. Heffner, placed the bonds in a big urn and applied the torch while the Nobles yelled. Bernal Dyas and Harry Ellowell set fire to the bonds.

Potentate Motley Flint, on behalf of the nobles of the temple, was presented with a beautiful silver loving cup filled to the brim with gold pieces. There was more than $2500 of gold in the cup. Potentate Flint then gave a speech and paid all sorts of nice compliments to the nobles which put them in such good humor that when Flint asked their aid to keep up the Christmas charity work of the temple the nobles rose as one man and shouted their enthusiastic approval.

Vaudeville numbers enlivened the evening and much interest was displayed in the exhibition of moving pictures taken of the Shriners' parade during the recent convention.

More than fifty members of the Long Beach nobles attended the "cremation," marching in with a band at the head and raising the roof with their cheers and noise. Each man wore a big red ribbon inscribed "Pote Flint's Party."

After the scheduled programme was over the nobles gathered in the gallery and wet their noble whistles with noble "zem-zem"—champagne, soft drinks and even plebean beer, and the festivities were continued into the wee piles of sandwiches [illegible]

COME OVER AND HELP US GROW

It Is Good Settlers We Want, and We Are Going to Have Them too

The San Jacinto Board of Trade People are making bids for settlers, feeling confident that they are offering the best and cheapest high-class ranch and fruit lands to be had in any section, barring none in the whole State. These lands have not been advanced since this Great Water Discovery. Therefore, a moment should not be lost. The wise will make their selection before the price is trebled, or even quadrupled. Home, back Home, was never like a Home in the beautiful SAN JACINTO VALLEY, for either ranch or business purposes. No desert in this Valley, every foot under a high state of cultivation. Its products excel those raised in any other district. The soil is easy to work, and the big, mellow garden. Its climate is perfect.

The New Water Discovery recently places this Valley in the envied and sought-after list of the whole State.

A committee with [illegible] appointed to show everybody free, and we extend a hearty invitation to all of our great State to see this beautiful little Valley in all its glory. Come on to Santa Fe in the morning, in the evening. The San Jacinto Trade, San Jacinto, Cal.

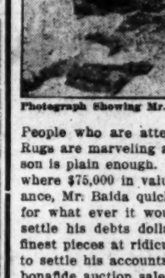
Those Peruna Testimonials How Are They Obtained



S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.

For a great many years I have been gathering statistics as to the effects of Peruna when taken for catarrhal derangements. I have on hand thousands of unsolicited testimonials from people in all stations of life, who claim that after many years of futile attempts to rid themselves of chronic catarrh by various forms of treatment they have found complete relief by the use of Peruna. These testimonials have come to me unrequested, unsolicited, unrewarded in any way, directly or indirectly. They have simply been gleaned from my private correspondence with patients who have been more or less under my treatment or taking my remedies.

No remedy, official or unofficial, has a greater accredited basis for the claims we make for it than Peruna as a remedy for catarrh.

I have never been opposed at any time to the regulations offered by the Pure Food and Drugs Act. I am not now opposed to its provisions, but I am opposed to the proposed amendments to give to a partisan board of physicians the unqualified authority to decide as to all therapeutic claims which may be made for a [illegible] medicine. It is manifestly unjust to refer such questions to a body who are already convinced of proprietary medicines. To give such a board the unlimited authority to decide whether our claims for Peruna are valid or not is a manifest violation of my constitutional rights.

My claims are based upon [illegible] irrefutable statistics. But I am willing to have our claims and the composition of Peruna thoroughly investigated, and if I am to be [illegible] to be fixed. Or if I am making statements concerning [illegible] the nature, symptoms or cure of any disease, if I am making false statements as to unanswered letters from the people by false [illegible] I am willing to submit to any [illegible] tribunal or investigation.

ALL THAT REMAINS OF $75 WORTH OF FINE ORIENTAL RU

Photograph Showing Mr. Nick G. Baida Digging Out Pieces of Oriental Rug from Ruins of Ocean Park Fire.

People who are attending the great Sacrifice Auction Sale of Rugs are marveling at the tremendous values they are getting. The reason is plain enough. After the total destruction of his Ocean Park store where $75,000 in valuable Rugs and Carpets were burned, with little insurance, Mr. Baida quickly decided to auction off all stock in the ruins for what ever it would bring, with a view of raising money enough to settle his debts dollar for dollar. That is the reason one can get the finest pieces at ridiculously low prices at auction—money must be had to settle his accounts. Hundreds of people are taking advantage of the unprecedented bonafide auction sale, and are saving themselves hundreds of dollars. They are securing gems of art and beautiful pieces at a fraction of their cost. A short visit to the store any day from 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. will demonstrate the fact that genuine Oriental Rugs and Carpets can be purchased for a great deal less than domestic rugs.

Even his private collection has been taken from the vaults of the Citizens' National Bank and placed on sale to be auctioned off to the highest bidder—a collection which has taken years of labor to secure among many tribes to gather.

ELDERLY FOLKS! CALOMEL, SALTS AND CATHARTICS AREN'T FOR YOU

Harmless, Gentle "Syrup of Figs" is Best To Cleanse Your Stomach, Liver and 30 Feet of Bowels of Sour Bile, Decaying Food, Gases and Clogged-up Waste.

You old people, Syrup of Figs is particularly for you. You who don't exercise as much as you need to; who like the easy chair. You, whose steps are slow and whose muscles are less elastic. You must realize that your liver and ten yards of bowels have also become less active.

Don't regard Syrup of Figs as physic. It stimulates the liver and bowels just as exercise would do if you took enough of it. It is not harsh like salts or cathartics. The help which Syrup of Figs gives to a torpid liver and weak, sluggish bowels is harmless, natural and gentle.

When eyes grow dim, you help them. Do the same with your liver and bowels when age makes them less active. There is nothing more important. Costive, clogged-up bowels mean that decaying, fermenting food is clogged there and the pores or ducts in these thirty feet of bowels suck this decaying waste and poisons into the blood. You will never get feeling right until this is corrected—but do it gently. Don't have a bowel washday; don't use a bowel irritant. For your sake, please use only gentle, effective Syrup of Figs. Then you are not drugging yourself, for Syrup of Figs is composed of only luscious figs, senna and aromatics which cannot injure.

A teaspoonful tonight will gently but thoroughly, move on and out of your system by morning all the sour bile, poisonous fermenting food and clogged-up waste matter without gripe, nausea or weakness.

But get the genuine. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with contempt, any other Fig Syrup unless it bears the name—prepared by the California Fig Syrup Company. Read the label.

Niles C. Folsom and Miss Ethel Jones,

Los Angeles actress, two of the principal figures in a strange tragedy of love which led to the death of Folsom and Thelma Bartee of San Diego last night when Folsom deliberately drove an automobile off a precipice at Topango Pass. The woman was instantly killed and Folsom died a short time after he was found by an automobile party. Folsom and the woman died because the man could not gain the love of Miss Jones. He wanted to die and the Bartee woman, who loved him, agreed to die with him, according to evidence contained in letters written by them to a friend several days ago.

do it with drop me a line. I am going to San Diego this P. M.

"Yours Truly

[Signed] "THELMA BARTEE."

These two letters were shoved under the door of a room occupied by a friend of Folsom. The recipient, an old man, cried last night when told of the boy's death. He said that Folsom had one of the brightest minds he had ever come in contact with and that the "boy" as he called him, would have made a great name for himself if he had let absinthe alone and had not been unhappy in his love affairs.

According to the story of this man, Folsom visited him at 5 o'clock last night and told him he intended starting on an automobile trip to Santa Barbara at 7 o'clock. He said he had been engaged to drive a car by a Santa Barbara woman who had just purchased a new roadster. He spoke of his mother, Mrs. Marty Folsom who lives on Third avenue, Santa Monica, and of other intimate things in his life.

"I will never come back to Los Angeles," he said significantly, as he took leave of his friend.

Evidently the Bartee woman was to accompany him on his trip, although Folsom made no mention of any one going with him.

THE DISCOVERY.

It was nearly dusk last night when K. Mason, No. 1145 Fourteenth street, Long Beach, and a party of friends which included, Charles Locker and Stephen Garry, were driving over the pass when they saw the ruined auto lying at the foot of the bluff. They stopped and hurried down the side of the cliff.

When the party drove furiously into Santa Monica they knew that Folsom was past medical aid. At the long wharf they stopped the machine and telephoned for a doctor. When one arrived he said the victim was dead.

GIRL'S PARENTS TALK.

Last night Thomas Jones and his wife talked of Folsom and of his love for their beautiful daughter. A Times reporter was the first to tell them of the death of the young man and of his woman companion.

"Folsom was a bright boy, but he was drinking himself to death," said Mrs. Jones. "He was madly in love with my daughter, Ethel, but he had no prospects and Ethel told him that she could never marry him. He began drinking absinthe and friends told us that he would not be alive in a few weeks if he did not stop.

"On one occasion he met Ethel on the street and told her that he would kill her and himself unless she consented to marry him. She pacified him as best she could, but she was terribly frightened. Two days ago he wrote her a threatening letter. We were afraid he would kill himself because he had often threatened to do so."

When Folsom's aged friend, who had the letters written by him and by Thelma Bartee, was told of the death of the young man, and the woman, the first words he said showed that he knew Folsom had deliberately committed suicide

"He killed himself and the woman agreed to die with him," he exclaimed, before any of the details could be told him.

For the past few years Folsom had made considerable money. He had a good legal mind, lawyers who knew him declare.

FUNERAL MONDAY.

ANAHEIM, Sept. 21.—Timothy Carroll, one of the pioneers of Orange county, died yesterday at his home in this city. He had lived in Anaheim approximately forty years and for many years conducted the Carroll Nursery. He leaves a widow and four children. The children are Timothy, Jr., Joseph, and Charles of Anaheim, and Mrs. Mary Wallace of Los Angeles. The funeral will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the Catholic Church and interment will be made in the Anaheim Cemetery.

SAN JACINTO NOTES.

SAN JACINTO, Sept. 21.—James Cook has begun the erection of a $1500 bungalow on a lot in his subdivision on Topeka street. Mr. Cook announces that a friend will erect a bungalow exactly like his on an adjoining lot as soon as his building is completed.

E. R. Collins this week hauled lumber for the erection of a barn on his home place on North Central avenue with a hay capacity of about thirty tons.

At Soboba Lithia Springs a number of new cottages are being erected, and a bottling plant has recently been completed.

Martin Meier this week shipped a carload of lumber to Temecula for J. Wentworth, to be used in the erection of a building for a mountain resort, which he plans to establish.

G. W. Crumley has bought ten acres of alfalfa land south of town from the San Jacinto Land Company, the consideration being $3000. The new owner expects to build a home on the property.

C. D. Pool, manager of the San Jacinto Commercial Company, this week purchased the highly-improved home of Jack Hopkins on Main street, and will take immediate possession.

At a mass meeting this week committees were appointed to arrange for the coming street fair and carnival to be held in San Jacinto on the five first days of October. All kinds of orchard and farm products that are grown in the valley will be on exhibit and the business houses of the town will have floats. It is planned to have special railroad rates and every effort will be made to attract large crowds from outside towns. The fair should prove a splendid advertisement for the San Jacinto Valley.

This week a horse was stolen from the place of James Hornback, on Jordan avenue, and the same night a buggy was stolen from the home of H. Van Dusen. The following morning tracks showed that the horse was hitched to the rig and driven south. C. B. Woodhead also lost two horses, but recovered the property at Elsinore, where the Mexican thief was arrested.

DIES OF HIS INJURIES.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BELFAST (Ireland) Sept. 21.—H. J. D. Astley, a British aviator, suffered injuries from which he died later in a fall from his aeroplane from a height of 150 feet here today. Astley, who had made several successful flights, was flying with J. Valentine.

Honest Advice to Consumptives

Somehow there exists a vast amount of skepticism as to the possibility of curing Consumption. We state none but facts, and are sincere in what we assert.

If we were afflicted with Tuberculosis, we should do precisely what we ask others to do—take Eckman's Alterative promptly and faithfully. The reason we should do this and the warrant we have for asking all Consumptives to take it, is that we have the reports of many recoveries, one of which follows:

1619 Susquehanna Ave., Phila, Pa.

"Gentlemen: For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhage of the lungs, the number totaled nearly one hundred. Our family physician advised another climate, as to remain would probably be fatal. However, I remained, and in February of 1902 I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough, which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March, 1892, that I learned of and started taking Eckman's Alterative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced well. Since that time I have had two slight attacks of pneumonia and I have resorted to no other medicine to effect a recovery.

"I am at present in excellent health and feel that as long as I can obtain Eckman's Alterative I have no fear of Consumption. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done."

(Signed) HOWARD L. KLOTZ

Eckman's Alterative is effective in Bronchitis, Asthma, Hay Fever, Throat and Lung Troubles, and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain poisons, opiates or habit-forming drugs. For sale by the Owl Drug Co., and other leading druggists. Ask for booklet telling of recoveries, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for additional evidence.

INJURED BOY DISPLAYS GRIT.

Walks Two Miles With Arm Badly Shattered.

Pasadena Youngster Displays Fortitude of a Spartan.

Carmelita Playgrounds Are Three Years Old.

[Office of The Times, 33 N. Fair Oaks avenue.]

PASADENA, Sept. 22.—With one arm almost shot to pieces, Fred Woodward, 16-year-old son of Fred Woodward, Sr., of No. 596 North Chester avenue, yesterday walked from a point two miles up Eaton's Canyon to Santa Anita avenue, where some carpenters who were at work on a new house gave him assistance and took him in an automobile to the Pasadena Hospital.

The boy had been camping in the canyon with Allen Cole, 15 years old, and the son of L. M. Cole, of No. 1220 East Villa street. At 7 o'clock yesterday morning, while the Allen boy was high up on one of the sides of the canyon, the Woodward youth reached for a shotgun that had been laid in a low tree. In some manner the trigger caught in the foliage and he received the entire charge of buckshot in the fleshy part of his right arm.

He screamed for help. Young Cole came and the two boys immediately started for the city. The injured one made the entire trip with no more aid than his companion was able to give him, binding up the wound in an attempt to stanch the flow of blood.

It was announced at the hospital last night that the arm will probably be saved and that the boy has suffered no other injuries than the wound. He was attended by Dr. A. D. S. McCoy.

HOME CHANGES HANDS.

Announcement was made yesterday of an important real estate deal in Pasadena. J. J. Husser, a retired Chicago merchant, has purchased the residence of Dr. Arno Behr, No. 432 Arlington drive, for a consideration reported to have been in the neighborhood of $50,000. The deal was made by the David Blankenhorn Company.

This is one of the handsomest places in the city. Dr. Behr has occupied the house for fourteen years, during which time he has constantly improved the grounds, until they now come a close second to the Busch gardens.

The property has a frontage of 320 feet on Arlington drive and a depth of 200 feet.

Husser has already spent three winters in Pasadena, two of which he stayed at the Hotel Green. He is an enthusiastic Southern Californian.

CHILDREN CELEBRATE.

The celebration of the third anniversary of the establishing of Carmelita Playgrounds yesterday, which took the form of a miniature Tournament of Roses, was an enjoyable affair for many children and for many older persons, too, who went there to see the "kiddies" enjoy themselves.

The programme of the afternoon opened with a parade about the grounds, in which a number of brilliantly-decorated tiny floats were entered. This was followed with athletic sports and a baseball game. Numerous prizes were awarded winners in the different events.

TRAINMEN JAILED FOR ASSAULTING PASSENGER.

PASADENA, Sept. 21.—E. L. Lathrop and J. N. Johnson, conductor and motorman, respectively, of a Pasadena Short Line Pacific Electric car, were arrested early last night by Chief of Police Wood and Police Detective Betts on charges of battery and locked up in the City Jail, bail for the former being fixed at $5000, and for the latter at $2000.

The two prisoners are charged with having attacked a passenger who angered them by persisting that the car be stopped for him at a place where the train, a flyer, was not scheduled to stop. The man's identity had not been learned by the police last night.

The fight took place at 4:25 o'clock in the afternoon, near Covina Junction, the car being northbound. Seven of the passengers, who upon their arrival in Pasadena hastened to the police station and asked for the carmen's arrest, unite in telling the same story, which is denied, in part, to the police by the prisoners.

According to these witnesses, the unknown man got on the car near the Covina station, and, after paying his fare, asked the conductor to let him off at a designated place. He was told that the car would not stop there, but continued to complain, and at length reached for the bell rope. By mistake, he pulled the cord that registers fares.

He is said to have then walked forward and tried to induce the motorman to stop for him, and, failing in this, to have returned to the rear of the car and rung the emergency bell.

The car was brought to a standstill and the motorman, witnesses declare, walked back with his iron controller handle in his hand and struck the passenger on the head with it. They declare that Johnson continued to strike him with the controller after he had left the car, and that Conductor Lathrop kicked him. They say that finally the car was started on and the man left on the ground where he had been felled.

The Pasadena police immediately notified the Los Angeles police to send for the man, who, it was feared, might be seriously injured or dead. Late last night no trace of him had been found.

These witnesses of the attack on the unknown passenger went to the home of Justice of the Peace Dunham, and complaints for the arrest of the two men were sworn to by O. P. Kingen of No. 844 South Fair Oaks avenue, this city. The other witnesses who asked for the arrest of the car men are F. L. Spaulding of Los Angeles; John A. Griffin, an employee in the Los Angeles City Engineer's office; C. M. Campbell, No. 370 West Colorado street, Pasadena; J. L. Ackland, No. 870 Kingsley drive, Los Angeles, and C. L. Woods, No. 584 Stevenson avenue, Pasadena.

Both Lathrop and Johnson are married and reside in Pasadena. They were arrested at the local car barns and offered no resistance.

The men declared last night when they were asked for a statement that they had none to make. To the police they denied the assertion that the motorman had struck the men with his controller. They also maintain that the man got on the car with the deliberate intention of making trouble and stated that they had seen him afterward on the street in Los Angeles.

ACTIVITY CONTINUES.

Chino Beet Sugar Company Near Pomona Will Surpass All Former Records this Year.

POMONA, Sept. 21.—Activities at the Chino Sugar Company's factory are continuing without cessation and the management asserts that all records of output will be surpassed by this season's product. The beets are being delivered in great quantities and the percentage of saccharine matter is keeping up well. By reason of the new system inaugurated this season whereby a reserve supply of beets is kept constantly on hand amounting to six thousand tons of beets, allowing the use of a thousand tons of beets a day or a week's run, the work has not been stopped at any time for lack of sufficient delivery of beets by the local farmers or of delay in arrival from other fields. In former years it has been necessary to stop operations temporarily at the factory awaiting beets. The factory is rushing work day and night and will probably realize a profit approximating $500,000 this year.

MARRIAGE IS ANNULLED.

Ventura Woman Discovers by Accident that She Has Two Husbands and One Is Released.

VENTURA, Sept. 21. — Judge Clarke yesterday granted a petition to annul the marriage of George Ryan, a young Missourian, to Mrs. Oma Truman, filed by both parties. The two were married in November of last year and have lived happily together since and would have continued to do so, but that Mrs. Ryan discovered accidentally that her first husband, whom she thought dead, was still alive and well.

Mrs. Ryan came here from Tennessee. While living there her husband, Truman, left her and never came back. Then she moved West and married Ryan. She wrote the folks at home about her new husband and they startled her by writing in the return mail that Truman was still alive. Not wishing to live in bigamy, the couple sought annulment. Mrs. Ryan, or Truman, will institute proceedings for divorce from her first husband and will secure it, she says, and then re-marry Ryan.

NEWS BRIEFS.

The first Japanese divorce case ever tried in the county was decided yesterday before Judge Clarke when he granted Mume Oyama a divorce from Masakichi Oyama. The plaintiff was petite and pretty and told a story of how she was married in Seattle a couple of years ago and how they removed to Oxnard, which town was too quiet for the swift husband, who picked up his grip and left.

Word has been received here from Stanford that Walter Argabrite, son of Recorder Argabrite of this city, has been elected president of the senior class of the college.

This county is experiencing the hottest days of the season and the weather is having a splendid effect on the bean situation. Growers are in the midst of the threshing and the warm weather puts the crop in fine harvesting shape. The harvest is all completed in the Camarillo district and while the yield was spotted, the irrigated fields, it is thought, will almost make up for loss in the unirrigated sections. The yield will not be up to that of last year, but will not fall far short. The price ranges around $5.50 per hundred weight. It will take at least three weeks yet to finish the harvest all over the county.

A Taft and Sherman Republican Club has been organized at Saticoy in this county with thirty-five members, and it is said to be growing rapidly. H. F. Clark has been elected president and Fred Greenlaw secretary. W. H. Barnes of this city, and who led the bolt from the Bull Moose convention held here a few days ago, says a Taft and Sherman Club will be organized here and a vigorous campaign carried on.

PERRIS.

PERRIS, Sept. 21.—The city was illuminated for the first time tonight with electricity when the 250-watt electric lights, which have just been installed, were turned on.

W. H. Sherman has just completed grading forty acres of land northeast of town for J. L. Greenleaf, which will be seeded to alfalfa this fall. Crandall & Pierce are putting down a well on the place and Mr. Greenleaf will install an electric motor and otherwise improve his property.

Thirty-seven cars of hay, grain and beets were shipped from the Lakeview section the past week.

William Kettner of San Diego, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Eleventh District, was in town the first of the week, accompanied by T. G. Gwynne, city editor of the San Diego Union. Mr. Kettner formerly lived in this valley.

REPUBLICANS OF REAL KIND.

Riverside Party Men Denounce Masqueraders.

President Taft's Wise Policies Are Commended.

City Schools Will Open Their Doors Tomorrow.

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 21.—The regular Republican delegates to the county convention, none of whom could stand for the propaganda announced at the Bull Moose affair held here last Saturday, assembled in convention today at Reynolds Hall and adopted ringing resolutions in support of Taft and the national organization. The resolutions were strong in their denunciation of the anomolous convention calling itself Republican and at the same time repudiating the Republican party, and the convention demands for itself and for its central committee full and complete recognition by the Republican State and national organizations, as the only representatives of the Republican electors in Riverside county.

"We unequivocally declare," say the resolutions, "that the Republican party in Riverside county, California, is a part and subsidiary branch of the national Republican party, and subject to and in full accord with the declaration of principles enunciated in the platform adopted by the national convention of the Republican party held in Chicago in June, 1912.

"We deplore the action of the body of men, calling themselves a Republican convention, assembled in the city of Riverside on Saturday, September 14, 1912, in repudiating the Republican party and refusing to affiliate therewith; and we affirm that by such action said assembly ceased to be Republican in form or spirit, and that thereupon both said convention, and its subordinate central and executive committees, became a part of, and affiliated with a new party, whose acts are not, and cannot, be binding upon or considered as action taken by the Republican party. . . .

"We indorse the administration of President Taft. We regret the unwarranted and demagogic attacks upon the President of the American people, whose wise and patriotic measure, including especially his statesmanlike attitude in dealing with the election.

"We censure the course of Hiram Johnson, elected as a Republican Governor of California, in deserting that party and abandoning the duties of his office to go speech-making in other States of the Union in furtherance of his political views; but we sorrowfully attribute his shortcomings, as we do those of his fellow noise maker, to the transitory vagaries of an excited mind and to the temporary enlargement of an already over-developed ego."

The convention places itself on record as favoring good roads, and indorses the action of the supervisors in adjusting the tax rate for the fiscal year so as to provide funds for permanent highway work.

The convention was called to order by T. Earl Ellis of Elsinore. The principal address was made by S. S. Patterson, who delivered himself of a most effective and decidedly picturesque excoriation of the Progressive movement and leaders.

The Resolutions Committee was composed of J. M. Clayton, S. J. Burton, E. W. Holmes, A. N. Kumler and A. J. Burdick. The new County Central Committee was organized by the election of S. S. Patterson, chairman, and E. Earl Ellis, secretary. W. H. Polkinghorn was elected treasurer.

THE "RIVERSIDE IDEA."

What is termed the "Riverside idea" has found expression in resolutions adopted by the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. The resolutions are from the pen of Librarian J. F. Daniels, and appealed to the directors as being entirely worthy of being made an official declaration. In this pronouncement it is "resolved:"

"That all builders in the city, and especially at the 'gates' or approaches, at railway stations, and upon all axial and radial avenues, be requested to consider the worth of the Riverside idea and to conform to the architectural and landscape purpose already set forth in the groups of buildings now built and taking form in present construction.

"Corporations or individuals planning locations and structures which shall first meet the eyes of visitors who come by railway, are urged especially to make suitable designs in harmony with the Riverside idea of civic beauty, without in any wise restricting the builders to any particular type of architecture or to special building material; only to conform worthily to the idea that is to make a remarkable city, which cannot fail in its appeal to those who come in increasing numbers to dwell in California.

"The Riverside Chamber of Commerce believes this matter to be of commercial and municipal importance, and, to that end, subscribes, and will endeavor by these resolutions and by correspondence and added communications, to persuade the owners and builders of Riverside."

OPENING NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

A large increase in attendance is looked for in all departments of the city schools, which open Monday. The present year marks the first for the Boys' Polytechnic High School, although the policy of the segregation of the sexes in high school work was inaugurated last year in what is now known as the girls' building. The beautiful new group of fireproof buildings standing on the south bank of the Terquesquite Arroyo will be opened Monday for their first public use. They have been magnificently equipped for boys' polytechnic work, the laboratories providing facilities for investigation in connection with agricultural and horticultural courses. For this school there is expected an enrollment of 225. It is conservatively estimated that the girls' school will see a registration of between 250 and 200.

Is your head stopped up?

THE BRONCHIAL TUBES

When catarrh of the head or throat is neglected or wrongfully treated, it extends down the windpipe into the bronchial tubes and after a while attacks the lungs.

Have you a cough?
Do you take cold easily?
Have you a pain in the side?
Do you raise frothy materials?
Do you spit up little cheesy lumps?
Do you feel like you were growing weaker?

Don't risk neglecting these warnings—stop the disease before it reaches the lungs.

OF THE EARS

Catarrh extends from the throat along the eustachian tubes into the ears, causing partial or complete deafness.

Is your hearing failing?
Do your ears discharge?
Is the wax drying in your ears?
Do you hear better some days?
Does a cold make your head worse?
Don't neglect this until your hearing is irreparably destroyed.

OF THE STOMACH

Catarrh of the stomach is usually caused by swallowing poisonous mucous which drops down from the head and throat at night.

Is there nausea?
Do you belch up gas?
Are you constipated?
Do you bloat after eating?
Is there constant bad taste?

Now is the time to be permanently cured. Drs. Shores are curing hundreds every year.

R. Y. Williams, chairman of the old Central Committee, called the meeting to order, and Capt. Ulm, secretary, read the call. W. W. Wilson of Newport Beach and W. O. Hart of Orange were elected temporary chairman and secretary. They were also the permanent officers. Convention committees were:

Resolutions — L. L. Shaw, Santa Ana; F. C. Spencer, Anaheim, James McFadden, Santa Ana; A. Hermes, Newport Beach; H. C. Myers, Olive.

Credentials—J. S. Howard, Anaheim; J. W. Flagg and G. W. Young, Santa Ana; J. P. Boring, Orange; N. F. Morse, Placentia.

Permanent Organization and Order of Business—R. D. Richards, Bay City; E. K. Benchley, Fullerton; John Scott, La Habra; A. W. Thompson, El Toro; A. H. Stutsman, Tustin.

Capt. Simons of Pasadena delivered an address in which he flayed Roosevelt. He declared that both Roosevelt and Johnson refused aid to the campaign for woman's suffrage when that campaign was on in California, but that now that there are many thousands of women voters to appeal to, they make woman's suffrage their chief concern.

In the selection of the County Central Committee the delegates of each precinct selected the committeeman for that precinct. The Bull Moose adherents a week ago did not do that, electing the entire committee at large and shutting off the loyal Republicans from representation. The Central Committee organized by electing Capt. N. A. Ulm of Santa Ana chairman and City Clerk J. C. Burke of Santa Ana, secretary. No action was taken by the committee today in bringing out candidates for State Senator and Assemblyman to oppose the Progressive and Democratic candidates.

STOCK LETTER.

[Furnished by Logan & Bryan, Members New York and Boston Stock Exchanges, Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Pronounced rising tendencies characterized trading today. The bank statement was somewhat better than anticipated and it has been said authoritatively that some of the South African gold arrivals in London on Monday may be procured for New York. The market at present appears to be reflecting a change for the better in monetary conditions and also the satisfactory fundamentals which have been the subject of favorable discussion for quite a period. It is unlikely that further advancing tendencies will be displayed next week.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET

Prices of eggs may advance because of a large quantity of the cold-storage product having been damaged or destroyed in the Merchants' Ice and Cold Storage Company fire Friday night. It is estimated that 25 per cent. of the eggs in storage were more or less damaged, and the supply is short as it is.

The market was quiet yesterday. Only a small quantity of apples came in, twenty-nine boxes. Five sacks of beans, 282 sacks of onions, 1090 sacks of potatoes, and 293 sacks of sweet potatoes were received. Egg receipts were 108 cases; butter, 45,705 pounds; cheese, 7325 pounds. There was an advance in the price of Tillamook daisies, cheese to 21 cents, and eastern daisies are selling at 21.

The first car of cranberries is expected tomorrow, and the selling rate will be around $9 a barrel.

BEAR PRESSURE IN CHICAGO PIT.

THRESHING DELAYS OFFSET BY HEAVY SHIPMENTS.

Big Increase in Visible Supply of Wheat Overcomes Reports of Crop Damage in Canada, and Closing Prices Are Easy, Corn, Oats and Provisions Also Moving Downward.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Threshing delays this side of the Canadian border and crop damage across the line proved insufficient today to offset in the wheat market the bearish effect of expected heavy world shipments and of a promised big increase in the United States visible supply. Closing prices were easy, ½ to ⅝ under last night. December wheat ranged from 91¼ to 91⅞ with last sales ⅛ net lower at 91¼@91⅜. Corn closed from a decline of ½ to an advance of ¼. Oats finished ⅛@¼ off to ⅜ up. Provisions closed less costly by a shade to 15@17½.

New York Cotton Market.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 118 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Cotton trading was very light today, and changes were narrow. Heavy frosts occurred at a number of places in the Central West, with the temperature down to 38 at Dodge City, Kan.; 36 at Santa Fe, N. M.; 34 at Denver and 40 at Wichita. Much cooler weather prevailed over the entire belt, and cold rains were reported in portions of Texas and Oklahoma with the weather bureau predicting frost tonight in the Texas Panhandle. However, the probability of early frost seemed to make very little impression on sentiment, other than to restrict selling as little or no buying was in evidence. General opinion is still bearish on the generally accepted view that when the movement increases it will press heavily upon the market and bring moderately lower prices. It is, of course, admitted that every spindle is at work at a profit, but this fact does not impress the imagination of the trade as much as the long expected volume of receipts. One is inviable; the other is expected to become visible at any time, and though the unexpected is usually what happens, still no uneasiness is shown by spinners as to the probability of the excellent demand for cotton goods having any effect upon the price of cotton.

STEEL REACHES NEW HIGH RECORD FOR PRESENT YEAR.

Increased Freight Movement in West Is Indicated by Great Reduction in the Number of Idle Cars, and Demand for Anthracite Coal Is Unprecedented.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—On a volume of business uncommonly large for a week-end, today's two-hours' session of the Stock Exchange added very materially to the advance of the preceding day. The movement was perhaps less broad than yesterday's speculation, centering largely around the old-time favorites such as United States Steel, which established another high record for the year, Reading and Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley also rose smartly on advices pointing to excellent trade conditions. This was shown not only in the company's August statement, with a net increase of $258,000, but in the unprecedented demand for anthracite coal in the West at higher prices. Steel was assisted by the higher price for pig iron and iron finished products. Other industrials that manifested marked strength included General Electric, American Smelting and some of the metal shares. In the special class, American Tobacco moved irregularly and Goodrich preferred lost over 3 points. Routine news was of a favorable character. Proof of the increased freight movement in the West was furnished by the great reduction in the number of idle cars compared with this period last year. Trading in London and on the continental exchanges was much restricted by reason of the Jewish holiday, but London was a moderate purchaser here. Bonds manifested some improvement with large transactions in speculative issues. Total sales par value $1,250,000. U. S. 5s advanced ½ per cent, on call during the week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—United Cigar Stores was again the feature of the outside market, crossing 107, but closing with a slight reaction from the high price. British American Tobacco and Anglo-American Oil were also strong. Coppers were dull and practically unchanged. The Boston market showed more strength than breadth today, reflecting the strength in New York. Isle Royale was the strongest feature with exceptionally good buying. They expect to cut the Kearsarge lode in this property shortly. Stock is expected to rally quickly well above 40 on the news. East Butte continues to be well bought, advancing above 15.

Testimony of Mrs. Harriman and Bliss's Daughter Will Not Be Required by Senate Committee.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Harriman, widow of Edward H. Harriman, the railroad magnate, and Miss Bliss, daughter of the late Cornelius N. Bliss, former treasurer of the Republican National Committee will be excused from testifying before the Senate committee investigating campaign expenses, Chairman Clapp and Senator Pomerene decided today.

A sergeant-at-arms, sent to New York to subpoena them, was assured by C. C. Tegthoff, formerly private secretary to Mr. Harriman, that Mrs. Harriman had no personal knowledge of any contributions, and that he would be willing to produce any documents of the Harriman estate for the inspection of the committee. Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr., has assured a representative of the committee he would produce every paper the Bliss estate has relating to contributions and that it would be unnecessary to subpoena Miss Bliss.

M. F. Elliott, general counsel for the Standard Oil Company; C. T. White and W. H. Libby, also Standard Oil officials, have been served with subpoenas to produce certain books before the committee.

Overflowing.

PROSPERITY SHOULD LEAD EVERY CITIZEN TO VOTE.

Republican Headquarters Receive Warning that People Are So Busy Making Money that They Are Forgetting All About Politics, Although Continuation of the Present Conditions Depends on Republican Party.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Sept. 21. — [Exclusive Dispatch.] "There is only one condition which threatens the success of President Taft in his campaign for re-election," said Joseph B. Kealing, who is directing the organization work for the Republican National Committee. "The people are so busy making money they may not want to stop long enough to go to the polls and vote."

This thought was suggested to Mr Kealing this morning by several letters he received from Republicans in the Western States. All of these correspondents told of the prosperous times which were being enjoyed by the people of their States, and it raised this danger before the Indiana man's eyes.

VOTE TO CONTINUE PROSPERITY.

"From several parts of the West in the last few days," continued Mr. Kealing, "letters have come to this department with the information that the people were too busy making money to think of politics. It presented the question seriously whether they would be so completely concerned with that one idea they would fail to go to the polls.

"It would seem, however, that the average man, who knows he is more prosperous now than ever before, would have it as the first thought in his mind to vote for the continuance of the national administration which has contributed so much to that prosperity."

PRESIDENT GAINING IN KANSAS.

Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas was a caller at national headquarters this morning, and told the Republican leaders President Taft was gaining strength in Kansas, and that the State was not lost to the Republicans by any means.

"Public sentiment out there forced the bolting Republicans to withdraw their candidates for electors from the Republican column on the ballot," said Senator Curtis.

"The square dealers' tried to slip through under the Republican cloak while openly announcing their purpose to oppose President Taft, but the sense of fair play which prevails in Kansas forced them to come out in the open.

"But we are not satisfied with that. We have organized a league of Republicans who are pledged to vote against any pretended Republican who is supporting Roosevelt, and we expect to drive from the Republican State ticket every nominee who will not openly declare his intentions of supporting the President. They must be Republicans or get off the ticket. The line is drawn sharply, and the more the bolters oppose an open fight the stronger will President Taft become with our people."

ANDREWS SEES SUCCESS AHEAD.

Col. W. H. Andrews, who formerly represented New Mexico in Congress, was another caller at headquarters, and he also brought words of cheer. He has just returned from a tip through the East.

"When I left New Mexico, six weeks ago," said Mr. Andrews, "I had grave doubts as to whether the Republicans were to be successful this year. I went East, and the farther East I got the more rapidly my confidence grew in the success of our party in November. I find the reaction has set in favor of President Taft.

"The sober sense of the American people is reasserting itself and I am gratified to hear everywhere that the American love of fair play is inducing people to return to the Republican fold and vote for the party that has saved the Union and been instrumental in building up the greatest republic on the globe. President Taft's strength is growing steadily and in some States by leaps and bounds. The people are beginning to see that Roosevelt's main object is to disrupt the Republican party and to aid in the election of Wilson. I do not believe the American people will permit this to happen."

WILL EXTEND PARTY LEAGUE.

Republican campaign managers are planning to extend to other States the work of the Republican Party League, which has proved so successful in Kansas. It is to the efforts and remarkable growth of this organization that the Republican managers attribute the surrender of Gov. Stubbs and the Roosevelt organization in the State. This surrender gave to the Taft men in Kansas the right to have a full set of electors running under the Republican party resignation.

Eight of the ten "Republican" nominees for elector in Kansas had announced that if they were chosen by the voters they would support Roosevelt regardless of their being elected as Republicans.

The Taft men made a fight in the court to have these nominees for elector's names kept out of the Republican columns, but the question was finally settled by the decision of the Roosevelt Kansas Secretary of State in favor of Taft nominees for electors.

Immense popularity for the league is claimed by the Taft managers. They say that last week it had reached a total membership of 40,000 and it was increasing its numbers by 1000 a day.

EYES ON CALIFORNIA.

California and South Dakota are two of the other States to which the work of the league will be extended. In both of these States the Taft men are having trouble in getting their candidates for electors on the ticket under the Republican party designations. In other States there is also opportunity for the league to do work.

BANK STATEMENT VERY FAVORABLE.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The Financier will say: The statement made by the clearing-house banks of New York for the week ending September 21 was exceptionally favorable in character, in so far as reserve position was concerned. The banks still continue loan curtailments, the decrease for the week in that item having been $21,552,000.

The heavy outflow of cash which has marked the past several weeks' bank situation seems to have been checked temporarily. The heavy decrease in specie and legals since last Saturday was only $1,383,000. In consequence of the loan reduction and the cash decrease, deposits fell $23,245,000 and since this released nearly $6,000,000 of reserve funds, the surplus cash rose $2,751,850, making the present excess above the 25 per cent. requirements $7,371,600. The above figures are based on the statement of actual condition at the close of business Saturday.

PROSPERITY.

prosperity is now here and we have the fundamentals for a long continuation of prosperous conditions."

Collections among merchants are better and the demand for money for use in various lines of commerce and industry has not been lessened by the higher advance in interest rates.

BIG DIVIDENDS.

Industrial activity and prosperity are reflected in the large returns of dividends to stockholders. Dividends to be paid in October show an increase of five and a half million dollars over the corresponding month a year ago. The total of all dividends and interest disbursements, railroad and industrial, for October will show an increase of more than eleven millions over October of last year.

Looking over the entire field, there is scant room in the United States for the calamity howler or the breeder of discord, or any argument for a change of policies that have contributed so largely to the present highly satisfactory conditions.

CONFERS WITH BROTHER.

Los Angeles Attorney Visits M. E. Peairs Who, According to Report, Caused Valentine Resignation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GUTHRIE (Okla.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Attorney Howard A. Peairs of Los Angeles, Cal., visited the Federal jail here last night and conferred with his brother, M. E. Peairs, former clerk at the Anadarko Indian Agency, who was arrested during the past week on a charge of forging a Wichita Indian's name to a check.

The Los Angeles brother said he would meet a third brother in Pueblo, Colo., tomorrow and arrange for bail. There are seven brothers. One is in the Indian service in Washington. Report has it that the suspension of Peairs at Anadarko led finally to the resignation of Commissioner Valentine of Indian affairs.

LARGEST SUBMARINE CABLE.

New Wires for Telephone Service Between Oakland and San Francisco Are Being Connected.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—The largest submarine cable, in point of capacity, ever laid, is being connected for telephone business today between this city and Oakland. It contains 153 pairs of wires, weighs 184 tons and is 23,000 feet long. In diameter it measures 3½ inches.

THE WEATHER.

LOCAL OFFICE, U. S. WEATHER BUREAU, Los Angeles, Sept. 21.—[Reported by Ford A. Carpenter, Local Forecaster.] At 5 o'clock a.m. the barometer registered 29.81; at 5 p.m., 29.77. Thermometer for the corresponding hours showed 66 deg. and 78 deg. Relative humidity, 5 a.m., 71 per cent.; 5 p.m., 46 per cent. Wind, 5 a.m., north, velocity 1 mile; 5 p.m., southwest, velocity 7 miles. Highest temperature, 87 deg.; lowest, 65 deg. Rainfall for season, trace. Barometer reduced to sea level.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.—The pressure is high over the Northeastern and Northwestern States and relatively low over Southern California and from the Gulf of Mexico to North Dakota. The formation of the trough of low pressure, which extends the length of the Mississippi River, resulted in general rain throughout that region. At St. Louis the rainfall amounted to 1.30 inches; Shreveport, 1.06; New Orleans, 1.12, and Tampa, 2.12. Elsewhere the weather was generally fair. The western high area is decreasing in intensity and the temperatures are likewise slowly falling. Freezing weather is reported from Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and Utah. The weather in Los Angeles and vicinity will be fair Sunday, without much change in temperature.

COPPER INDUSTRY.

[Furnished by E. F. Hutton & Co., Members New York Stock Exchange, 115 West Fourth street, Los Angeles.]

No London copper market Saturday. Badger Brothers of Salt Lake wire situation unchanged at Bingham. Entrenched miners left their position for short time yesterday, but have returned to Utah Copper grounds again. Utah Apex Company have closed their mine, which means they have decided to stand with other companies against Union. No disturbance and no work of any kind yet. Utah Copper will try to start gradually.

Denver wires rumor here strike to be called all properties connected with Utah management, including Ray Cons., Chino and Nev. Cons. Prominent man of labor matters looks for strike to last some time. Says Amalgamated and Anaconda will not be affected.

In July the Calumet & Arizona Company made a new record of net earnings.

Deriving better than 17c for copper in that month on a production of 4,743,000 pounds. It earned not far from $635,000 net for its stock, which is at the rate of $10 per share, and August earnings must have been as large.

A factor of great importance to the Calumet & Arizona Company is that its big Briggs ore body, now opening so fabulously large and rich in copper, is showing greatly increased gold and silver values, some of these ores running as high as $10 per ton in precious metal values, which is a factor operating for low costs.

Copper is now being produced by the Calumet & Arizona Company for not far from 6c per pound.

Hayden, Stone & Co. say: Much has been said about the greatly increased production of copper from the older mines which a high price for the metal would bring about. For the past eight months, that is, during all of 1912, the price of copper has averaged about 13c a pound. Notwithstanding this high average and the still higher price prevailing at the present time, the production of the older mines shows very little increase in the first six months of 1912 over the last half of 1911, as may be seen from the following table:

	First Half 1912. Pounds.	Last Half 1911. Pounds.
Anaconda	*$40,000,000	*$20,000,000
Cal. & Arizona	26,216,000	26,896,000
Cal. & Hecla	24,493,946	27,566,320
C. & H. Subsidiaries	30,064,251	27,745,048
Copper Range	17,494,400	17,218,000
Greene-Cananea	22,894,000	23,184,000
Old Dominion	12,973,000	12,824,000
Phelps-Dodge	70,736,473	67,699,331
Shannon	8,216,000	7,462,145
	265,547,070	250,594,804

*Estimated.

The principal old mines which make any report of their monthly production have thus increased their output only about 15,000,000 pounds, or 4.2 per cent.

The porphyry mines, however, show a much greater advance. In the case of the five big porphyries, the production has increased 18.9 per cent. as against the 4.2 per cent. of the older mines.

	First Half. 1912. Pounds.	Last Half. 1911. Pounds.
Utah Copper	83,361,578	82,620,704
Ray Consolidated	16,122,949	12,247,052
Miami	15,636,515	11,417,563
Nevada Consolidated	26,670,889	21,529,756
Chino	7,841,624
	138,393,575	107,904,149

Nevertheless, it must be remembered that these mines are all comparatively new-comers in the production field. The oldest, Utah Copper, has only been in operation about five years, and Chino since the beginning of the year. Therefore, it is natural to suppose that the production of these properties would increase rapidly until their mills reached their full capacity. Moreover, the porphyries enjoy a much lower cost of production than the general run of the older mines, averaging between 8 and 9 cents per pound, so that copper at 17 cents is not a much greater incentive to maximum output than copper at 13 cents.

In short, we believe that the high price of copper has had no very considerable effect upon the production of the United States, for while there may be some mines whose ores are usually unprofitable to work, which have been stimulated into activity, their number is as yet few and their output unimportant.

Miami produced in August 4822 tons of concentrates averaging close to 36 per cent. which will yield about 2,900,000 pounds of fine copper. There were 87,800 tons of ore mined and milled and 4891 feet of development work done during the month. The mill recovery was about 70 per cent.

The fourth 600-horse power boiler is being installed in the power house at Miami and, when it is finished, the second air-compressor will be placed in operation.

Two churn drills are at work developing the northeast territory and diamond drilling continues on the 570-foot level.

Foundations are being laid for the new steel and concrete change-house for the miners and the construction of a large, new hospital, jointly with the Inspiration Company, has been started. About 1000 men are employed, about 600 men are employed at Inspiration in development and construction work.

The main west shaft was sunk 146 feet in August and is now over 450 feet deep. The main east shaft is over 180 feet deep, having been sunk 172 feet in August, which is claimed to be the record in the United States for a three-compartment shaft. The company has contracted with the United States Reclamation Service to take 7500 k.w. of electric power from the Roosevelt dam, about forty miles distant, and has begun surveying for the transmission. The government does not guarantee continuous service, however, and the Inspiration Company will build an emergency steam power plant of 7500 k.w. capacity.

The Copper Hill haft of Arizona Commercial is now completely re-timbered and enlarged to three compartments from the collar down to the fourth level. A pump has been installed on this level, operated by compressed air from the Old Dominion power-house, and the shaft is being unwatered preparatory to retimbering and enlarging it below this level.

BLANCHARD AT NEW ORLEANS.

President of Los Angeles Municipal Art Commission Is Studying Docks on Trip to Panama.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With a view to securing the most efficient dock service possible, President F. W. Blanchard of the Los Angeles Municipal Art Commission is studying conditions in New Orleans. While Mr. Blanchard is strongly in favor of the system used here, he is going on to New York and thence to Panama, to study the conditions at those points before advising his board in what manner he believes they should spend the $10,000,000 the city has provided.

"What impressed me most about the docks at New Orleans is the manner in which every one seems to understand what is required of him and the uniformity with which the work goes on. The arrangement of the docks also impressed be very favorably. I spent most of the day Friday walking along the river front examining conditions for myself and devoted most of Saturday to similar investigations."

Mr. Blanchard left tonight for Washington, D. C., and New York.

District Court Decision in Land Fraud Case gainst Los Angeles and San JJose Men Sustained.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A. H. Hedderly of Los Angeles, and Richard Hynes of San Jose, Cal., under sentence in the United States District Court here to pay fines of $5000 and $2000 respectively, for conviction of land frauds, were notified today by United States District Attorney McCourt to appear at once and pay.

There were told if they did not do this, bench warrants for their arrest would be issued. hiTs action follows a mandate of the Circuit Court of Appeals received today from the clerk of that court in San Francisco, sustaining the decision of the District Court. Under the original sentences, Hedderly also was given four years at McNeil's Island and Hynes eight months, but President Taft commuted the sentences. They were indicted for conspiracy to defraud the government of several thousand acres of land in Curry county.

William Smith of Portland was convicted with them and was sentenced to two years and $10,000, but died while the appeal was pending. R. D. JoJnes, another Portland man mixed in the conspiracy, died just before indictments were returned.

"HAVE YOU A PIANO IN YOUR HOME?"
"NO; I HAVEN'T ANY HOME!"

"Why Not Win One by Solving 77 Pictures—You Can Own a $750 Lot!"

That is you, up in the headlines there, having a heart-to-heart talk with the Booklovers' Contest Editor.

It is dollars to doughnuts that you really are without a home of your own, because it is no easy matter to become the owner of even a $3000 place. The average man cannot pay more than $500 down on a place, and getting the $500 is like pulling teeth. Then that leaves $2500 more to pay, in monthly installments that last over a long term of years.

WHY NOT WIN THAT HOME!

All there is to the contest game is seventy-seven pictures. Each represents the title of a book, and to those coming closest to naming the seventy-seven titles that the seventy-seven pictures represent The Times is going to give $8500 in prizes. Among these prizes is a $750 lot in the Janss Highland Villa Tract. This is third prize in the contest, and the fourth prize is $500 in gold coin, which you could put down as a first payment on that bungalow you have been picturing to yourself. And there are other prizes well worth while—an auto, four pianos, jewelry, grafonolas, scholarships, furniture—better turn to a list of those prizes now.

What you really want to know about the contest is this: How can I get all the pictures that have appeared thus far? Today picture No. 62 is published. How can I get the sixty-one pictures that already have been printed?

It is a good thing that you asked about that, for, in answering it, the Contest Editor will go briefly into the contest:

You should understand that the seventy-seven pictures have been drawn specially to represent seventy-seven titles to books. Each picture represents one book title, and only one. Now the seventy-seven titles were, first of all, selected from a list of about 4500 book titles. This list is called the contest catalog, and The Times has had it printed, and offers it to contestants at 25 cents per copy, or 40 cents by mail. This book is a tremendous help, because it contains all the seventy-seven correct titles. With each catalog The Times gives seven certificates, which are redeemable, free, for the first thirty-five contest pictures.

Now the contest rules state that as many as ten different book titles may be submitted as answers to each picture, so that contestants will not be held down to one answer to each picture. But the rules also had it that each answer submitted should be submitted on a separate picture and its coupon. If you made six answers to picture No. 24, for instance, you would have to get six copies of picture No. 24, and submit each answer on a separate picture.

But The Times devised and had printed the Answer Book, which has seventy-seven large pages. In it you paste the seventy-seven pictures, and beneath each picture you can make from one to the limit of ten answers to each picture. In other words, with an Answer Book you can make as many as ten answers to each picture, while needing only one copy of each picture. And with each Answer Book The Times gives six certificates, which are redeemable, free, for the pictures from No. 36 to No. 70, inclusive. Only to secure these certificates you have to agree to become a subscriber to The Times for three months.

Read all about it in today's contest announcement.

DEATH OF CATHOLIC PRIEST.

Father Hartnedy, Who Built and Served in His Own Chapel, Will Be Taken East for Burial.

Father Martin Hartnedy of Highland Park died yesterday morning at his home on Avenue 50, at the age of 66 years. He was a native of Ireland and came to America when 15 years of age. He was ordained to the priesthood in Ohio, and served churches in Steubenville for a period of twenty-six years, during which time he was made a dean by Bishop Rosecrans. He retired from active work in 1904, and in 1907 removed to this city, taking up his residence in Highland Park, where he died. Soon after he came here he built a home, which he later converted into a chapel, and named St. Martin's chapel, and in which he served as priest to the time of his death. The funeral will be held in the South Pasadena Catholic Church at 8:30 Monday morning and the body will be shipped to Steubenville for burial.

Auto Tour Cements Honeymoon Joys of the Gallant Congressman's Daughter and the Jolly Pasadena Broker—Pretty Wedding at the Alexandria Yesterday.

A romance with its foundation laid in St. Petersburg and its climax coming in Los Angeles, culminated at the Alexandria yesterday noon when Miss Ahenath Genevieve Hall, daughter of Congressman J. K. P. Hall of Pennsylvania became the bride of William A. Scully, a young broker connected with J. C. Wilson & Co. as manager of the Pasadena branch of that house.

Mrs. Scully studied abroad, having been a student in the famous French finishing school of Mme. Yeatman, near Paris. She went there from Washington, where she had been studying in the Sommer's School for Girls and at the conclusion of her studies she took a long tour of the great cities of Europe. At that time Scully was also in the traveling mood and one day, while at one of the big hotels of St. Petersburg, he was introduced to a party of Americans in which was Miss Hall.

Coming to California, Scully went into the brokerage business in San Francisco and later came to Los Angeles where, at a social function, he again met Miss Hall, and that sealed the fate of the pair. They soon became inseparable companions and two weeks ago arranged to be married. Congressman and Mrs. Hall who were notified of the coming event, hurried from their home at Ridgeway, Pa. Mr. and Mrs. J. Stackpole and Lysle Hall, brother of the bride, came with them.

At high noon the happy couple were married in the parlor of the Alexandria, which was prettily decorated for the occasion. Rev. Philip Williams performed the ceremony while the Tandler Viennese Quartette played selections chosen by the bride. Mrs. Stackpole was matron-of-honor and Robert Sweeney was best man.

The bride was attired in a beautiful white net dress and wore a lace picture hat. Among the few invited guests outside of the relatives who were present were Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs, Capt. and Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sweeney.

After a wedding breakfast served in the Franco-Italian room of the hotel, the bride and groom slipped away in a big motor car in which they will pass much of their honeymoon while touring the State before returning to Pasadena, where they will live.

Talks on Teeth
New Teeth for Old People

We put new teeth in old mouths every day in the week.

Good, strong, serviceable Alveolar teeth, without plates, that enable the old people to chew food and keep the stomach in good shape.

Why should any man or woman spend the best years of their lives, the declining years, with a disfiguring partial plate or "bridge," that is there for looks only, when, with no trouble, no pain, they can get a perfect set of teeth that will be as solid as a rock in the mouth.

Many don't believe we can do anything for them, and the others are afraid they will have to undergo an operation to have the new teeth put in.

As a matter of fact, there is no pain or discomfort of any sort whatsoever in connection with

OUR REX METHOD OF ALVEOLAR TEETH, AS PERFECTED BY DR. RANKINE

In Restoring Missing Teeth

Indeed, it is so simple a plan that it is a wonder it was not discovered years before we invented it.

No cutting, no boring into the gums, nothing about the work that need be dreaded, and when the new teeth are in place, what a source of satisfaction the wearer experiences at meal time.

We don't say, "Now, be careful when you eat," but, "Use these teeth just as you would if they grew in your jaws."

There is one condition that we must have, and that is, that two or more teeth are left in either jaw.

Will you let us look your mouth over? You won't obligate yourself to spend a penny just because you grant us this favor.

PLATES

There are a large number of people who through force of circumstances are compelled to wear plates. We have a department to take care of all patients who require that class of work. We have one of the most expert men on plate work on this Coast at the head of that department, which assures all of our patients better fitting, better looking and most serviceable plates than you have ever been able to procure elsewhere.

The Doctor's Answers on Health & Beauty Questions

By DR. LEWIS BAKER.

The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Mason" writes: "For years I have been taking medicine to cure constipation, liver trouble and the usual disease that come from that source. Headaches, sallow skin, kidney trouble, dark spots before my eyes, dizzy spells and twinges of rheumatism are getting worse."

Answer: Take three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). They are packed in sealed tubes with directions and are convenient, effective and highly curative for such ailments as arise from chronic constipation. If you are dyspeptic, also take tablets triopeptine.

"MRS. A. D."—Incontinence of urine can be cured by using the following: Tincture cubeba 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic 2 drams and comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz. Give from 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals.

"OMA W." writes: "I have suffered with catarrh of the head for many years. This has become so bad that it has affected my blood, also my stomach and bowels to a very great extent. I shall appreciate an immediate answer as I suffer greatly."

Answer: I would advise you to purchase a 2 oz. package of Vilane powder; take one-half teaspoonful of the powder and add to this a pint of warm water, snuff the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils several times a day. Make a catarrh balm by mixing one teaspoonful of powder with one ounce of vaseline, or lard will do, and apply as far up the nostrils as possible. For the stomach, bowels and blood I would recommend the following tonic: Syrup sarsaparilla comp., 4 ozs., comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz., and 1 oz. of fluid ext. buchu. Mix by shaking well in bottle and take one teaspoonful after each meal and at bed time.

"Gloria" writes: "I would like you to prescribe a good hair and scalp treatment. I am bothered with itching scalp and dandruff. My hair is faded and falling and none of the remedies I have tried have done any permanent good."

Answer: Go to your druggist and obtain a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow Mirvol. Apply as per directions. This treatment differs from all and I have actually seen the astonishing transformations which result from its use. The dandruff and itching are cured with two or three applications, while it makes the hair glossy, wavy and full of intense natural color.

"Myrtle" writes: "Owing to my extreme thinness I am frequently embarrassed by slighting remarks of young people. Can you prescribe a safe remedy to increase my weight?"

Answer: I have so many gratifying reports from the users of three grain Hypo-Nuclane tablets, that I have come to regard these valuable little tablets as a specific and prescribe them to all who are anemic, thin, wanting, nervous and debilitated. I recommend that you begin their use at once and continue regularly until your system is able to assimilate the fatty elements of your food; then you will grow plump and have plenty of red blood, with color in your complexion and bright sparkling eyes of health.

"Sick M. G." writes: "I have been affected for some months with rheumatism and have taken much medicine in vain. Please give prescription that will cure."

Answer: The most efficient prescription I have ever given for rheumatism is: Iodide of potassium 2 drams, sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, one-half ounce; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla comp. 5 ozs. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal time and at bedtime.

"Farmwife" writes: "You once recommended a home-made cough syrup. I tried it and found it the best cough and cold syrup that I ever heard of. It was so prompt in relieving the severest coughs and colds and a pint bottle made at home lasted so long that I have forgotten the ingredients. Kindly publish again."

Answer: The splendid laxative, home made cough syrup is made by mixing a 2½ oz. bottle of concentrated essence mentho-laxene with a home-made sugar syrup. Directions on the bottle tell how to make and use. It is a fine, cheap remedy.

"Johnson" writes: "I am bothered greatly with indigestion. Things I like to eat nearly always cause a heavy ill-at-ease feeling in my stomach, and my breath is bad, while I am nervous, irritable and frequently cannot sleep."

Answer: A very excellent treatment which is widely prescribed for its gradual curative action, as well as the instant relief it affords, is tablets triopeptine, packed in sealed cartons. Take a pink tablet after breakfast, white tablet after dinner and blue tablet after supper. Continue and the curative agencies will soon restore natural digestion.

"Mrs. M. C." writes: "I am recovering from a long illness, but am very weak, nervous, sleepless and have little appetite. Can you give me a good tonic restorative treatment?"

Answer: Obtain separately to avoid substitutes, 1 oz. of glycol arsolene and 6 ozs. of aromatic elixir. Mix, shake well and for three days take a teaspoonful after each meal; thereafter take two teaspoonfuls. Continue a sufficient time to properly reduce the weight.

...the Hair or the Face
That Makes the Woman?

If you think it is the face, take another look at the two heads pictured here. One shows a girl which the most critical would pronounce beautiful.

While her features are fairly perfect, her greatest charm lies in a mass of fine lustrous hair. The opposite picture is identical as to features and other detail except that the wealth of hair is wanting.

Both of these ladies would attract attention anywhere, but each for a different reason; one on account of her superb beauty and the other on account of her typical appearance.

The hair makes all the difference. A woman loses her good looks in exact proportion as she loses her hair.

Like Fabled Phoenix.

CITY BORN IN FLAMES RISING AS BY MAGIC.

Much Building Begun Among Ocean Park Fire Ruins.

Spirit that Never Falters Shown by Plucky Losers, Who Will Likely Be Gainers—New Amusement Center to Be Dressed Up by Christmas — Realty Values Up Even in Burned District.

A "CITY OF A NIGHT," costing $4,000,000 and built upon the shores of the Pacific Ocean in a spot which has been characterized as one of the finest beaches in the world, is springing up within sight of Los Angeles.

The advent of this business and pleasure city, which in a way is almost as remarkable as that of the fabled Phoenix which arose from its own ashes, is a living example of one of the most wonderful feats of man the builder, as it is materializing on a spot which only a few weeks ago was a long stretch of smoldering ruins of property worth millions of dollars.

Ocean Park, the destroyed, is being rebuilt. More than 1000 men, mostly laborers, are busy clearing away the debris of the big fire which swept through the amusement resorts, carrying away the very heart of the seashore resort.

At least 5000 persons are interested, financially, directly or indirectly, in the rebuilding of the watering place, and the brains and millions of half a dozen well-known capitalists of Southern California are being expended to make Ocean Park the model among all the great ocean "playgrounds" in the United States.

The rebuilding was virtually planned in a night, and the planning was done even while the fire was licking up the belongings of the hundreds of persons who owned property and ran concessions at the beach. The flames had not died out before a start was made toward a more costly, substantial and handsome center.

BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

Before Christmas there will be, it is conservatively estimated, more than $1,200,000 worth of new buildings and amusement places built and in full swing. Fraser's pier will be completed, it is stated.

The work of reconstruction is to move forward without a stop. May 1 of next year, it is confidently expected, will see an entire new city where the ashes lay, the cost of which will amount to about $4,000,000.

But with the building of this "City of a Night" in a few months comes the statement that the structures reared will not be the flimsy, gilded, perishable and fire-inviting castles that generally predominate at a beach resort. Instead, every building put up will be as stable as those on the downtown business streets of Los Angeles. They will be as nearly fireproof as it is possible to make structures of their type.

A walk yesterday through Ocean Park and among the ruins of the big fire shows that the men who are expending their money to rehabilitate the resort realize that every second that is wasted is so much money out of their pockets. So there is activity among the ruins of nearly every

NOT THEFT BUT MISTAKE.

Defense of Solicitor Held for Embezzlement — Surrenders Sixteen Thousand to Postmaster.

Chesley R. Graves, solicitor on the Examiner, was held in $2000 bonds yesterday by United States Commissioner Van Dyke, on a complaint charging him with having embezzled $20 from the money-order funds in the postoffice at Magill, Nev., July 10, 1911. He will be tried in Nevada.

The evidence disclosed that the alleged embezzlement occurred in a domestic money order issued by Graves, at the request of Theodore Kotsaulides, a Greek employed in the smelting works at Magill. The complaining witness had purchased a money order for $55, but the return was made to the Magill office by Graves for $35, and the complaint is based on the discrepancy.

Graves asserted there was an overplus in the stamp account of the office to the amount of $20, and he accounted for the incident in that way. He asserted that the discrepancy, if any existed, was caused by the Greek changing his mind and ordering a $35 order instead of $55.

The case against Graves was worked up by Postoffice Inspector Roberts, who located the young man in this city and got him to go to the office of the inspectors in the Federal building, by representing himself as postmaster at Bisbee on the hunt for a good clerk in that office, and stating that the postmaster at Goldfield had recommended Graves.

At the conclusion of the testimony the prosecution asked that the bond of Graves be increased from $500, (which he furnished when arrested a month ago,) to $2000, and the order was made. The District Attorney based his request on the statement that other charges will be made against Graves. It is alleged he is short several hundred dollars in his accounts with the postoffice.

One of the features of the case was the production of a receipt signed by the postmaster at Magill, showing that the day after the alleged embezzlement, Graves had turned over an amount in excess of $16,000 as the receipts of the office for which he was responsible.

Matter of Millions.

LARGE SHARES AMONG HEIRS.

How the De Baker Estate Will Be Divided.

Brother and Sister Get a Seventh Each.

Grandchildren of a Sister Also Benefit.

The estate of Arcadia B. de Baker, appraised at about $1,500,000, but estimated to be worth several times that much by persons conversant with the property, is to be divided among thirty-four heirs, who will receive inheritances varying between one-seventh and one-two-hundred-and-forty-fifth of the total.

O'Melveny, Stevens & Milliken, representing the heirs, and the Title Trust and Insurance Company yesterday filed in the Probate Court a petition to Judge Rives requesting that the company be appointed administrator of the estate. The signatures of twenty-six of the thirty-four heirs were affixed to the petition as giving their consent to this action.

As Mrs. Baker had no children and left no will, her entire estate reverts to her brothers and sisters, or their descendants. Arturo Bandini is the only living brother, and Dolores B. de Johnson the only living sister. Descendants of five other brothers are heirs. Arturo Bandini and Dolores B. de Johnson receive each a seventh of the entire estate.

A feature is the division which is made for the descendants of Josefa B. de Carillo, one of the sisters. The seventh which she would receive were she alive is split up among five children and seven grandchildren.

Of the seven children each receives one forty-ninth and of the grandchild two receive one-ninety-eighth and five one-two-hundred and forty-fifth. Eight children of Isidore B. de Cotts, deceased, receive one-fifty-sixth each, and seven children of Margarita B. Winston, each one-forty-ninth.

Two daughter of a brother, J. B. Bandini, deceased, a divide a seventh between them. They are Arcadia B. de Gaffey and Dolores B. de Ward. Three children of Jose Maria Bandini, one of whom resides in England, each falls heir to one-twenty-first of the total. This includes all the known heirs.

It is asserted that Mrs. Baker at one time owned nearly half of Orange county and a large deal of Los Angeles county. The Stearns Rancho of many thousands of acres, belonged to her. Abel Stearns, Mrs. Baker's first husband, with the assistance of her father, Don Juan Bandini, laid the foundation for the tremendous fortune which was accumulated.

The most important property in the Baker estate is the great 8000-acre Rancho San Antonio, popularly known as the Laguna Ranch, just outside the eastern limits of the city, beyond Boyle Heights. This is appraised at $1,000,000, but is reputed to be worth at the rate of $1000 an acre. Another important piece of real estate owned by Mrs. de Baker at the time of her death is that on which the Baker and Arcadia blocks stand. It is on the southeast corner of Main and Arcadia streets, and has a frontage of 183 feet on the former. It isapp raised at $135,000.

Other property in the estate is as follows: Three lots in the Mills tract, $25,000; a one-third interest in a lot on the corner of North Main and Republic streets, $12,000; and undivided one-seventh interest in a lot near the southwest corner of North Main and Republic, $3000; three tracts on the Rancho San Vicente, situated at Sawtelle, consisting of about 133 acres, valued at $45,000; nearly 104 acres in the Rancho San Vicente at Santa Monica, $27,500, and sundry lots in Santa Monica, $40,000. There is about $25,000 in cash, $70,000 in stocks and bonds, and $5000 in other personal effects.

Mrs. de Baker was reputed the heaviest woman tax-payer in Los Angeles county. She would make no will because of a superstition that such a procedure would hasten her death.

PEASE BROTHERS' NEW WAY.

Novel Departure in the Style of Opening—Social Function at Furniture Store.

The first annual fall exhibit of the Pease Brothers' Furniture Company, on Friday evening last, was a novel departure from the stereotyped business "opening" and assumed more of the character of a brilliant social function. The wondrous effects obtained by the lavish display of rare tapestries, fabrics and draperies of many and varied hues and textures, together with the decorative beauty of palms, flowers and banks of golden rod and asters, used in profusion on every floor, charmed the large gathering present. Victor Schertzinger's orchestra rendered a programme of classical music during the evening, Mr. Schertzinger himself playing several of his own compositions and selections. The showing of fine furniture, especially of "period" pieces, and the unusually artistic and typical display of oriental rugs was a revelation to many. The entire interior of the building, on all of its eight floors, showed a most harmonious arrangement and grouping of beautiful effects, the many visitors present circulating freely among the various departments, evincing much pleasure, not only in the decorative exhibits, but also the charm of the entertainment provided. These artistic evenings will be an annual feature of Messrs. Pease Brothers' business.

Woman Painter Plans Help for Students.

Adopts This City as Home After Eventful Life.

Interesting Reminiscences of Old Mexico.

Possessed of a magic touch, an eye for the beautiful, a rare gift for reproducing colors on canvas, an accurate delineator of form, a famous woman artist, a refugee from Mexico, has adopted this city as her home. She is Mrs. Aurilla de Walt Payne and she left the turbulent republic to the south at President Taft's order. She is one of many who lingered until the government deemed Americans no longer safe in the "land of mañana."

A collection of sketches of Mexican life and scenes, the result of her year's residence in Guadalajara, will be placed on exhibition shortly in one of the local galleries, along with several other pictures done while she was studying in Paris and Florence.

Mrs. Payne is a San Francisco woman, the wife of Hal T. Payne, well known as a magazine writer and newspaper man. Mrs. Payne ranked among the best San Francisco artists, and had executed many fine canvases before she went abroad to study. A student of the best schools in Munich, Paris and Florence, she has won many honors both abroad and at home. Her picture "Temps Gris," a scene in Brittany, was accepted by the Societe des Artists Francais in 1911, and hung in the place of honor in the salon. Mrs. Payne has refused to sell this picture as it is her favorite.

During her rests from study while abroad she traveled leisurely through Spain, Rome, England, France and Italy, and always with her sketch-book in hand. Brittany rural life made its own special appeal to her, and her best canvas is a rural scene depicting the life of that quaint country.

Shortly prior to the San Francisco fire the citizens planned to buy a statue called the "Red Cross Nurse," by Mrs. Payne. It was to have been placed in Jefferson Square. Since the fire no trace of this work has been found.

Following the San Francisco fire Mrs. Payne went to Paris. After working hard all winter on a number of canvases she stored them in a basement and went to Rome for a rest.

While she was in Rome the Paris floods destroyed a number of her best paintings. Undaunted, she completed her course at the Academy Julienne and then joined her husband in Mexico—just in time for the Mexican revolution.

The scene amid stirring scenes during her year in Guadalajara, Mrs. Payne found herself at her easel while civil strife waged around her. All this time she was in Mexico, she says, nothing in her neighborhood felt secure. The higher classes couldn't trust their own servants. Women didn't dare to ride without a bodyguard.

EYE FOR ACTION.

Mrs. Payne tells a story about herself that shows the eye of the artist for effect. She was walking abroad in Guadalajara one day when a rebel mounted on a richly caparisoned horse, his serape trailing in the dust, galloped toward her, scattering peons in every direction. He recklessly waved a pistol and seemed to shoot at random.

"I stopped," says Mrs. Payne, "spellbound at the picturesque sight. I thought if I could spread such action on canvas I would be happy.

"A bullet whistled over my head. I glanced around, frightened. I was the large target for the desperado. He and I occupied an apparently deserted town. He had put everyone else to flight. I lost no time in scurrying to cover."

Shortly after this the Porta Siela Hacienda, a rancho of 100,000 acres, owned by Don Gonzales, was attacked in the night. After a short, fierce battle the owners barely escaped with their lives, leaving the rebels in full possession of home, horses—everything.

The rebels always demand money, and as large sums are generally kept on hand by the wealthy families the rebel for possession is bloodthirsty. The hacendados and their sons will fight to the last round and then if victory is impossible, mount their horses and flee for safety, shooting their way through the rebels.

They do not always escape unharmed or with their lives. Many of the best Mexican families are today wrecked of the head of the household broken and wrecked.

Mrs. Payne's canvases depict life on the semi-barbarous condition of the lowest class. It shows a peon with a wife and two sons, plowing the ground with a crude implement of wood.

CLASS DISTINCTIONS.

"In Mexico," explained Mrs. Payne, "the upper class own practically everything. The middle class man generally has a small shack, always with a patio. The house of the peon is the scrape on his back.

"One morning I rode into the country to get some eggs and butter. At the pressing invitation of a family who owned a cow and some hens, I dismounted. The old mother brought out a guitar and her two daughters sang Spanish Mexican airs. It was a delightful hour of entertainment.

"Three days later, I returned. The old mother came to greet me, wringing her hands and weeping. Brokenly, she told me that a gang of outlaws had violated the sanctity of his hacienda the night before. They had bound and gagged his wife and one daughter, and had ridden away to the mountains with the other, a beautiful girl, the flower of his life.

"The old man went to the authorities. They told him to go home and dry his tears. Maybe, some day, the daughter would return, they said.

"Outrages, this condition exists only among the poorer classes. They are not regarded as entirely human."

Mrs. Payne says her great ambition is to do something "worth while" for art and her fellow artists.

"I have long cherished the hope," she said, "of one day building a great studio in the Arroyo Seco. I would rent free to struggling artists for whatever they could afford to pay. Those who could pay nothing would be welcome.

"I evolved this plan while I was studying in Paris, where I had many opportunities to assist poor girls who had talent but were almost starving. The patience and devotion of these poor creatures makes one's heart bleed. They go to Paris consumed with ambition. Soon their small savings are dissipated and then the struggle for a livelihood and to attain recognition becomes a struggle, indeed. They would die rather than give up. Many never return.

"Paris is a great inspiration to the artist, but there is no reason why there should not be great art center here. Nature certainly does her part to inspire her votaries. It is the encouragement that is lacking, I think. It is my plan to do all I can to help furnish that encouragement."

RACE CULTURE HER ENDEAVOR.

DREAM OF YOUNG WOMAN PHILANTHROPIST REALIZED.

Following in Footsteps of Mother, She Establishes "Educational Alliance" for Jews on Temple Street. Growth and Accomplishment in Two Years.

Two years ago Mrs. E. M. Lazard, then Miss Schwab, cultured, traveled, daughter of a wealthy Cleveland family, while on a visit to Los Angeles announced her intention to establish a social center for Jews. Friends tried to convince her it would be effort wasted, but she was not to be dissuaded. She had seen the immense amount of good accomplished in a social settlement-house in Cleveland, founded by her mother, Mrs. M. B. Schwab, in 1893, which now administers to 500 Jews a month, and what her mother had done she might do—or try.

The young woman rented a seven-room cottage at No. 1061 Temple street. A large sign hung over the front entrance, "Educational Alliance," announced the birth of her project. Young people went there and so did their elders. The boys appreciated the athletics, in which they had as instructor Lawrence Lewin, who had volunteered to assist in the work. Another volunteer, H. L. Radowitz, organized a debating club among the young men. At the meetings of this club, held once a week, a wide range of subjects have been covered. Politics and race development have been the chief topics. The school for teaching the ethics of Judaism to the children has been well attended, and the monthly social gatherings have filled the house with merrymakers.

The social service undertaken by Miss Schwab, who a year ago became the wife of Dr. E. M. Lazard, is to be greatly enlarged. Others have become interested and during the summer informal meetings have been held at her home, No. 508 Hobart boulevard, to plan for the winter work. A board of trustees has been formed for the Educational Alliance. A public reception will be given some evening during the first week of October at the cottage on Temple street by the members of the board, which is composed of Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Lazard, Mrs. D. M. Potter, Mr. Ben Goldman, Lawrence Lewin, I. O. Levy, Morris Salsman, Mrs. L. Edwards, Mrs. M. B. Schwab, Mrs. Rose Heller, Mrs. M. B. Kauffman and H. L. Radowitz.

"We plan to open branches in other parts of the city, wherever there is a community of Jews," said Mrs. Lazard. "Each will have its young men's clubs and classes similar to those at the Educational Alliance will be formed. We shall also have classes for mothers to teach them how to care for their babies and how to make their clothes. We shall establish a branch of the Hebrew Legal Aid Society of New York. This work will be of particular benefit to the Jewish immigrants who are coming here in large numbers and who need to know something o four laws. Los Angeles has a population now of 25,000 Jews, and the opening of the Panama Canal will bring thousands more.

"The most gratifying result of the little social center on Temple street has been the interest aroused among the boys of the neighborhood. At first there were several who made trouble, but now they are our best friends.

HIS TERMS ARE REJECTED.

Man Who Proposes to Plead Guilty to Violation of Employment Law Turned Down by Prosecution.

Fred Osborne, proprietor of the New York School of Acting, an alleged subsidiary of Brand's Advanced Motion Picture Company, arrested Thursday on a complaint sworn to by Agent Egan of the State Bureau of Labor Statistics, charging him with violation of the State employment agency law in having taken a fee without having a position for the applicant, appeared in court with his counsel yesterday and asked Police Judge Williams for a suspended sentence in exchange for a plea of guilty.

"Mr. Osborne's wife is wholly dependent on him, and is in a starving condition," the attorney declared.

"Our office will object to a suspended sentence following a plea of guilty," replied Egan. "I'm prepared to make a counter proposition. We shall insist first that Mr. Osborne make complete restitution to every member of his school. This done, we will consent to a plea of guilty, but at the same time will recommend that his license be revoked."

It was intimated by Egan that H. J. Brand, No. 635½ South Hill street, has about $15,000 in his possession and that Osborne lays claim to a portion. He suggested that Osborne or his attorney locate Brand, who, it is said, disappeared the morning the dancing master was arrested, and secure from him enough money to reimburse the young men and women who paid Osborne a fee, they asserted, with the understanding that later they would be given salaried positions with the motion picture company.

Osborne was returned to jail. He demanded a jury trial when arrested, his case having been set for October 30, and has been in jail since Thursday, being unable to give $200 cash bail.

LOCAL STUDENT HONORED.

Miss Ruth A. Lowrey of the summer class of the Los Angeles High School, was elected vice-president of the freshman class at the University of California. This is the only office in the class accorded to a woman, and the choice is a compliment to Los Angeles as well as to the young lady.

CITY BORN IN FLAMES.

building along Ocean Front, the wide walk along the seashore.

A pile driver, surrounded by gangs of men swinging and hauling big beams upon the pilings of Fraser's pier, shows that Fraser intends to make good his declaration that everything will be in running order and going along smoothly by Christmas.

Hundreds of teams, carrying away loads of rubbish and bringing in brick and lumber for the new buildings, together with hundreds of brick masons and other workmen, show that the city that was though of in a night will be built for the most part within the next ninety days. The contracts for many of the buildings call for completion within that period.

PROPERTY VALUES ADVANCE.

With this bustle and activity has come one of the most remarkable things in connection with the fire and the devastation it wrought. This is the fact that real estate in the burned district has increased in value since the conflagration. It is an actual fact, shown by sales, that property has jumped $50 a front foot along Ocean Front since the burning of Ocean Park.

Another remarkable thing is that there is none of this property listed for sale even at the advanced price. Evidently the people of Ocean Park believe that the rebuilding means a period of even greater prosperity than was enjoyed before the fire. They figure that Ocean Park will be a resort of beautiful, substantial buildings of brick and stone, and that it will be one of the wonder spots of the Southwest.

A. R. Fraser said yesterday that Ocean Park will not only recover from the fire, but that it will be found that the burning of the beach amusement resorts will add value to everything in the district.

GOING UP.

Here are some of the structures that will be put up immediately. Work has already been begun on most of them:

Fraser's pier, cost $150,000.

Two buildings of brick at the main entrance of the pier, costing $100,000.

Dance hall on pier costing $40,000.

Cafe on pier costing $20,000.

Twenty-five concessions on pier costing $100,000.

Decatur Hotel; six-story building to cost $250,000; to be built by A. R. Fraser.

Bath-house repaired and heating plant rebuilt at a cost of $10,000 by Fraser.

Marine apartments, five-story building at Pier avenue and Ocean Front and Casino; built at a cost of $150,000 by G. M. Jones.

Nile apartments, four-story building, on Pier avenue, to be rebuilt at a cost of $100,000.

Three-story brick building on Ocean Front to be built by A. G. Kelly at an estimated cost of $35,000.

Three-story brick on Ocean Front to be built by Edward R. Maier at a cost of $40,000.

Skating rink to be built by Dr. D. G. Turnbull at a cost of $25,000.

Cafe to be built by E. L. Gilman at a cost of $15,000.

Merchants Bank building, Marine avenue, cost $15,000.

Evening Journal building, Marine avenue, by H. F. Cassidy at a cost of $10,000.

Three-story building by H. L. Nordholt; cost not known.

Six-story building by E. L. Allen at Speedway and Pier avenue; cost not known.

Two-story brick building by George F. Mackay of No. 119 Kinney street.

Six-story building by Stineman & Kramer; cost not yet estimated.

Besides this list are many other buildings, both large and small, to be put up before May.

FRASER'S VIEWS.

While standing on the piling of the 1000-foot amusement pier which he is building and directing several foremen on the work, Fraser said yesterday regarding the rebuilding of the city:

"Ocean Park will be one of the finest seashore amusement resorts in the world when it is rebuilt. The mere fact that everybody has put his or her shoulder to the wheel and has signified an intention of rebuilding and making the place bigger and better than it ever was before has resulted in land values increasing even in the burned district.

"The pier that I am building, when it is completed and filled with concessions, will be one of the finest in the country. We are going to build the casino, dance hall and cafe and other permanent amusement places ourselves.

"Before the fire property on Ocean Front was selling for about $250 a front foot. Now it is selling for $300, and as a matter of fact there is none that I know of right now for sale. A few days ago T. H. Dudley, president of the Ocean Park Bank, sold forty-two feet on Ocean Front for $300 a front foot, cash. Another sale of thirty-eight feet was made on the same terms."

Fraser said he will at once put up two blocks of buildings, two stories, containing ten storerooms with offices above, on foundations that will allow two more stories, between Marine street and Pier avenue, on the west side of the Ocean Front walk. The pier entrance will be between these two streets and between the two blocks. The storerooms will each have a frontage of 23½ feet, and a depth of eighty feet. In the rear will be a promenade fifty feet wide.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS.

C. W. McLeod, secretary of the Santa Monica Bay Chamber of Commerce, declared yesterday that Ocean Park will show an improvement and an increase in prosperity that will be startling before the first of next year.

"Besides the work that will be done by private individuals in rebuilding the amusement district, there will be considerable municipal improvement which will be of great value to the resort," said McLeod. "The fire limits have been extended and a salt-water fire system will be established along Ocean Front at a cost of about $160,000, which will give property owners ample protection. Besides there is a plan on foot for a municipal water plant. Such a plant would cost in the neighborhood of $400,000. Ocean Park will be bigger and better than ever before." Practically all that part of Ocean Park which was destroyed is in the Santa Monica city limits.

M. Bunker, member of the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, declared yesterday that the spirit shown by the losers in the great fire is the spirit which "does things," and that Christmas will see Ocean Park decked out in her gayest and prettiest holiday attire.

"If you look around Ocean Park you see signs that read 'Let's Build a Bigger and Better Ocean Park. Everybody Boost,'" said Bunker. "That means that the citizens are alive to their opportunities, intend to invest their money, and will build a resort that will be the pride of Southern California."

And so the work goes on, with citizens highly satisfied with the outlook.

RESTS IN ROSEDALE.

Funeral of Alton Miller, Who Met a Sad Death by Falling from Roof Held on Friday.

The funeral of Alton Cushman Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Miller of this city, formerly of Lowell, Mass., who was killed on Tuesday evening by accidentally falling from the roof-garden of the apartments at which he was living with his parents, was held on Friday at the parlors of Pierce Brothers. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher of Temple Baptist Church, and interment followed at Rosedale Cemetery.

The deceased was aged 19 years, was a musician of promise, and has been living here with his parents four years. He was a home-loving, obedient and sunny boy, and was popular among his young friends, many of whom attended the funeral. Beside his father and mother, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. E. R. Crawford of this city, and Mrs. H. M. Clinger of San Diego, and other relatives here and in Pasadena.

STILL GUESSING AT LOSS

Fruit and Produce Burned by the Fire of Cold Storage Burned Friday Night.

The loss incidental to the plant of the Merchants' Cold Storage Company, which burned night, according to estimates by officials of the company to-day, will be about $150,000. This is distributed among the owners of the plant and the five fruit and produce firms which used the plant for storage purposes, and is partially covered by insurance. The exact loss cannot not be determined until the underwriters have completed their investigation of the ruins, which covered several floors. A survey of the building and its contents was made yesterday, but no definite figures are available. It is expected they will be forthcoming today or tomorrow.

Officers of the company declared yesterday that their loss will be about $75,000; that it is practically covered by insurance and that they will be under way to rebuild. The following produce stored there prior to the conflagration, following estimates of loss:

Klein-Simons Fruit Company, $50,000; Richardson Fruit Company, $10,000; Smith & Brothers, $10,000; Cudahy Packing Company, $1000; Cudahy Brothers, $10,000; Swift & Company, $10,000. Total, $125,000.

It is estimated that the fruit will be not less than $50,000, making the actual loss of fruit and produce about $50,000, which, added to the damage to the building, will make the total loss up to about $125,000.

LUCKY INDIANS.

Helen Pierce Gray was under arrest for a little while in Washington accused of stealing records from the offices of the Indian commissioner. She was acting with the Department of Justice to protect the interests of the Crow Indians. This is certainly a fortunate tribe to have the friendship of a woman willing to go to jail to fight for its rights.

RECLAIMING CITY LANDS.

Reclamation is not confined to the arid acres of Arizona, nor yet to the swamps of Arkansas. It is being extended to the large cities. Since 1902 twenty-five miles square, or about 400,000 acres, of land around New York City have been filled with coal ashes and other refuse, which, mixed with fertilizers, has created land that can be advantageously used for gardens.

FASHION SHOW CROWDS.

Au revoir! In a blaze of glory once more the Fashion Show has gone surging along Broadway, calling forth the artistic and esthetic spirit of the Angel City. One thing much commented upon was the number of masculine devotees everywhere evident at this especially feminine function. What else was to be expected? Wherever Californian girls do congregate, there will the men be gathered together.

A NEW CRUCIFIXION, MAYBE.

The Progressives in adopting the hymn of "Onward, Christian Soldier" as a campaign lyric, and substituting the name of Roosevelt for that of Jesus exhibited their barbarous Bull Moose enthusiasm for the Big Bull Moose rather than their respect for the Savior of Mankind. The next mixture of theology and politics that we may be called upon to notice may be a crucifixion scene from the brush of that modern Murillo artist, Bill Flinn, with President Taft in the center, the penitent Moose on the right, and the impenitent Hiram W. on the left.

RECALLING A PRESIDENT.

An amendment of the Federal Constitution to provide for the recall of the President of the United States is the latest intellectual antic of Col. Roosevelt. If he can secure such an amendment he can keep the people of the United States busy for the balance of his life signing petitions and holding elections—so long as the treasury of the steel trust holds out—to recall whoever may be in the Presidential chair and put the colonel in his place.

He evidently does not consider it a remote possibility that anybody would ever petition and vote to recall Roosevelt. Nobody ever will, for unless the American people utterly lose their heads he will never be in a position to be recalled.

A CURIOUS INCIDENT.

It happens with sentimental frequency that a woman will marry one man on the eve of what was to have been her wedding to another. Of course, if a man or a woman is about to make a mistake in matrimony all parties concerned are lucky if the discovery is made in time. While one of the greatest virtues is the ability to stay put, there is neither sense nor virtue in fulfilling a promise simply because one's word has been given when the heart cannot go with it. Where a new alliance is made suddenly, however, a realm of curious speculation is opened. The incident then has the aspect of a condition created with a line of conduct to be sustained regardless of personality.

LOOKING UPWARD.

A circus man who died in Chicago and who was buried there made provision for the drinking of wine at his funeral so that the services could be a celebration of the life rather than the mourning of a death. It often happens that this philosophy of a new life come in the old life's stead will be emphasized by men about whom there has been nothing of the preacher or the philosopher. To them, having a brass band at their funeral or drinking wine at the services is not an effort to be bizarre, nor is it the humoring of an eccentricity. Instead, it is merely their method of announcing their disbelief in death and their comfortable assurance of individual spiritual persistence.

Col. Roosevelt will not visit the Southern States in his wanderings. He has never forgiven the Republicans down there for not voting as he desired in the Chicago convention, which they did in 1904 and 1908.

LINCOLN AND ROOSEVELT.

The people of Los Angeles have had T. R. "in their midst," and the visit of the colonel demonstrates the truth of the adage that one man's meat is another's poison. It would not be fair to say that the colonel's presence sat "heavy on the soul" of anyone in the city, but to many the herder of the bull moose was not a tid-bit. To others the visit of Col. Roosevelt was certainly the bright particular spot of all their lives.

From one of his cart-tail addresses to the people of California the colonel claimed near kinship, indeed twin brotherhood in politics, with the ever-lamented Abraham Lincoln. Of course the colonel's clearness of conception and accuracy of statement are only comparable with the colonel's own modesty. The average American who would dare to challenge comparison between himself and Washington or Lincoln would be regarded by all other Americans as possessed of abnormal conceit. Of course with the colonel it is different. T. R., not being a normal American, is entitled to abnormal conceptions of himself as of all other objects of his thought. If, by the unfailing and abundantly overflowing mercies of God, Theodore Roosevelt ever reaches heaven and gets within speaking distance of the Great White Throne, and "Him that sitteth thereon," his utterance will be a good deal like that of Capt. John Hance of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, who says, "me and God made the chasm." The colonel, surveying the creation of the universe and the redemption of man, will probably put the personal pronoun in the great "I" before the name of the Creator and the Redeemer. Only the colonel would dare to have sung that sacred song so familiar to the ears of Christians and substitute the cross of Roosevelt for the cross of Jesus. But, as we say, Roosevelt is so utterly abnormal that abnormalities are to be expected of him on all occasions.

His followers take all he says at its face value, just as some unskillful business men accept counterfeit bank notes. Among their acts of grand larceny they have for years misappropriated the name of Lincoln by hyphening it with that of the herder of the bull moose.

But how many American people not obsessed with an idea that Col. Roosevelt is more than a political Moses, that he is a political Messiah, will swallow the statement of T. R., that he is doing in his day and generation exactly what Lincoln did during the days of the great Civil War? We will pass over the radical difference between the character of Abraham Lincoln and that of Theodore Roosevelt and confine ourselves to an inquiry as to the work done by the two men.

Abraham Lincoln had one task to perform in life, from almost the day of his inauguration as President, March 4, 1861, to the day of his assassination on the night of Good Friday, 1865. That task he did by patient forbearance, by subordinating every other consideration and policy of the government to its accomplishment. He did it by meekness and patience, by a conscientious following of the letter of the law in everything he did, by scrupulous adherence to the Constitution, often by the suppression of his own convictions and always by absolute constraint of his own self-will. He was urged early in the war to proclaim freedom to the black slaves of the South, but he refused to utter a word in that direction until it became unmistakably apparent that the freeing of the slaves would not jeopardize the Union, but would work powerfully toward that one desirable end.

Abraham Lincoln's work was not self-devised, nor self-conducted, nor carried on irrespective of the statute law, in contemptuous disregard of the Constitution of the United States, or by defying public opinion, or by pandering to public opinion, or in any way playing upon the prejudices, passions or cupidity of human nature.

If there is anything in Roosevelt's proposed policies, anything in Roosevelt's methods, anything in his temperament or language or anything else connected with him in any way, and with his political ambitions and efforts parallel to those of Lincoln, then the historians who have written of the Civil War and of Lincoln have failed to present things as they were.

HOPE SEES A STAR.

Whether a man be a Christian, a Jew, a Buddhist, a Mahometan or a Parsee, his belief in a life after death makes him a better citizen and a better man. Belief in a Supreme Being and a future state of existence brings with it willingness to obey the laws, respect the rights of others and a desire to lead a decent life. Such belief is a bulwark of order and a conservator of peace. Creeds may change, governments may come and go, old customs may be abolished and new ones created, but the eternal laws of right and wrong as laid down in the scriptures, in the shastras, in the analects and in the koran are the same yesterday and today and forever.

The latter-day materialistic philosophies of Darwin, and Huxley, and Tyndale, and Ingersoll do not contribute to human happiness or human progress. Wisdom did not begin with this generation, and with it will not end. Mankind is steadily toiling up the mountain heights seeking knowledge, and in the seeking it should keep an attentive ear to the voice of inspiration, and turn a deaf ear to a good deal of learned nonsense.

As we journey away from the jungles of ignorance out of which our fathers crawled, toward the starlit peaks which our children may reach, there steps from out the wayside shadows the gloomy presence of a cold and pitiless philosophy. It says, "Fatigue not yourself with trying to climb higher. There is no future. There is no Divine law. Faith is a folly. Hope is a delusion. Good and Evil are only words. The universe is but a charnel house of dead languages, dead faiths and dead Gods. Steal, if you can escape with the plunder. Lie, if you feel inclined. Ignorance is bliss. Eat, drink and be merry, for tomorrow you die and die forever."

Is the creed of the apostles of annihilation a comforting creed? Will it increase a man's self-respect to believe himself to be an intelligence unfit to survive the death of his body? Will he not feel better and do better if he believes in ceaseless and progressive life?—if he believes that by every bedside of death there is a waiting cradle for the soul, and that death "is but that first breath that our souls draw when they enter life" immortal?

It is easier to believe than to disbelieve in the after life, for natural philosophy arrays its batteries of logic in behalf of immortality. Even materialists cannot deny that the indestructibility of matter and the persistence of force are the obvious and controlling facts in material nature. Ages ago the force of the sunbeams changed the matter which then appeared as a branch of a fallen tree into the matter which now appears as a lump of coal. Today man applies the force which he calls fire to the matter which he calls coal. The indestructible substance, which was once a tree branch and afterwards a mineral, becomes gases and ashes, and the force of the long-buried sunbeams leaps to turn a car wheel, or shine in a gas jet, or glow in an electric light. We prison the power of a cataract in a storage battery and carry it up stream, and belie the proverb that "a wheel will never turn with the water that is past." We prove every day in every field and furnace and factory that, while the form of matter may change, matter itself is indestructible; that, while the direction of force may change, force never expires.

God is force and force is God. God is the eye that never sleeps, the hand that never tires. He is in all nature and all life. He thunders in the clouds. He sings in the rivulet. The bird speaks His voice. In all things animate and inanimate, from the feeble pulse of the infant to the fiery course of a meteor torn by burning ether from the tortured breast of chaos, from the fluttering wings of the bird to the rush of Uranus around the universe, force has never for an instant stayed its imperious and unresting hand, and no rest comes to the waiting or the weary, for the end is the beginning and the beginning is the end.

There are bumptious scientists who measure God's universe with the tape line of Darwin's brain; who dig up Hebrew roots with their philological spades; who make microscopical examinations of the vermiform appendix of cinch bugs, and from these researches demonstrate to their own self-satisfied satisfaction that no man lives after the death of his body. They say Plato was wrong, Paul was a fraud, Socrates was an ass. The great scholars and thinkers and statesmen of Europe and America, who for centuries have accepted and preached the truth of the immortality of the soul, the truth that has guided and helped the onward steps of civilization—must no more be regarded.

What impotent, worthless, hopeless creatures men and women would be if materialism were a truth. Man, as a mere animal, does not rank very high. Deprive him of the aid of the tools and appliances that are the offspring of his immortal mind and he would be remitted to the status of the cave dweller. Any gopher could outdig him, any grasshopper could outjump him, any fish could outswim him, any bird could outfly him.

It is the vexed and disappointed spirit that accepts the doctrine of annihilation. It is the man who "fears his fate too much" and who knows "that his deserts are small" who lays hold on annihilation. It is the sensualist who reads the gospel of eternal death in the logic of latter-day scientists and so satisfies himself that he can safely do wrong because there will come no day of reckoning hereafter.

But, happily, the great world accepts not the dogma of annihilation. It hopes for and believes in another life. Even the greatest and most eloquent and powerful advocate of the creed of eternal death—Ingersoll—said, when standing by the body of his beloved brother. "In the night of death hope sees a star, and listening love can hear the rustle of a wing. He who sleeps here, when dying, mistaking the approach of death for the return of health, whispered with his last breath: 'I am better now.'" Let us believe, in spite of doubts and dogmas, and fears and fears, that these dear words are true of all the countless dead.

SWIPING SAN DIEGO.

Arizona—may the Lord be good to her—is not satisfied with Statehood. She is not satisfied with having a guest of the State who can pillage the circumambient air of its electric juice. She is not satisfied with 17¾-cent copper. Only the other day she was clothed in the robes of sovereignty, and now she wants to share it with old Sandy Ague. She yearns for the clams and climate of the old Spreckled sinner, and in order to obtain them is willing to bring into a marital partnership the genial summer climate of Yuma, the gurgle of the last half of the Colorado River, the poetical output of Senator Ashurst, and the piety and patriotism of good old Deacon Mark Smith.

Whether San Diego will "tackle kindly" to the proposition cannot be certainly predicted. Whether he will not consider that the lady is too fresh in seeking an alliance with his bay'nelimate; whether he will not prefer to exercise his God-given right to rail-ride and stern-brand anarchists without molestation from Phoenix, are questions for careful consideration.

Then there is the grave question as to whether the proposed groom is in condition or can be placed in condition to marry. At last advices he had been for sixty years married to California. He cannot acquire a residence in Reno in less than six months, and Arizona is in a hurry. She suggests that they might marry, and afterward Sandy might get a nunc pro tunc divorce. Col. Roosevelt has been journeying in the Sun-kissed State. It may be that the annexation of San Diego and Imperial counties to Arizona is an offspring of his fecund brain. The opinion of that great constitutional lawyer, Assistant Atty.-Gen. Lewis H. Carpenter, may have been inspired by Roosevelt. It reads like a progressive pronunciamento. Carpenter gravely asserts that Arizona may acquire San Diego and Imperial counties without the consent of the people of the rest of California or even of the California Legislature. That if the people of these California counties will petition Congress for annexation to Arizona and the Legislature of Arizona shall indorse the petition that would—to use the Rooseveltian lingo—"settle the cat-hop" and "authorize the Congress of the United States to declare that portion of Southern California and the present State of Arizona to be a single State.

But say, San Diego, you won't vote to leave us, will you, dear? Have we not always treated your citizens well—and often—when they came up here to get out of the fogs? Have we not cheerfully turned over to you the remnants of the tourist travel, when our own hotels were filled to overflowing? Don't let this siren of the desert woo you to desert us.

PINK LEMONADE.

Fame and fortune are two of the most eccentric commodities in this world of endless surprises. One man burns the midnight oil year after year, poring over heavy volumes in quest of the grand secret that shall enroll him among the giants of the intellectual world—and finishes up as an itinerant book agent.

Another spends long, laborious hours covering reams of paper with the outpourings of his poetic soul, believing that destiny has framed him for a modern Shakespeare or a more rational Edgar Allan Poe—and his labor ends with a drawer full of rejection slips.

Another works like a beaver over pestles and mortars, retorts, test tubes and chemical balances, in the hope of joining the glorious army of the immortal scientists—and dies a druggist's assistant in a country store. Yet another spends his hard-earned savings in patenting inventions that fail to work, rotary engines that don't rotate, aeroplanes that love mother earth with an unchanging attraction, motor cars that mote not—and all he has to show for his ambitions is the mortgage on his modest home.

And then a jolly, devil-may-care fellow comes along, accidentally spills a box of pink candy into a tub of lemonade, and becomes the idol and hero of a whole circumgoing nation.

Fate, you see, is no gloomy materialist, but full of the spirit of the jester and the humorist. We can't all strike pink lemonade and become famous, there are too many of us for that. Perhaps the less we think of celebrity and the more of plain duty the more likely we shall be to find Fate in a good humor.

Confused Terms.

[National Monthly:] The superintendent asked the Sunday-school: "With what remarkable weapon did Samson slay the Philistines?"

For a while there was no answer. The superintendent, to revive the children's memory, commenced tapping his jaw with the tip of his finger, at the same time saying: "What's this?"

Quick as a thought a little fellow replied quite innocently:

"The jawbone of an ass, sir."

Wall street is not wagering any money on the election. The brokers are finding it easier to take it from the lambs.

PERIPATETIC PLEASURES.

BY RHODES WALKER.

In Saturday's Times appears a gall-stirring article under the title of "Give Rides to Weary Walkers." The smaller caption above it reads, "Chivalry on Wheels."

Chivalry on wheels, indeed! To watch those wheels go round and round is to find food for indistinguishable laughter. To read Mr. Emerson's delicately patronizing letter in The Times is to call up the grin of grim appreciation. When will the enamored automobilist learn that the mere possession of a box on four wheels is not of itself a patent of nobility? When will he discover that walkers often walk because, they like to walk, and that it is a gratuitous insult, as preposterous as it is uncalled for, to class them among his "less fortunate brothers and sisters"? Once upon a time the peripatetic was appraised as a philosopher—perhaps he is a philosopher still.

A snob is a snob anywhere and everywhere, but never so exuberantly, so flamboyantly as when raised to the dizzying dignity of a seat in an automobile. Then he owns the road, the world, high heaven, insolently oblivious of the fact that the pedestrian, poor, lowly, crawling worm, has the law-given right of way at every crossing. What rare sport it is to bear down upon him at full-tilt and watch him scramble for his life! And the beauty of it is that this exhilarating game can be kept up all day, at every crossing in town. Why, Nero's most hilarious Roman holiday wasn't in it when compared to this!

The driver behind a horse did not consider himself immeasurably superior to the man on foot. When he asked the walker if he wanted a ride it was in a happy, friendly, companionable tone, without a vestige of patronage. He did not assume that the pedestrian was pining to ride—that he was eaten up with bitter envy. He offered a "lift" because he wanted some one to talk to, and if the walker wanted to talk he accepted in the same spirit; if he didn't, he declined with thanks. There was no thought of a "less fortunate brother or sister."

Now, however, we have chivalry on wheels—which seems to be a totally different thing from chivalry behind a horse. Steam, or gasoline, or electricity, or whatever the propelling power of the wheels may happen to be, seems to make all the difference. They give so much more distinction than that noble, sentient, beautiful animal called a horse! At any rate, they cost more—and nowadays the question of cost seems to be the all-important one. To us the expensive is the good, the true, the beautiful—no matter how loudly it wheezes and smells. We have quite forgotten that the finest things in the world—sunsets, distant mountains, breaking waves, woodland vistas—cost nothing at all.

No, ladies and gentlemen, "fortunate" members of the Automobile Club of Southern California, you need not worry over your "less fortunate brothers and sisters." They do not ask your pity or your help. Little as you suspect it, many of them could own automobiles quite as good as yours if they wanted them. At least, most of them could afford the street cars. But they wisely prefer their feet. They may be heroically attempting to revive the lost art of walking. They may believe that the poppied ease of the tonneau is a deteriorating thing, and they may prefer "fitness" to fat. They may even detest automobiles.

This last, of course, is a preposterous proposition to you fortunate ones, but nevertheless I make it in all seriousness. Some of us do detest them. We hem and haw and tell lies that we may evade the solicitations of our automobile-owning friends, who cannot and will not understand that we are not perpetually dying to take joy-rides. Joy-rides! Why, we simply loathe that confounded compounded word! Joy-walks are what we are after—leisurely strolls along quiet country roads, slow climbs up the slopes of the flower-strewn hills, gentle meanderings over meadows dreaming in the sunlight. These are the simple, sane and soul-uplifting pleasures that make the life of a man superior to that of the brute.

Please let me take them undisturbed. Subdue your infernal honk-honk (the shrill cry of the speeding goose) when you draw near our sanctuary in the open. Be superior, if you must—but let us alone.

STREAKS OF WIT.

Tired of Waiting.

[Fliegende Blatter:] She (getting ready to go out:) What are you looking at?

He: I'm just watching whether that house opposite will be ready first or you.

Knew His Mother.

[Fliegende Blatter:] Son: Say, mamma, father broke this vase before he went out.

Mother: My beautiful majolica vase! Wait till he comes back, that's all.

Son: May I stay up till he does?

Discounting the Future.

[Pittsburgh Post:] "I've long wanted to meet that aviator."

"I'll introduce you after his flight."

"Introduce me now. After his flight maybe——"

"I understand. Come right along."

Getting Together.

[Louisville Courier-Journal:] "Well, how about it?"

"Her father and mother both object to me."

"Hard luck."

"Hard luck for fair. It's the first thing they have agreed on in years."

A CLOSE OBSERVER.

[Philadelphia Telegraph:] In his daily half-hour confidential talk with his boy an ambitious father tried to give some advice.

"Be observing, my son," said the father on one occasion. "Cultivate the habit of seeing, and you will be a successful man. Study things and remember them. Don't go through the world blindly. Learn to use your eyes. Boys who are observant know a great deal more than those who are not."

Willie listened in silence.

Several days later, when the entire family, consisting of his mother, aunt and uncle, were present, his father said:

"Well, Willie, have you kept using your eyes as I advised you to do?"

Willie nodded, and, after a moment's hesitation, said:

"I have seen a few things about the house. Uncle Jim's got a bottle of hair dye hid under his bed. Aunt Jennie's got an extra set of teeth in her dresser, ma's got some curls in her hat, and pa's got a pack of cards and a box of dice behind the bookcase."

George W. Perkins, friend of the common people and champion fat-fryer for the so-called "Progressive" party, is not only a great trust magnate, but is a humorist of big league dimensions. The Bull Moose "slush-fund angel," whose "slush-fund angel," announcement issued yesterday in Chicago, stated that less than $30,000 had been contributed in the nation by the Roosevelt Campaign Committee in its effort to nominate the pretended regular Republican National convention at Chicago. Ye Gods! Catalina sea-cucumbers! George the funny man? The Stevens-Lissner machine in Missouri spent at least $100,000 in the primary campaign in this state to cooperate efforts to carry Missouri for the third-termer. The itemized list states that Perkins gave $2000, Dan Hanna $5000, Frank Munsey $5000, Roosevelt, a cousin of T. R.'s, $1000, Woodruff $1000, "Bill" Flynn $1000, and last but not least, George W. Perkins $7000. The other contributors to the fund, aside from Perkins, gave sums ranging from two-bits to $500. It is published newspaper men and leaders estimate that Perkins, Hanna, Munsey and the other "battlers for the Lord" will spend over $3,000,000 in the primary campaign and in getting it mildly. Perkins is also after sprinkling his $30,000 so that he gets rosy results for the Bull Moose "uplift" movement in the West. Meanwhile, the Immigration Commission has got far from rosy results in the case of the women who work at the Harvester trust movement in Auburn, N. Y., factory under conditions which violate even the law for the protection by the old parties. John Maynard Harriman recently address at the Men's Dinner meeting at the Hotel Alexandria said that George W. Perkins had indicted several men who were ought to "get down on his knees three times a day and thank God that the stripes on his suit run up and down instead of crossways." And he is chairman of the National Progressive party. My, but isn't he a progressive!"

getting their place on the Presidential ballot November 5, petitions bearing the names of the Democratic electors will be circulated in California, according to word received by David M. Fulwider, vice-chairman of the State Central Committee, yesterday. A telegram came from State headquarters in San Francisco, urging the necessity of holding immediate caucuses to choose the electors. The message stated that a letter of instructions was following, and that the Presidential electors would be placed on the ballot by petition as well as by the primaries. This will guard against any possible hitch that would keep Wilson off the ballot. The Bull Moosers have already taken this action, but so far have met with failure in securing the requisite number of signatures. Leading politicians of the various parties fear that the primary law will be declared unconstitutional by the courts and therefore they aren't going to take any chances.

Beyond putting the finishing touches to the Fiesta Park seats, all is in readiness for the three meetings under Democratic auspices to be held here tomorrow, when William Jennings Bryan will be the central figure and chief speaker. Arriving at 7 a.m., tomorrow morning, via the Salt Lake route, the "peerless one" will breakfast at the Alexandria Hotel, meet the Reception Committee at 9 o'clock, participate in an automobile parade through the downtown streets at 10 a.m., then deliver his first address at 10:30 a.m. to women in the Auditorium. The noon meeting at Naud Junction for workingmen will follow, with the open-air rally at Fiesta Park scheduled for 2:30 p.m. At the conclusion of the Fiesta Park meeting, where he will deliver his principal address, Mr. Bryan will rest briefly, then depart for Sacramento at 7:30 p.m. Seats for 20,000 have been provided at Fiesta Park and the Auditorium and Naud Junction pavilion accommodate about 4000 each. In order that all desiring to hear the former "boy orator" may be accorded equal privileges, no reservations of seats will be made at any of the meetings. Bryan is pouring the hot shot into the big Moose in every address and is without doubt the stellar attraction of the campaign. He spoke to 50,000 in Denver several days ago while Roosevelt expounded his red doctrines to less than 20,000 a few days later. Chairmen were yesterday selected for the three Bryan meetings. Judge Bledsoe of San Bernardino will preside at Fiesta Park; Jeff Daniels, a factory employee, will introduce the Commoner at Naud Junction and Mrs. W. C. Tyler will be chairman of the rally at the Auditorium.

Frank Munsey, a director of the Morgan steel trust, has purchased the New York Press, and will at once direct its energies in advocacy of the election of Roosevelt. Of course, as a director of the steel trust, Mr. Munsey is a "Progressive" with a big P. George W. Perkins, another director of the same trust, is one of the rankest Bull Moosers extant. The whole steel trust, in fact, is "Progressive." This "infant" combine has cleaned up over $1,000,000,000 since 1903. Who dare say that the steel trust is not "Progressive?" Down with him!

RACES EAT THE MONEY.

Gambler's Wife, Penniless, Applies For Assistance Which the Police Can't Give.

Mrs. Mary Richer, No. 4825 Wilton place, wife of Gustav Richer, the confessed horserace gambler under arrest at the Central Station, who has admitted that sometimes he bet as high as $15 and $20 a day on the "ponies," called at police headquarters yesterday in quest of financial assistance. Later she visited her husband.

Mrs. Richer was first closeted with Capt. Murray. She informed him that friends who had been giving her assistance while her husband gambled his money away informed her it would be impossible to longer contribute to her support.

"I'm absolutely penniless," continued the woman, "and have no one to turn to in my hour of grief and tribulation."

The captain informed Mrs. Richer that the department has no fund upon which it could draw in such an emergency. He referred her to Mrs. Shatto, policewoman attached to the juvenile bureau, in the hope that she might know of some way that Mrs. Richer could be assisted. After Mrs. Shatto had informed Mrs. Richer that she, too, was powerless to render financial assistance, the wife visited her husband in the City Jail.

It was said yesterday that Mrs. Richer told the police that she did not know where her husband placed his bets. Richer has so far failed to tell the authorities who handled his money for him.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Chief of Police stated yesterday that he will request the Police Commission on Wednesday to ask the City Council for twentyfive more patrolmen.

The N.E.W. Commercial and Improvement Association yesterday sent a request to the City Council to begin condemnation proceedings at once to secure property for the opening of New High street to North Broadway by the use of Franklin Court and land north of the new Times Building.

The Police Surgeon asked the Council yesterday to provide a modern ambulance for the use of the Receiving Hospital, declaring that the present method of using the police patrol wagon for women and children is inhuman.

On the eve of his application to the Superior Court for distribution of an estate worth $50,000 to the County Treasurer, the Public Administrator has heard from alleged heirs of a botanist who died here three years ago.

NEW OFFICERS ARE DEMANDED.

CHIEF OF POLICE WANTS AN INCREASE IN FORCE.

Will Go Before Commission Next Wednesday With a Request for Twenty-five Additional Men, Ten of Whom Are Imperatively Needed for Traffic Squad.

The Chief of Police will go before the Police Commission Wednesday and request it to recommend that the City Council make provision for an addition of twenty-five patrolmen.

This demand will be urged as a necessity that cannot be longer delayed, if proper efficiency is to be given the work of the Traffic Squad and the motorcycle department. The Chief needs ten additional men right now on the Traffic Squad; he needs several on the Motorcycle Squad, and there is a demand for officers in several other places that can no longer be ignored. Two hundred more men could be used to advantage.

When the Finance Committee of the City Council was wrestling with the making of the budget for the current fiscal year, the Chief appeared and asked for an addition of fifty men. Considering the vast amount of territory within the city limits this was a modest request from his point of view, but the budget, when completed, made no provisions for any additions.

Assurance was given, however, that after the budget was completed, if it was found possible to give the police department further aid from the general fund, in order to secure more officers, this would be done.

Councilman Whiffen, head of the Finance Committee of the City Council, said yesterday, when discussing this subject, that he does not see how it is practicable to take any appropriation from the general fund, to pay the salaries of twenty-five policemen, as the demands upon this fund are going to be heavy, and it will soon melt away if such a course is pursued. He stated that there seems to be only one possibility for making the necessary provision for this addition to the police force, and that is to draw from the $100,000 placed in the reserve fund for aiding the completion of the proposed garbage plant. The sum of $150,000 was placed in the budget for this purpose, and the additional $100,000 was placed in the reserve fund, tentatively for the same purpose, but with the idea that it might not be called into use during the present fiscal year.

There is no doubt that the Police Commission will indorse the request of Chief Sebastian for twenty-five more men, and when it goes to the Council, that body will refer the subject to the Finance Committee for a recommendation. The men are urgently demanded; there is money in the reserve fund that may not be called for this year—what will the answer be?

New Street Proposed.

The N.E.W. Commercial and Improvement Association yesterday filed with the City Clerk a letter to the City Council transmitting a resolution demanding that steps be taken immediately to secure an opening into Broadway from New High street by way of Franklin Court and an opening to the north of the new Times Building. The resolution says:

"Whereas New High street can be extended at small cost through Franklin Court to Broadway just north of the new Times Building, thus opening a nearly level thoroughfare from Sunset boulevard to the principal retail street of the city, and whereas a new building is projected in Franklin Court, which would block the extension of New High street, therefore be it resolved by the North, East, West Commercial and Improvement Association that condemnation of property necessary to make said extension should be proceeded with as soon as possible."

Want the Old System.

The Arroyo Seco Chamber of Commerce filed with the City Clerk yesterday a protest against the new system of house-numbering put into service by the City Engineer's office several weeks ago. It asks the City Council to provide for a return to the old system of numbering, and also to provide that every house within the district must have a number placed upon it. The North Highland Park Improvement Association has also filed a similar protest and request.

Says It's Inhuman.

Police Surgeon Zerfing yesterday filed with the City Clerk a communication to the City Council, stating that during the past fiscal year the Receiving Hospital treated 22,110 cases. Of these, 6955 were cases exclusive of prisoners. The number of prisoners treated was 11,775, and 4380 officers and firemen were treated.

The Police Surgeon makes an appeal for a modern automobile ambulance, saying:

"The Receiving Hospital is splendidly-equipped with instruments and apparatus for the successful treatment of sick and injured persons, but the means of transportation of patients to the hospital is so exceedingly inhuman, under the patrol wagon system, that the purchase of a modern automobile ambulance is imperatively demanded, in order to bring our ambulance service to the efficiency of other cities.

"Los Angeles has long endured the opprobrious criticism concerning the use of a prisoners' patrol wagon for the conveyance of injured men, women and children to the Receiving Hospital, and a good, substantial ambulance, costing about $4500, should be purchased.

"The running expenses of such a vehicle would not be any higher than the expense involved in maintaining a patrol wagon. I appeal to your sense of justice and humanity to correct this evil."

Police Pension System.

The money received for the police pension fund for the last quarter was $3625. Two dollars a month is given by each police officer for this fund. The city has 290 men on the regular patrol list; there are twenty-five detectives and seventeen police officers detailed to other duties. The income thus derived has been sufficient, so far, to properly care for those on the pension list.

There are now on the pension list twenty-one persons, of whom three are widows of officers. During the past quarter two names have been dropped from the pension rolls—those of A. V. Bates, who died a few weeks ago, and Richard Percy Held, who was restored to duty, after a long period of invalidism, caused by his being shot when undertaking to arrest a highwayman on Kingsley drive.

The police pension fund is operated under the provisions of the State laws, but the City Attorney has in hand the preparation of an ordinance that will supercede this system and bring about various changes. At present, one-third of the salary of an officer who dies may be given to his widow. Under the proposed provisions of the ordinance, it will be possible to give the widow or children a pension equal to one-half of the salary of the officer expiring.

UNCLAIMED GOLD SOUGHT AT LAST.

HEIRS OF BOTANIST BEGINNING TO APPEAR.

For Three Years After Death of Plant Student No One Comes Forward to Demand His Estate—Now There Is a Contest and Proofs Are Demanded.

When William Brady died at the Abbotsford Inn., October 28, 1909, a search for his heirs was made and diligently pursued without success until this week, when a daughter residing at Stockton, Ill., and a son and daughter living in Pennsylvania have been heard from. The estate, worth about $54,000, is in the hands of the Public Administrator, who was on the point of asking the court for its distribution to the County Treasurer.

The Illinois heir is said to be Mrs. William T. Blair, who first learned that her father died in this city through a newspaper clipping sent her by a friend. Mrs. Blair wrote Attorney Chamberlain, stating that her father left Stockton fifteen years ago, since which time she had heard nothing of him.

She asserts she has Bible records and other details of his life, and she asks Chamberlain to send a photograph of Brady and other details for identification. Chamberlain has asked Mrs. Blair to forward her records and will represent her in the fight to obtain her share of the estate.

Brady, it appears, was a botanist and secretive about his former life. He passed a great deal of his time in Southern California, studying plant life. After his death securities were found worth approximately $50,000. In running down his history it was learned he was the founder of a foundling institution in New York. He appears to have attended school at Lamoille, Ill., and was a professor at a school in Marseilles. Among his effects letters were found from former pupils.

Mrs. Anna J. Robinson, No. 766 Rose avenue, Long Beach, believes William Brady, her brother-in-law, of Allegheny, Pa., is the only son of the botanist. While on a visit to her sister in Allegheny the latter, she asserts, told her many incidents in the life of the elder Brady.

ASKS FOR RECEIVER.

TRANSFER COMPANY SUED.

An order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed for the City Transfer Company was issued by Judge Bledsoe yesterday in the suit of O. O. Simpson against M. I. Hoffman, president, and the company. Simpson owns one-fifth of the stock of the company, the other four-fifths being held by Hoffman who by reason of such asserts he has the controlling voice in the management of its affairs.

Simpson alleges in the complaint that records have been lost and suppressed, that he cannot obtain an accounting, and that Hoffman has two dummy directors who voted with him for an exorbitant salary. These directors are named as defendants and are C. V. Means and C. G. Krueger, who, according to Simpson, own only five shares each.

Means, Simpson alleges, tried to buy his stock, at the instigation of Hoffman. He further complains that Hoffman refused to call a meeting of the board of directors, although a quorum was available, because Means and Krueger were not present. He alleges this constituted a conspiracy to prevent him from bringing before the board the question of adjusting salaries.

PROVIDES FOR CHILDREN.

MOTHER OWNEH RANCH.

The estate of Mrs. Lorette Baughman of Covina, who died last Sunday, is worth $50,000, according to the petition for the probate of the will filed yesterday by Obariaiah M. Baughman. Mrs. Baughman owned a fifteen-acre orange ranch at Irvindale, worth $30,000, real estate at San Gabriel, and $3000 worth of the stock of the Covina Home Telephone Company. She had $14,000 in bank.

The will divides the real estate the children, Obadiah, Jonas H., Loretto James and Sadie Vincent, the latter also receiving $2000. Obadiah is named executor.

INVOLVES POINT.

APPEAL FROM JUDGMENT.

AN ACKNOWLEDGMENT. An appeal from the judgment given by Judge Craig in favor of the Southern Fuel Company against L. Villareal Madero, a cousin of President Madero of Mexico, involves the point whether a letter written by Madero to the company acknowledges a debt. Attorney Schultz, representing the company, obtained an order from Judge Bledsoe yesterday for a paper in the case.

Madero's letter, it is asserted, stated he will pay the amount provided he is allowed credit. Judge Craig held this was an acknowledgment of the debt.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

DAMAGE SUIT. Alleging in a complaint filed yesterday that the accident which resulted in damaging his automobile and severe personal injuries to himself was due to intoxication, Ellis L. Zemansky seeks to recover from Frank J. Mitchell a total of $6068.84. It seems that Zemansky was in an automobile driven by Mrs. persons. While the machine was Lena Levy and containing three other halted on West Washington street to adjust the head lights, it is alleged that Mitchell drove up in a machine which struck Zemansky's, pushing it against him. Two fractured ribs, bruises and a concussion of the brain resulted.

INCORPORATIONS. American Tungsten Mining and Refining Company; incorporators, John C. Weckmann, Sutherland Hutton, S. R. Dexter, Myron W. Tilden, Olin J. Hessell; capital stock, $1,000,000; subscribed, $5.

MOTHER STEPS IN. Manon H. Smith, a young married ranchman of Compton, made love to his sister-in-law, Miss Elvaretto Wilson, aged 19 years, who told in the Juvenile Court yesterday how Manon attempted to woo her. Miss Wilson smiled a great deal during the trial hardly realizing the seriousness of the affair which involved the domestic peace of her sister. She admitted she did not tell her mother until Manon became too ardent. Mrs. Wilson then took a hand and Smith was haled into court.

IN THE INFERIOR COURTS.

Man Arrested in Raid on Place Where Lottery Tickets Were Found, Proposes to Fight for "Rights."

W. H. H. Young, arrested with four other men Friday night in a raid on his office, No. 947 East Pico street, pleaded guilty to having lottery tickets in his possession before Police Judge Williams yesterday morning. He paid a fine of $250 in preference to going to jail for 180 days. Young gave notice that he will attack the legality of the search warrant on which the raid was made and thousands of dollars' worth of lottery tickets confiscated.

"Those tickets represent real money to me," declared Young. "I pay the company $80 for every $100 worth of tickets they send me. All unsold or returned tickets are redeemed by the company at the same rate. The company pays me twenty per cent. on all sales, and guarantees to pay all my fines. I have to guarantee the fines of my distributors and agents, so I must pay the $110 fines imposed by the court on the four men arrested when I was arrested."

Jerry Egan, who conducts a cigar stand in front of the "Original Mug" saloon on South Main street; John Baptist and S. Wenzler, sub-agents for Young, pleaded guilty to having lottery tickets in their possession, and paid $20 fines. John P. Buhlinger, a distributor for Young, was fined $50.

When Memory Fails.

The policy of setting the vagrancy cases of women for trial so far in advance that the prosecution loses interest, or witnesses either leave the city or forget the facts, was frowned on in the Police Court yesterday by Judge Williams, when he over-ruled the motion of Attorney Frank Dominguez to set the cases of Mrs. M. L. Eagleton and Mrs. Lillie Wilson for hearing some time in November.

"That's too far off," said the court. "The prosecution loses interest in a case when it gets that old. And besides, it gives witnesses too much time in which to forget. The quicker such cases are tried the better the interests of justice are subserved."

Mrs. Eagleton gave $300 cash bail to answer to the charges of being a vagrant and selling liquor at No. 320 Temple street without a license. Mrs. Wilson gave $100 bail.

Catcher Called Out.

The marital differences in the Sullivan family led "Jack" Sullivan, a catcher for the Vernon team, and his wife before Judge Cassidy in the University Police Court. The "backstop" was the defendant and Mrs. Sullivan the complaining witness. She swore to a complaint charging her husband with battery. Marks on her face were material evidence. The court fined Sullivan $50, which he paid.

A Painful Turban.

Jose Lopez appeared before Police Judge Williams yesterday, his head swathed in bandages. These concealed three scalp wounds, one of them four inches in length. He was prosecuted by Patrolmen Hickey and Baumgartner on a complaint charging disturbance of the peace.

The patrolmen testified they were called to the rear of No. 752 Avila street, where they found Lopez waving a rifle in the air and threatening to shoot any person who should approach him. When the patrolmen advanced, Lopez retreated into the house, where a fight ensued, during which the rifle stock was broken and a stove wrecked. Lopez sustained scalp lacerations during the mix-up. His case will be set for trial tomorrow.

PIERCE-ARROW MAN HUSTLES.

New Home Is Soon to Be Ready to House Classy Line of Handsome Cars.

This has been a busy week for W. E. Bush, the local Pierce-Arrow agent. He has been rushing the work on the new Pierce-Arrow home and receiving shipments of the new models.

One of the most attractive creations from the standpoint of the body builder is the first 1913 Pierce-Arrow limousine received last week for A. C. Billicke. The new limousine has all the Pierce-Arrow characteristics of richness and completeness.

Bush expects to be located in his new building on Grand avenue by October 1. The sales force has been reorganized and in the future, L. R. Wadsworth will be sales manager. Wadsworth is well known in local automobile circles and needs no introduction. He will start immediately upon a vigorous campaign and expects to do great things with the attractive new line of Pierce-Arrow cars.

New Tactics.

GIVES IMMUNITY TO WITNESSES.

Senate Committee Balked; No Prosecution.

Men Wanted Are Known, but Will Not Talk.

Believed Assurances Will Bring Results.

With complete knowledge of the identity of witnesses capable of divulging valuable information concerning the Mexican situation, the Senate Committee now in session in Los Angeles is confronted with the alternative of abandoning the inquiry or virtually granting immunity to persons agreeing to tell the facts as they exist. Frustrated in their attempts to get at the truth of the matter from volunteer witnesses, the members of the committee have decided to make known to valuable witnesses the fact that their testimony will not be used against them or for any punitive purposes.

Senators Fall and Smith, who have been engaged now for a week in attempting to get at material facts from witnesses in and about this city, admitted yesterday that in a large measure these efforts have been wasted. Secret service agents, working in conjunction with the committee, have learned the names of persons who can give the desired information if they will, but so far these men have not appeared or been questioned by the members of the committee.

Following a conference yesterday with persons credited with being familiar with interior Mexican affairs, the investigating Senators decided not to issue peremptory subpoenas until all other means of persuasion have been exhausted. The opinion appeared to prevail that if the Mexican and American business firms and individuals who have inside information on the subject in hand, were made to understand that their testimony would not be used in prosecutions against them, the chances for obtaining the desired information would brighten materially.

VIRTUALLY BALKED.

In his suite at the Alexandria, Senator Smith talked of the almost fruitless efforts of the committee to get at facts in this investigation material to the purpose for which it is to be used.

"Is it a fact, Senator," he was asked, "that the committee has been virtually balked in its effort to get the desired information from witnesses, during the series of inquiries in Los Angeles?"

"That is true to a large extent," was the answer, "but most of the persons talked to here have been volunteer witnesses and you are not always able to get the very best information from them."

"The secret service men, detailed to work in connection with your inquiry, have been enabled, have they not, to learn the identity of the men capable of giving you the information you desire?"

"Yes, but there has been a decided hesitancy on the part of these men about testifying. Such people, as you know, must be handled diplomatically."

"Do you not find it true, Senator, that many of these men are loath to give the information because of possible incrimination?"

"Well, that question has entered into consideration. We have not felt it necessary in the past to enter into a discussion of our motives except in a general way."

"The apparent reluctance, however, of these men, probably will make it necessary for you to make your intentions clear in that respect. Is that not true?"

NOT FOR PROSECUTION.

"We have considered that phase of the situation, and have decided, where there is any apprehension on that score, to make it clear that the United States government is not ordering this inquiry made for the purpose of gathering evidence against individuals or companies for the purpose of prosecution. It will be made clear to them that the Senate wants the real facts in order to be able intelligently to act on possible future legislation, where the question of outside aid for revolutions in Mexico and Cuba enters into the consideration."

"Then as a matter of fact, you do not consider the information you have gleaned up to the present time, in this city, has been exactly what you what?"

"Well, we have learned some things of value. For instance, we know that millions of rounds of ammunition have been furnished the Mexican revolutionists from sources on this side of the line. That is what we are after primarily—the sources. The principal men we want to talk to, though, have not yet been before the committee."

"When do you anticipate that you will get in touch with these men who hold the key to the situation, so far as the present investigation is concerned?"

NOT RUSHING.

"That is impossible to say with certainty. Senator Fall has been handling most of the negotiations with the Mexicans. I have devoted the greater portion of my time to Americans. Senator Fall knows these aliens better than I, and we want to use every courtesy in dealing with them. It will not do to seem to rush them."

"Have you made any definite arrangements, Senator, with any persons of importance, to appear before your committee, under the agreement or understanding that information divulged will not be used to further a prosecution?"

"We have, in a sense. We are in touch with a number of persons who we know can furnish the information we want, and expect to talk with some of them Monday. We are trying to be patient, but this information must be forthcoming and any attempt to evade us will be futile for imperative summons in that event will be issued from Washington."

"Do you believe, Senator, that fear of possible after-effects has deterred important witnesses from appearing before you up to this time?"

"That, we do not care to go into. Many of these men to whom we desire to talk are old men prone to become easily excited, and we must use caution in approaching them. One thing is certain, however, and that is that with our attitude and the attitude of the government fully explained, we will get the desired information and submit it to the Senate."

The "Fashion Show" in Retrospect

---from the standpoint of home furnishings

The passing of "The Fashion Show" has made conspicuous the supremacy of the "California" as a home furnishing institution of the higher type.

The multitudes who visited the furniture marts of Los Angeles found the "California's" selections distinguished by true elegance rather than extravagance, by exquisite taste rather than gaudiness—by genuine worthiness rather than cheapness.

These qualities, at all times, most practically embodied in the "California's" home furnishings—together with just value which cannot be surpassed—have given to the "California" a position distinctly in a class alone in Los Angeles.

The "California" invites you to visit its various departments where you will get a wealth of inspiration for expressing individual ideas in furnishings for either cottage or mansion. Welcome always.

Good Counsel.

Little children, always be Kind to everything you see.
Do not kick the table's legs,
Don't beat unoffending eggs.

Do not mischievously try
To poke things in a needle's eye;
Nor guilty be of such a fault
As to pinch the table salt.

Do not pull a teapot's nose.
Don't ask bread what time it rose.
Little pitchers' ears don't tweak,
Nor smack the apple's rosy cheek.

But remember it is right
To all things to be polite;
Let the hay scales have their weigh.
Wish the calendar good day.

Kiss the clock upon its face,
Return the armchair's fond embrace.
Greet the sieve in merry strain.
Ask the window how's its pane.

If you learn to show such traits
To your dumb inani-mates,
Toward your playmates then you'll find
You've an amiable mind.

Fire Laddies' Pride.

PALATIAL HOME FOR SNORTERS.

Biggest Fire Apparatus in Figueroa House.

Three-Story Station Rapidly Nearing Completion.

Alarm Signal Bureau to Have Headquarters There.

A building costing approximately $100,000 will be turned over to the fire department within the next two months and from it will roar forth to blazes, big and little, the largest and most powerful motor-driven engine in the city. It is to be known as Engine House No. 28, and is being reared at No. 644 South Figueroa street. It is built entirely of reinforced concrete and steel.

The building occupies a lot 50x155 feet, is itself 46 feet 6 inches wide by 108 feet 6 inches long, and its three stories rise to a height of sixty-six feet, with a twenty-foot flagpole. The space in the rear will be partially occupied by a workshop and gates swing open on an alley through which supplies and materials may be taken in.

Pressed brick and terra cotta have been used in the ornamental front facing, with two enormous depressed windows on the second and third floors. There are towers at each of the corners, one in the rear to be used for a hose tower and one in front for the elevator drum. The other two are merely for ornamental purposes.

BUILT LIKE FORT.

The walls of the building are extremely heavy, being twelve inches thick for the first and second stories and eight inches thick for the third. Some architects allege that walls of such thickness are totally unnecessary for a three-story building, but Chief Inspector of Buildings Backus does not agree with them. The foundation walls extend twelve feet below the sidewalk.

In the basement will be an immense battery room for the new fire alarm system on the third floor, a generator room, a heater-room to warm the building and keep the engine supplied, a fuel room and two storerooms.

On the first floor will be the finest fire apparatus in the city, according to department officials, consisting of an enormous motor-driven aerial truck, and a new 120-horse-power combination pumping engine and hose wagon. This engine is being built in Oakland and will cost approximately $15,000.

Lockers, shower baths, bathrooms, a big dormitory, an assembly-room, a captain's room and the quarters of a battalion chief will take up the whole of the second floor.

By far the most important part of the building will be the third floor, where the fire alarm signal system is to be installed. When plans under consideration for a new fire alarm system shall be finally perfected, the central fire alarm station now in the City Hall will be located in the new engine house.

TO CONTINUE SYSTEM.

As the new head of the Fire Alarm Bureau has just taken his place and has not had time to become thoroughly acquainted with his work, plans for the new central station are unsettled, and the make of the new system has not been determined. It is probable that pending the installation of the system, the present one will be removed from the City Hall to the new fireproof station.

It is the intention of the Fire Signal Bureau, according to present plans, to provide a system of signals adequate for a city of 1,000,000 inhabitants, with machinery as infallible as modern invention can make it.

A big operating room has been provided on the third floor of the Figueroa-street engine house, with ample repair rooms, quarters for the operators and spacious office quarters. The hundreds of cables necessary for the system will be brought from underground through a big shaft located in the hose tower.

Kempel & Erkes are the architects of the building, which is being constructed by the C. J. Kubach Company.

Los Angeles-Yuma.

WORK ON LONG ROAD TO BEGIN TOMORROW.

This End of Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Will Be Immediately Put in Condition—Engineer and Construction Force at Mammoth Wash—Fifteen Thousand Transcontinental Autos Expected Next Year.

ACTIVE work on the California stretch of the proposed ocean-to-ocean highway is to be begun tomorrow morning. Charles H. Bigelow, engineer in charge of construction, went to Brawley yesterday, and teams with scrapers and a crew of men will be started into the Mammoth Wash tomorrow morning to put the worst stretch of the entire 301.9 miles of road between Los Angeles and Yuma in condition for touring.

Isaiah Martin of this city subscribed the first $500 toward the $100,000 which is to be raised to make the road through San Gorgoni Pass tourable. This money was applied by John S. Mitchell, president of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association, to the fund that has been set aside for the construction work. There is $5000 cash guaranteed available on which Bigelow can draw to keep his road crew on the job every working hour.

It is estimated that 15,000 automobiles will be driven across the continent this coming year and many more will in succeeding years. Autoists are sure to visit the Panama-Pacific Exposition in San Francisco in large numbers, coming in their own machines. An effort is being made to divert this traffic over the Banning route by way of Yuma and the Colorado River. To do this the road must be open just as soon as possible. The barrier to automobile touring is the Mammoth Wash.

The 100 miles of road from Los Angeles to Banning is in fair shape. It is excellent to Pomona and the members of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association, with the help of Secundo Guasti, propose to shorten the route to Banning ten miles via the right of way offered by Guasti through his large vineyard near Bloomington. This would make almost a direct run to Banning.

From Banning to Whitewater, fifteen miles, the road is fair. From Whitewater to Palm Springs, eight miles, the route is through deep sand. This is to be repaired at once and Bigelow proposes to start men and teams from Indio working toward Palm Springs in order to make this rough stretch smooth.

COACHELLA AND CARRIZO.

The road from Indio to Thermal and Mecca is through the bottom lands of the Coachella Valley, below sea level, but is in fair shape, and can soon be made excellent because of the conditions of the soil. Indio is 146.1 miles from Los Angeles on the direct route of the Ocean-to-Ocean highway. Coachella, the next town, is 150 miles away. The sentiment is so strong in that valley that a ranchman who is struggling to prove up on his claim, and whose land is some distance from the road, sent in a subscription of $10 to the national highway fund.

Mecca is at the extreme end of the Salton Sea and 159.3 miles from Los Angeles. Engineer Bigelow spent Friday at Mecca and arranged for teams and men to take the route on the southern side of the Salton Sea. Here, according to Bigelow, the work will not be difficult. He says the road can be made tourable in a month. It will be built along the shores of the sea, as much as possible, and oil will be used to surface this stretch of the highway.

It will not be necessary to bridge the San Felipe Creek at this time, according to Bigelow. There are two other small creeks, both of them dry—Salt Creek, 186 miles from Los Angeles and Tule Creek, three miles beyond. Already work is in progress on the bridge over Salt Creek and another span will be built over Tule Creek. This will make the road to Brawley, 227 miles, open for all automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles. Brawley is 109 feet below sea level. Plans are now under way to develop 600,000 additional acres of rich soil in the irrigation district and in the Carriso Valley.

HARD WORK THERE.

Into the sand dunes from Brawley the hard work is to be done. Here the task of making this road even passable is stupendous, but with the funds now available Bigelow says he can put it in excellent condition in less than four months. This will mean that as soon as the rainy season is over the route will be open between Yuma and Los Angeles.

From Brawley the road to the Mammoth Wash takes the tourist out of the Salton Sink and gradually to sea level. At the beach line, a distance of 246 miles from Los Angeles, the shores of what once was the ocean beach can be plainly seen and is marked for miles along the edge of the mountains. Here gravel can be obtained for surfacing for four miles of deep and treacherous sand in the dry wash. Bigelow does not favor a board surface, but prefers an oiled road, at least on the temporary work.

Once out of the Mammoth Wash the road will cross the Southern Pacific tracks and will be built to Mammoth, 254 miles from Los Angeles. It is possible to haul road material along the rails at this point and the work from Mammoth to Yuma is expected to be comparatively easy because of the work trains that can be used along the entire fifty miles.

At Glamis the country is higher and an elevation of 328 feet above sea level is reached. Here there is much gravel that will lend itself to road-building operations. From Glamis it is proposed to build the road through to Ogilby, 285 miles from Los Angeles. From Ogilby the road will be driven directly along the Southern Pacific tracks to the Colorado River opposite Yuma.

Dr. H. Vance Clymer, who has charge of the good roads work in Yuma and is a member of the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway Association, was in Los Angeles a few days ago and stated that $30,000 has already been raised in Yuma to put the Arizona roads in shape. Dr. Clymer says the campaign for a bridge across the Colorado at Yuma is to be pushed into Congress this year, and he is confident that it will be built in less than twelve months.

HARD TO PUT HIM OUT.

Narrow Escape of Telephone Lineman, Who Is Near Death Three Times in an Instant.

David Stretch faced death from three different directions in about three seconds yesterday morning, near Twelfth and Georgia streets, but escaped with a few superficial injuries.

Stretch is 22 years old, and a lineman for the Pacific Telegraph and Telephone Company. He was working about thirty feet from the ground on a condemned pole, removing the wires to a new one. The old pole broke off near the ground, pitching Stretch to the pavement head first. In his descent, he struck the falling pole and was thrown sideways into the street. The old pole struck the new one, breaking it in two, and both poles fell, one on each side of Stretch, who was rendered partially unconscious. The old pole rolled over him but did not crush him because he lay close to the new one. After having his injuries dressed at the Receiving Hospital, he was removed to his home, No. 1171 East Tenth street.

HEALTHFUL BUT COSTLY.

It cost Antonio Dusilippi $25 in United States currency and $135 in Canadian bills to sleep in the open air Friday night, according to a report he made to the detectives yesterday. "I enjoyed the rest out in the cool night air, but I don't relish the loss of the money," he said. He lives at No. 1217½ North Main street. When he returned home late Friday night he forsook his room for the back porch, and while he slumbered some one turned his pockets inside out.

T. M. Sloan, general freight agent for the Salt Lake route, said that while his lines have not yet been embarassed by the shortage, the situation warrants some concern. The outward movement at this season from all California points is very heavy, and when these cars reach their eastern destination they are often requisitioned to relieve the shortage there caused by the crop movement and so are a long time in finding their way back home for the further relief of the local shipper. In this way it does not take long to scatter 1000 cars about the country.

HERE'S OPTIMISM.

A rift in the lute came when the Santa Fe sanctum freightorium was reached, for here the chief clerk was as full of optimism as Main street at 5 o'clock is full of street cars.

"Cars, is it? We have plenty of cars, and more coming in every day than are going out. Of course, if there is a serious general shortage and we let our equipment be routed over other roads, we will feel the pinch, but so far we are having no trouble, and have plenty of all class of cars." Chief Clerk Rhinehart, however, joined his supplication to the shipper and consignee to take over their share of the responsibility and "get a move on."

So far, the shortage is not seriously affecting the refrigerating service. The northern fruit districts are using a large number of this type of cars just now, but the heavy fruit shipments from the South will not begin for several weeks. There remain to be shipped about 1500 cars of citrus fruit before the first of November, but between the Pacific Fruit Express equipment and the 11,000 refrigerator cars operated by the Santa Fe, no difficulty is anticipated in handling this business.

Mr. Wilson, of the traffic department of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, said that while there is a slight shortage in Pacific fruit cars due to the heavy demand from the North, the deficiency has not assumed serious proportions and will probably be relieved soon with the arrival of additional equipment.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20.—Traction Expert Bion J. Arnold is an optimist. He reports that within the next ten years the traction district will have doubled to 1,400,000 people. The city proper will have 600,000 from whom there would be an income yearly of $16,000,000. As a prophet Mr. Arnold is not afraid to get up in the high figures, and time alone can prove the accuracy of his statements.

To all intents and purposes, the deal is off between the city and the Spring Valley Water Corporation. The voters refused to buy for $35,000,000 a few years ago and they would not now vote to buy for $28,500,000, with 2300 acres of real estate, valued at nearly $5,600,000, taken out. It is a hard problem confronting the administration. The outskirts need water badly and the company will not lay the necessary mains unless rates agreeable to it are fixed.

Supervisor Vogelsang said that he never saw a more contemptible liar than Attorney Daniel O'Connell, who retorted by advising him to look in a mirror. O'Connell retired before the sergeant-at-arms arrived, and bloodshed was avoided. It was a pleasant little dispute about furnishing water to people living in the outskirts. For the sake of general harmony it is hoped that the two gentlemen will hereafter confine their views to legal briefs.

Despite the warm weather, one day registering 94, the hottest of the year, the people as a whole have been good natured. There have been a few murders and suicides, with occasional squabbles among officials, but the heat can hardly be blamed for this. Warm days are always welcome and as they will come, anyway, we will make the best of them.

Not wishing to embarrass the Mayor, Police Commissioner Spiro resigned his office. Mayor Rolph publicly appreciated this and hopes that Spiro's example will be followed by others. There are still a few McCarthy holdovers who would be an ornament to private life.

We are told that insurance rates are higher here than anywhere else in the world. It may or may not be true. Anyway the Mayor wishes the underwriters to reduce the rates and in return is told to lessen the risks. Suffering citizens think this is rough after spending millions on all kinds of fire preventive measures.

Of the twenty-two nations agreeing to exhibit at our fair Japan is the first to select a site. Her flag now floats on several acres in the Presidio which her representatives will have control of for the next few years. We could never put the emblem there, while peace was able to do it. The selection of the site was preceded by feasting, oratory and cannonading, all of which made the affair all the more auspicious.

Alleging that notorious gambling in Chinatown keeps them from renting their property, prominent Chinamen have appealed to the Police Chief to stop it. Sergeant Ross, in charge of that section, says that there has not been gambling there for months. Somebody must be wrong, so Chief White will have the grand jury investigate the matter.

An impetus has been given vocational schools by Meyer Bloomfield of Boston. At a meeting in the St. Francis Hotel he told of how the children of the New England city were taught to be useful in grammar grades. The local Board of Education will adopt some of the views of the visitor. A commission is to be appointed to recommend a scientific basis for the department to proceed on.

Rosa J. was granted a divorce from Herman Kelting on the ground of extreme cruelty. She alleged that her husband allowed her but ten cents a day for household expenses. Judge Graham at once realized that he could not reconcile the couple on a amount like that so he cheerfully allowed the woman her matrimonial freedom. PLUTO.

KNIGHTS OF KHORASSAN.

At a recent dinner given by Royal Vizier W. R. Myers to the members of the Executive Committee of the Dramatic Order, Knights of Khorassan, at the Jonathan Club, preparations were made for a grand ceremonial October 26. The committee comprises Charles Stansbury, who is slated for the highest office at the disposal of the order, Imperial Potentate; John S. Myers, C. S. Whiteside, W. R. Neely, J. Williams and Joseph Kolf. The Hramatic Order, Knights of Khorassan represents the social side of the Knights of Pythias. Members of the order of this city will send a special train to the Imperial palace at Minneapolis.

POLITICAL TIPS.

New York Socialists are excited over the statement that Theodore Roosevelt, before drawing up his "confession of faith" for the Bull Moose convention at Chicago, invited Robert W. Bruere, one of the active Socialists of New York, to confer with him at Oyster Bay. Information reached the Socialist leaders that Mr. Bruere, at the colonel's request, made suggestions for planks in the "confession of faith" and for the subsequent Progressive party platform, and that some of these suggestions were adopted and became a part of the Bull Moose declaration of principles. Wherefore, the Socialists are considerably peeved that one of their number should give away party thunder to be assimilated by a political opponent and put forward as his own. So out of sorts are the Socialists that they have called upon Mr. Bruere for an explanation. Before accepting Mr. Roosevelt's invitation, Mr. Bruere is said to have consulted William D. Haywood, whom the colonel once mentioned as an "undesirable citizen" regarding the propriety of the conference. Haywood assented to the plan and is reported to have pointed out a few suggestions for the "confession of faith" and that these suggestions were among those adopted by the colonel.

Ralph C. Otis, one of the original Roosevelt men in Illinois, who was chairman of the Convention Committee which conducted the Roosevelt national convention last month, has deserted the Progressive party. He says that as the radical ideas put forward by the Progressive party are better understood they are losing favor.

Bishop William A. Quayle of St. Paul, Minn., has the right idea. During an address before the Methodist Episcopal conference of Wisconsin he said incidentally:

"People are going wild over politics," he said. "They are talking of crises. I tell you that when a man is out of a job and wants a job and can't get a job, he takes that time to tell the people, in a loud voice, that there is no other man but himself who is fit for the job—everybody else is a rascal. When you hear a man say that, just laugh at him."

The women suffragists of Michigan were snubbed by Gov. Johnson, and they are mad about it. They asked him to say a word about equal suffrage in his speeches in that State and he refused. The result has been a defiant statement to the effect that the suffragists of Michigan will not be bulldozed by Roosevelt into deserting their Republican and Democratic friends to tie up to the Roosevelt party as the price of the equal suffrage plank in its platform.

The suffragists charge that Roosevelt never was for equal suffrage until he discovered that there might be some California and other western votes for himself in that issue. They score Gov. Hiram Johnson and the third term party as hypocritical in placing a principle in their platform and then declining to stand by it.

Enos Porter of Shelbyville, Ind., one of the most prominent Republicans of the State and a delegate to the Roosevelt convention at Chicago, recently visited the Republican headquarters at Indianapolis and said that after analyzing the situation he had reached the conclusion that President Taft was fairly nominated and it was the duty of Republicans to support him. He has also become a member of the Taft Executive Committee.

Two million dollars have been spent thus far this year by the various political parties and candidates for campaign badges, pins and buttons, according to R. T. Brackett of Chicago, secretary of the National Association of Advertising Novelty Manufacturers in semi-annual convention at the Hotel Sherman.

Sixty million dollars, he said, represents the total amount spent by politicians, business concerns and various organizations for "walking ads."

[Chicago Inter-Ocean:] Mr. Roosevelt is involved in another issue of veracity. He stated on Tuesday that the Governor-elect of Maine had written him that he would declare for the Progressive ticket after the State election. On Wednesday the Governor-elect stated positively that he made no such promise. Any one wishing to believe Mr. Roosevelt is at perfect liberty to do so.

Gov. Wilson's announcement that he will oppose the nomination of James Smith, Jr. for the United States Senate from New Jersey, has stirred up some hot criticism from Smith's friends. Charles H. Gallagher of Trenton, member of the Democratic State Committee, has resigned his membership, and though he worked for the nomination of Wilson two years ago, he now in a public letter berates the Governor politically and attacks his career as president of Princeton, accuses him of selfishness, insincerity and ingratitude, and asks why he was unable to retain the friendship of Grover Cleveland and other men who were conspicuous in the affairs of the nation or the university. In his letter Mr. Gallagher said, in part:

"Now when this same Senator Smith, from whom he willingly accepted the nomination and whom he permitted to finance his election, stands ready to go into the primaries and permit the Democratic voters to pass judgment, Gov. Wilson makes a wanton and vicious assault upon him as an unfit person to be Senator. When Senator Smith was forcing the nomination of Woodrow Wilson for Governor and when Senator Smith was spending $50,000 of his money to elect Woodrow Wilson there was never any question raised as to his fitness; now when Woodrow Wilson thinks it may aid him to appear as a boss buster he coldly turns upon the Senator and brands him unfit."

Prof. Elien Hayes of Wellesley College, the Socialist candidate for secretary of State of Massachusetts, will be the first woman to have her name on the primary ballots in that State. Miss Hayes has been on the verge of a clash once or twice with the trustees of Wellesley because of her utterances, but so far they have made no attempt to keep her out of politics.

The Detroit Free Press, speaking of the Roosevelt bandanna emblem, says it ought to have occurred to the colonel, who is an extensive traveler, that the bandanna flourishes only on the Mexican border. And even there it has been wrested from its legitimate uses and transformed into an ornament for head and neck. It is the common adornment of the Mexican peon, and would be an unpleasant reminder to the American, who prefers a reasonably stable government, of the revolutionary styel of politics affected by our nearest neighbor! But as it might serve to recall the thirty years of the Diaz Presidency, it may be, after all, the most appropriate symbol of the third-term advocates.

It did not take the reconvened Republican State Convention of Maryland over ten minutes to sidetrack all the Roosevelt men who had been previously chosen electors, and substitute eight loyal Republicans whose votes in the electoral college will be cast for Taft and Sherman should they be the choice of the Maryland electorate.

The convention also heartily indorsed the action of the Chicago convention and pledged the earnest support of the Republicans in Maryland to the ticket. The administration of Gov. Goldsborough was also indorsed and commended.

Former United States Senator Nathan B. Scott of West Virginia, who has been a member of the Republican National Committee, says the situation in his State is gradually clearing up and he predicts that Taft and Sherman will carry the State by a substantial majority. Already a majority of the electors have declared in favor of the Taft ticket, and those who have not done so are men of such high character that there is no doubt they will act squarely when the time comes.

William T. Warburton, delegate to the Chicago convention from Maryland, says Roosevelt contemplated bolting before the convention met or the credentials committee had taken action. He said he was at the meeting of the subcommittee of nine on resolutions which was discussing planks to be adopted in the event of Roosevelt or of Taft being nominated.

While this discussion was in progress Gov. Hadley of Missouri entered and said he wanted to be frank with the committee. He advised them not to consider any planks in deference to Col. Roosevelt as he had just come from the colonel, who directed him to say that he was organizing a third party and would therefore not be a candidate before the convention. This said Mr. Warburton, was before the Committee on Credentials had acted on a single contested case.

More than two-thirds of the candidates for Congress of all parties have failed to comply with the law that requires them to file with the proper officers in Washington statements of their campaign expenses. The penalty for violation of the law is a fine of $1000 or imprisonment for one year, or both. A curious feature of the law, however, is that no machinery is created for its enforcement. Apparently no prosecution would be possible unless formal complaint was made, accompanied by specific evidence of violation.

Maj.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, retired, is not very complimentary to Roosevelt and calls him "the most colossal fraud this country has ever produced."

John Hays Hammond says of Roosevelt that he is "a masquerader wearing the coat of Bryan and the stolen trousers of Eugene Debs."

United States Senator George Sutherland of Utah referred to Roosevelt in a speech before the State convention as a "comet, a wandering tramp of the skies, mostly gas, which will disclose its true character when the hot air comes in contact with the solid body of the Republican party."

Hon. Joe F. Sullivan, Mayor of Imboden, Ark., is thought to be the youngest Mayor in the country. He assumed office in May, just after his twenty-first birthday. In his fight for the office against two veteran politicians Mr. Sullivan enlisted the services of twelve pretty school girls, all less than 16 years of age, who served as his campaign managers.

INJURED MAN IN CRASH.

Police Ambulance and Street Car Collide While Victim of Latter Is Rushed to Receiving Hospital.

The police patrol, driven by Chauffeur Cole, collided with street car No. 508, Motorman Doughty, at Seventh and Hill streets yesterday, while racing to the Receiving Hospital with Eddie Meyer, who sustained probably fatal injuries by being knocked off his bicycle by a street car. Neither the car nor the patrol was badly damaged. The motorman was instructed by the chauffeur to appear in Police Court tomorrow morning.

The collision was witnessed by Inspector Osborne of the street car company. The officers assert Doughty attempted to cross the intersection ahead of the patrol, although he saw it coming and must have heard the fast call gong. Inspector Osborne is credited by Cole and Patrolman Whalen with telling them that the motorman was in the fault; that even after he had started he had sufficient time to bring his car to a stop and let the patrol pass.

The Meyer boy lives at No. 140 North Beaudry avenue. He sustained a possible fracture of the skull and concussion of the brain. A Central avenue car struck his wheel while he was riding between the tracks.

Quiet Charity.

SOCIETY WOMEN WORK FOR A GOOD CAUSE.

WHILE society maids and matrons have been perfecting plans for a winter season that will outshine the glories of any previous year, they have also been occupying their minds with more serious things. Again they will clasp hands with charity and many families will be made happy this winter through the efforts of the Assistance League.

The first week in December a carnival will be given under its auspices in Shrine Auditorium and even the intense excitement and enthusiasm manifested at the Kirmess two years ago is expected to be eclipsed in this spectacular presentation. Definite arrangements will be made at a meeting to be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, the second Tuesday in October.

During the last six years help has been given to many worthy families. A meeting is held each month for officers and directors and every three months an open meeting is a feature. At this time an outline of the work is given. Cases reported to the members are investigated and help is freely given. This organization does not conflict with the Associated Charities, as the cases are not those which the charities are aiding.

The league has a membership of 150, which includes the officers and directors, who are: Mrs. Randolph Huntington Miner, president; Mrs. Joseph Sartori, vice-president; Mrs. James M. Cockins, treasurer; and Mrs. Frank Griffith, secretary. The directors are Mrs. W. G. Kerckhoff, Mrs. Allan Balch, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Jaro von Schmidt, Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Granville MacGowan, Mrs. William May Garland, Mrs. Earnest A. Bryant, Mrs. Harry B. Ainsworth, Mrs. M. Pulling Two Ways.

"WET" OR "DRY" FIGHT HOT IN SAN PEDRO.

THE proposal of the creation of a "dry" zone at San Pedro, asked for on the basis that it would create greater efficiency among workmen on harbor development and secure more value to the city in its expenditure of the $3,000,000 bonds voted for harbor improvements, has stirred up a merry little war on the waterfront between those who are committed to the support of the proposition and those who are opposed to a change in the saloon situation. One thing is certain; San Pedro citizens will storm the Council chamber at the public hearing set for next Tuesday. The fight is hot.

The advocates of the saloons are led as usual by Luke Kelly, who has been long known as king of the waterfront saloons. Kelly has been in San Pedro fifteen years and has a large personal following on the front. In the palmy days when Happy Valley flourished and the town was wide open, Luke Kelly operated a saloon, roulette wheel and gambling-house on Front street. He is reputed to have cleaned up $20,000 from the gambling-house in one year, which profits he invested in real estate. Now he is wealthy. Backed by the brewery interests of Los Angeles and liberal himself whenever the saloon interests are attacked, Kelly is always called upon to lead the fight. It is believed a majority of the downtown San Pedro business houses are opposing the creation of a "dry" zone. Many professional and business men appeared at the first meeting before the Public Welfare Committee in opposition.

In the days of the old regime in San Pedro, before consolidation, Kelly was the local political boss and still retains much of his former prestige among the saloon interests.

Petitions were circulated the past week by those who do not favor a change, and the water front was combed for signatures. Over 1000 names were obtained, but the advocates of the "dry" zone declare several hundred of the signatures are not those of residents of San Pedro, but seafaring men and others.

Yesterday counter-petitions were circulated by those favoring the establishment of a "dry" zone, setting up as an argument that the saloons are taking from the wage earnings of men employed on the water front between $800 and $1000 a day, the greater part of which would go toward educating and bettering the condition of the families of those employed if the saloons were wiped out of existence. The further contention is made that the presence of ten saloons within two short blocks on Front street creates an unfavorable first impression on visitors who go to San Pedro and thereby prevents them from locating there and taking their families there to reside. It is pointed out that the postal receipts of Long Beach, a few miles away, which is "dry," are in excess of $75,000, while those of San Pedro, which is "wet" are only about $15,000. This disparagement in growth of the two towns is blamed by the proponents of a "dry" zone upon the local saloons and the internal conditions created by their presence.

On the other hand, most of the San Pedro business houses are much opposed to closing the saloons and state that if the step is taken by the City Council it will result in the monthly loss of thousands of dollars to them and will completely demoralize business in San Pedro.

HELD UP AND ROBBED.

Two Crimes Committed on Friday Night Attributed by Police to Same Two Bandits.

James F. Stone, No. 1422 East Fifteenth street, a milk wagon driver, was held up by two men with revolvers in the glare of a street-car headlight early yesterday morning near Seventh street and Golden avenue. He was robbed of $6, a gold watch and chain and a Masonic charm, according to a report he has made to the police.

These men are suspected by the detectives of holding up W. J. Brown, No. 118 East Fifth street, on Pico near Carr street. He was relieved of $4.50. After his pockets had been rifled, one of them said to him:

"Turn around and walk in front of us. If you make an outcry or attempt to run we'll kill you."

While one of the highwaymen held a revolver pointed at Brown's back, they walked him to the corner of Fifteenth street and Grand avenue, where he was told to "beat it." Brown told the detectives yesterday that while walking from Pico and Carr to the intersection where he was released, the trio did not pass a pedestrian.

The men who robbed Stone waited for him in the shadow of a tree until he returned to his wagon after delivering a bottle of milk. Just as they pointed their guns in his face, a car approached, the headlight illuminating the street.

"Jump into that doorway, and be quick about it," commanded one of the men of Stone, urging him forward by poking him in the ribs with a gun.

After the car had passed, and the street became dark, the men quickly searched Stone and ordered him to get on his wagon and drive away.

The highwaymen were described by Stone and Brown to have been about 22 years old, five feet seven inches in height, slim build, and wore dark suits of clothes. One wore a dark hat and was smooth shaven. The other had on a blue shirt and a gray cap under a soft dark hat.

PROTECTING PEDESTRIANS.

Motor Trucks Ordered to Slow Down at Street Crossings—Exhausts Cause Fine of Motorcyclist.

Auto truck drivers, even though keeping within the speed limits, must slow down at street intersections. Orders to that effect were issued by Lieut. Butler, in charge of the traffic squad, following an investigation, which convinced him that the chauffeurs of trucks are growing too careless for public safety. Acting upon Lieut. Butler's orders, Motorcycle Officers Gardner and Krenschmabel arrested D. H. Willard, No. 812 West Fourth street; H. Redman and C. C. Quian, No. 963 East Thirty-third street, for running over the Eleventh street and Grand avenue intersection at about twenty miles an hour. Willard pleaded guilty before Police Judge Williams yesterday and was fined $20. The other men will be arraigned Tuesday morning.

R. Darnell, No. 1030 Macy street, and Jerry O'Sullivan, No. 612 Kingston road, were fined $25 or twenty-five days for exceeding the speed limits on West Seventh and South Figueroa streets.

Fines of $2 each were paid by the following motorcycle drivers for having their mufflers open: W. Scott, No. 1404 East Forty-ninth street; C. Eckhart, No. 2379 West Twenty-first street, and F. McBride, No. 415 Villa street. R. H. Briggs, No. 1001 East Forty-seventh street, was fined $3 for driving his motorcycle on the wrong side of the street.

NO CHANCE FOR LAND.

That Open for Filing Tomorrow in the Imperial Valley Already Taken up by Settlers.

Persons on the lookout for government land should not lay the flattering unction to their souls that there will be a grand opportunity to get a ranch tomorrow at the local land office, when under an order issued by the Secretary of the Interior four townships located in the north end of the Imperial Valley, northwest of Brawley and in the vicinity of the Salton Sea, will be opened to filing. The same land was open to settlement August 23, and scores of entrymen have rushed into the valley.

Following the act of Congress of June 17, 1902, the land was withdrawn from public entry April 16, 1909. Previous to the passage of the act upon reports of government engineers setting forth the feasibility of the project, four townships were withdrawn to be used for a series of canals carrying the water from the Colorado River into the territory for irrigation puposes. At that time the land had been settled on, and as a matter of fact but little of it was affected by the order.

Subsequent investigations showed that the project was not tenable for the time being, on account of its cost and the inability to get Congress interested. It was then concluded that if the entrymen wanted water they would have to get it from the Imperial Valley Water Company.

Under the provisions of the executive order restoring the land to entry, it was provided that it would be open for settlement August 23, and for filing September 23—tomorrow. Many more settlers went there, and under the law they will have the first right to the places they have selected.

So, between those who were on the land when it was withdrawn and those who have gone there within the past month, it is not expected there will be any surplus land tomorrow. An impression has gone out among prospective settlers that a large area of public land is to be opened to settlement, but such is not the case.

HOT SHOT FOR ROOSEVELT FROM LIPS OF COMMONER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BUTTE (Mont.) Sept. 21.—William J. Bryan closed last night his campaign trip through Montana at a large meeting in a local theater. The trip from Bozeman, where he spoke this afternoon, to Butte, was interrupted by platform speeches at every stop. Mr. Bryan will leave tomorrow for a visit to Idaho.

Mr. Bryan, throughout his campaigning trip through Montana, repeatedly attacked the stand of Col. Roosevelt on the trust question. Referring to Col. Roosevelt, he said:

"I say to you with deliberation and with emphasis that no man in the history of this nation has ever taken a position on the trust question so hostile to the safety and welfare of the American people.

CONTROLLED BY TRUSTS.

"He says in his platform and in his speeches that we ought not to try to prevent monopolies, but we should just control them. I remind you that for seven and one-half years he was President and he not only did not control the trusts, but the trusts controlled him. I remind you that while he was President, the steel trust went to him, and while a panic was on, threatened and terrorized him into consenting to the absorption of its largest rival.

FAVORITE OF STEEL TRUST.

"When he went out of office, there were vastly more trusts than when he went in. The steel trust that was organized in 1901 with $700,000,000 of water in its stock, has stayed there and he never has raised his hand to squeeze the water out, nor said one word to protect the people from the exactions of that great monster. Now, he is in favor of the national incorporation of these great industries, the very thing that Mr. Perkins has been advocating for many years, and that Mr. Archbold has been advocating for many years.

"Mr. Roosevelt stands today for the very doctrines that the trusts have demanded, viz., that they shall be rid of the State regulation and relieved from the embezzlement of legislative action. Mr. Roosevelt wants to center the power at Washington. After admitting that the trust is here to stay, he will allow it to go on and to spread and grow and he would strike down the power of the State to control it, and he would take from Congress and the courts the power and put it in a bureau to be appointed by the President.

THE RIGHT HAND MAN.

"I cannot understand how honest and well-meaning men, who have no interest whatever in these private monopolies, I cannot understand how they can see Mr. Perkins, a director of the steel trust and manager of the harvester trust, the chief contributor to Mr. Roosevelt's campaign and the adviser he most relies upon; how you can see him direct this campaign and not understand he would not be there if Mr. Roosevelt were taking the people's side on this trust question."

Figures in Japan's Latest Progressive Step.

R. R. Young, American aeroplane agent, who sold to the Mikado the first complement of war machines which that government possesses, and his wife, who accompanied him to the land of the crysanthemum and was entertained in royal fashion by the nobility of the Nipponese empire. A small portion of the crowd of interested orientals, witnessing for the first time in the history of Japan an aviation meet held under government supervision, and a hydroplane leaving the waters of Tokio harbor between long lines of sampans and junks.

His Record.

PROVES WOODROW WILSON UNFRIENDLY TO WORKERS.

[The Labor World.]

IT HAS been pointed that by his writings and lectures that Gov. Wilson has proved himself to be an enemy of trades-unionism.

Now let us take Gov. Wilson and protection. Nothing has contributed more to the high standard of living of the American wage workers and to the country's industrial greatness, than has protection. This is an undoubted fact among intelligent and unbiased people. Wilson is the enemy of protection; he is a free trader and a theoretical one at that. This is the very worst kind of free trader, for these theoretical opinions are formed and developed far from the practical affairs of life; formed amid the environments of wealth and aristocracy; formed minus anything like a practical knowledge of the real operations of daily industrial life and actual business enterprise; formed merely by learning human being alone and figuring out abstractedly imaginary theories that utterly collapse when brought in contact with actual facts. Such a free trader is Wilson.

But, Gov. Wilson himself, completely kills his own free trade argument and produces one of the strongest reasons for protection to American labor and industry we have yet seen or heard. A short time ago in a speech extolling free trade and asserting that American labor needed no protection against foreign competition and that, without protection we could soon have all the markets in the world for our produce, he denounced protection. Now, we will quote Gov. Wilson himself as a conclusive refutation of his own statement.

In 1902, Dr. Wilson wrote his best work, "A History of the American People." In discussing the large numbers of Chinese arriving in this country and menacing American labor on page 185 of volume five of the history just named he says: "Caucasian laborers could not compete, with the Chinese, could not live upon a handful of rice and work for a pittance, and found themselves being steadily crowded out from occupations by thrifty, skilful orientals, who with their yellow skin and strange debasing habits of life, seemed to their fellows hardly men at all, but evil spirits, rather."

There was never so strong an argument in favor of protection to American labor than the foregoing. Mark you, it is Wilson's own argument; it is not ours; it is not urged by a protectionist, but by a shadowy theoretical free trader.

We want to know if American labor cannot successfully compete against Chinese labor in the United States, how in the name of common sense is it going to hold its own against foreign labor in the latter's own territory; or against products of foreigners made in the latter's own country and shipped here, if there is no protection to our labor and its high standard of living, and wages and social comfort? Let Dr. Wilson answer himself. If the Chinese, as he says, can beat us on our own tract or field, surely they can send their home-made goods home and smother us if there is no protection.

But, we will quote again from Dr. Wilson, the author, free trader and anti-trade unionist. It is a fact of history and we all know that when the Democrats were last in power in this country, with Cleveland at the head of affairs, they reduced the tariff, reduced it to a most disastrous extent. There came a fearful condition of things throughout the country; there was disaster and abject squalor in every direction. We are not going to describe it. We will quote the versatile doctor. On pages 235 and 236, volume five, of "A History of the American People," he writes: "A great poverty and depression had come upon the western mining regions and upon the agricultural regions of the West and South. Prices had fallen. Men of the poorer sort were idle everywhere, and filled with a sort of despair. All the large cities and manufacturing towns teemed with unemployed workingmen who were with the utmost difficulty kept from starvation by the systematic efforts of organized charity. In many cities public works were undertaken upon an extensive scale to give them employment."

Wage workers of the United States, do you thoroughly comprehend the foregoing? It is a faithful record by a Democrat and free trader, of the terrible conditions of things as a result of the last Democratic attempt to reach free trade. Gov. Wilson, astounding as it may appear, wants to renew a policy that only about sixteen years ago brought disaster and abject starvation on the land.

But we will yet make another quotation from Dr. Wilson's "A History of the American People" and it will tell wage-workers the fact that the return of the Republican party and protection made the most wonderful transformation in industrial and business conditions that has been recorded in modern history. On page 265, volume five, of Dr. Wilson's history, he says: "Not until the very year, 1897, when the new Republican administration came in, did the crisis seem past. The country had at last built its railway and manufacturing systems up, had at last got ready to come out of its debts, command foreign markets with something more than foodstuffs and make for itself a place of mastery."

Gov. Wilson, now the free-trade candidate for the Presidency of the country, wrote the foregoing encomium on the Republican policy of protection.

Fellow free-traders of Gov. Wilson would have us believe that he is the ideal man of charity and that he is the essence of cosmopolitanism. He may appear so now, but this only makes him out to be Peckaniffian. On pages 212 and 213, volume five, of his history already quoted from and written in 1902, appears the following:

"Now there came multitudes of men from the lowest class from the south of Italy and men of the meaner sort out of Hungary and Poland, men out of the ranks where there was neither skill nor energy nor any initiative of quick intelligence; and they came in numbers which increased from year to year, as if the countries of the south of Europe were disburdening themselves of the more sordid and hapless elements of their population. The people of the Pacific Coast have clamored these many years against the admission of the immigrants out of China, and in May, 1892, got at last what they wanted—a Federal statute which practically excluded from the United States all the Chinese who had not already acquired the right of residence; and yet the Chinese were more to be desired, as workmen if not as citizens, than most of the coarse crew that came crowding in every year at the eastern ports."

The foregoing simply means that Gov. Wilson, if he had his way, would have more Chinamen in the United States than Italians, or the sons of Hungary and Poland. It apparently makes no difference to him that Chinamen do not become citizens, and that Poles, Hungarians and Italians do, taking part in public affairs, holding office, educating and Americanizing their children, and becoming a real part of the community. He does not take note of the fact that various denominations, civic associations and social organizations for years have recognized these new elements as representing potentialities of importance and permanent value to the State. To him they are merely a "coarse crew."

All of the foregoing unerringly lead to only one conclusion; that is that labor organized or unorganized cannot look upon Woodrow Wilson as a friend. The only settled convictions he seems to hold on anything are those relating to wage-workers, and he even does not class their leaders as thoughtful men—they are "mere labor agitators" (see page 266, volume five, "A History of the American People."). His attitude toward labor is one of contempt and opposition to their methods of self-protection. His entire "Confession of Faith" on this point shows him to be utterly unsafe and unfit to faithfully deal with the interests of labor. So far as the practical affairs of life are concerned he is not in any sense original, and this is the reason he has ever been influenced by the opinions of others and ever and anon changing his views on every question he has advocated. In stability he is similar to the jellyfish, he has none. He floats with the current and is ready at all times to "be all things to all men" and trim his sails to any kind of breeze that promises to bring him aid in the way of votes. Such as he when once safely within the haven readily make known their perfidy and charlatanism.

Wage-workers of the United States should not vote for Woodrow Wilson to become President of the country. He is not their friend.

CALIFORNIA'S VOTE.

Figures Just Compiled Show That More than Eleven Thousand Names Are Required for Petitions.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 21.—As a result of the telegrams James Cremin, election expert in Secretary of State Jordan's office, sent to all the county clerks, the total vote of the State at the 1910 general election was compiled today, showing that 392,893 ballots were cast.

Under the 8 per cent. clause in the primary law, therefore, 11,817 names will have to be obtained for the petitions to be circulated for the thirteen Presidential electors to be placed upon the ballot by petition.

The Cousins Shoe
FOR DISCRIMINATING WOMEN

Fall Styles Ready

THE "COUSINS" TRADE-MARK is an assurance of honest effort to give to the woman who wears a Cousins Shoe the same satisfaction that is felt by the Organization which makes it, and of a desire to merit the increasing good will of the wearer by putting into each shoe the maximum of quality. A characteristic of Cousins Shoes is their noticeable elegance of style—combining the exquisite in design with a highly developed faculty for forecasting changes in fashion, and the ability to embody these qualities in the finished product. Cousins Autumn Styles will be accepted as authentic by women everywhere. They represent the extent of bootmaking ability; and the five or six dollars which they cost is an investment that secures the utmost luxury in footwear. Cousins boots which sell at four dollars, and four-fifty, have the advantage of methods in manufacture which have made the finer grades famous.

Boots at $3.50, $4, $4.50, $5, and up to $6.50

The broad variety of smart boot styles shown this season affords an almost unexampled opportunity for the exercise of individual taste in the selection of one's footwear. The prevailing mode in boot toppings is harmony, or contrast, with the color scheme of the gown worn. These toppings are shown in many different effects—Covert Cloths of diagonal weave, Chevron stripes, and also in suedes. Suede boots in black, grays of several shades, and browns, are meeting with greater favor than for many seasons past. There is a decided tendency for the revival of lace boots. This tendency is marked in the prevailing call for English Lace Boots, with low heels and short tops—a rather mannish style which is exceedingly smart. There has never been a season when we have had such a tremendous stock of moderate price footwear as now. The showing embraces all the new style ideas that are worth while, including many pleasing innovations.

HER WEALTH IS HER FRIENDS.

POET'S LOSS REVEALS HOST OF HELPING HANDS.

Neighbors Propose to Rebuild Casa of the Clouds for Courageous Woman Who Lost Home of Her Own Building by Fire—Has Anyone the Lumber?

Has any lover of humanity enough spare lumber to build a modest bungalow for one? Or, lacking the lumber, does any philanthropist hereabouts feel inclined to donate the cost of such a dwelling to one who has the stamina to smile through adversity and the faith to weave again her nest on the ashes of one burned down?

It is for such a person that the neighborhors of Mrs. Marguerite Field, cloud dweller, writer, doer of deeds, are searching. Following the burning of Mrs. Field's home, "The Crest," Friday afternoon, her neighbors and admirers have determined to see her in a new one as soon as may be.

Hardly were the coals cooled that marked the spot where Mrs. Field's erie, her own handiwork, had stood before many were offering the helping hand of friendship. They admired her courageous smile. They applauded her fortitude.

"I shall rebuild as soon as I can," she said.

It was a band of little girls who formed a bucket brigade and poured water on the embers when firemen found it impossible to reach the crest of the hill on Elysian Heights where the castle of the air stood. And it was a band of girls and men and women who, a few hours later, got together and determined to make the way easier for Mrs. Field. Such a fine Spartan spirit, they said, is deserving of the utmost encouragement.

Carpenters came forward with an offer of their services. A number have signified their willingness to give whatever of their time may be required to rear another casa of the clouds for the poet-business woman, who sells milk with the same grace that she writes verses.

Helping hands there are a-plenty. Neighbors can see their way clear to furnishing whatever shall be required except the lumber. Unfortunately, none of them owns a lumber yard. Mrs. Field asks nothing, but they have taken it on themselves to ask for her. Will somebody donate the lumber for a new home for the courageous soul who loves the blue skies and the fairy view that greets the eye from the ruins of "The Crest?"

BEAUTY HINTS FOR THE MEN.

Rotund Angelenos Training to Reduce Lines.

Too Much Inglenook Quite De Trop Just Now.

Modern Apollo Deviates from Greek Ideal.

The generously-accepted version—by men—that vanity is an exclusive heritage of the fair sex is receiving a rude jolt at the hands of Los Angeles business and professional men. Physical culture experts declare that a large proportion of widely known citizens, of varying degrees of rotundity, are resorting to heroic measures in an effort to arrive more nearly at that state of physical perfection almost uniformly attained by the ancient Greeks.

Concerted activity among otherwise staid and dignified citizens is said to date from a recent physical examination of approximately 500 local business men, by Albert Treloar, physical director of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, one of the most widely-known authorities in the country. To the consternation of these distinguished citizens, Treloar told them that increasing prosperity, with its attendant luxuries and tendency to embonoint, was playing havoc with supposedly Apollo-like forms—in plain unvarnished language, they were becoming fat.

Having in mind the time-honored adage that "nobody loves a fat man," and being assured by Treloar that there "is no royal road" to physical fitness, the male population of Los Angeles immediately sallied forth in search of treadmills, barrels, rolling-pins, and sundry other flesh-reducing devices calculated to remove the threatened stain from the escutcheon of their physical manhood—also, their fat.

WHERE LEAST EXPECTED.

The movement is said to have spread with startling rapidity. Suburban homes have assumed the likeness of gymnasiums where each day stately matrons are being driven frantic by the unheard of antics of their erstwhile dignified spouses. Men who heretofore have installed electric fans in their limousines and attired themselves in the most comfortable clothing, may now be seen enveloped in heavy sweaters, jogging along a dusty country road or sweltering over self-inflicted Marathons on home-made treadmills.

"The average Los Angeles business or professional man," Treloar said, "is either too fat or too lean. The vast majority, of course, are too fat. There is one characteristic, however, which ought not to be overlooked. The California man, in these walks of life, has a distinct advantage over his eastern brother. He gets more outdoor exercise and consequently is usually in better physical condition.

"Many persons gain the erroneous idea that because he or she is taller or shorter than the average, it is impossible to become physically perfect. A physically perfect man or woman does not necessarily measure up to the ideal standard, if indeed there can be said to be an ideal standard. Any person in ordinary health may become approximately physically perfect, that is, perfect in physical proportions. Any business or professional man whose pursuits do not permit him the proper amount of exercise, will ordinarily become too fat. He will remain in that condition only so long as he wills, for it is within his own power, by the proper application of scientific principles, to attain physical perfection."

"There are numerous methods," Treloar said, "of determining the various proportions. For instance, in most physically perfect men the length of the little finger will be found to be one-nineteenth of the total height. The modern ideal of physical manhood is slightly heavier and more compact than was the old Greek ideal. The upper arm especially of the modern athlete is much better developed.

"The average height of the American man is 5ft. 7½in., with a chest measurement of 33½ inches. Women, as a rule, come closer to the ideal figure in all particulars, except the waist."

The most noticeable defect among Los Angeles men, aside from the tendency toward rotundity, according to Treloar, is the pronounced lack of muscular development in the lower back. The abdominal muscles of the average business man also are comparatively little developed, he says.

"The unusual activity among business and professional men of this city is not so remarkable," Treloar said, "when one considers that three months of faithful application and conscientious effort will oftentimes double a man's strength or take off as much as fifty pounds of excess weight."

TABLE TO STUDY.

Commenting on physical perfection and the ideals of various races and individuals, Treloar said the following table represents the popularly accepted proportion for adult men:

Height.	Weight. Lbs.	Neck. Ins.	Chest. Ins.	Biceps. Ins.	Fore-arm. in.	Waist. in.	Thighs. in.	Calves.

AFTER-BATTLE SERVANT.

Distinguished Surgeon of the Civil War Lives Here—His Services Important as Those Who Fought.

A man of remarkable experience in the Civil War who escaped all notoriety during the recent encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic is Dr. Dudley W. Stewart, who owns a valuable business block at Ninth and Hoover streets and has lived here twenty of his twenty-five years in California.

One of the youngest surgeons in the army, Dr. Stewart was also one of the most distinguished. He was in Mercy Hospital, Chicago, when the first call came for troops, and although only 23 years of age, he was recommended by the State Medical Board for the work of organizing the hospitals of Camp Butler at Springfield, where the ten original Illinois regiments were first mobilized. The manner in which he brought order out of the hospital chaos speedily won the confidence of the staff. When he arrived he found cases of typhoid, measles and injuries occupying the same ward and his first work was to get his patients properly separated. He also found that not one of the six surgeons in camp had any idea of discipline or hospital order, and he sent all to their quarters and hunted through the entire division until he found a private in the ranks who had had actual hospital experience. With this man he was able to do the work of a dozen untrained men, and the other surgeons took the cue and soon formed a fine working staff.

When the troops went to the field Dr. Stewart accepted the title of assistant surgeon. After a few weeks with the Thirty-eighth Illinois he was placed in charge of the post at Pilot Knob, Mo. Later, he was the surgeon in charge of one division of the field after the Battle of Corinth. There the dead and wounded completely filled a cotton depot 500 feet long. His first service was under Gen. Grant and he received his last army pay from Gen. Garfield. After two years of almost ceaseless work he left the army and went to Iowa, where he practiced at Davenport, Ottumwa and Des Moines. At the latter city he served under Cleveland's administration as Customs Collector for the Second District. He married at Ft. Madison, Miss Josephine R. Reeves, forty-nine years ago, and they are looking forward to the celebration of their golden wedding in this city early next September.

HOMES FOR WOMEN.

Those Who Occupy Them the Most of the Time Should Have the Fixtures Suited to Their Convenience.

[Philadelphia Record:] Homes are mostly for women.

They are managed chiefly by women, lived in a longer time by women and cared for almost entirely by women.

I am sure no one will deny these facts.

Why, then, is not more attention paid to woman and her convenience in the building of homes and the manufacture of household furnishings?

A friend of mine built a house. By her thrift she helped her husband earn and save the money for it, and then, because he was so much absorbed in his business, she was given the chief charge of building the new home. And being an original women she did not feel obliged to build it exactly as men had built the thousands of other homes in her city. Instead she incorporated into it innumerable little features which made it a better place for women to live and work in than the average house.

For instance, she had a big linen closet upstairs in which are several long drawers long enough to hold a skirt laid out at full length. Any woman will appreciate the convenience of that. And how easily such an arrangement might be made in almost any house. But how seldom it is.

Again, this woman has the sink built several inches higher than the average sink. "What is the need," she says, "of having a sink so low that I have to stoop to do my work there, when it costs no more to build it at a comfortable height?"

Another thing on which this woman insisted was that the architect should give her a room downstairs for a sewing room. It is just a wee bit of a room with only space for a sewing machine, a chest of drawers, a table and a chair or two, and a big window, with a very pleasant prospect, but the saving of trips over the stairs or in clutter in the big living-room is enormous.

These are some of the ways in which one bright woman who was given a chance improved on masculine architecture. Women everywhere ought to be given more to say about homebuilding and ought to exert themselves to think and say and act more than they do on this very important subject.

And the result would be not only to make their own individual homes better places for women to live and work in, but to improve the pattern of the ready-made homes which are being man-built by the thousand all over this country.

Nor should woman stop at influencing architecture; she should also do all she can to influence manufacture in so far as it touches her. For instance, I am appalled at the heavy teakettles which are sold to foolish women, who daily overtax their strength in lifting them. Women ought to put an end to the manufacture of such articles by refusing to buy them.

Again, look at the difference in labor between making a high or low bed. There is no excuse for these back-breaking low beds. A bed has to be made as well as slept in, and manufacturers should remember that, and when they fail to, should be taught a lesson.

They tell us that the American man will give the American woman anything at all she wants to ask for.

Let's learn to ask for houses and household furnishings that shall be more efficient from a feminine point of view.

At last, a real does-what-it-says corn cure. Nothing like it has ever been known.

Every man and woman who has corns, callouses, warts or bunions, ought to try "Gets-It" at once and see how marvelously it works. Quit shaving spur corn with a razor. You may draw blood and cause blood poisoning.

"GETS-IT" is remarkable because it never irritates or turns the true flesh sore or raw. It can't. It is as safe as water. Stockings won't stick to it. Corn pains stop. The corn or callous shrivels up, comes out. Blessed relief!

FERRIS AS A PLAY PRODUCER.

MEMORIES OF GOOD OLD AUDITORIUM DAYS.

Wonderful Hinged Palms of "Cleopatra's" Storm—Magic of "Parsifal"—Oriental Imagery of "Holy City" Largely Responsible for Its Phenomenal Success.

BY JULIAN JOHNSON.

The star Ferris is blazing again in the heavens of production.

It is a fitful star; a variable one, but those who saw it of yore will remember that it was very bright.

Dick Ferris's baseball play setting will be seen tomorrow at the Lyceum. The play itself is by Sedley Brown. To Richard has been entrusted the task of turning Mr. Brown's script into a living semblance of our great American game.

I don't know how Mr. Brown's piece will be. I have, sectarianly, if not religiously, refused to hear any readings. I wanted to save my pleasure, or else my disappointment, for one big puff. I don't even know how Mr. Ferris's surrounding will appear. I have heard that they have an electrical invention of considerable complication and ingenuity, supposed to show the course of a game in light—beyond that?

But incidentally I am reminded of some of the Ferris productions of other days at the Auditorium. They were the biggest of their sort.

There was the well-remembered production of "Cleopatra," in which his cycloramas actually sembled the brass sky and burning sun of the desert, with all of the desert's perspective, its imagery, its wonderful blues and bronzes. What a sandstorm raged through the flies during that realistic environment of Sardou's tale! The great palm trees, upbearing their cool fronts to a canvas zenith, were crashed upon by a tidal wave of wind, torn and bent to the earth in an absolute tornado. And yet there was no tornado; no wind except that wound out by a perspiring youth on the barrel-shaped wind machine, and blown, in little puffs of dust by an electric fan. The cause of the effect was simply this: upon one side of the palms was a floor-hinge and a string leading to a hand just beyond the wings; on the other side, a spring. The palms could be pulled to the floor—to the ground if you will; the spring immediately drew them back.

This "Cleopatra" production featured Florence Stone as Cleopatra and Joe Kilgour as Marc Antony. Poor Joe! He was never cut out for a Roman lover, and his stateliness in Antony's most impassion scenes caused the Ready Richard to remark: "If he'd been Caesar, he'd have gone through Gaul with a monocle!" But environment is a great deal. Joe was certainly unhappy in the cyclopean melodramas of Victorien the Great, yet the very next season he went East and made a stupendous success as Brockton, in "The Easiest Way." He had found himself at last. That was all.

"The Sign of the Cross," if I'm not mistaken, was another Ferris splendor at the Auditorium. I remember that Florence Barker, now one of the most famous motion-picture stars in the world, played a martyred boy in it, to the accompaniment of many wet eyes in front.

Then there was "Parsifal," with the stupendous scenery that would have done credit to the Metropolitan Operahouse. The dawn in the forest of the Grail I have never seen surpassed as an enchanting, awe-inspiring spectacle that seemed to have come direct from nature. Klingsor's Castle, too, was a majestic picture, with the mystic materialization of Kundry, in the person of Florence Stone.

"Fedora" served to introduce Andrew Robson, a somewhat less stately love-maker than Kilgour, and also gave local audiences a chance to see Sardou in a different vein of melodramatic writing; for whereas most of his other pieces of intense nature were either ancient or medieval in setting, "Fedora" is of modern Russia, and tells a modern story of politics and love.

One after another, Ferris incarnated the remaining Sardou pieces in magnificent form.

There were "Theodora," "The Sorceress" and "Gismonda."

All of these were wonderfully presented, considering the resources at hand, and there was a great deal of semblance to nature in the scenery and the outdoor properties.

I have always believed Dick Ferris one of the greatest masters of stage lighting in the business, and I still stick to that belief. Lighting is not a matter of candle-power, tungsten lamps or batteries of light and heavy spots. Real lighting effect is like the real effects in painting—applied with mind, not by mechanics. So Dick Ferris's lighting of the big Auditorium stage, which reached its apotheosis in "Parsifal," reminds me somewhat of Robert Brunton's great feat of lighting a body of water in "The Conjuror's House"—he secured the perfect semblance of a sun-kissed mountain lake by a sixteen-candle-power incandescent and an inverted dishpan tilted at just the proper angle.

"The Holy City," one of the greatest successes of successes, owed a large part of its triumph to its producer's well-nigh perfect simulation of the smiling skies, flat-topped houses and general material impedimenta of ancient Palestine.

An Indiscriminate Charmer.

She's slim of form and fair of face,
Possessed of every charm and grace,
And as each morn I pass her place
She smiles at me
Bewitchingly!

And, oh! the stunning clothes she wears!
Each week she in new garb appears.
It seems that no expense she spares
To please my eye
As I pass by.

Alas! she does not keep her smiles
For me alone. Her witching wiles
Are for the giddy throng that files
Along the way,
From day to day.

Yet, after all, 'tis naught to me
That she expends so lavishly
Her smiles on all; because, you see,
She's in a big shop front displayed—
Of wax she's made!

The Week.

"POMANDER WALK" REOPENS MASON.

LONG-DELAYED "BARBARAZA" TO BE SEEN AT BURBANK.

Ferris Production of Baseball Play at Lyceum—Continuances of "The Gamblers" and Popular Rainey Pictures—Vaudeville and Other Announcements.

"Owing to its remoteness and seclusion, the Walk is the refuge of highly genteel company. It has its own public opinion; its own standard of respectability, and a harmless old gentleman, taking the air in the afternoon and losing himself in its precincts, has been known to be warned off as a trespasser."

This passage from the introduction of Louis N. Parker's scenario to his latest comedy, "Pomander Walk," gives a vague picture of the quaint setting of the play. The Liebler company, who are now, the largest theatrical producers in America, are sending to Los Angeles to open the regular season at the Mason Operahouse, on next Monday evening, this beautiful play of "Pomander Walk," with the all-English star cast that has made the attraction famous wherever presented.

The initial engagement that will set going the regular local theatrical season, begins on Monday evening next, and will last throughout the week, with matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. Manager Wyatt remarked yesterday that his bookings throughout the season are of unusually high order, and that "Pomander Walk" will set the pace for class and quality.

"Pomander Walk" is a crescent of five houses built in the reign of Queen Anne, and faces the River Thames. "Pomander Walk" is therefore on the outskirts of London, and there, in the year 1805, some very remarkable things happened, much to the amazement, consternation and ultimate joy of the dozen odd people who dwelt there at the time. It is this place and these people that concern Mr. Parker in his delightful little play.

The character of "Pomander Walk" is so widely different from the everyday drama that its novelty has proved interesting and refreshing. There are no loud climaxes, no scandals, no attempted murders, no social or municipal rottenness to expose, not even a very exciting incident, but the quiet little story runs along as quietly as does the pretty river upon whose bank the five little cottages composing the Walk are built, and it is due as much to the fine and experienced abilities of the well-seasoned English cast of players as to the skill and quaint conception of the author that such universal success has been achieved. It has been noticeable that the people who most enjoy "Pomander Walk" are the ones who are students and admirers of Dickens's and Thackeray's works. Naturally, people of culture and refinement admire most a play in which these characters are uppermost.

The players who are most prominent in the cast of "Pomander Walk" are as follows: T. Gideon Warren, Albert Gran, Reginald Dance, Leonard Craske, T. Wygney Percyval, Stanley Lathbury, Stella de Marney, Marie Burke, Viola Finney, Maggie Holloway Fisher and Winifred Fraser.

A week later, opening Monday, September 30, will come James K. Hackett, with an admirable company, presenting here for the first time the dramatization of David Graham Phillips's great story, "The Grain of Dust."

Burbank.

The most interesting and important offering of the new week on the local stages is the return to the Burbank Theater this afternoon of the brilliant young star, Laurette Taylor, and the popular Burbank leading man, Forrest Stanley, in J. Hartley Manners's new play, "Barbaraza."

"Barbaraza" was announced for its first presentation on any stage during Miss Taylor's previous engagement at the Main-street playhouse, but was not given at the time owing to the tremendous success of "Peg o' My Heart." The play was recently given in its first presentation by Miss Taylor, Mr. Stanley and the Alcazar company in San Francisco, when it scored a pronounced success, winning the most enthusiastic critical approval.

Laurette Taylor's versatility will be given ample scope in "Barbaraza" for she appears as an old woman in the prologue and as a young girl throughout the succeeding three acts. It promises to be a startling physical metamorphosis, and the temperamental transformation will be made no less complete by the art of this brilliant young actress, which is equally convincing in each of the widely variant characters.

Forrest Stanley will be seen to splendid advantage in the role of the lord of the manor, which San Francisco critics declared to be his best effort, while David M. Hartford and the others of the male portion of the Burbank company will be seen in the supporting roles.

All of the scenes of the play are laid in Greece, allowing for an unusually picturesque series of stage setting from the brush of scenic artist Brunton, while the costuming will be much out of the ordinary and true to the period. Incidental to the action are a chorus of Greek soldiers and other innovations contributary to atmospheric effect.

Fischer's Lyceum.

The new regime at Fischer's Lyceum—a season of dramatic stock—will begin with the matinee today, when, for the first time on any stage, Dick Ferris will present Sedley Brown's new baseball epic, "The Home Plate." With a specially organized company, headed by Muriel Starr, one of the best-liked leading women in recent theatrical history, and a fine stage equipment, Mr. Ferris seemingly has chosen wisely his vehicle for this inauguration of a possibly long stock season, and if advance reports of the play prove anything like as good as they indicate, it ought to be a wonderful hit.

Mr. Brown is a thirty-second-degree fan, as well as a playwright and stage director of renown, and his full heart went into this composition. He has woven a human story about the great American game, and his characters are real human beings.

The whole leads up to a real game of ball, which is shown completely on the stage through the medium of a new electrical device, invented by Mr. Brown, which has been constructed for this purpose. It is a maze of lights, wires and switches, whereby every move made on the diamond can be followed with the utmost speed and accuracy. The result is that one may sit in comfort in front of this big device—which fills the rear of the stage—and almost believe he is in the bleachers watching the two teams contest.

This, however, is only one of the features of the play; the dramatic action in itself is holding and finished, and the comedy is plentiful. With Miss Starr as its head, the company looks very good to any one who knows, as she is in love with the role, and it seems infectious with the whole organization. Other names to be noted in the company are Carrie Clarke Ward, Vivian Riche, Hallie Manning, Harry Earl, who is helping Mr. Brown and Mr. Ferris put on the show, Lloyd Ingraham, S. S. Simpson, Charles Dudley, Wayland Trask and others, there being fourteen speaking parts besides the "mob" scene, which is the big finale of the play.

The drama is in four acts, and while comedy is large in the first two, yet the story is well unfolded, and there is tensity and strength developed throughout, leading up finally to the climax in the fourth. Three love stories are interwoven in the plot, but of course all comes out right in the end.

The first performance will be today's matinee, and besides regular nightly shows at 8:15, there will be matinees at popular prices on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons.

Belasco.

Charles Klein's powerful American play "The Gamblers," with Orrin Johnson and Marguerite Leslie in the two chief roles, has scored such an unqualified success at the Belasco theater and the attendance has been of such vast proportions, that the play will be continued for a second week, commencing with the performance tomorrow night.

Judging from critical opinions, and the tremendous demand for seats, "The Gamblers" has scored one of the biggest successes of the entire year, for ever since last Monday night when Mr. Johnson and Miss Leslie began their short starring engagement with the Belasco company, there has been a steady line of ticket buyers in front of the Belasco box office and as each succeeding performance goes by, the demand seems to increase, which is probably the surest sign of a genuine hit.

Both Mr. Johnson in the role of the young banker, Wilbur Emerson and Marguerite Leslie as Catherine Darwin, wife of the prosecuting attorney have won individual hits of no small proportions and have evidently already become favorites with local audiences, by their splendid work in these.

They, however are not alone in this, for Thomas MacLarnie, Harry Mestayer, Howard Scott, James K. Applebee, Beatrice Nichols and others of the company have come in for an almost equal amount of praise for their effective efforts in making "The Gamblers" one of the best presentations that has ever occupied the Belasco stage.

Majestic.

The Paul J. Rainey African hunt pictures continue to attract capacity audiences to the Majestic Theater, where these remarkable films have been retained for a third week, owing to the fact that there are still thousands who have been unable to gain admission to the Broadway playhouse, a fact that is the best evidence of their worth.

The fun followed the camera on Paul J. Rainey's big expedition into British East Africa, and that is why audiences for the past two weeks have been enabled to see, for instance, a lion hunt at close range; a rhinoceros growing suspicious, then charging fiercely at the camera until within a few feet of the moving-picture lens, when the beast is dropped with a bullet from one of the hunter's guns; or, in fact, every species of wild animals in their native state coming to the water hole, elephants, giraffes, zebras, rhinoceri, baboons, gazelles and other animals taking turns at the drinking place, unaware of the presence of the camera.

The picture at the water hole, one of the most remarkable of the Rainey series, took six weeks in the making and is unquestionably the most remarkable and interesting film of this character ever shown.

The pictures show every interesting and exciting incident of the whole Rainey trip through Arica. The films have created no end of discussion; in fact, they have become the talk of the town.

Orpheum.

Five new acts will grace the incoming Orpheum bill, opening Monday matinee, and of these, three have been headliners elsewhere.

Edmond Hayes, known as "the wise guy," and his company, top the list of newcomers. Mr. Hayes appears with his assistants in a skit called "The Piano Movers," a vehicle for laughs. He is a comedian of original ideas, working along broad lines, but never commonplace; exaggerated, but always refined. His skit has little plot or purpose, in reality, but at the same time it is a character study well worth while.

Elsa Ruegger, known as the world's greatest 'cellist, is the second remarkable offering of the coming week. Mlle. Ruegger is a Belgian, whose career has been one of artistic triumph in every land. In solo work, with the best symphony orchestras, and on the concert stage, she is, equally well known. Her advent in vaudeville marks again the powerful uplift given to that field of entertainment, wherein now the greatest musicians and artists of every sort are perfectly at home.

Grace Cameron made so profound an impress upon her last visit here, with her character songs, that her return has ever since been eagerly awaited. Meanwhile, however, London called this tiny singer, and she rose to new heights and won new triumphs in the big metropolis. She comes back with the best the song writers there could turn out, but at the same time she retains much of her former excellent material, the result being a delightful series of ditties, costumed accurately, and in a most pleasing way.

Frank Milton and the De Long sisters, a couple of pretty and dainty girls, will offer "Twenty Minutes at Alfalfa Junction." The Bounding Pattersons, the fifth in the acrobatics. The bill will also contain De Witt, Burns and Torrence, in "The Awakening of Toys;" Cesare Nesi, the tenor, and Van brothers, and there will be another week of superb orchestral concerts, and the usual pictures of the day.

Empress.

One of the biggest and best bills that has ever been seen on the Empress stage will come to this popular-priced vaudeville house tomorrow afternoon. The new bill is full of genuine novelties and surprises of a most unusual sort, always welcomed by vaudeville audiences.

The first feature is "The House Boat Party," an elaborately mounted musical comedy operetta, which comes with the reputation of being the most pretentious musical comedy act that has been produced for vaudeville purposes.

"The Houseboat Party" is unique in more than one way, and entirely different from any acts of this character that have ever been seen here. Particularly notable is the company presenting it, a company of ten, composed of vaudeville artists who heretofore have won success on the vaudeville stage by their individual efforts, while there will also be seen a pretty chorus of sprightly young girls who can really sing and dance.

The second feature will be Onaip, presenting the world's greatest stage puzzle. Mysticism is as old as the world, but Onaip has something entirely new in the way of a stage mystery to offer, which has made him famous throughout the East. A man of only medium weight lifts a piano from the stage and whirls it through space without apparently touching it. This is all accomplished while Onaip is seated at the piano playing a dreamy air. Suddenly man, piano and piano stool begin to float around through space like a soap bubble, affording one of the most remarkable exhibitions of magic the vaudeville stage has known.

Another act is the Chinese monologist and entertainer, Lee Tung Foo. This Chinese artist, one of the very few ever seen on a vaudeville stage, offers everything from imitations of Harry Lauder to the rendering of Irish ballads. Foo also translates his songs from English into Chinese much to the amusement of the audience.

Helen Primose, the talented little singing and character comedienne, will also be seen, while others are Manley & Walsh in their original patter and songs; Granto & Maud, the European wire walkers, and the new comedy and news motion pictures.

Pantages.

Pantages promises a programme that is out of the ordinary, both in the number and variety of the offerings. The seven acts of the bill are headed by Gus Sohlke's "Summertime Girls." The Summertime Girls are heralded as purveyors of something different from the ordinary variety of "girl act." Another act from the Sohlke studio, recently seen here under the title of "The Bama Bama Girls," was good enough to make the vaudeville patron remember the name of the producer and wish for more from the same source.

"A mammoth musical and electrical novelty" is the claim made by Alsace & Lorraine for their act, which is the "saddest attraction" of the week. They, too, are noted for the quality of their productions, which enjoy an enviable reputation in both eastern and western vaudeville.

Rose & Ellis, "the jumping-jacks," bring a barrel-jumping act that has both comedy and acrobatic features to recommend it.

Irwin & Herzog are well-known minstrel men, who return with an assured welcome awaiting them from Pantages audiences. New songs and patter ensure them an extended term of public favor.

Caits Bros. are dancing midgets who make their first appearance here. "Chums," a dramatic playlet dealing with the New York Stock Exchange, is the offering of Harry Hargrave & Co. Paris Green, monologist, is as novel in the matter as in the manner of presentation of his one-man comedy. The Animated Weekly will review the news of the week in moving pictures.

Century.

Vaudeville galore will reign supreme at the new Century Theater commencing with tomorrow matinee, when the Century Road Show No. 1 will occupy the stage of this pretty Main-street vaudeville house for one week.

These acts have been personally selected by Albert Loewen to play his circuit of theaters. Each and every act that will appear on this specially-arranged programme have been at various times the headliners on different bills.

The Musical Bentleys, xylophone players, will introduce for the first time in this city their "miranbophone." Bryce Howatson and company in the comedy playlet entitled "Ambition," heads the list. Mr. Howatson is a clever comedian and is ably assisted by Daisy Swaybel and Frederick Harrington.

Ross and Dale will entertain with a singing and talking act. Wilbur and Harrington have a "kid act" and from present indications they no doubt will prove themselves great favorites with their audiences. An instrumental and singing specialty by Rosa and Burke will be another feature of next week's road show programme.

An acrobatic novelty will be presented by Collins and Elliott. Coming also with the road show will be the first presentation of Gaumount's Animated Weekly at this theater. The Century Theater management have secured the first run of these newspaper pictures.

Mozart.

"Thelma," the feature picture production this week at the Mozart Theater, commencing Monday, is a faithful replique of the novel by the famous author, Marie Corelli, having, it is said, preserved the spirit and essence of the writer's meaning, and reproduced the characters close to her ideals.

The story itself is full of charm and interest, involving as it does the romance of the young Norse girl, Thelma, whose beauty ensnares the heart of Phillip Errington, a young man who has sought the wild seclusion among the Norway fjords in order to escape the society of women—one woman in particular, her determined efforts to win him having annoyed and repelled him.

After escaping death at the hands of a would-be suitor of Thelma's, and rescuing her from another's attempts to carry her off, the two are married; and after returning to England the unfortunate bride falls into the plotting hands of the woman whom Phillip had spurned, with the result that Thelma believes ill of her husband and returns to her native land. The distracted husband, of course, pursues her, and this leads to a most intensely dramatic climax.

The auxetophone will continue a potent part of the Mozart entertainment, and Caruso's wonderful tones will fill the theater. The selection chosen is one in which his voice shows to its greatest advantage, the "Celestial Aida."

Brink's Cabaret.

Headlining the bill for the coming week at the cabaret show at Brink's cafe will be two musical acts, each worthy of note. Both are operatic acts, as this sort of music, with a seasonable amount of ragtime and sentimental airs thrown in at the proper intervals seems to be the type of entertainment most popular for cabaret use.

Mme. Adelina Dossena, Italian coloratura soprano, will be featured in selections from "Faust," "Carmen," "Traviata," and other well-known operas, while the lighter vein of operatic music such as selections from "The Bohemian Girl," "Erminie," and pieces of that sort, will be rendered in costume by Emilie Gardner, the lyric soprano. "Happyana" Robinson, the gingery coon-shouting soubrette, is billed as a stellar attraction, with some of the newest bits of ragtime obtainable. She has two new pieces that have never been sung on the Coast before.

Wilbur Ross will devote his pleasing tenor voice entirely to the singing of sentimental ballads next week, as these are his pieces de resistance. The Brink cabaret orchestra, headed by Herr Franz Buckner, the Austrian pianophiend, will be heard in concert numbers, both popular and classic, while the individual members will be featured in 'cello and violin solos.

Tally's.

"Friends," a tale of the West, where a grasp of the hand means something, is the Biograph photoplay to be featured at Tally's New Broadway, Monday. The story of a mining camp, out in the West, where two friends are in love with the same girl, it contains interesting situations and picturesque settings and takes us back to that romantic period of our State's history, the days of '49. In "A Gay Time in Quebec," we are taken about the old Canadian city and, accompanied by Hans and Fritz, we participate in many a lively adventure. It is a good scenic, with a dash of comedy. The Selig Company offers another instructive reel, "The Life and Customs of the Winnebago Indians;" "Max's Tragedy," acted by the most popular French motion-picture actor; scenery in Switzerland and the ever-popular Pathe's Weekly complete the picture programme.

MEANDERINGS OF MELODY-EVANGEL

HAPPY CONCERT SEASON LOOMS, SAYS BEHYMER.

Unusual Art of Senor Juan de la Cruz and Wife—Egan Activities This Season Are Indeed Manifold. Incidental Musical News of the Halls and Studios.

"On visiting Mme. Gadski and her beautiful home in Berlin," says L. E. Behymer, "I found Edwin Schneider, her accompanist, in daily rehearsal on a programme new and varied, which will astonish our musical patrons this year, and a Wagnerian programme, beautiful in conception, being prepared for those who prefer the heavier music of the German writers. Mme. Gadski looked more youthful than ever, her voice is beautiful and brilliant, and her daughter, Lotta, confidentially entrusted me with the secret that mother's gowns were dreams of the dressmaking art and that she hoped I could find a new stage setting which would harmonize with the aforementioned gowns.

"Mme. Gadski will open the Philharmonic season at the Auditorium October 15. Riccardo Martin, American tenor, was enjoying his summer at Lake Lucerne, in Switzerland. Rudolph Gans, his associate, was also touring Switzerland.

"In Paris I met Director Russell of the Boston Operahouse, who advised me that he was landing to Miss Nielsen a group of grand opera singers that would make her 'Barber of Seville' and 'Don Pasquale' company this season an all-star one, and that our own American prima donna was looking forward to her Pacific Coast tour as one of the bright prospects of her American season. Miss Nielsen, who summered in London, and the English provinces, has had a splendid rest.

"Leopold Godowsky was comfortably resting at Bad Ischel, in company with Emperor Franz Joseph, with whom he is a great favorite, and who is very much disgruntled over the fact that Godowsky is to leave the Imperial piano stool for such a long sojourn in America. The Austrians consider Godowsky the greatest of all living pianists.

"I met the lovely Kittie Cheatham at a lawn fete in London, where she was surrounded by a dozen of the nobility and with more engagements than she could possibly take care of. She had just finished giving her talk and musical conception of Tschaikowsky's 'Christ When a Child a Garden Made,' with Sir Henry Wood's symphony, and had engagements to fill in Berlin, Munich and Paris, and is greatly in demand throughout America.

"Mischa Elman, who is my violinist on the first series, had just purchased a beautiful home on Hampstead Heath, a short distance out from London, where, with his mother, father and five charming sisters, he was completing an equipment in a furniture sense. He is still a continental favorite and is particularly sought in London.

"The first of my second series, coming to December 10, is Mme. Gerville-Reache, in whose home I spent a most delightful day and whose husband, Dr. Rambaud, had just been decorated by the French government with the cross of the Legion of Honor for his splendid work as the head of Pasteurism in that country, and whose equally talented wife has just received recognition from the grand opera management in Paris.

"Your question as to American singers as compared with the foreign element is a hard one to answer. Our American singers gain recognition abroad, and many of the operahouses of Europe find their artistic groups headed by American vocalists, both male and female. try, however, every season is some of the American product ward and gradually our people learning to know that we have something that is worth while, that will eventually give us a musical force which will place it on a par with the imported product.

"For years I have been trying to bring Claude Cunningham, American baritone, and Corinne Kelsey, soprano, into this country. I found them, together with Mrs. Cunningham, up in Maine, enjoying vacation at Rangley Lake, and persuaded them to undertake the trip during January, and they consented, and I have placed them in my second series.

"Mme. Marcella Sembrich and her worthy husband were home domiciled at Lausanne, Switzerland on the shores of Lake Geneva, together with Frank La Forge, the most excellent accompanist, composer and pianist, the pride for the American tour had gradually completed. Miss has done much mountain climbing summer; she is in superb health her voice just as beautiful as ever. She is very anxious to reach the and expects to make a substantial vestment in this section.

"I found in both Europe and America the new Russian school holding up serenely and vieing with that of the German, Italian, French, American, and found that the Russian foothold, musically speaking, was already established everywhere.

"I heard Albert Jungwirth, the Russian baritone, student, and authority upon Russian ballads and folk songs had engaged him for my series. an idea of giving to my patrons a entire Russian programme, but a portion of it done in English, so that they could understand the idea of modern Russian school.

"For the same reason I engaged Josef Lhevinne at his home in Charlottenberg, a suburb of Berlin, to give to us one of those exquisite piano programmes with which he charmed his Berlin public and critics during the last season. I found overwhelmed with applications from students, and so firmly established in Europe that only a short American tour could be considered. He is one of the big ones now, and ranks up with the great masters.

"The one man, however, who seemed to be no older, no less active, and for whom the world seemed to stand still, was Eugene Ysaye, the Belgian violinist, the king of the bow, the lion of the musical world, whose art is never to be forgotten by those who possesses an irrepressible something that takes cold judgment by its feet and leads critics captive. He closes my season this year.

"Mme. Genee I found at Bognor, Eng., tremendously excited over her coming visit to America.

"Maude Powell and her husband, Dr. Turner, had just escaped from the wilds of their motor boat of the year and had plunged recklessly into the prima donna gratification of a new motor car and both showed many lacerated features, but Maude was glad to state that her bow arm and left hand were still intact and capable of drawing forth from her new Strad instrument sounds that could hypnotize the most callous.

"I only have to mention the name of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Carnegie with their marvelous home at Dunfermline, Scotland, to bring to mind the complimentary luncheons in her honor during their stay in Europe. The Burtons will return to Los Angeles this week.

"Among visitors to this coast are Mme. Nordica and her young son, wife of Sir Charles Michael Wolfe-Barry. They are making an extensive tour through the United States and Canada, coming via New York, Chicago, San Francisco and now Los Angeles, at each of which places they have many friends. Lady Wolsey was formerly Miss Anita Murphy of New York, and her marriage to Sir Charles Barry was the sensation of that season. Before leaving Los Angeles they will go to Mexico, where Lady Barry owns considerable property.

"Edgar Wallace with his wife and daughter, Miss Katherine Wallace, and Mrs. A. J. Witherell have been touring two weeks at Santa Barbara. They went up by automobile, as did Gen. C. Forman, who is to make a long series of visits to the hostelries in his car.

"Miss Virginia Pearce and Richard Ellison Beard were also among the visitors at the various coast resorts, and Mr. and Mrs. J. Wood and their two children made a long mountain trip of two weeks entirely by automobile.

"Mrs. Mrs. William Kirby of this city, Mrs. Kirby recently returned from a long European tour—left for Chicago yesterday, where they will remain several months.

"Mrs. Covey of Granada street returned on her return journey on the 15 and should be home in October. She will probably visit at San Antonio, where she has friends.

"Mrs. R. P. Shea of this city passed through San Francisco last week on her northern tour by motor, which is to extend up the coast.

"C. H. McKinstrey of the Los Angeles Country Club has gone to San Francisco to participate in the annual golf tournament for field officers which is at the Presidio.

"A well-known San Francisco visitor is Mr. Tevis, former State Bank examiner. He expects to visit a number before returning home.

"Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wells are also among the Northern visitors. They are here by automobile, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Bassett of Pasadena, who are the hosts of an automobile party which is making its way North after having been at Santa Cruz, Del Monte and San Francisco. They expect to be here in October.

"An interesting automobile party is that of the Hill family of Fort Wayne, Ind., who are having a Cosmos.

Oft have I known the terror of the lightning's flash,
Followed by the angry thunder's deafening crash.
I've heard the gentle wind's sweet purring in the trees,
And felt the restful rolling of calm summer seas.
I know the rippling brook with its sweet music rare,
And the magic of June with its love-ladened air.
Sunrise I have seen with hopes of a brighter day.
And known the pathos in the sunset's parting ray.
The thought of infinity has nigh overwhelmed me,
Stirring my starved soul to heights divine within me.
Yet all these and more, all beauty, all peace, all love,
In the earth below or in the heavens above,
Like some twinkling star in the vast violet sky,
Repose in the light that shines in a woma[n] eye.

"Tempus Fugit"

WE nearly all of us have an innate desire to know how "time flies," and to see how "the world wags." Hence, from the diminutive watch to the big clock, some timepiece must be oft-consulted.

What is more satisfactory for the home than "the old clock on the stairs" or in some other conveniently accessible location? And if we do not happen to be the fortunate possessor of a family heirloom, we can nowadays secure a perfect reproduction of "GRANDFATHER'S CLOCK"—one that is faultless in design, detail, finish and execution as to its case, and infinitely better in the durability and variety of its movement; whose mellow chime softly intones the hours, and whose sweet bells are neither "jangled, nor out of tune and harsh," as were so many of the old ones.

Our stock comprises the cases of the best American makes, in antique mahogany, oak, inlay and other woods; together with the finest imported movements of the celebrated English specialist, Jennens, and the expert German clock-makers.

Artistic fixtures, true to every style period.

Fixtures for every sort of room or building.

Make Your Lighting Scheme the Keynote of Your Decorating

IN too many cases, lighting fixtures are considered too late in the mapping out of decorating plans, or are left to artists, who may be designers of expert skill, but who rarely combine with that experience the necessary scientific knowledge of light rays and their effects, which alone can make your lighting truly effective.

We illustrate today a delicate bracket of the Adams period, which we consider a classic in its way. Note the harmonious grace, yet the effect of strength and solidity, which this style must give to any interior so decorated.

A stroll through our art rooms will quickly convince you of our skill in producing fixtures that will give the right amount and kind of light as well as the correct line effects to any room.

539 Lincoln Park Blvd., Chicago, Ill.—"A year ago I received a very severe burn on my left arm. I caught cold in it and it was all sore and ulcerated. The sore was as large as a silver dollar. It was all red and inflamed and had pus running out of it. I suffered terribly from burning pain; could not sleep for two weeks it seemed and itched so badly. I applied ——Salve, —— Salve and to salve my druggist recommended as his own, but got no relief. I then commenced using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed the burned parts with Cuticura Soap and applied the Cuticura Ointment on a linen bandage. I got relief from the first and my arm healed nicely. I was soon able to be at work again. Had I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment at first I would have avoided lots of suffering." (Signed) Harry Junke, Mar. 9, 1912.

Inglewood.

A WEDDING of much interest to a large circle of Inglewood friends occurred in San Francisco September 6, when Mrs. Nellie A. Boss and W. S. Hudson, both of Inglewood and prominent socially, were united in marriage. Mrs. Boss has been spending the summer with her son in Portland, Or. Mr. Hudson, who is one of Inglewood's leading business men, left recently saying he was going north on a short vacation. The plans for their meeting in San Francisco and the wedding that followed were so secretly guarded that the announcement came as a great surprise to all except the sons of the groom and a few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Hudson are enjoying a short honeymoon in Yosemite Valley.

A dainty three-course luncheon was served by the hostess during the afternoon.

The marriage was solemnized at the home of the bride's father, Rev. J. H. Henry. Only a few friends were present, as it was the wish of the bride that the ceremony might be a private one, and that her father might be the one to bestow upon her the ministerial as well as a father's blessing. Rev. Henry came down from Winnemucca, Nev., where he has been resident pastor during the year, to perform the ceremony.

Joseph Webster and family, who have been rusticating in Paradise Park a few days, returned to Tropico in time for the children to take their appointed places in the schoolroom

The Choice of "Men Who Know"

Men of wealth who have owned many cars, both American-made and foreign, eventually come to the Lozier as their permanent car.

Conservatively, nine out of ten automobile manufacturers, and their high officials, consider Lozier the best car ever built. Many of them express their opinion by owning and driving Loziers.

Among officials and heads of great "accessory" manufacturing concerns the Lozier predominates.

You don't see so many Loziers as some other cars for, even with two great manufacturing plants, we cannot build the Lozier in large numbers and build it in the true Lozier way. But—and this is more important—take note who owns them. Base your judgment on that point. It's men who know automobiles who own Loziers. For Lozier reputation is earned reputation, not created by the "atmosphere" of sales methods.

By every true test in service, on every touring highway in the world, Lozier Quality—its mechanical perfection, its power and safety and luxurious comfort—has been proved an exclusive Lozier Quality. And it is the proof of this that makes Lozier the Standard of Excellence.

Lordsburg-La Verne.

A LARGE number of guests were present at the reception given by the Philomathean and Alphian societies of Lordsburg College Saturday evening. The college auditorium had been beautifully decorated for the occasion in the colors of the two organizations. An autograph hunt was first in order, to give "the get-acquainted" feeling. Chief interest centered in the "faculty ball," which had been well advertised during the day by posters. It proved to be a ball of twine, with slips of paper tied on at intervals, each calling on a member of the faculty for some particular "stunt." An interesting and amusing programme was thus rendered, after which delicious refreshments were served.

The sewing done by the girls is to be sold at a bazaar, which will be held sometime before Christmas, the proceeds going to pay the class's pledge on the new church. Incidentally, the suppers are given to convince the public that it is not the high cost of living, so much as the cost of high living, which boosts the grocer's bills." With this idea in mind, each supper is carefully prepared, and the expense calculated, so that the entire cost of the meal will not exceed 10 cents per plate. Those present at dinner were the Misses Nettie and Ella Miller, Rose Maxwell, Mary Smith, Theresa Steiner, Hilda Jellison, Alma Wilson, Beulah Brewer, Harriett Fricker, Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Charles Anson and Messrs. John McBratney, Hugh Laughren, Ed Laughren and J. W. Graham.

A pink and green color scheme was carried out throughout the courses, as well as in the place cards and favors. In conjunction with the luncheon, the hostesses planned a kitchen shower, in which each guest presented Mrs. Renaker with some useful bit of kitchenware. After the luncheon a sewing contest was indulged in, each guest being supplied with a towel to hem. The first prize consisted of a sack of salt, "for the freshie who finished first." Those present, besides the guest of honor, were the Misses Hazel and Pearl Brownfield, Zella Vining, Dorothy Brown, Helen Davis, Edith Dixon and Gwendolyn Spaulding.

A WEDDING of unusual interest in society society and one that has been looked forward to for some time was the marriage on Wednesday evening, September 18, of Miss Mildred Hand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace E. Hand of this city, to Mr. Frederick Morris Sayre, of Princeton, Ill. The marriage occurred at the First Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock p.m., the double ring service of the church was used, the father of the bride giving her away. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Hunter, rector of St. John's Church of Los Angeles, who is a friend of the groom. Rev. F. W. Sanford, pastor of the Presbyterian church, assisted in the service. The bridal party was preceded by musicians, the "Bridal Chorus" from "Three Maidens" being rendered by the Choral Club, to which the bride belongs. Miss Juanita Hall played "Love's Coronation," with violin and piano accompaniments by Miss Helena Goodale, Mrs. Frank Cornsille and Miss Ruth Cornsille and Miss Mildred Hall. Mrs. Cornsille presided at the organ, playing Lohengrin's Bridal March at the entrance of the bridal party and Mendelsohn's wedding march after the ceremony. Miss Leslie Hand, sister of the bride, acted as maid of honor and wore a gown over yellow messaline with overdraperies of brocaded satin, embroidered rose trimmings and black tulle bows, and Miss Donovan was gowned in yellow chiffon over the same shade of messaline, all three wearing yellow bead bands with aigrettes as hair ornaments, and each carried a staff with yellow chrysanthemums attached. The bride's mother was gowned in a black velvet model with point lace, en traine. The church was decorated in yellow and green under direction of Mrs. George M. Ross and members of the Girls' Tennis Club.

The wedding occurred at the Catholic Church at Corona with Father Cochran officiating. After the wedding breakfast a reception was held at the home which the groom has prepared for his bride. The bride wore an imported Persian model of white marquisette. The beautiful gown was hand-embroidered and trimmed with real lace. Instead of the bride bouquet she selected instead, an ivory prayer book, and this was carried together with a string of pearls. She wore a coral tiara that was a wedding gift that her mother received forty-five years ago. This was the wedding gift that the mother gave the bride today and is prized the highest among her many wedding gifts. Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Davis of Fullerton, were the attendants, Mrs. Davis being a sister of the bride, and a bride of only a few weeks herself. Mr. Fisher is a prominent business man of Corona and after a tour throughout Southern California, they will be at home in that city. At the Fisher home in this city, where the wedding dinner was served, the dining-room was decorated with bride's carnations and tulle of the same shade, and even with the menu this color scheme was carried out. The drawing-room decorations were of yellow, golden glow and yellow streamers being used. Greenery and potted plants added much to the beauty of the reception hall. The decorations were under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Fisher.

It's Seldom You See Such Stunning Coats to Sell for Less than $25.00

Monday You Choose From a Big Lot at $22.50

Such an array, such variety and such value are seldom combined. Here are but two of a goodly number.

The coat on the left is one of the very popular Johnny coats of novelty woolen coating, similar to heavy diagonal boucle, in black and white stripe. The slot seam, black velvet diagonal trimming and large buttons, together with the very chic cut and hang of the garment, makes this a decidly attractive model.

Coat on the right is a smart street coat of striped zibeline—a direct copy from imported model—with drop sleeve, trimmed with broadcloth collar and cuffs of a rich leather shade.

THEN THERE ARE English street coats of two-tone plaid zibeline, and real motor coats with russet leather trimmed collar and cuffs—and so it goes through a wide range of styles, each a very strong and convincing value at $22.50.

wife, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Blain, last Tuesday. Their home was prettily decorated and thrown open to a company of fifty relatives and friends who sat down at 1 o'clock to a bountiful buffet luncheon. The aged judge, who was born in Orange county, New York, and whose later home was in Manhattan, Kan., was liberally showered with good wishes and hearty congratulations as well as material gifts. After the luncheon and felicitations of his large party of guests had been enjoyed old-time songs were sung and the party assumed the nature of a farewell as Judge Blain will leave, accompanied by his son, for his eastern home in the near future.

The thirty-five members of the Duarte Reading Circle were charmingly entertained Tuesday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 by Mrs. William Beardslee at her home on Buena Vista avenue. Mrs. C. H. THE HELPING HAND.

"How far that little candle throws his beams!
So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Several instances have been published in this colum showing the good results of kind acts. Another one comes from Honolulu where Robert R. Cotton has, by the death of James Howell, become heir to property valued all the way from $75,000 to $150,000. Mr. Cotton had known his benefactor ever since his boyhood, and as Mr. Howell had become aged he had made it a practice to visit him regularly once a week and occasionally would take him out driving. Mr. Howell met with an accident to his foot and Mr. Cotton made him a pair of crutches, which pleased him very much and he remarked that he would remember him for that. From this time the old gentleman seemed to lose his interest in life, and ultimately he committed suicide, but it was not till his papers were examined that Mr. Cotton learned what was meant by the remark that followed him making the crutches.

Seventy thousand dollars was given away by the Alexander Smith & Son Carpet Company of Yonkers, N. Y., recently as a bonus to 3100 of the company's 7000 employees.

Employees of ten years' standing received checks for 10 per cent. of their earnings for the six months ending June 30.

Employees of between five and ten years' standing received checks for 5 per cent. of their earnings.

To the end that it might extend its work among young boys, the Hebrew Sheltering Guardian Society of White Plains, N. Y., has obtained permission of the court to mortgage its property for $600,000.

The society has a tract of 150 acres on which it has now a number of cottages sheltering thirty boys in each cottage. Its property is valued at $925,000, and other assets totalling $140,000. With the money raised from the mortgage it expects to erect more cottages, a hospital, a contagious disease hospital, bakery and incinerator.

Ross Brown, 17 years old, saved two young girls from drowing at Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. The two girls were swimming in the Hudson River, and finding the ebb tide too strong for them they cried for help. Young Brown was repairing a yacht at the clubhouse. Without waiting to take off his clothes he plunged in. He managed to get Miss Hoyt to the club float, where she was revived. He then turned back and went to the aid of Miss Delanoy, who had succeeded in keeping afloat, but was exhausted when Brown reached her.

Better Than Gold.

The Midas touch no blessing were
To him who loves the green
That 'neath the silken springtime air,
Lends luster to the scene.
Who loves the red of petaled rose,
The buss of blossoms glad;
The beauty of the garden close
In vernal colors clad.
The luscious cherry of the lips,
And pink cheeks of a maid,
Whereon the lover fondly sips
His nectar unafraid.
Oh, who would envy Midas much,
And suffer all the loss
That needs must follow on the touch
That turns these sweets to dross?

Chelsea Clocks

THESE famous timepieces represent the best in American clock building. Their accuracy is such that our Naval Service uses many. Their solid, cast metal case construction—quite different from the light, flimsy, or even "tinny" effects, so generally seen—gives them a substantial appearance of quality. Chelsea Clocks are superbly designed in bronze or brass, which can be finished in a dozen or more combinations. The principal styles followed are Doric, Gothic and Round on Bases, with ship's bell strike, or the regular hour and half-hour arrangement. Our Exclusive Agency for these clocks has extended through several years, and they are giving universal satisfaction to our discriminating patrons. They are priced $21 to $115, according to size and design. There are many other excellent clocks here, including a wide assortment of chime mantel clocks. You will find the size, style, design and finish to meet your requirements, and we gladly welcome a comparison of values.

IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Fast Classes in High School.

A novel innovation, suggested by Superintendent Francis, which is under consideration among High School principals, is the establishment of "fast classes" in all subjects, composed of pupils, who are unusually brilliant in such subjects. In this way students may proceed much more rapidly than when compelled to take the slower pace of the regular classes. Thus an art student with a genius for portraits or landscapes, may get much more from his work, under the more or less individual instruction he will receive in the special class, than when hampered by others less talented than himself. These classes, if held, will probably be held before or after regular school hours.

To Take Care of a Home.

"All about the care of the home!" is to be the slogan at Alpine-street school, this year, according to a plan of Miss Flagg, supervisor of domestic science.

"Girls will learn everything, from the simplest cleaning to interior decoration," said Miss Flagg, "and we hope to have a model flat of which the girls will have entire charge. A feature of the work will be the serving of lunches to teachers. Girls as low as the fourth grade will be taught this useful work. And all the girls will be taught all the work of the home—laundry, furniture, polishing, household hygiene, cooking, sewing, invalid cookery, and simple care of the sick."

Visiting Member of Foreign Board.

Miss Agnes Chalmers, member of the Business Committee of the Grand Rapids (Mich.) Board of Education, and sister of ex-Superintendent Chalmers of that city, visited the new school buildings on Tuesday, with the Los Angeles board. She expressed herself as tremendously interested in the types of school buildings in this city, and in the special features, particularly the open-air study-rooms, and stated it is the intent of the Grand Rapids board to build each new school building with such feature, to be used when the weather would permit. At present there is but one open-air school in Grand Rapids, and she dwelt on the comparison between the freedom of such schools in this city and the one in her own city, where, in cold weather, the teachers and pupils must be dressed as for an Arctic expedition.

The wonderful civic spirit actuating the Los Angeles board also called forth the greatest praise from Miss Chalmers.

Manual Training.

Work in textiles, clay, book repairing, metals, etc.,—teachers are enthusiastic over the added facilities in these lines.

Continuation work will be carried on as last year, for "the workshop," says Miss Nevell, "is fully as popular as the playground. An opportunity is thus given the child to work out his ideas along electrical or other lines—for he works every day on his problem if he desires.

With the idea of making the elementary manual work more democratic, a committee has been appointed by Mr. Kunou, consisting of Misses Junkin, Harriss, Johnson, Laughlin, Brown and Mr. Cronkite, to revise the course of study in that department, showing the relations of this work with other departments.

Night School Pupils.

No longer must grown men in the night schools read: "This is my doll. I like my dollie!" As in years gone by. The course has been revised, so that object lessons take the place of silly primer themes, and a special set of text-books has been arranged for foreigners studying English.

"By this means," said Supervisor Lickley, "an educated foreigner may graduate from the evening school in three years. Civics are taught in the same way, through object lessons. For instance, the familiar figure of the policeman is used to illustrate and lead up to civic life and government."

Deaf School.

For the first time in the history of the deaf school, there are students who will go on to high school work. Miss Irene Knapp, who has a special talent for drawing and mechanical work, will take the ninth year in sloyd and mechanical drawing, at Sentous intermediate, and Harold Woodley, with a penchant for catching likenesses, will take special drawing from the life, at Los Angeles High.

Departmental work has meen introduced this year, under Miss Bennett as senior teacher, with four assistant teachers. Said Miss Bennett: "Departmental work is especially helpful in the deaf school, because the work with the children can be so much more largely individual."

Teachers' Club.

Most attractive is the programme prepared by the Los Angeles City Teachers' Club for the year's lectures.

The chief feature is the Wagnerian course of lectures, at Blanchard Hall, which begins Wednesday, October 2, with B. R. Baumgardt's "Richard Wagner." This will be followed on October 30, November 27, January 2 and January 29, by Miss Ida Leonard's readings of the dramas of the Nibelungen Ring, with piano interpretation of the principal themes of the operas. The final event, on February 21, at the Auditorium, will be the Wagner concert by the Symphony Orchestra, under Harley Hamilton. In connection with these lectures, a German class, under Miss Meyerl, will take up the Wagner librettos in the original.

"Problems of Twentieth Century Citizenship" is the title of another interesting feature of the year's programme. This is a university extension course, under Dr. Thomas Harrison Reed of Berkeley, who will give lectures beginning October 11 and 12, and alternate Fridays and Saturdays thereafter, at Poly Auditorium, 8 p.m., on the following subjects: "The Failures of Representative Democracy," "Reforms in Nominating Machinery," "The Place of the Initiative and Referendum in Our Government," "The Use and Abuse of the Recall," "The Long Ballot as a Cause of Political Corruption," "The Corruption of Politics by Big Business," "The Corruption of Politics by Organized Vice," "The Proper Limits of Political Partisanship," "The Administrative Disorganization of California," "The Place of Experts in State and Municipal Affairs," "The Problem of the Government of Cities," "The Problem of County Reorganization."

A parliamentary law class will have its initial meeting on September 24 at the Y.W.C.A. at 4 p.m., with prominent lawyers as speakers. The dramatic section will meet on Friday, September 27, at 4 p.m., also at the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. Maynard's Ibsen class will be continued next fall with meetings at 3:30 p.m. at Cumnock Hall, the first one to take place September 25.

All members and their friends are invited to a cup and saucer shower, to be given on Saturday, September 28, 4 to 6, at the Y.W.C.A.

Gardening Department.

It is the expectation of the gardening department to raise all vegetables needed for the domestic science department this year.

McKinley Avenue Intermediate.

A decidedly useful phase of the Intermediate School is the opportunity offered persons in the neighborhood to take the work offered in languages and commercial subjects. At McKinley avenue, Principal Brown reports several such applications for admission—one from a woman of the neighborhood, who desires to fit herself as a bookkeeper, another a boy who works for a downtown firm in the morning, and takes advanced commercial work in the afternoon.

A cafeteria is being fitted up at the school.

Juvenile Hall.

Juvenile Hall is rejoicing in its gardens and playgrounds. For the first time, the children are permitted to be taken out-of-doors.

"I believe our work, and especially our out-door work, will develop the latent character of these children," said Principal White, "and give their energies proper direction—which is all most of them need, anyhow."

On Thursday Superintendent Francis gave one of his inspirational talks to the children on "Want, Work, Wait, Win!"

New Kindergarten Supervisor.

Miss Grace Fulmer held her first meeting as head of the kindergarten and first grades, on Wednesday afternoon, and was warmly welcomed.

In a telling address, outlining her ideals, Miss Fulmer said: "It is not the something different or new that we need—why the most effective things in our lives today, in civilization, are the things that are as old as man. Not so much the new things do we need, as the new view. Progress does not mean throwing away all that has been, it means seeing what has been in the light of what is to be!"

Speaking to the kindergarteners regarding the greatest benefit to the little ones, she said:

"The emphasis is placed on play, in the kindergarten. Yet play is not so much a difference in activity as in attitude toward activity, and of course we should strive to make the child's activities pleasurable."

On Thursday Miss Fulmer held a meeting especially for the first grade teachers.

Miss Ledyard Sails for China.

Miss Mary Ledyard, former kindergarten supervisor, sailed on September 14 for Shanghai, on the steamer Mongolia, bearing letters from Secretary of State Knox to the diplomatic circles of Europe.

Miss Ledyard, on her arrival in Foo Chow, will at once begin work on the kindergarten training school at that place, and hopes to have the buildings ready for occupancy by the first of the year. Linguistic difficulties will be overcome by an interpreter and her own study of the language.

On sailing, Miss Ledyard had in her possession many letters from prominent Chinese women, offering financial and social support to her undertaking; also from several Chinese girls, who have graduated from the California State University, who will aid her in her pioneering. Miss Ledyard expects to introduce some of the Montesorri methods in the kindergarten training college.

A farewell letter to the kindergartners will be read at the next meeting of that body.

Avenue 62 Social Center.

The first social center meeting for this year will be held at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, September 28. A splendid musical programme is being arranged by the committee. NIETZSCHE: FIRST PAPER.

HUMAN, ALL-TOO-HUMAN. Vols. 1 and II. By Friedrich Nietzsche. Translated by Helen Zimmern. The Macmillan Company, New York.

IT has been only a few years since Nietzsche was but a name in America—a name misunderstood and despised; a name misapplied and usually misspelled. Today, Nietzsche is the strongest influence in our thought. His entire works (in eighteen fat volumes) have been adequately translated into the vulgate by scholars; and numerous intelligent men and women have written introductory essays and books for the purpose of explaining this philosopher of the super-man to a people, who, despite all their platitudes and hypocrisies, have many temperamental affinities with this great German thinker.

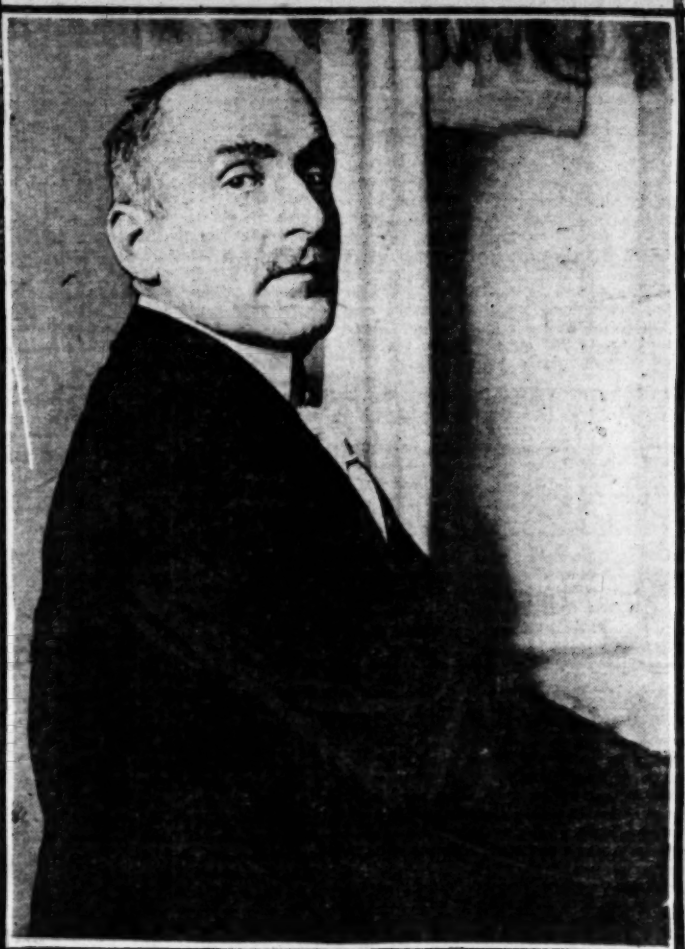
So keen has been the interest in America regarding Nietzsche's work, and so inadequate have been these desultory and unofficial translations made previous to the translation of the new authorized, complete edition of Nietzsche, that people heretofore, even with the best intentions, have been unable to trace consistently the development of this philosopher's thought. The majority of Americans know Nietzsche only through his book, "Thus Spake Zarathustra;" but a certain amount of reading and preparation is necessary for one to understand this work. It is a difficult book to read, and a far more difficult one to understand unless one has followed the philosophical steps which led up to it. And it is with that in mind that I have undertaken the task (now possible for the first time) of suggesting a method of reading Nietzsche.

"Human, All-Too-Human"—the first part published in 1878; the second, called Miscellaneous Maxims and Opinions, in 1879; and the third division, called The Wanderer and His Shadow, in 1880—was Nietzsche's first philosophical contribution to literature.

Before that time he already had numerous writings to his credit. "The Birth of Tragedy" was composed between 1869 and 1871, and issued in January, 1872. It was a treatise on Hellenism and pessimism which but vaguely gave an indication of the trend of his later thought. "On the Future of Our Educational Institutions" was a series of five lectures delivered at Bale University during his professorship of classical philology, (1871.) In reading these lectures, we find his philosophy in embryo; and while they apparently deal with the German educational institutions of his time, the criticisms contained in them may nevertheless be applied in a broader sense to the general principles underlying all schools. They may perhaps be judged as the first visible step in the development of his thought.

More evidences of what was to come later were found in a series of essays written during the early '70's, which are now published under the general caption of "Early Greek Philosophy and Other Essays." The seven essays contained in this volume are The Greek State (1871,) in which is attacked the modern conception of work; The Greek Woman (1871,) an outline of Nietzsche's ideal of woman; On Music and Words (1871,) an analysis of the origins of music and language in their relation to the cosmic consciousness; Homer's Contest (1872,) a comparison of ancient and modern individualistic strife; The Relation of Schopenhauer's Philosophy to a German Culture (1872,) a gay attack upon certain phases of Germanic philistinism; Philosophy During the Tragic Age of the Greeks (1873,) a brilliant history of those Greek thinkers who preceded Socrates; and On Truth and Falsity in Their Ultramoral Sense (1873,) a rhapsodic refutation of the possibility of the theory of absolute truth.

In Volume I of "Thoughts Out of Season" we find two essays: David Strauss, the Confessor and Writer, (written in 1873,) and Richard Wagner, at Bayreuth (written during the close of 1875, and the beginning of 1876.) In Volume II are included the essays, The Use and Abuse of History, and Schopenhauer as Educator (both written in 1874.) In these four essays, the Nietzschean philosophical ideals had begun to take form. Already there were attempts at idealistic and moralistic valuations. There was a considerable amount of that preliminary analysis which was to form a foundation for the destructive and constructive thoughts of later years. In them, Nietzsche had already begun to strike his bearings; and while they cannot be taken as a part of his philosophical scheme, they nevertheless form an excellent introduction for those students who care to go behind the actual parturition of his ideas and behold them in their period of pregnancy.



FRANK WEDEKIND,

Author of "The Awakening of Spring," and one of the most conspicuous figures in the German dramatic field. Wedekind's "Such Is Life," a play in five acts, is now ready for American readers.

"Human, All-Too-Human," following two years later, was the first direct voicing of Nietzsche's philosophy. All else had been mere skirmishing with ideas. Only indirectly and desultorily had his opinions been heretofore voiced. His analysis of history, his criticisms of ancient and modern thought, had actually pried away the superficial manifestations of existence and given him that insight into the undercurrents of causation which was later to inspire him in his work.

Nietzsche realized the necessity of destroying the universe before an understanding of it was possible. And so the two volumes of "Human, All-Too-Human" are almost entirely destructive. In this work we have Nietzsche the trail-blazer; the incendiary; the idol-smasher; the supreme pessimist; the devastater of the world. One by one, the doctrines and tenets strengthened by the accumulative acceptance of centuries go down before his bludgeon. The universe of reality, piece by piece, is neutralized through his analyses. Every human transaction, every phase of human hope and aspiration, is reduced to negation. Nietzsche, at his birth as a thinker, presents himself as the arch nihilist.

This ruthless clearing away of accepted values was necessary for the books which were to come. Already he had outlined in his mind the constructive works which were to come later, although in reading this first definite contribution to his philosophy one finds but little indication—and that little only obscurely hinted at—of that transvaluation of values which was to follow the devaluation.

We have no hint, in "Human, All-Too-Human," of the doctrine of the super-man. Evolution beyond the present is mentioned but indirectly. The future, to this destructive Nietzsche, is non-existent. His eyes are continually turned toward the past; and they shift no further than the present. Only through implication is the Hellenic ideal voiced. Greek culture is used as a means of comparison, or as an arbitrary premise of his dialectic. The doctrine of eternal recurrence which was to form one of the bases of "Thus Spake Zarathustra" is not even suggested.

"Human, "All-Too-Human" came as a distinct surprise, even to Nietzsche's most intimate friends. For there were not sufficient indications in his earlier writings for one to predict so devastating and terrible an arraignment as this work. Not only in thought but in form was it a departure from all else he had written. The conventional essay had been abrogated for an aphoristic style. Here we find a series of paragraphs, varying in length from a few lines to a page or more, each dealing with a separate, and syllogistically detached, idea. This form gives the effect of a man felling a giant tree with a thousand blows of an ax, as in contradistinction to the gradual and continous method of sawing it down.

Despite its destructive qualities, the manner of this work is calm. It is, as a whole, an excellent example of those writings which Nietzsche himself has called Apollonian. At times one even feels a tentativeness in its utterings, not unlike the steps of a man might take in a region he knows to be full of quicksands. In this regard, it is interesting to note how a certain insecurity at the beginning of the work, which manifests itself in ultra-obscure passages, later gives way to a clarity and humor indicative of an almost wanton temerity.

A multiplicity of themes comes under Nietzsche's observation in this work. Not only is there a great deal of abstract reasoning, but also a vast amount of brilliant and incisive criticism of men and art. Ancient and modern philosophers, novelists, poets, musicians, dramatists, as well as theories of art, literature and music, here fall under Nietzsche's careful and acute analysis. There are passages of startling poetry interpolated between paragraphs of cynical and destructive research. Nietzsche is here the scholar, the philologist, the historian, the scientist. The amount of knowledge of things in nearly every line of human endeavor is astonishing. In his most elaborate processes of ratiocination he is always capable of adhering to authenticated facts. He never sidesteps into the purely metaphysical, or denies the existence of corporeality once it has been assumed as a hypothesis. He breaks, once and for all, with the verbalistic bats, the word-jugglers, the spiritual hasheesh-smokers and betel-chewers. Denying all reason, he is always scrupulously reasonable.

"Human, All-Too-Human" is the first book of Nietzsche's one should read. It is, in reality, an elaborate introduction to his later works. In his next book, "The Dawn of Day," comes the dawn of his philosophy. It is the first real battle in his righteous warfare. But it cannot be so readily understood or appreciated unless we have prepared ourselves for it by studying "Human, All-Too-Human."

NOVEL FOR ADULTS.

IN COTTON WOOL. By W. B. Maxwell. D. Appleton, New York.

"IN Cotton Wool," by W. B. Maxwell—a book which I have mentioned once or twice before in these columns—is no novel for babes. Readers suckled on the pap of romanticism will find their gums unfit for the proper mastication of Mr. Maxwell's ruthless and effective bit of realistic patho-psychology. However, "In Cotton Wool" is a book which every serious-minded reader should become acquainted with. It is a work of rare merit, a work which deals unsentimentally with certain phases of human development, a book in which the benign doctrine of free will does not show its painted face, a novel which attempts to show the great flux and reflux of environmental influence upon the human organisms.

Is it unpleasant? Perhaps. Is it pathological? Perhaps. Does it preach a pious moral of uplift? It does not. But these facts do not imply morbidity. The coddlers of life are forever labelling unpleasantness "morbid." If this were so, half of life would be morbid. Mr. Maxwell has adhered strictly, so far as I can see, to the verities of pathology. He has not attempted to inject his ideas, his ethics, or his prejudices into this life story of Leonard Calcraft: He has merely shown us the inevitable results which follow when a man—even the strongest and most high principled of men, such as Calcraft was—swathes his soul in cotton wool.

At the opening of the book we find "Lennie," at the age of 35, caring for an invalid father. It is no enviable task that the young man has. The father is crabbed, irascible, carping. But during his nurseship, Lennie enjoys a luxurious life. All of his brute needs are satisfied. He is "well off." It is Mr. Maxwell's task to show the disintegrating effect of this pampered and comfortable existence. One by one, the young man's ambitions drop from him. He settles more and more into the rut. His morals atrophy; his brain becomes inactive; he drifts with the tide.

Two women enter his life, but he does not bring himself to marry either. He is too weak to refuse the first one outright, and too comfortable to marry her. The other woman, a widow, kills herself. Those who know Lennie think perhaps the death of his father will be a turning point—that he will regain his early fortitude. But instead he settles in bachelor apartments in London and lives a laggard life of indolence. Then his mental faculties begin to deteriorate. The symptoms of brain softening set in, and we take leave of him in an asylum, babbling and broken.

An excellent and convincing story. Each step of Calcraft's degeneration is shown. The corroding effect of his comfortable life is traced with almost medical accuracy. The book is a potent study of human disintegration.

BORDER LINE ROMANCE.

THE RED LANE. By Holman Day. Harper & Brothers, New York.

HOLMAN DAY can always be counted on for life-like human beings, for adventurous tales untinged with melodrama, for romance, good humor and excitement.

"The Red Lane," his latest book, is no exception. This new story combines love, danger, politics, religion and smuggling in equal proportions. The red lane itself is a secret passage used by the smugglers on the borderland between Eastern Maine and Western New Brunswick. In this story we learn of the partnership of one Dave Roi, the head of the smugglers, and Vetal Beaulieu, whose place of business is on the boundary line of the two nations; how Roi has an eye on Beaulieu's beautiful young daughter Evangeline; how Aldrich, a young American customs officer, falls in love with the girl; how he attempts to rescue her from her evil surroundings; how a certain unscrupulous Blais stirs up political havoc in the community; how Evangeline is eventually abducted by old Beaulieu and Roi; how the dashing young Aldrich gives chase with hounds; how Clifford, the old legislator, fights against the powers of darkness; and how, in the end, Aldrich and Evangeline come together on a happy basis.

Many interesting types are introduced in the story—such as the good old priest, Pere Leclair, and Anaxagoras Billedeaux, the old fiddler; and Mr. Day has painted for us an interesting and sympathetic picture of the quaint life of Arcadia.

MIDDLETON-WATSON COMPANY INC.

BY SHAN F. BULLOCK.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Ulster just now is much in the foreground; and if foreboding...s mean anything, the province means soon to make a noise in the world. All that is, however, and happily, none of my business, and I merely refer to the matter here by way of recommending to you George Birmington's new story, "The Red Hand of Ulster." The book, I see, has already gone into a second edition, so the fears I had once, that British powers of humor would not be equal to appreciating it, were unnecessary; and judging by the reviews it gets on all sides, its success is assured. When you find two journals so opposed as the Freeman's Journal and the Spectator waxing enthusiastic over what is manifestly a political skit, you may be sure that its appeal is wider than to your average party man.

And so it is. Your fossilized party hack will hate the thing; your dryasdust will sneer at it; your sobersides in whom is no vestige of fun will throw it across the room; but you and I will read it twice or three times for sheer joy of laughter. It is all so absurd, whimsical, topsy-turvy; and yet, looked at aright, no saner story has been penned by the man whose fame it is to have created that irrepressible cleric and liar J. J. Meldon.

I must not give the fantasia, as the Spectator happily calls it, away, for no description could possibly do it justice, and it would be a sin to keep anyone from reading it. Enough to say that it concerns an imaginary rebellion, the scene of which is loyalist Ulster, the maker of which is an American millionaire named Conroy, himself the son of a Fenian, and the principals in which are Orange leaders, Tory gentry, a professor of Trinity, Ulster unionists and other malcontents. It is to buck up against the British lion that Conroy lays his nefarious plot. It is to show the world that dying in the last ditch is no fashion of speech that the loyalists of Ulster drill and march and sing their war hymns. It is because the nationalists are tame cat pacificists nowadays that they stand aloof, allowing the rebellion to accomplish itself to such purpose that at last British troops and Ulster loyalists meet in Belfast and discharge quantities of lead from rifles and machine guns to the destruction of tramcars and windows.

For the loyalists cannot shoot straight and the troops will not; so in sheer disgust, after a mad, wild while of serio-comic operations, during which McConkey tries to sink the British fleet with his bonny machine gun and the fleet responds by smashing the statue of Queen Victoria before the city hall, the loyalist rebels demand from England—what do you think—an Ireland free of everything English save a pictorial lord lieutenant, whose salary is guaranteed by Conroy. And now I have told you; but read and see, and if you don't laugh, pray to the gods for a sense of humor.

Not many biographers of the late Miss Octavia Hill, that great philanthropist, have referred to the part played by Ruskin in forwarding her career as a social reformer. She had as a girl been one of Ruskin's favorite drawing pupils, and in consequence had the good fortune to keep his lifelong friendship. One day at Denmark Hill the two were talking, when Ruskin confided in her his weariness at the daily round of seemingly unprofitable drudgery. "I paint, take my mother for a drive, dine with friends, or answer correspondents," said he, pointing to a heap of letters; "but one longs to do something satisfying." "Well, why not do something," replied Miss Hill—"try providing better homes for the poor." Ruskin turned round sharply in his seat. "How could it be done?" he asked in his eager way. "Have you a plan?"

Miss Hill had a plan; she unfolded it; Ruskin approved it cordially; and at last he provided a working capital of £3000 for the purpose of financing Miss Hill in her attempt to work three cottages, in a slum neighborhood off the Marylebone road, on model lines and on business principles. How she succeeded, and to what splendid extent her scheme eventually developed, all interested in social work have knowledge, and such of us who are familiar with our Fors Clavigera will recall the several references made therein to Miss Hill and her great work. What specially pleased Ruskin was the proof she gave him that philanthropy could be carried on as a business proposition. Here you had an oasis in the wilderness of London, beautiful homes, happy tenants, a model landlady—yet the oasis paid 5 per cent. on capital. "My own part in the work," wrote Ruskin, "was in taking 5 instead of 10 per cent., which the houses would have been made to pay to another landlord; and in pledging myself neither to sell the property nor raise the rents. . . ."

A shrewd but exciting time-killer is to be encountered in Mr. Wyndham Martin's "All the World to Nothing." In it we are apprised of the astonishing adventures of Mr. Chester Dick of New York. Mr. Dick came from a very aristocratic, well-known and wealthy family; for on one occasion, when he was introducing himself, he added, "Perhaps you know the Dicks of New York."

Well, Mr. Dick was up against it, financially, and one night he set out on the unpleasant and difficult mission of making a money-lender disgorge. What would have happened had he found the money-lender? We do not know. Even Mr. Dick confessed later he did not know what he would have done. His end was definite, but his means had been undecided.

The reason that Mr. Dick did not connect with the money-lender was because he was overtaken by that distressing accident which befalls every third hero of light fiction, namely; he mistook the house, and entered instead the apartment—of a lady! Nor was it the apartment of any ordinary lady, whose life moved in the usual conventional routine. Far from it. When, after a few moments conversation and explanation, the young man asked, "Am I allowed to go?" the lady answered him with cold eyes, "Not yet; because you are going to marry me."

A pretty predicament for a Dick of New York to be in. But there was no escape, for the only other alternative was to be arrested for attempted burglary. The Rev. Marcus Plumm was called in and the ceremony was performed. Immediately afterward, the young lady placed a pourboire in Mr. Dick's hand and told him to sneak out the back way.

This brings us to page 68. We will now with one fell leap pass to page 403 and learn that all ends well. What happens in the 335 pages I shall never know. I prefer not to know. Mystery, after all, is the essence of pleasure. There will always be an indefiniteness in my mind about those pages. In imagination I shall fill them full of the most startling events, the most rhapsodic happenings, the most passionate love making, the most flabbergasting adventures. Furthermore, I can change this story at will to suit myself. Given the beginning and the end, I am free to join them with whatever details fit my mood. Had I read these pages I would probably have forgotten them. The concrete always evades us; but the unknowable, the speculative, makes for immortality.

NOVELIZED PLAY.

THE WOMAN. By Albert Payson Terhune. Founded on the play by William C. DeMille. Bobbs Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

AGAIN we encounter the indecent and depressing art of novelizing plays. It seems never to abate. Let a poor play have a "successful" season on Broadway, and some sweating hack pounces upon it, stuffs it, and puts it forth as a novel. I have never yet seen a novelized play as good as the play. And as a general rule, this practice may be said to consist of transforming third-rate plays into tenth-rate novels.

"The Woman," by William C. DeMille and David Belasco, novelized by Albert Payson Terhune, is no exception to the general rule. Nine-tenths of the success of this play was due to the Belasco "effects"—those details which have made Mr. Belasco an idol of the people whose appreciation of a play is limited to a juvenile delight in the spectacular. "The Woman" in dramatic form was a silly and conventional piece, full of those maudlin heroics and sonorous platitudes so dear to the American heart. Like most of Mr. Belasco's productions, it was a distinctly second-rate play—the sort of dramatic claptrap that America must shed before the advent of the drama of ideas is possible. In novel form, it loses what little scenic merit it had in its production; although, let it be said that Mr. Terhune hasb een conscientious in his rendition. Even if he is a hack, let it be noted that he does his hack-work well.

AN AMBITIOUS MARRIAGE.

THE TURNSTILE. By A. E. W. Mason. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

A BOOK which is interesting, despite the fact that it has a broken backbone, is A. E. W. Mason's, "The Turnstile." I do not know exactly what Mr. Mason is trying to get at in this book. There are times when I suspect him of writing merely a light novel for the warm weather—a novel of romance and adventure with no "purpose" or "problem." But at other times he drops unexpectedly into the profound, and if one should open the book at these places without reading what preceded, one would immediately suspect him of a serious object.

There is enough adventure in the first half of the book to fill any summer novel. In fact, the book might have ended with Cynthia's marriage to Harry Rames, and been a complete and diverting novelette. But this, to all intents and purposes, is merely the beginning of a serious social and temperamental study which lasts until the closing chapter.

The second half of the book is unconvincing. It is not sufficiently motivated; nor ...

WHITMAN SELECTIONS.

THE ROLLING EARTH. By Walt Whitman. Compiled by Waldo R. Browne. Houghton Mifflin Company, New York.

"THE ROLLING EARTH," with a subtitle "Outdoor Scenes and Thoughts from the Writings of Walt Whitman," compiled by Waldo R. Browne, is one of the happiest selections from Whitman's writings which has come to me. Though dealing mostly with themes of the out-of-doors, the book, in its 220 pages, gives an excellent idea of Whitman's best work. It catches him in his most buoyant and intelligent moods. For in spite of old Walt's maudlin affection for the heaver of wood and the bringer of water, in spite of all his tireless reiteration, he had the heart of a great poet. In the open, when the pious piffle of his socialism was forgotten, he write vividly and passionately. He caught the spirit of the nakedness of things as no other American writer. The best of such of his writings are to be found in Mr. Browne's compilation.

WITH THE AUTHORS.

Thomas Dixon, author of "The Sins of the Father," has been spending the summer in Europe, principally in Paris and England.

For the past several months Booth Tarkington has been hard at work at his home near Indianapolis writing short stories, and he expects soon to begin a new novel.

Pierre Loti, the French author and dramatist, will make his first visit to America this fall. He is part author with Judith Gautier of "The Daughter of Heaven," a drama of modern China, which will be presented in New York the coming season. The play will later be issued in book form. Loti's Eastern sympathies were sufficiently strong to convert him to Mohammedanism. He is a severe critic of British rule in India and Egypt.

George A. Birmingham, well-known for his humorous portrayals of Irish life, is known in private life as the Reverend James O. Hannay. He has recently been elected a canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The new story by Jacques Futrelle, entitled "My Lady's Garter," published this month, derives a pathetic interest from the fact that its author was one of those who lost their lives in the Titanic disaster.

Natalie S. Lincoln, author of "The Trevor Case," a detective story that ran through five editions in as many months, has left Washington for the New England hills, where she is completing her new mystery story.

Mary Johnston, the novelist, has been completing the final chapters of her novel, "Cease Firing," which will be published this fall. While at Hot Springs, Vt., where she has done her writing, she has also been overseeing the building of her new house.

Miss Ada Van Stone Harris, who was recently elected to the vice-presidency of the National Education Association, is the editor of "Favorites from Fairyland"—a collection of the world's best fairy tales arranged for supplementary reading in the graded schools. Miss Harris, who is now assistant superintendent of primary schools in Richmond, Va., was formerly assistant superintendent of schools in Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Dell H. Munger's recent book, "The Wind Before the Dawn," was completed in Palo Alto, Cal., where the author lives. Most of her life has been spent on the outskirts of civilization, and she knows the life of the plains, which she pictures in her novel, in its most intimate details.

Arthur C. Train, whose "C. Q., or in the Wireless House," has recently appeared, spends much of his time motoring abroad, frequently driving his own car. He and his family are in England and Scotland this month, and during the summer have been doing Spain, the Pyrenees, the republic of Andorra, Normandy and Brittany.

Nashville, Tenn., is the home of a number of authors of recent successful fiction. Among those who are there creating a new center of literary activities are Mrs. Corra Harris, author of "The Circuit Rider's Wife" and "The Recording Angel;" F. P. Elliott, who wrote "The Hauited Pajamas," and John Trotwood Moore, author of "The Summer Hymnal."

After winding up his contract with several newspapers to write special feature stories of the Republican National Convention ...

...where he will make a stay of several months. For the last few years Mr. Ade has been giving the greater part of his attention to his Indiana farm.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin is at present in London, where her play, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," receives its first English production next week.

Mrs. Clara Louise Burnham leaves her summer home this week to return to Chicago. Mrs. Burnham's latest book, "The Inner Flame," will be published this month.

Mrs. Mary Agnes Hamilton, whose first novel, "Less Than the Dust," will be published this month, is the daughter of the late Prof. Robert Adamson of Manchester, Aberdeen and Glasgow universities. She was born in Manchester, educated at Glasgow and Newnham, and spent a year in Germany. Then she was assistant to the lecturer in history at Cardiff for a year, and in 1905 married G. J. Hamilton, secretary to the Royal Economic Society. Since then she has lived in London, acting as secretary to the National Poor Law Réform Association and taking keen interest in the non-militant suffragist movement.

Rufus H. Gilmore, author of "The Mystery of the Second Shot," one of the successful detective stories of the year, is spending the summer at Scituate on the Massachusetts coast, writing his new mystery story.

Joseph C. Lincoln, whose stories of Cape Cod has won him a host of friends and a wide circle of readers, has signed contracts to go upon the lecture platforms during the coming year. "How to Be Happy Though a Humorist" is reported to be only one of the topics to be treated. "The Postmaster," his latest story of Cape Cod folks, has gone into another new edition. The reading public likes to smile, and his old sea captains always make this world seem a comfortable, happy place to live in.

James Bryce, British Ambassador to the United States, who has been traveling in Australia for some time, has just left for Washington via San Francisco, where he is due to arrive about a week before the publication of his new book, "South America; Observations and Reflections."

Hostesses who have learned to rely on the "Dame Curtsey" books of games, recipes and general aid to the housekeeper and entertainer, have often wondered just who Dame Curtsey is. The pen name covers the interesting personality of Ellye Howell Glover, who is a staff contributor to the Chicago Record-Herald, and to the International Press Bureau. Mrs. Holbrook—to give the lady her married name—was born in Ohio, spent her early childhood in Michigan, was educated in the South and made a special study of music under Alfred Bariff, from whom she received her teacher's certificate. But finding the pen more to her liking than teaching music, she took it up with a success that is measured by the many editions of her "Dame Curtsey" books. Messrs. A. C. McClurg & Co. announce for this fall "Dame Curtsey's Party Pastimes for the Up-to-date Hostess."

There is always a story connected with a pseudonym. One which is entitled to a high place among the interesting explanations is that of how the author of "A Man's World" came to choose Albert Edwards for his pen name. Like all others it is a bit of a test to one's credulity, but . . . it runs like this: Mr. Edwards, for that is what he will have to be called, was in Russia writing a series of articles for a New York periodical on political subjects. When the editors of the periodical were ready to go to press with the first story the question came up as to what name it was to be published under. To bring it out with the author's real name attached was impossible, for he was still in Russia, and should it become known that he was the correspondent and the author of these particular papers, his life would be in the greatest danger. One of the editors called up a friend who was good at suggestions and asked him what combination of names to use with the Russian articles. The friend's reply, after a moment's hesitation, was "Albert Edwards." The psychology of this answer was that it was just at the time of the death of the late King of England and his name was upon everyone's lips.

The recent publication of Alice Gerstenberg's novel of theatrical life, "Unquenched Fire," was ushered in by a most unusual circumstance. The book had been widely announced and was about to be issued, when the publishers received a frantic letter from a leading bookseller: "One of our customers, who is a physician, has an odd case on hand. His patient in his lucid moments insists upon having the first copy of "Unquenched Fire" that comes off the press. He has read announcements of it and his physician prescribes it. Can you oblige us in the matter? If so, please send in the book at once or a set of sheets, if you can patch one together. We must hear by return mail." It is needless to say that the request was complied with.

Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, author of "The Black Pearl," is constantly interviewed by newspaper reporters on every possible topic, from her own books to the political policies of her husband's cousin, Gov. Woodrow Wilson. She states that her patience was exhausted last week when a reporter from one of the leading daily papers came with a request for an interview on an important topic of the day. Mrs. Woodrow is a busy author, but she stopped work to cope with what she expected to be a timely problem. The question, however, proved to be "Are men as good looking today as they were in King Arthur's time?" "Go back to your editor," Mrs. Woodrow replied indignantly, "and tell him I don't remember."

It is a curious fact that some of the most successful romantic novels of recent years have been written by very young women. Miss Bertha Runkle's "Helmet of Navarre" is one, for instance. Miss Runkle was under 21 when it appeared. Miss Marjorie Bowen, with her "Viper of Milan," is another example. Miss Marion Polk Angellotti, the author of "The Burgundian," is only 22 years of age, and her first romantic novel appeared before she was 21.

BY BERNARD ARTON.

BERLIN, Sept. 8.—Gerhart Hauptmann will probably be the 1912 Nobel Prize Winner for belles-lettres. His name has been considered by the Swedish Academy and is guaranteed a majority of votes. Hauptmann is engaged in writing a new drama called "Der Bogenspanner Odysseus"—"The Bow Bender Odysseus." The center point of the drama is the attitude of the newly-returned Ulysses to his son Telemachus. Hauptmann has been meanly done out of $50,000. He lately got a letter from a firm of lawyers announcing that a lady named Herzog, who was unknown to him, had left him a $50,000 legacy. Before he had time to reply there arrived a second letter saying that the first letter was a mistake, as the $50,000 was intended for another man of the same name.

Grand Duke Ernst Ludwig of Hesse is one of Europe's crowned authors. The Grand Duke is a son of the "Princess Alice," the favorite daughter of Queen Victoria of England. He is a first cousin of the Kaiser and of King George, and a brother-in-law of the Czar and of Prince Henry of Prussia. He has published under the initials "E.L.H." a poem dealing with a Rhine legend. The Grand Duke has also written a fairy-tale play which, under a pseudonym, was produced at Darmstadt Court Theater.

The students of Bonn have taken up arms against the plan to erect a worthy monument to Heinrich Heine, German's greatest lyrical poet. It is thirty years since the now veteran novelist Paul Heyse started this plan. Since then, Duesseldorf, Mayence and Hamburg all have had the idea of erecting monuments to Heine. Yet Heine, though he has a monument in Bronx Park, New York, has none in Germany. The obstacle is the opposition of Kaiser Wilhelm, the court, and the Conservatives to Heine as a Francophile freethinker, and insulter of the Hohenzollerns. To progressive Germans Heine is a hero; and the attempts to give him a memorial usually lead to feuds between political parties.

The aristocratic students of Bonn invariably lead the anti-Heine demonstrations. At present the Borussians, the student corps of which Kaiser Wilhelm is chief, threaten to march to the offending town, and kick the Heine monument into the dust. It was such a threat which frightened out of its plan the city of Duesseldorf when it first projected a monument. Heine shortly before his death wrote to his brother predicting that Duesseldorf would some day put up a statue to him.

At Freiburg has been issued the Autobiography of Karl May, the robber-novelist, who died a few months ago after a sensational series of libel actions. May, though unknown abroad, was the most popular author Germany has produced. Thirty of his works of adventure and travel (all fakes, for he had never traveled) sold about seven million copies. At the height of May's fame an enemy exposed the fact that he had spent his youth as a robber and jailbird. In his autobiography May admits his offenses; and describes his exploits as highway robber in the Saxon forests. He says that he planned to write his wonderful "travel books," while in jail undergoing a sentence of four years' penal servitude for robbery and arson.

The turbulent Albanians have found a new poet to inspire them to fight the Turks. His name is Ila Achimen; and he has printed in the Albanian language two fine books of verse. One of the books figures in the Turco-Albanian quarrel. The Turks attempted to make the Albanians print their books in the Turkish (i.e. Arabic) character. Ila Achimen refused, and printed it in Latin letters. The Turks seized the volumes. Ila Achimen is a raw mountaineer, six feet-four high, enormously fat, and nowise poetic to look on. However, native Albanian critics say he is a great poet; and it is not wise to differ from an Albanian critic.

Germans are the greatest readers of books, particularly of books on political and social subjects. The Chemnitz Literary Society says that in 1911 there were issued from the press 11,500 serious works dealing with international affairs, home politics, armaments, and sociology. This is independently of the vast official literature on these subjects. Most of the 11,500 are "brochures," that is, shortish pamphlets. As a rule the German does not read serious articles in monthly reviews or magazines. He buys them separately as pamphlets, and keeps them.

Count Witte has issued a new book under the title "On the Subject of Nationalism." In his book he attacks bitterly the fashionable form of Russian Nationalism, which was introduced by the late M. Stolypin. Witte is stated to be writing his memoirs, beginning with his youth as a minor railroad official, and ending with the Portsmouth Peace Conference and the Russian Revolution. The memoirs will be published twenty years after his death, but not before 1940.

A remarkable case of what Russians call "Literary Nietzscheanism" is reported from Moscow. A university student named Ryleyeff was accused of murdering his friend Yelagin. Yelagin was an ambitious poet. Ryleyeff was acquitted, because all that he said that he desired to become famous by publishing Yelagin's poems as his own. The poems had pleased him immensely; and he considered them better than the best works of Pushkin. Yelagin was a weak-minded young man, given to gloomy thoughts; and Ryleyeff had urged him to kill himself. When Yelagin was dead, Ryleyeff took his poems to a publisher; but was struck dumb by the publisher's report that the poems were schoolboyish and worthless. Ryleyeff says that he got the idea of the crime by reading a decadent Polish author.

Russians are following the example of Germans by attempting to clear their language of words borrowed from Western European countries. A meeting of literary men lately decided to start a Russian Language League similar to the German Language League, to make war on foreignisms and to invent pure Russian equivalents for them. One of the chiefs of the movement is the politician, Volodomiroff, who recently delivered a speech in the Duma protesting against the corruption of the Russian language with new political expressions of foreign origin.

The illiterate peasants in the first and second Dumas had a craze for European political words; and one of them caused an uproar by using the word "prerogative" in the sense of "responsibility." The German Language League which the Russians want to copy, has 30,000 members. It makes relentless war on French menus, English sport terms, Italian music words, and popular Americanisms. The Kaiser backs it up.

BOOK NEWS.

The Putnams have in train for publication about the middle of September a new edition of "Love Poems of Three Centuries (1600-1900,)" compiled by Jessie F. O'Donnell, author of "Heart Lyrics." To cull the love poems from the poets of three centuries was no easy task, though unquestionably a labor of love. The volume contains more than six hundred poems, representing nearly three hundred authors, and includes every phase of love, from the earliest limits of the passion to the perfect consummation of the final heartbreak. Each poem and quotation is topically indexed. The compiler, herself a poet of no mean ability, has shown rare critical ability in the selection she has made.

The publishers of Dr. Maria Montessori's own book, "The Montessori Method," Frederick A. Stokes Company, announces that within a few months they will issue a translation of Dr. Montessori's latest and most extensive book, "Anthropologia Pedagogica," which goes deep into the years of experimentation on which Dr. Montessori has based her new educational methods, and gives to the reader the scientific bases of her theories. The book, which is now being translated by Dr. Frederic Taber Cooper, will be fully illustrated and provided with numerous diagrams.

The educational value of A. Maurice Low's "The American People: A Study in National Psychology" has received fresh proof in the request made to the author to deliver lectures on the book before many of the western universities this winter.

The autobiography of Napoleon prepared by R. M. Johnston under the title of "The Corsican" and published in this country by Houghton-Mifflin Company, has been enjoying a success in France quite equal to its popularity in England and America. Published on May 15 under the title "Napoleon, Par Lui Meme," it has run through two editions in three months and a third has just been announced.

A second printing of Ralph Straus's "The Prison Without a Wall" and a fourth printing of Romain Rolland's much-discussed musical novel, "Jean Christophe," are announced by Messrs. Henry Holt & Co.

Announcement is made by Doubleday, Page & Co. that it has been necessary to postpone the publication of "The Legend of Saint Jerry," by Roy Rolfe Gilson until next spring. The book had been scheduled for fall.

Dr. Albert Hale of the Pan-American Union left New York August 3 for an extended tour of South America to promote friendliness and good feeling for the United States among the countries of the Southern Hemisphere. Dr. Hale is the author of the "Practical Guide to Latin America," which is considered the standard guidebook to the various countries to the south of us, and on his journey will correct proof for a new and revised edition of his "Guide," which his publishers, Small, Maynard & Co., will publish this fall.

"Fires," by Wilfrid Wilson Gibson, the author of the much-discussed "Daily Bread," is published this week. This, like the writer's previous books, deals with the lives of the folk who have unusual patience with her husband's shortcomings; of the flute player; of the shop and the shopkeeper; of a machine and some of those who feed it.

Doubleday, Page & Co. announce the publication at the end of August of the following books: "Birds of Eastern North America," by Chester A. Reed. Illustrated. "The Dog Book," by James Watson, revised edition. Illustrated.

W. Heath Robinson, one of the best-known English illustrators, and popular here because of his pictures for "The Arabian Nights" and "Midsummer Night's Dream," has, this year, also broken into the ranks of authors. He has both written and illustrated an elaborate gift book entitled "Bill the Minder," and Messrs. Henry Holt & Co. are just issuing it. There are sixteen plates in full color and some hundred line drawings in the text. The story is intended for both old and young. Bill "minds" a delightful assortment of children, and after he and his charges meet the King of Troy—driven from his throne by a too strict populace—the adventures they have will make it unnecessary to "mind" any healthy child while he is hearing about them.

Of the editing of Shakespeare there is no end, but it has remained for the Boston publishing house of Little, Brown & Co. to have the text of Richard Grant White, the Shakespearean scholar, revised for a new pocket edition in twelve volumes, which will be issued in the autumn.

While preserving Richard Grant White's authoritative text in the main, the editors, William P. Trent, M.A., LL.D., professor of English Literature in Columbia University, Benjamin Wells, Ph.D., and John B. Henneman, Ph.D., late professor of English in the University of the South, have made such changes in the light of the investigations and opinions of modern and recent editors—from the Cambridge edition to Furness—as seem desirable in order to embody in this edition the ripest American and English scholarships.

A new, specially imported Scotch type provides a most readable text page and each volume contains four illustrations, most of which have been specially reproduced in photogravure by the renowned house of Goupil & Co., and which represent the most famous artists who have interpreted the scenes and characters of Shakespeare.

That Louis Napoleon was the natural son of Napoleon I is set forth with startling evidence in "Intimate Memoirs of Napoleon III," translated from the private diary of a lifelong and intimate friend of Louis Napoleon, the late Baron D'Ambes, which Little, Brown & Co. will shortly publish in two volumes in this country. The Baron follows his hero from boyhood through the years of exile and adventure as a conspirator in Italy, as a refugee in London, as President, and finally as Emperor of the French.

Eleanor Hallowell Abbott's "The Sick-a-bed Lady" has just gone to press for the ninth time. Miss Abbott's earlier book success, "Molly Make-believe," has been dramatized, and is being produced in different cities this month.

Many Californians will be interested in a new book entitled "The Three Sisters of Lord Russell of Killowen," which Messrs. Longmans will publish shortly.

Mother Baptist Russell was the pioneer Sister of Mercy in California, and all made their impression on their time. Catherine Russell was a woman of exceptional gifts, doing memorable work in this State, and died in San Francisco in August, 1898. Although the Cuban War was raging at that time, the newspapers devoted columns to accounts of her illness and death.

The three sisters of the late Chief Justice of England devoted their lives to good works. The story of what they did is not exciting, but it is interesting to those who believe in good works, and like to read about them.

The new book by the author of "The Lady of the Decoration" tells the story of "The Lady," married and staying temporarily in Japan while her husband, Jack, is working among the bubonic plague patients in Mukden. The story is related in letters to "Mate," in the manner of "The Lady of the Decoration"—and it is said to be that unusual product, a sequel which is really as good as its successful original.

Alice Hegan Rice's new novel, "A Romance of Billy Goat Hill," is the fourth book since the appearance of her success, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." The new book is said to be much longer than any of the others, being partly the result of a suggestion made to Mrs. Rice by the late Richard Watson Gilder, that she should try a larger canvas and write a big novel.

Clayton Sedgwick Cooper has put the fruit of many years' travel among educational institutions, both in this country and abroad and of his study of college conditions into a book entitled "Why Go to College," which The Century Company will issue in the fall with many illustrations.

Dr. Alvah H. Doty, formerly Health Officer of the port of New York, is spending the summer in the mountains. His publishers, D. Appleton & Co., have recently issued a new, enlarged edition of his book, "Prompt Aid to the Injured." Dr. Doty has just finished a valuable book dealing with the mosquito and effective methods for its extermination.

Her Ninetieth Year.

To live to be 89 years old, and to retain all one's faculties to such an extent that the regular rising hour in the morning is 6 o'clock; a long walk is a feature of every day, and to be able to do out a washing Monday morning if necessary, is an achievement not exactly common even in this strenuous age. But such fortune befalls Mrs. Mary A. King who has the honor of being the oldest member of the First Methodist Church where she is affectionately known as "Mother King."

The warm-hearted women of that church did not permit her birthday to pass unnoticed and some 75 of them assembled last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Brodbeck on North Soto street to celebrate the event. The guest of honor, whose clear blue eyes and radiant smile are as bright as if she were entering her nineteenth instead of her ninetieth year, sat in the midst of the happy company, surrounded with flowers and showered with post cards of greeting. A huge birthday cake, with its 89 candles bravely blazing, was a feature of the occasion, and one of the women in the receiving line wore her wedding gown of more than fifty years ago. The congratulatory speech of Dr. Brodbeck, and the words of presentation of flowers and messages of greeting from Mrs. Helen A. Birdsall were happily responded to by "Mother King" who declared that the occasion marked the happiest day of her long life.

Southern Women Meet.

Mrs. Albert M. Stephens will be hostess at the first fall meeting of the Los Angeles Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy which will meet at her home, No. 611 Kingsley drive next Tuesday afternoon. This organization now numbers some 200 members of the leading Southern women of the city, one of whom, Mrs. Samuel Cary Dunlap, has held the office of State president for two terms, having been re-elected at the annual convention in Sacramento last May.

It is the intention of the members to take up the serious study of Southern literature this year, in addition to the philanthropic work which the organization always carries on. Next Tuesday Mrs. W. S. Bartlett will speak on "The New South;" Mrs. Willett Andrews will sing, accompanied by Mrs. J. B. Franklin, and Mrs. Grantland S. Long will review Mrs. Burton Harrison's book, "Recollections Grave and Gay."

Women Lead in Church Collections.

The great Methodist Episcopal Church, according to reliable statistics published in the Christian Republic, would be bankrupt in its benovalencies were it not for the women and the Sunday-school children whose offerings last year totaled $1,851,660—more than fifty per cent. of the benevolent collections for 1911 in that church. The total per capita of the membership was 112 cents for benevolences, of which the women's societies and Sunday-schools gave 58 cents and the churches 54 cents.

Record Building Year.

The year 1912-13 bids fair to be active in the building of women's clubhouses in Southern California. The million-dollar structure on Hill street which will rival in elegance the famous Colonial Club of New York, sets the pace in price and splendor. The big municipal auditorium to be erected on Normal Hill will not be specifically a woman's clubhouse but nevertheless, it cannot be forgotten that it will owe its existence chiefly to the efforts and persistence of the club women of Los Angeles. Mrs. D. C. McClan, president of the Friday Morning Club, being the leading spirit in the enterprise.

The Highland Park Ebell Club will open its handsome new $10,000 clubhouse January 1st; the Shakespeare Club of Pasadena plans an open-air theater wherein to present the plays of Shakespeare in a replica of the old Elizabethan playhouse and the Upland Women's Club has bought a lot for $2000 and will build as soon as practicable.

Her Business in Life.

The wife of a well-known and popular local city pastor was called upon the other day at a missionary meeting to make a speech. About the first words she uttered were these: "Ladies, I am not a speech-maker. It has been my business in life to create an atmosphere favorable to the growth and development of a preacher. I am not a speaker myself."

She then proceeded to "talk," and truth it is to say that she certainly belied the truth of her own assertion.

But the thing that so impressed me was the fact that this woman recognized and accepted her mission in life and, instead of trying to compete with her husband, gave her energies to "creating an atmosphere" in the home life favorable to the intellectual advancement of her husband, the father of her children and the bread-winner of the family.

How many wives do this, I wonder? I distinctly call to mind the family of a certain distinguished writer where I was visiting. He was absorbed in his study in the preparation of a lecture he was engaged to deliver a few days later. Into the quiet of that study his wife, a brilliant, bustling woman, rushed with impatient summons for him to accompany her to a certain garden party. In vain he protested, but she would listen to no "excuses," as she called them, and dragged the poor man off, willy nilly, to attend the social function when all his heart and soul was left behind in the study.

She certainly "created an atmosphere," but not exactly a congenial one.

Methodist Mission Rally.

Women from many near-by cities and towns were in attendance at the annual Woman's Home Missionary meeting of Los Angeles District, which was held in the First Methodist Church, Friday. Delegates from Long Beach, Santa Monica, Whittier, San Pedro, Redondo, Compton, Ocean Park and Hollywood were present to report the year's activities in their respective auxiliaries.

One of the secretaries reported that the Southern California conference is the banner money-raiser in the National Association, its 5000 women having contributed the largest amount of cash of any one conference in the country for the past five consecutive years.

A feature of the morning session was the address of Rev. J. C. Elliott concerning the new Methodist Hospital about to be built, a picture of which, together with a detailed account, having been published in last Sunday's Times. It is proposed, Dr. Elliott explained, to begin a campaign for subscriptions amounting to $75,000 immediately after conference that the administration building may be built and furnished at once. With the two additional wings, the hospital when complete will represent an outlay of $250,000 and will accommodate 250 patients. Some subscriptions have already been made, and there is excellent prospect for a quick and successful campaign.

An entertaining feature of the morning was the vocal solo by Miss Ethel Coleman, who took time from her hurried preparations for departure for the East, where she is going for vocal study, to come to the meeting and sing.

The secretary of First Church auxiliary reported that its membership has just been largely increased by the more than fifty members of the Young Woman's Home Missionary Society uniting with the senior organization, thus adding half a hundred enthusiastic young women who are zealous workers.

At the afternoon session the following district officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. J. Q. Williams; first vice-president, Mrs. Silas Sprowls; second vice-president, Mrs. C. M. Buck; third vice-president, Mrs. F. E. Brush of Long Beach; fourth vice-president, Mrs. W. O. Jackson of Hollywood; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. Humphrey; recording secretary, Mrs. C. F. Huse; treasurer, Mrs. Emma J. Smith of Sierra Madre; secretary young people's work, Mrs. Morris; Home Guards, Miss Ellen Chase; Mother's Jewels, Mrs. Joseph Hughes; mite boxes, Mrs. Josephine Young of Ocean Park; literature, Mrs. A. M. Hathaway; press, Mrs. A. E. Pomeroy; temperance, Miss Laura Charnock; supplies, Mrs. C. M. Neely; systematic benevolence, Mrs. C. B. Dyson; hospital work, Mrs. J. Orville Nave; Spanish work, Mrs. S. L. W. Beck; Japanese work, Mrs. Emma Baird; David and Margaret Home, Mrs. S. M. Kiser; immigration, Mrs. D. S. Evans of Whittier.

Dr. Henry I. Rasmus of Long Beach gave a fine address on "The Regicide of the Republic and Their Overthrow" at the afternoon session, and the women's quartette of the Los Angeles Sunday School Graded Union, composed of Mmes. J. E. Ward, F. O. Glazier and Misses Alice Brouwer and Pearl Cooper, sang.

With Women Writers.

It is gratifying to note in the September notes of recent books published that women play so large a part as authors of "best sellers." Mary Antin's "The Promised Land" has reached the fourth edition, the total number of copies printed being 15,000, in a little over three months.

Mary Johnston demonstrates her versatility by completing the final chapters of her novel, "Cease Firing," while she is simultaneously overseeing the building of her new home at Hot Springs, Va.

Miss Ada Van Stone Harris, who was recently elected to the vice-presidency of the National Educational Association, is the editor of "Favorites from Fairyland"—a collection of the world's best fairy tales arranged for supplementary reading in the graded schools. Miss Harris, who is now assistant superintendent of primary schools in Richmond, Va., was formerly assistant superintendent of schools in Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Dell H. Munger's recent book, "The Wind Before the Dawn," was completed at Palo Alto, where she lives. Much of her life, however, has been spent on the outskirts of civilization, and she knows the life of the plains, which she pictures in her novel, in its most intimate details.

Mary Austin, whose desert stories are familiar to all Californians, came so closely in touch with the people of the stage when her play, "The Arrow Maker," was produced, that she deals in her new book, "A Woman of Genius," with an actress. She always had a passionate love of the drama and although she had little opportunity of going to the theater, yet she organized an amateur stock company in the little desert mining camp where she and her husband lived, and produced a number of Shakespearean plays.

FREAKS.

James Watkins, a miner, who was recently lodged in jail at Searchlight, Nev., charged with having stolen a pair of lace curtains, asked the jailer to see that his pet cats were fed. The jailer laughed at him, but at nightfall Watkins broke jail and tramped forty miles across the desert to attend to his pets.

Although he had never been known to speak or understand a word of English, August Neumann, aged 73, of Marblehead, Wis., who suddenly became insane, has been talking in broken English. He will be taken to the Northern Hospital at Oshkosh.

William D. Cooper of Boston, recently arrested for non-support of his family, when asked by Judge Burke what his trade was, said his wasn't a trade—it was nearer a profession. He taught people how to play golf, he said. "I'll give you two weeks on probation to find some real work," said his honor.

Samuel T. Winterton of the First Baptist Church at Keyport, N. J., has completed fifty consecutive years of perfect attendance at Sunday-school. At the age of 3 he went to Sunday-school for the first time, and, though he has been ill occasionally, he has never missed a session. He has about 2650 attendances to his credit. During his half-century of attendance he has received twenty-eight Bibles as rewards of regularity. He is said to hold the world's record for devotion to Sunday-school.

When Sergt. Joseph R. Finney, in charge of the army recruiting station at Muncie, Ind., began examining Joseph A. Benson, who wished to become a regular soldier, the recruiting officer found that he was examining a living edition of religious works, a world's geography reduced to the smallest amount of surface in the way of maps, and a farmer's guide, to say nothing of an art gallery of a kind, all tatooed on the prospective soldier, who passed the examination successfully, and who was duly enlisted. The Lord's prayer, inscribed in large blue letters, down his chest; the globe, with sixteen United States battleships surrounding it; a chicken, a hog and various wild animals. The continents and seas on the globe were accurately marked off to correspond with Mercator's chart of the globe's projection.

C. E. Downer of Rogers, Ark., claims to have the champion peach tree of the world. The tree is fifteen years old and has never failed to bear fruit since it began to produce, he says. Its yield this season was more than twenty-five boxes. Last year the tree bore eighty-eight peaches that weighed 67½ pounds, or an average of thirteen ounces each.

A Thing Important to Remember

Other stores besides this one are offering new fall garments at as low prices as ours. But here is the point, they are NOT offering the equal of our garments at our prices. Nobody is, nobody has.

Very Special Monday Sale

$10

—for Suits Worth $30

And here is a wonderful opportunity. A shipment of suits that should have reached us two months ago, the latest Summer designs, has just come in. Rather than take them back the manufacturer has authorized this price, and will complacently try to take his loss. Mind you, they're not early Spring styles, but late mid-Summer styles.

Some Fall Models Included at $10

Another lot of garments which we will put in at this same price will include some very striking fall models with the 32-inch coats. These are plain tailored styles, but rich and dependable.

—for New Coats

We believe that this store will be the coat leader all during the season. It is certain that we have never had greater appreciation expressed for our stocks than has been expressed within the last few days by the women who have seen these coats.

Our $10 Johnny Coat

The smartest Johnny coat styles in the city, in two-tone worsteds, in fancy weaves, in every English fabric, that lend themselves particularly well to the snappy, smart cut of the coats. We consider this as strong a line as we have ever shown.

Mackinaw Coats at $10

These jaunty thirty-two-inch coats will be very popular. Well made, thoroughly tailored, and in fabrics that will tempt you out doors on the coolest days. Eminently practical.

Long Motor Coats, $10

Another wonderful stock which no woman who appreciates saving money can afford not to see. In browns, tans, greenish mixtures. Wide collars, deep cuffs. Unlined, of course, as most of the newer coats are. Worth all of $15 and priced at that figure by others.

OUR SUITS $22.50

It is at this price that we shall specialize this year on suits of the better grade. The stock is the equal of any which any other store is showing at $27.50. And there is this added advantage: Ours is the daylight store.

Wonderful New Suit Styles at . . . $15.00

When you see these you will realize the truth of what we said above, about stores showing suits at this price, but not SUCH suits. Straight cut or pannier effects, Robespierre collars or plain tailored. Blues, browns, tans, deep rich interweavings of smart colorings. There is a whole world of designs from which you can make a selection that cannot help being satisfactory. Compare these with the suits that other stores are showing, and you will agree with us that it would be no exaggeration to term them $35 values.

IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

dialect. Rev. Reynold Blight will address the meeting on "The Significance of a Social Center in a Community."

The first regular meeting of Avenue 43 Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the kindergarten room at 3 p.m., Wednesday, October 2, when Miss Mary Mann Miller will lead the discussions on "The Montessori Method of Education."

Hollywood High School.

In June, the girls of Miss Elizabeth Waggoner's art class made a cement pedestal, topped with a metal dial, which is soon to be set up in the garden. This class expects to make cement furniture along classic lines, for the garden, within the next few months. This, placed among the flowers and shrubbery, should give the school quite the artistic air of an old-world garden.

Miss Waggoner spent her summer in a pretty little studio in Hollywood, achieving some portraits, which the critics say are very good.

Miss Helen Watson spent some time this summer devising a system of household mathematics, by means of which algebra and geometry as well as elementary arithmetic may be applied to the problems of the household. For instance, much geometry is used in dressmaking; while in the cookery department simple mathematics are used in household accounts. The course will be one year, and is devised for the purpose of giving girls a more concrete interest in and practical use of mathematics.

Junior college work will be given in every department, including art and domestic science. In the art department, the work will consist of sketches from life, art photography and clay-modelling. In the domestic science department, household physics will be studied.

Polytechnic High.

Poly began its ninth year with the usual spirit and enthusiasm. The enrollment is nearly 2000, which is very heavy at so early a date.

At the first aud. call, last Thursday, Herbert Brown, the new president of the A.S.B.O., presided for the first time. Addresses were made by Principal Dunn and A. N. Hatherell, principal of the Evening High. Mr. Dunn spoke of the new features of the institution—classes in home decoration, costume design and post-graduate courses in cooking and sewing. Miss Woods of New York has been secured for the costume work. Mr. Ingledorf of Upsala University in Sweden has charge of college work in mining engineering. Miss Jordan is offering a course in Pacific Coast history. Miss Murdoch is a new teacher in the architectural department and Miss Helen Charles is assisting in the music department.

Mr. Hatherell told of a new automobile school in the Evening High, of a big new mixed chorus for young and old, of classes in folk-dancing and in surveying.

Miss Ethel Magee, head of the English department, has just returned from a summer in Europe. Miss Alice Craig, of the English department, spent her vacation in London. Miss Mae Owen of the cookery department was instructor in domestic economics at the summer session of the State University. Miss Katharine Ross, vice-principal, has taken a year's leave of absence, to rest, and Miss Kate E. Smith is acting vice-principal in her place. Miss Edith Jordan, accompanied by her father, Dr. David Starr Jordan, is on a tour of the Southeastern States.

John Vandenburgh, president of the Civics League, will call a meeting of that body very soon, for the purpose of deciding on the work for the year. The league is composed of eleventh, twelfth, thirteen and fourteenth grade students, and will listen to fortnightly addresses by experts on civic subjects. Laurence Phelps is vice-president and Helen Naismith, secretary.

Herbert Marshutz is editor of the Poly High for the new year. He has almost completed the selection of his staff, and the first issue of the "hook" will be out the first of October.

The surveying classes are filled to overflowing, despite the fact that the work requires many periods a day.

Stephen I. Miller, formerly teacher of economics and sociology, has gone to Stanford as assistant professor in sociology. His work has been taken by L. Kyle Humphries of Yale University.

Agricultural High.

The class in farm crops and farm management, which alternates with class in soils and fertilizers, has been at work on the farm this week, baling alfalfa hay, irrigating the alfalfa field, and husking corn, and attending to other duties about the farm. Since half-day sessions have been put in, the work can be made largely vocational; that is, a boy who wants to be a farmer, can become a thoroughly prepared one through the practical work he gets at Gardena.

About twenty of the boys are right out from the city, and they are getting the real farmer thing in the way of hot sun, this week.

The class in ornamental gardening is to ornament the grounds around the new buildings, doing their own planning, making the sketches and the practical work of digging, planting and irrigating.

In the dairy, two cows will be added to the equipment, and the gentle arts of cheese and butter-making are to be taught. In this connection, the domestic science department will teach the anitary care of dairies.

Mr. Lillard has appointed Mr. Teall as vocational director of Agricultural High School. With him every boy and girl will have a conference regarding his or her preparation for life, before selecting a course. Mr. Teall is making a close study of vocations and the need of workers in thee different fields of the world's economy.

Somewhat novel features are the the boys' cookery classes and the girls' cabinet-making classes.

Los Angeles High.

The latest literary word at L.A. High is a student publication to appear once a week. It will be edited and managed by junior college pupils, but undergraduate students will make up its staff.

The junior college and post-graduate work has grown even beyond the fondest hopes of those most closely associated with its success. Not only did the pioneer members of the class re-register for a second term, but members of last summer's graduating class have returned in such numbers as to swell the total to eighty.

G. W. Hauschild comes from the Stanford faculty to the department of modern languages, as does also H. A. Bell from California. Mr. Bell recently taught in Max Walter's Model School at Frankfurt-on-Main. Miss Rodenberg comes to the same department from the Gardena High School. C. C. Kelso was recently principal of Escondido High, and will be a strong factor in the social center work. B. S. Swan comes from the Greeley (Colo.) High School, and is working for a doctor's degree in astronomy. Mrs. Miller of Occidental College will teach expression. Miss Sullivan will have charge of the classes in nursing. Miss Haynes, from the Crane Normal Institute of Music, comes from New York as a teacher in the department of music. Miss Kibley, a new chemistry teacher, taught last year at Huntington Park High.

The new night school and social center is already making itself felt in the Hill Top community. Ray C. Van Cleve has direct charge of the new school.

Added lawn space, more shade and ornamental trees, and an open-air study room with broad vine-covered pergolas extending on either side, make up the vacation contributions to the school grounds. The outdoor study room will be used by the girls. The old lunch-house is being remodeled into a modern bungalow for the use of the new classes in nursing and housekeeping.

ACTIVE WOMEN.

Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin, originator and head of the Department of Public Safety of Portland, Or., was a pioneer in municipal protective work for young women. Eight years ago she convinced the people of Portland that such a department was needed. She was put at the head of the work, which soon proved so valuable that it was incorporated under the city charter and civil service rules.

Mrs. Baldwin has worn a police badge for more than seven years.

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Davidson of York Village, Me., has the unique distinction of being one of the four women bank presidents in the country. She is president of the York County National Bank, and under her guidance the institution has grown steadily until at the present time it has deposits of close to half a million.

Teresa Labriola is the first woman lawyer allowed to plead before an Italian court. She made her debut recently before a military court, defending a private who was accused of having slapped the face of his sergeant. She is professor of philosophy in the University of Rome and a leading feminist.

Miss Mabel Gillespie, the secretary of the Women's Trade Union League of Boston, has been appointed by Gov. Foss to a place on the Minimum Wage Commission. Miss Gillespie is the second woman on this board, as Gov. Foss several weeks ago appointed Mrs. Glendower Evans.

Mrs. Lillian A. King has been appointed a member of the police force of Topeka, Kan., by Mayor Bullard. She is to take charge of wayward girls and look out for women prisoners. Mrs. King has already done effective work in connection with the Kansas State Temperance Union.

Mrs. Hartley Le H. Smith has been appointed supervisor of district secretaries of the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities. For five years she was connected with the Philadelphia Society for Organizing Charity as an assistant of Miss Mary E. Richmond. Later she served for three years under Dr. Neff in the Philadelphia Department of Health and Charities.

Dr. Evangeline W. Young, who is teaching evangelics to Boston people, objects to love at first sight, and says that "despite popular belief, marriages of convenience, marriage made for money and social position result in very happy unions because of the mutual discovery of common tastes and ideals."

Greatest Sale in Piano History

AND you never had such a wonderful chance to get a piano of absolutely unquestionable quality as you have now, while we are disposing of this entire stock of the famous Robert Witte Piano Company, of Pasadena. Twenty-four full carloads have been brought to the store, and they must be disposed of without any loss of time whatsoever. Mr. Witte for years sold pianos to the most exclusive and wealthiest homes in Pasadena and other cities. He was one of the foremost importers in America, and handled none but the finest instruments. And the entire stock which we have just received from his stores is being placed on the Los Angeles piano market at prices that absolutely command immediate attention.

If You'll INVESTIGATE, You'll Buy One NOW!

It is astonishing how fast these pianos are going away. All are unanimous in their great enthusiasm over this wonderful sale. The nation's very proudest names, the most exclusive makes, the very best that money, no matter how much, can buy, are placed within easy reach of every home. And not only are the prices reduced, but the payments are as low as $1.00 a week. See the superb instruments that we have brought together in the large downstairs main salesroom, over 400 of them in all, and every one reduced. $600 styles, only $335; $475 styles only $172. Some of your friends have had to pay $500 at other places for the same pianos exactly that you can buy here now for $274, $212 and $164, and plainer cases for still less. There never was such a cutting down of prices on such costly and beautiful pianos. You will never regret it if you get one of these instruments. You will always regret it, if you don't.

A Word as to Terms---

While these drastically cut prices should be for SPOT cash only, in order to treat every one fairly and give all an equal chance, we will accept even easier terms of payment than ever before. In fact, no reasonable offer will be refused. As little as $6 down and $6 a month will now secure a splendid piano.

Twenty-four Full Carloads

Think what it means to see hundreds and hundreds of the most beautiful pianos grouped on one floor.

In one corner alone there is a Decker worth $650, a Mason-Hamlin worth $500, a Fischer worth $450, a Steinway worth $500, an Emerson worth $600, and the price on any one of them is $267. Come early and take your choice, for if you delay they are sure to be gone at this figure, you will miss another of the piano buying opportunities for which the House of Eilers is famous.

World's Greatest Sale of World's Best Pianos

Why We Bought The Robert Witte Piano Stock

Because we had the money, the ready cash lying in the bank, that's the reason, and the only reason, that we were able to swing this enormous piano deal. When Mr. Witte decided to find a successor for his business, he went to nearly every other piano house in Los Angeles. He found, however, that they were unwilling to handle a deal of such magnitude. The Eilers giant, Purchasing Power was the thing that finally placed these pianos within the reach of every music loving home in Los Angeles, at prices which have never before been equaled.

THIS TELLS THE STORY

BIG PIANO DEAL CONSUMMATED

Eilers Music House Takes Over Entire Piano Stock of One of the Biggest Importers in America.

One of the biggest piano deals to be completed within the last few months, has just been made public with the announcement that Eilers Music House will at once take over the business and stock of Robert Witte, the well-known German importer of the celebrated "Rittal" and other high grade pianos.

Mr. Witte had established most successful branches in Riverside, San Bernardino and Monrovia and had made his headquarters at 195 E. Colorado Street, Pasadena. He catered exclusively to those well-to-do and discriminating classes who appreciated the superiority of the grand, Upright and Player Pianos which he imported.

drawing. When you consider that all this was done from memory, you are quite willing to concede the amazing artistic capacity of the newspaper man. Interesting, too, is Paul Gregg's Sunday color page, a man on a bronco carrying the mail through a desert snowstorm. It is simple, direct, effective.

But perhaps the most interesting, the most beautiful contribution to this little collection is a proof in gray-green ink of a decorative drawing by the great Alphonse Mucha, colored by the artist himself. Those delicate tints, those wonderful mosaics of color will hold you enthralled.

Don't miss the modest newspaper show. It is well worth your while.

Two Dozen Pictures.

At Kanst's gallery, No. 642 South Spring street, two dozen pictures, the most of them by artists of the Southwest, are being exhibited. They will remain there for two weeks.

While these canvases are not new, they are well worth seeing again. Detlef Sammann's "Road on the Hillside," for instance, is an impressionistic bit whose perpetual freshness will delight you. The road is flecked with sunlight, the foreground shadow palpitates with broken color, and the trunks of the overhanging trees are finely studied. Too, Hanson Puthuff's landscape, "Autumn," will hold you through the modeling of its immense hills, ruddy gold on their swelling bosoms, pale blue in the shadows.

Granville Redmond shows a "Twilight," which has a big expanse of sky that broods over a quiet landscape. The well-toned picture is painted in Redmond's dryest manner. The late Frank P. Sauerwen is well represented, among other things, from his brush, by a little landscape called "The River Bottom," brilliant with sunlight, the banks of earth being exceptionally well modeled. It is delicately, almost daintily, painted, and is in Sauerwen's best vein. This artist also exhibits an Indian's head under ruddy firelight.

Jean Mannheim's "San Pedro" shows bright boats moored in the harbor, vivid spots of color in the sun, and is done in this painter's usual broad, free way. Elizabeth Borglum has a "Sunset" poetically treated, clouds touched with pink and purple floating over a bar of rich gold on the horizon. "The Clammer," by Frank Coburn, is a vivid little study, all gold and gold-browns, a longshoreman at work in the morning mists. Eugene C. Frank's fine "Sunset" is in a color scheme of rich browns and delicate golds. "Near Capistrano," a water color by William Swift Daniell, is well painted, and shows a sunburnt summer foreground in strong contrast with a group of green eucalyptus trees.

Among the outside painters, P. Thurman, a Norwegian, gives us a graphic, if rather topographic, pictorial description of Sogne Fjord, showing the clear atmosphere, the crystalline water, the trailing clouds that characterize this noble, sheer-walled fjord. E. H. Potthast's "Late Afternoon" is a sylvan scene, with cattle grazing on a wide green-and-gold field under brooding sunlight. A cool foreground pool lies in shadow, and the slim trees beside it are like a frame for the pretty pastoral.

"Equinoctial Storm," a marine by Carlton T. Chapman, is full of wild movement. The green sea is churned to foam by the fierce winds. The sun shows pale through the driving mists. Several other good canvases by the same painter are exhibited. The Holland scene, "Evening in Geldulund," by Walter C. Hartson, is pleasing and poetic, painted in subdued greens and yellows that are in perfect harmony. Two figures appear in the twilight road; to the right is a cottage.

Snow in Summer.

When I left Pasadena (writes Benjamin Chambers Brown from Lake Tahoe) the thermometer registered 92 deg., and I left there for recuperation and a colder climate. Well, I got it with a vengeance! The first two weeks of my stay were cool enough, but after three days of cold, strong winds, yesterday we were treated to a fall of "beautiful snow."

This morning I got up at half past five to see the sun rise. The mountains and hills surrounding the lake were covered to the water's edge. Dark, heavy clouds hid the Nevada peaks from view, where, no doubt, a storm was still in progress.

The water was a cold green, which made a striking contrast with the richer dark greens of the pines. The sun rose as cold as a winter morn. The pier was covered with snow, as were also the roofs of the tents and houses. In the woods the pines and firs had a light powder of snow, with each limb outlined in white on its upper edge. The grass was coated, not thickly, but each blade outlined distinctly, and it was very queer to see the wildflowers, lupin, goldenrod and teasel, showing against the white, and now and then the blazing red of a "paintbrush" struggling through the snow.

It is quite an experience for us southerners, and you can guess that the roaring fire in the clubhouse has its devoted circle of attendant worshipers.

Ernest Smith is over at Tallac, about fifteen minutes' walk from here, and is enthusiastic over the recent fall of snow on Tallac, which has renovated the celebrated cross and made things so much more picturesque.

Yesterday he and I went sketching, journeying to a near-by range, where, through the trunks of pines and cedars, we could catch a glimpse of Tallac Mountain in its frosty covering. A snowstorm came up, its powdery flakes of unusual size completely obliterating the landscape, forcing us to descend and hunt shelter and warmth at the Grove.

However, from the pier I got a good sketch of the Emerald Bay Mountains, with their coating of snow, but not without getting very cold in the brisk wind that came over the water.

Saturday I leave for the warmer climate of San Francisco and the lowlands, probably staying a few weeks near Santa Cruz before I start for home.

In spite of the cold, I have thoroughly enjoyed my stay at Lake Tahoe.

A Post Impressionist.

Marguerite Thompson of Fresno, who has just returned from four years of study in Paris, is now visiting her friend and fellow-student, Helena Dunlap, in Whittier. Miss Thompson will exhibit her recent paintings at the Royar gallery in October.

The artist returned by way of India, China and Japan, and has painted in all these places. Her pictures will prove to be extremely interesting, being painted in the manner of the Post-Impressionists. She belongs to a group of about a dozen artists, who are followers of this new movement in art, and whose style of work differs somewhat from that of Cezanne, Gauguin, Matisse and the others of this school. They publish a magazine in London called "Rhythm," which has been very successful, and to which Miss Thompson contributes.

ART NOTES.

Sidney Shaw, who has been painting in Southern California all summer, with a studio in Pasadena, will leave for New York this week. Some of his landscapes will be shown in the coming exhibition of the California Art Club, of which he is a member.

Detlef Sammann has returned from his sketching trip to Carmel and Lake Tahoe.

Franz A. Bischoff will leave shortly for two years in Rome, Venice and Naples.

Silver, a Washington (D. C.) painter, is now at Carmel. He contemplates holding an exhibition in Los Angeles.

A. S. Keszthlyi, a Hungarian artist, is about to take quarters in the studio opposite the Woman's Clubhouse, on Figueroa street.

Katherine Rucker, who has been conducting an American magazine in Tokio, Japan, has gone to New York. Her present address is No. 523 West 121st street.

Antonia Melvill, who has been spending the summer in Santa Monica, has returned to her Blanchard-Hall studio.

C. A. Rogers and Martin J. Jackson started yesterday for Santa Catalina, where they will sketch for several days.

Frank Coburn has been summering at Santa Ana. He has recently returned, and is looking for a desirable studio.

Leonard Philpott, an Australian artist, is in Pasadena. He has been painting Southern California all summer.

COMING CITIZENS.

Miss Ximena McGlashan of Truckee, daughter of C. F. McGlashan, historian of the ill-fated Donner party, is a grower of butterflies which she sells to collectors. In six weeks she has propagated and sold 6200 mounted butterflies, for which she received 5 cents each, or $310, thus averaging $50 a week.

Miss Winnifred Whitcomb, lecturer of Everett Grange, Everett, Mass., claims the distinction of being the youngest person holding such a position in the United States. She is 15 years of age, and takes an important part in the ritualistic work whenever degrees are conferred.

With a record of twenty-four red foxes to her credit, Helen B. Elcock, 21 years old, daughter of George Elcock of West Quincy, Mass., has started following the hounds this year, and hopes to establish a new record before her hunting season closes, March 15. "Nimrod," as Miss Elcock has been called, started out hunting with her father years ago, when she was hardly able to handle a rifle. She is also an expert snake hunter. Last year she killed scores of rattlers, the largest being four feet eight inches and bearing fourteen rattles.

Constance Walton and Esther Sears, aged 15 and 13, respectively, in order to earn spending money for the school term, have turned their vacation to account by running a bread route from Byfield, Mass., through near-by villages.

Mixing study and drink behind his father's bar, John Larsen, 19 years old, has been so successful that he received the first scholarship given by the Princeton Club of Chicago. The scholarship carries with it expenses for four years at Princeton University.

EDUCATORS, CHURCHMEN.

An expedition from Yale University, led by Prof. Hiram Bingham, is to make further exploration this year in Peru, in the regions where a Yale party last year found human remains supposed to be not less than 20,000 years old, imbedded in glacial deposits.

Mrs. Lydia R. Kemper, a scientist of note, has received unusual recognition in Germany, the Emperor having recently conferred on her the title of "professor." Though born in Russia, she has lived practically all of her life in this country, and has occupied a chair at the University of Pennsylvania. Mrs. Kemper is now in Berlin, pursuing scientific investigations.

Canon Herbert Hensley Henson, rector of St. Margaret's, Westminster, and one of England's most famous preachers, will shortly visit Canada and the eastern part of the United States. At the Union Theological Seminary, New York, he will deliver lectures on the 250th anniversary of the ejection of the nonconformists in England in 1662. He is a native of London, and has written many volumes. For recreation he turns to cycling and walking.

Rev. G. L. Morrill of Minneapolis, Minn., has won a little notoriety by denouncing the present styles of women's dress. He says the styles are going back to the original fig leaf fashion that had its origin in the Garden of Eden.

Dear Sir: I wish to express to you the great benefit that I received from your Herb Remedies. MUSIC

United States marine band during October, Clara Butt and her illustrious husband, who are today the greatest of all concert artists in England and the colonies; and a series of motion pictures with musical and sound accompaniment on the style of the Lyman Howe spectacles, considered the acme of motion-picture results."

I often "hear people sing," or play the piano, or scatch with a bow, or blow a horn, and—speaking frankly—I am seldom disappointed; in fact, hardly ever.

The other day that genial impresario of histrionic and fistic art, Senor Carlos Eyton, spoke to me of a sister, just from England, and that sister's husband, both of whom, he said, could warble with the best of them.

So we went to Blanchard Hall, stormed the janitor to give us lights, proceeded with the brief programme, I listened—and was greatly disappointed.

Agreeably, surprisingly disappointed.

I always make up my mind, upon such invitations, to swelter through the agonies of mediocrity. Consequently, when Senor Juan de la Cruz voiced the prologue from "I Pagliacci," and as his talented wife, Mme. Eyton-de la Cruz, sang the big aria from the second act of Charpentier's "Louise," it was with considerable astonishment that I listened to two genuinely finished artists.

Senor de la Cruz, a cosmopolite by birth and elected toil, comes from several of the leading continental operahouses, where he has made a great success in Wagnerian roles. His voice, notwithstanding his brief stature, is a majestic basso-cantante of beautiful quality, great expression and almost steely power.

Mme. De la Cruz has also had experience in opera, and is a well-known concert artist in London. Her voice is a flexible, high soprano, of fine training and great expressiveness.

After the first numbers Senor De la Cruz sang for me the "Invocation to the False Nuns," from "Robert le Diable," in thrilling style.

They came here from England with the mother of Mr. Eyton and Mme. De la Cruz. She wished to visit her son, and in consequence of the long journey her daughter and son-in-law will probably spend the winter here.

I trust that these splendid singers will be heard in concert at some time during the early season, and I propose Senor De la Cruz as a symphony soloist.

Very much doing in the Egan vicinity lately.

The school at the top of the Hamburger Majestic building announces, through an arrangement with the Slayton & Redpath lyceum bureaus, a long and important list of musical artists, lecturers and other platform stuff.

In fact, since the Blanchard & Venter lyceum bureau was in its best days I have not seen such promising announcements of that particular nature. Prof. Maynard Lee Daggy, late of the University of Washington, will be in charge of this department.

Frank Egan has been elected, by a number of picture magnates, to stage and produce, for a considerable period, certain feature films. To show that he is right on the job from a business standpoint, Mr. Egan has made a cash offer of better money than I ever heard offered before for good scenarios.

A "department of journalism" has been added to this hustling school, with John Steven McGroarty as the Dean, and with R. M. Whitney as a coadjutor. This class will open about the middle of October, and will be limited to a membership of ten.

The College of Music, University of Southern California, is now settled in its new location at Blanchard Hall and reports a very gratifying opening of its season's work. A branch is also maintained at the university campus for the convenience of the college pupils.

Among recent additions to its faculty are Andreas Peschcke-Koedt, the Danish violinist, whose artistic playing has been the subject of much favorable comment among local musicians. Also Earl Bright, brilliant young 'cellist recently from New York.

Announcement will soon be made of one of this institution's well-known faculty concerts.

Signor G. Cavaradossi, late of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has been heard in several concerts of late. Friday evening he sang with the Donatelli band at Long Beach, giving an excellent group of selections in fine style. He was received with much applause and many encores were demanded.

The Los Angeles City Teachers' Club, a thriving and progressive organization, has just started a Wagnerian course. B. R. Baumgardt, Miss Ida M. Leonard, and the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra, with Harley Hamilton, will be the demonstrators.

PERSONAL—

PROF C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE,
NOTED ASTROLOGER AND PALMIST OF NATIONAL FAME AND REPUTATION.
STUDIO PARLORS, 1324 S. BROADWAY.
A RESIDENT OF LOS ANGELES 18 YEARS.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in all affairs of life. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, talents, environments, about children, relatives, when and where to travel, what to seek or to avoid, when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., also your good periods coming—giving dates of these events for the future.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Mat Goodwin, Mary Mannering, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Gen. Chaffee, Edison, Bonzo, Modjeska, Julia Marlowe, Anna Held, Jefferson, Capt. Hobson, Lillian Russell, Calve, Admiral Evans, H. E. Huntington, De Wolf Hopper, Maxine Elliott, etc.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S SKILLED WORK with his trained judgment must in no wise be classed with that of other readers. Therefore do not waste your money on the idiotic advice and warning of HUMBUG astrologers, palmists, psychics—those doing dishonest work.

PROF. ALTHOUSE is an expert PALMIST and WITH EACH PALM READING gives also an ASTROLOGICAL READING.

DR. J. A. LARSEN writes: "I want to say that your reading was the most satisfactory thing I have ever had in my life. I know a great deal about these sciences and I consider your work as the most THOROUGH and reliable of any reader in the United States."

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in the casting of HOROSCOPES and in HAND reading has brought him a LARGE AND SUCCESSFUL PRACTICE. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances. Personal attention. STRICT PRIVACY. HIGHEST GRADE OF WORK that skill and many years of experience can produce. Therefore, HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Daily and evening; Sunday, 12 to 1.
STUDIO PARLORS, 1324½ S. BROADWAY.

PERSONAL—

J. HENLEY,
Noted Successful Psychic,
317 W. Third st.

J. HENLEY
fully appreciates that in this day of sensational advertisements there are more false claims and misrepresentations in character through the columns of the daily press than the most hypocritical tongue could utter in a lifetime, until one cannot be blamed for doubting almost everything that is read. Therefore he says to you—come to him this very day and let him give you a complete reading, telling you every hope, fear or ambition, better than you could explain yourself. He will tell you the bad as well as the good, keeping nothing hidden from you. He will tell you everything upon matters of love, marriage, divorce, business, health; in fact, he will read your life like an open book.

Before you go into anything of importance—or undertake anything serious—in business or love, or marriage, or before you make any change—you should consult the master mind of psychics.

ALWAYS CONSULT THE BEST. IT IS THE CHEAPEST IN THE END. IT IS BETTER TO CONSULT NO PSYCHIC THAN ONE WHO IS NOT ABLE TO HELP YOU.

DON'T FORGET
If you contemplate consulting a psychic several things should be taken into consideration—ABILITY of the HONESTY of methods, the FAIRNESS of dealings, the HIGHER degree of work, the ACCURACY of each prediction, the COMMON SENSE used with it, the INTEREST taken in each case, the RESPECT shown to each caller, the fact of SECRECY in consultation, the FEES charged for services.

J. HENLEY,
317 W. 3rd, between Broadway and Hill.

PERSONAL—
MRS. MASSON,
the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 323 S. SPRING ST. (over Owl Drug Store) by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigation along psychological lines, that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions, and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINER INTELLIGENCE.

ANOTHER SPOUTER.

Limits of Artesian Well Basin in Santa Clara County Are Extended by New Discovery.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN JOSE (Cal.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A great "gusher" of artesian water spouted up today on the S. A. Wood ranch, near Mountain View, this county, when Wood was drilling a well. The discovery is so far out of the accepted artesian belt of this county that it has occasioned much surprise and excitement among the farmers to whom it means thousands of dollars in increased orchard efficiency as well as thousands of dollars of saving on the annual cost of irrigation.

When an artesian well was discovered nearby a short time ago it was thought that the sources of supply of a famous spring had been tapped, but the water kept coming without diminution in both places. More recently, another artesian well was found on the David Heastand place at Mountain View and the result is a general well-boring campaign in which the ranchers are seeking to obtain all possible assistance to their crops from this unlooked-for water supply which will prove a godsend to their truck farms and orchards. The S. A. Wood well is more than a mile from the nearest artesian well.

RATHER BRUTAL SYSTEM.

Man Captured at Council Bluffs Hotel, Charged With Specialty of Robbing Confiding Jewelers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COUNCIL BLUFFS (Iowa) Sept. 21.—W. Richard Wade was captured at a hotel today while attempt to carry out a swindle which, it is said, he has worked successfully in several large western cities, within the past three months. His latest attempt was made in Omaha, Thursday, when he narrowly escaped capture.

Wade's work was unique. He registered at the best hotel in a large city and his stay usually was short. From his suite he would call a prominent jeweler to whom he confided that he, Wade, was a former customer, and asking him to come to the hotel to make a large loan on some diamonds. When the jeweler arrived, Wade relieved him of his money at the point of a revolver and escaped.

In trying to rob W. C. Plateau of Omaha, the latter overpowered Wade, who made his escape while Plateau was calling the police.

Wade, who is 30 years old, is wanted, it is said by the police of Seattle and several other cities.

NAPA REPUBLICANS LOYAL.

[By Federal (Wireless) Line to The Times.]

NAPA (Cal.) Sept. 21.—[Special Dispatch.] In the midst of a stormy meeting of the Republican county convention hear today, Taft men to the number of eighteen leaders in county politics left the hall and formed a separate convention of their own. The bolt came when the Committee on Resolutions in the original convention reported the platform indorsing Roosevelt for President.

C. N. Pickett and C. W. Crouch of Calistoga then presented a substitute platform indorsing Taft for President and Charles F. Curry for Congress, but this was voted down, thirty to eighten. The Taft men then proceeded to the Supervisors' room and in the presence of twenty-five other Republicans held a separate convention. The Committee on Platform and Resolutions presented a report which was adopted, praising President Taft for his fairmindedness and stating that more progressive legislation had been passed in his administration than any of his predecessors.

SAN ANDRES (Cal.) Sept. 21.—A contingent of the Calaveras county Republican convention met here today and passed a resolution indorsing President Taft and Vice-President Sherman. The Roosevelt committeemen were denounced by the Taft delegates for what was termed the "theft of the party name."

Forty-three delegates, including several women, were present.

"VIVA OROZCO" HEARD IN TEXAS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) Sept. 21.—"Viva Orozco," cried derisive Federal sympathizers at the railroad station when Col. Pascual Orozco, former military chief of Juarez, and father of the leader of the Mexican revolution, arrived tonight from Marfa, Tex., handcuffed to an alleged smuggler, in custody of a United States marshal.

"The revolution will triumph," retorted the aged Orozco to the crowd of hooting Mexicans who followed him to the County Jail.

Coatless, a thin cotton shirt afforded him little protection from a sharp wind.

Orozco will be given a preliminary examination tomorrow on a charge of murder preferred by the Mexican Consul at El Paso, who seeks his extradition to Mexico.

Col. Jose Cordova, a member of Gen. Orozco's staff and prime adviser to the rebel commander-in-chief, was detained at Marfa pending the completion of extradition charges. He is expected tomorrow.

THE METHODISTS FIGHT GAMBLING

Union With Southern Church Again on Tapis.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PACIFIC GROVE (Cal.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The California conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church this week has pledged co-operation with the proponents of the proposed law prohibiting race-track gambling, to be voted on in November.

A committee has been appointed to recommend membership to a permanent commission to supervise plans for a religious exhibit at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

It was shown that the growth of Methodism had been greater in this State during the past year than in any other on record. This was regarded as remarkable in light of the heavy inroads which Christian Science has made in other denominations.

The bishop's address to the class received into full membership of the conference, and the address of the fraternal lay delegate, Fred D. Parr of Wesley Church, San Francisco, were the features of today's session. Bishop Shepard laid particular stress on the care of the pastor for the young people and the children that they may be brought into the Kingdom of God.

CHURCH UNION.

Following a powerful and telling address of yesterday by the Rev. J. Bachelder of the M. E. Church South, in which was expressed hope that the union of the churches of Methodism might be consummated, Dr. T. P. Bennett of the First Church, Stockton, during the session, introduced a resolution requesting that the bishop appoint a commission of five to consult with a similar commission from the southern Methodist organization with a view to bringing the two churches under one head.

Dr. W. W. Guth, president of the College of the Pacific, reported an increase of students at the Methodist educational institution. A subscription taken in aid of extension of the school work added materially to this fund. "Only the lack of funds prevents the rapid growth of the College of the Pacific," said the college head.

MINISTERS PLAY BALL.

The most striking feature of the ministers' ball game, as expressed by one of the ball tossers, was the score of 26 to 3 in favor of the city pastors. The game was opened with a crowd in the "grand stand" at 2:30 by Bishop William O. Shepard, who pitched the first ball. Dr. Evans, superintendent of the San Francisco district, caught the ball, and Dr. Bovard, editor of the California Christian Advocate was batting. John D. Eckes of San Francisco, and the Rev. F. H. Baker, chaplain of the late legislative session and pastor of the First Methodist Church, Sacramento, umpired.

Two hundred dollars was taken in at the game to be applied to the conference claimants' fund.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Tonight an Epworth League programme is being carried out.

Plans were considered for beginning a vigorous campaign against the Sunday sale of liquor at the Panama Pacific Exposition. Rolla V. Watt and Dr. Guth urged a $10,000 endowment of the College of the Pacific.

Peter Bohl of Sacramento reported that $15,000 was available for the relief fund.

The following officers were elected: President, J. W. Henderson, Oakland; first vice-president, A. Hutchinson, Oakland; second vice-president, A. Vaughn, Oroville; recording secretary, W. C. Short, Los Gatos; corresponding secretary, J. D. Eccles, Berkeley; treasurer, Samuel Martin, San Francisco.

PANAMA WATER SUPPLY.

Engineer's Calculations of the Volume Amply Vindicated by Figures Received From the Isthmus.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The engineers' calculation as to the efficiency of the water supply in the Panama Canal has been amply vindicated by the figures just reported from the Isthmus. The great Lake of Gatun, which is being created by the dam at that point, during the week of September 2 to 9, accumulated just 5740 million feet of water. During this period the water level of the lake rose three feet. Every time a ship is locked through the Canal, five and a half million cubic feet of water must pass and when the lake is full, it will afford water enough to fill the locks 150 times daily, which is at least twice as fast as the ships can pass. When the surface of the lake reaches its maximum height, eighty-seven feet above sea level, with the water just flowing over the crest of the dam, it will contain the enormous amount of 192,250,000,000 cubic feet of water.

Roosevelt Supporter Follows Beck of Spirits to Bay City and Departs to Other World Disenchanted.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BAY CITY (Mich.) Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jared M. Snyder, a prominent resident of Bay City and a second cousin of President Taft, died here yesterday. By a singular coincidence, he was a first cousin by marriage of Woodrow Wilson, his widow being a cousin of the Democratic chieftain, but Snyder was an ardent supporter of Roosevelt and the Bull Moose.

He formerly was judge of the Northwestern Circuit Court of Iowa, serving several terms. Later, under Roosevelt administration, he held a position in the Agricultural Department at Washington. This he resigned to come to Bay City on request of his brother-in-law, Melvin Root, a spiritualist, who deeded him some property on advice of "spirits," and then sued for a recovery of the same on the same advice.

FACT AND COMMENT.

"We Americans," says a writer in Popular Mechanics, "are gradually coming to recognize a positive asset—a prosaic monetary profit—in an architecturally beautiful structure. Europe long ago learned this lesson; we have yet very much to learn. In all large cities of the continent one is not permitted to erect a building which will prove a disfigurement to surrounding structures, or to the symmetry of the street on which it fronts. Thirty years ago our commercial buildings were put up with a view chiefly to secure a certain amount of space, protected from the weather. This was the period of flimsy construction, bare utilities, resulting in buildings that were dangerous fire traps, and which frequently tumbled down from overloading. The next step was toward more substantial structures, better light and sanitation. Yet when an owner planned, say, a $100,000 factory, he regarded the architect's plan for an extra $5000 for interior and exterior decoration as absurd and impossible. He refused to entertain the idea. The building must cost the least possible amount computable within the law. And yet the interest at 6 per cent. on the amount represented by the difference between an actually hideous front and one permanently pleasing and ennobling was only $300 a year. We have left too much to the engineer, and sought too little from the architect."

Los Angeles, by the way, is one of the American cities in which the growing recognition of architectural beauty as an asset is beginning to bear fruit. Gradually, but surely, there is being established here a standard to which builders feel themselves bound to conform. The average of artistic excellence in the designing of Los Angeles buildings has for years been high and of late the improvement has been pronounced. The public taste has been educated to the point, in fact, where the apartment-house dweller discriminatingly declines to pay rent in any old structure that has walls and a roof and a cheap show of tasteless ornamentation. Our downtown office and commercial structures of the last few years have been models for other cities and the man who would shove up one of the buildings which passed for metropolitan "class" a decade ago would speedily find himself in possession of a structural white elephant.

Room for Improvement.

In one respect, however, a host of prospective builders in Los Angeles need instruction and that is in the construction of small homes. This may sound like rank heresy in a city universally famed for the charm of its residences, but the Fact and Comment man is in dead earnest. The best architects do not make a practice of designing the smaller and less pretentious types of bungalows and cottages and when accepting a commission for this type of building generally demand for their services a percentage which will pay for the time employed; for it must not for a moment be supposed any less artistic ability is required for the designing of a tasteful small building than enters into the planning of a mansion.

The result has been that many individuals who scarcely know a T-square from a scale rule have set themselves up in business as designers of homes and are competing madly for business that ought to be intrusted only to competent architects and architectural designers. Los Angeles has an oversupply of tyro house planners, callow "architectural draughtsmen," wholesalers of house plans, carpenters and contractors who "throw the plans in," and versatile hustlers who design, finance and build a house and get it back at the rate of steenty dollars and so many cents a month forever after. This is not to be interpreted in any way as a reflection upon the really competent designers who do not happen to be certified architects, or upon the methods and products of those building concerns which maintain really meritorious designing departments.

Picturesqueness?

The most glaring fault of the tyro designer and the wholesaler of plans is that they spread it on too thick. Freakishness is apparently the beau ideal of this class of house-planners. They actually strive to tack on an extra gable, give a crazy tilt to a roof line, stick on a ginger-bread bracket or a false front, where it serves no purpose. If they can fashion a fool beam to stick out of some impossible place, or contrive to plaster on a weird conceit in the form of a porch or pergola where a porch or pergola serves no purpose, they have achieved an artistic triumph. They are happiest when they can achieve a combination or conglomeration of every known style of architecture, and the more the merrier. The Swiss, Japanese, Spanish, French, English, Italian and Mission motives have all suffered at their hands, sometimes horribly. One Los Angeles designer actually advertised not long ago his qualification for planning those Swiss chalets that "are so appropriate for the seashore."

Any good architect will tellhis prospective client that the only real distinction that a small house may in an artistic sense possess must be either in its simplicity or in its faithfulness to a type that may be copied. If a man wants to build a chalet let him build a chalet that is really Swiss and let him put it in its proper setting, a hill side. There is no sense in combining the mission style with anything else, if it is the mission that strikes his fancy, and it is altogether likely that even some of the most "faithful" copies of the missions, as reproduced in the small cottages of Los Angeles, are making the old padres uneasy in their graves.

It takes more art, Mr. Builder, to leave out useless detail and ornamentation than it does to put them in, and don't you let any designer of the Swisso-Jappo-Mission school convince you to the contrary. Refinement and taste in the average small house are to be realized only in simplicity of design. A good architect, a real architect, can in the planning of the smallest home combine both with comfort and convenience and no one will lose by paying him his price for doing it.

Parkway Assured.

The City Council has turned a deaf ear to the last protest of those misguided and short-sighted persons who have been opposing the Silver Lake Parkway project and that great and important undertaking will now go ahead. Not only the people of the northwest and west portion of the city, but every inhabitant of Los Angeles should rejoice that the simple and obvious methods for transforming the unsightly and disgraceful Bimini slough into a beautiful parkway and an integral part of the park and boulevard system are about to be adopted. This is no time to review past mistakes, but the Fact and Comment man predicts that Northwest Los Angeles will soon be brought to a realization of the fact that the progress and prosperity which will follow the consummation of the Silver Lake parkway plans might as well have come years ago to this sightly section of the city.

The Bimini slough, dragging its ugly way across the city from Silver Lake into the very heart of the Westlake-Wilshire district, has shared with Bunker Hill the responsibility for holding back the proper development of that portion of Los Angeles north of Sixth street and west to the city limits. The work of reclamation must not stop with the creation of the now assured parkway. The city should not for a moment think of letting the new Hill street tunnel halt at Temple street. In the opinion of the writer the bore will not be justified to the tax-payers until it shall have been completed to Sunset boulevard, there to tap the great artery of traffic leading to Hollywood and East Hollywood.

Tunnels at First street, Second street and Fourth street would work wonders in the development of the territory to the west and northwest of Bunker Hill and would beyond any doubt give the property benefited such a tremendous boost in valuation as to add materially to the taxable wealth of Los Angeles. The First-street tunnel, it strikes the writer, is an imperative necessity.

As for the North Broadway tunnel, there should be none; nothing but an open cut, lowered to proper grade, will ever give an adequate communication between that portion of the city north of the hill and the business section of the city's main thoroughfare. The lowering of the tunnel to grade will only benefit; the open cut will literally make North Broadway.

OLD RECORD ECLIPSED.

Twenty-three Million Dollar Building Figure of Last Year Already Left Far Behind.

With a third of September and all of October, November and December yet to be heard from, Los Angeles has already passed its greatest yearly building valuation figure, that of 1911. Up to the close of business on Friday evening building operations for the year to date represented the huge sum of $23,219,764. The valuation total for the whole of last year was $23,004,185.

To date, the Chief Inspector of Buildings has issued a total of 13,593 permits, as against 912,498 permits for the whole of 1911. The aggregate of last year will easily be passed in the next month. During September, 949 permits and $1,708,469 valuation have been added to the 1912 totals.

Following is the classified report for the month to date:

BUYS BOULEVARD TRACT.

Acreage Purchase of Montecito Capitalist to Be Handled by Los Angeles Company.

H. G. Holabird & Co. have just concluded the sale of about ninety-one acres of land situated on Washington boulevard near Venice, to Herbert Earlscliffe, a heavy realty operator who lives at Montecito. The consideration is given at $100,000. The property was formerly owned by a syndicate headed by Strong & Dickinson.

H. G. Holabird & Co. will handle the property for Earlscliffe and in all probability will turn it into a high-class subdivision in the near future. The Holabird company has sold a great deal of acreage fronting on Washington boulevard, between Los Angeles and Venice, and are among the pioneers in that vicinity.

CHANGES TO STEEL.

Brockman Block at Seventh and Grand not to Be of Reinforced Concrete—Outside Architects Chosen.

The twelve-story office building projected by John Brockman at the southeast corner of Seventh street and Grand avenue, it was announced yesterday by the builder, is to be planned by Barnett, Haynes and Barnett of St. Louis, an architectural firm which has just established a branch office in this city. Working plans for the improvement are now being prepared and the excavations for the foundation work are to be begun within the next two weeks. W. A. Schumacher, a former St. Louis contractor, has been awarded the contract.

The proposed building will contain about 220 rooms and will be of steel frame construction, Brockman having given up his former intention of erecting a structure of the reinforced concrete type. The ground floor is to be fitted up as one large storeroom. The exterior of the building will be faced with pressed brick, the trim being of matt glazed terra cotta. The block will cover a ground area of 70x135 feet.

THEATER FOR NORTH END.

As the result of a lease just secured by the Globe Amusement Company from the Huntington Land & Improvement Company, a handsome picture theater is to be erected for the former at North Broadway and Workman street. The show house will front on Broadway, being flanked by five stores. The interior and exterior will be modeled after the lines of the other Globe theaters in the city. The place will have a seating capacity of about 900. The amusement company now has even theaters in operation or under way.

PLANS REVISED.

South Figueroa Hostelry Will Be Eleven Instead of Nine Stories in Height—Will Be of Concrete.

Revised plans for the reinforced concrete hotel building which is to be erected for Mrs. Hattie M. Morris on the east side of Figueroa street adjoining on the south the new Gates Hotel at Sixth and Figueroa, are now being prepared by the architect, A. Reif. A perspective of the building, as it was originally designed and showing a nine-story elevation, has already been published exclusively in The Times.

The change is contemplated because the owner is convinced that a building constructed to the full height allowed by the law for concrete structures will pay on the close-in Figueroa-street site. The eleven-story building now planned will contain 336 rooms, as compared with less than 200 rooms in the nine-story structure. The hotel will cover a ground area of 50x155 feet and will be thoroughly modern in construction and appointment.

RANCH TRACT OPENING.

Following only a few weeks the announcement that the Los Angeles Investment Company had paid over $7,000,000 for the 8500-acre Clenega ranch of the late E. J. Baldwin, the big investment corporation announces that a portion of the great property, to be known as the "New College Tract," is to be thrown upon the market at once. The acreage to be sold is located between and adjoining College tract and Angelus Mesa and is subdivided into about 400 building sites. The tract is now in the making, the streets being partially graded, the sidewalk work under way and the frame of several houses well up. The investment company will itself erect about 200 dwellings for sale.

MANUAL ARTS TRACT.

The Pyramid Investment Company has just closed a deal for the purchase of forty acres of the old Schlegel estate, lying between Forty-second street, Vernon avenue, Vermont and Normandie avenues, east and west. The property lies one block from the new Manual Arts High School. It is almost entirely surrounded by high-class bungalows. It is the intention of the Pyramid company to immediately begin building operations on a large scale. The streets will be of crushed rock forty feet wide, with ten feet of parking on each side. Water, gas and electric lights are now on the tract.

READY FOR BUSINESS.

A large sales force will be put in charge of the Planada lands and Planada town lots by the Los Angeles Investment Company, which recently came into possession of this great Merced county property. This force is now being organized under the direction of Woodruff & Gadsky, who have already made a wonderful record of salesmanship in the Planada district. Agencies will be established in many Middle West cities and at San Francisco.

AT THIRD AND SPRING.

The Dean Drug Company has secured a fifteen-year lease covering a storeroom in the Stimson building at the northeast corner of Third and Spring streets. The total rental consideration is given at $225,000. The company will occupy the premises about December 1. The room secured has a frontage of forty-two feet on Spring.

RESIDENCE SOLD.

Mrs. Alice M. Ingersoll yesterday sold her pretty home at No. 687 Irolo street to Mae W. Reddin for $10,000. The deal was strictly cash and was negotiated by Giles and Kella, managers of the house and lot department of the Wright, Callender and Andrews company.

FIGUEROA AND FIFTEENTH.

The R. Holtby Myers Company reports the sale of the southwest corner of Figueroa and Fifteenth streets for Theresa von Breton, to a small local syndicate it has just organized. The price is given at $42,000. The lot is 60x200 feet in size and is improved with a large residence.

EL SEGUNDO.

EL SEGUNDO, Sept. 21.—The El Segundo public school opened Thursday morning with an enrollment of fifty-two pupils, this being an increase of seventeen pupils over the attendance at the close of school last summer, making a gain of 50 per cent. In the short period of ten weeks. Principal J. J. Mason expects to have over sixty pupils by the first of next week. With an increase in attendance at this rate, El Segundo will soon have to make arrangements for another school building, in the very near future.

The price of $4600 is low, and $1000, with $25 monthly payments will handle it.

SEE THIS BEFORE YOU BUY. IT WILL PAY YOU WELL.

$6500—READ THIS—$6500.
THIS MAN'S MISFORTUNE MEANS OPPORTUNITY FOR YOU.
This property is equal to anything ordinarily offered for $8000. In fact it is superior to perhaps a majority of those at $8000. The owner and builder of the house lies in a hospital. A trip to Europe, where he must take the baths, the doctors say, is his only hope of life. He must sell the house. A bank in appraising it for a loan valued it at $8000. The figure quoted above will get it, for the money above the loan must be forthcoming quickly.
The house is a rarely beautiful one. It would deserve notice anywhere. It is new, built by day labor and actually stands, together with the lot, far in excess of the price asked.
Equally desirable is the location. It is in the choice Wilshire district and among the most charming surroundings. Even a plain looking house would be attractive in such a situation, and this house is far, far from plain. The block is one of the best on a street noted for its beauty. It is within one block of a fine car line.
The following are details in brief of the house, which is a true type of the rambling two-story bungalow: seven rooms; three bedrooms; four large rooms on first floor, rooms handsomely finished and decorated; many built-in features; mahogany; white enamel; very expensive lighting fixtures, large cellar, furnace, great porches, east front.
WE ONLY ASK THAT WE MAY SHOW THIS. IT CERTAINLY SHOULD SELL IN A DAY.

$6000—BEAUTIFUL COUNTRY CLUB PARK PROPERTY—$6000.

A HOUSE THAT DESERVES AND ALWAYS GETS A SECOND LOOK.

AS BEAUTIFUL WITHIN AS IT IS CHARMING WITHOUT.
Seven rooms, all large, bright and sunny; fine tiled bath, completely in every detail, with pedestal washstand and ample closets.
Beamed ceiling in living-room, with great open brick fireplace, mahogany finish; dining-room in genuine mahogany, handsome buffet, imported tapestry; one of the quaintest breakfast-rooms imaginable—a truly artistic touch; four dainty bedrooms; hardwood floors, finished like a piece of furniture; large front porch, screen porch, garage.
A REAL GEM FOR $6000.

$5000—Wilshire district—Remarkably attractive—$5000.
NEW MODERN TO THE MINUTE.
Ten rooms, two baths, garage, large lot, beautiful location, popular street, charming plan and finish, an exceptional house.

$9250—ANOTHER NEW HOUSE IN THE WILSHIRE DISTRICT—$9250.
Ten rooms, large lot, porches, charmingly situated, equal to many held at much higher figures, a remarkably attractive home. It only needs to be seen to be appreciated. If in the market for a house at about this price you cannot afford to neglect seeing this and the preceding house.

$14,000—AN ARCHITECTURAL INSPIRATION—$14,000.
COMPLETENESS ITSELF IN THIS HOUSE.
Eleven rooms,
5 bedrooms,
Three tiled baths, one shower, finished off in marble.
Large attic.
Porches in plenty.
This is one of the most pleasing houses, both outside and in, we have ever seen. The very place seems to extend a welcome as you open the door. And the house lives up to the first impression as you go through it. There are no disappointments, unless, perhaps you are pleasurably disappointed, for every room is a real revelation of thoughtfulness.
The salient features in brief are: parlor finished in Juana Costa mahogany with strikingly beautiful cove ceiling in old ivory finish, hand-carved; great open fireplace; spacious dining-room, finished in fumed oak, with handsome built-in features, well lighted; charming pergola porch opening off combination music-room and library; breakfast-room, a really beautiful chamber; especially selected one-panneled doors; hardwood floors of best character; artistic lighting fixtures; art glass; large yard; 2-story garage.
The Location—One of the prettiest parts of Ardmore street.

Beautiful exterior; first floor arrangement perfect, a most pleasing ensemble, with the workmanship, finish and decorations of the entire house artistic, harmoniously and perfectly balanced.
The drawing-room, living-room and reception hall are finished in Peruvian mahogany, hand-carved; decorations of imported silk tapestry.
The dining-room is in fumed oak. A beautiful buffet, with beveled plate glass doors, cut glass handles and touches of art glass are features of the dining-room.
The music-room is finished with Juana Costa mahogany and old gold silk tapestry. Massive bookcases, desk and other built-in conveniences are other features. A French door opens out upon a charming pergola.
Old ivory with hand decorations is among the distinguishing features of a beautiful breakfast-room.
The bedrooms are large and well lighted, connected and so placed as to have each chamber in conjunction with bath. The decorations are remarkably beautiful and of a high order. Large open fireplaces are in each room.
A private telephone system connects all rooms on second floor.
The bathrooms have tiled floors and walls, pedestal wash stands and large wide-rimmed tubs, all of finest manufacture.
A large upstairs living-room, a sun parlor, large closets with mirrored, one-paneled doors are details of the second floor.
The fixtures throughout have been selected with extremely good taste and practically regardless of cost.
A well-appointed butler's pantry is a feature.
From the great stone front and side porch and other porches is afforded a magnificent view of the mountains.

CINCH A PROFIT WITH $5.

Do you believe Los Angeles is going to stand still?

Do you believe the Panama Canal will never be finished?

Do you think the city and the sea will never meet?

Well, then, never mind—but—

Los Angeles WILL have a million in 1930.

The Panama Canal WILL have water in it next September.

Greater Los Angeles WILL grow right down to the ocean.

Square in the path of this city's growth there are a few car line lots.

Big ones—50x150; they have water in, steel mains, cement curbs and sidewalks, and graded streets.

They have fine yellow car service, and are just 15 minutes beiond the city limits now.

They are part of Ingledale Acres —where certain profits have attracted hundreds of shrewd real estate buyers.

A $5 bill gives you possession and insures your profit.

Five dollars a month gives you the deed.

One of these lots is as safe as a savings bank, and will make you more money.

Owensmouth is making enormous strides and affords a wonderful opportunity for the investor and homeseeker.

Happenings
at
MITCHEL'S EXPOSITION PARK SQUARE.

The "happenings" at this attractive southwestern home site subdivision have not been of the "hit or miss" sort.

There was wise and deliberate method in the first choice of location. Great care and thought were given to the arrangement. Large sums were expended on the complete, down-to-the-minute improvement.

Perhaps

it was a "happenstance" that the Manual Arts High School and the University of Southern California were in the immediate neighborhood. Or that Exposition Park was just across Santa Barbara Avenue. Or that 7 car lines with 14½-minute service led to the tract—

Do you believe Los Angeles is going to stand still?

Do you believe the Panama Canal will never be finished?

Do you thing the city and the sea will never meet?

Well, then, never mind—but—

Los Angeles WILL have a million in 1920.

The Panama Canal WILL have water in it next September.

Greater Los Angeles WILL grow right down to the ocean.

THE BIGGEST,

BEST AND CHEAPEST

FARM LAND PROPOSITION

IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

If You Are Looking for a Snap
Here It Is.

This is the one best subdivision Farm proposition in the State of California today, and less than 100 miles from Los Angeles. 4000 acres of deep rich loam of decomposed granite, and all patented land with absolute title guaranteed and no mineral reservations.

The whole tract is located on a bench with an incline ideal for irrigation, and with the exception of about 30 acres every foot of it can be plowed and cultivated.

The elevation is more than 3000 feet, and there is no better land in California for apples, pears, apricots, peaches, alfalfa, potatoes, barley and vegetables.

It is a sure water proposition and it is ready for development. There is water now on four sides of it.

The nearest point to the railroad is less than 4 miles, and the furthest about 8 miles, and the entire tract less than 100 miles from Los Angeles—an easy 4 hours' ride by auto over good roads, and excellent roads around and through the land. The Aqueduct runs directly through the tract, and shows the soil to a depth of 12 feet.

We have this land for sale with a guaranteed title under U.S. patent, and no mineral reservations, for only

$18.00 PER ACRE.
$16.00 PER ACRE.
$14.00 PER ACRE.
$10.00 PER ACRE.

It will take $20,000 to handle it, and the balance in one, two, three and four years, before which time the land can be developed and sold for $150 an acre, right here in Los Angeles, as fast as it can be got ready.

If you are an investor, don't let this one fast away from you. There are no more like it for size, merit and location in Southern California—good railroad service, good land, and only a short distance from the metropolis of California. You know what all this means in the next two to four years. It means from 200 to 400 per cent. on your investment, and we want to handle it for you.

Come in and let's talk it over, and if you like it get in our machine and we will go see it.

IT'S A BUY NOW—

WHAT'S A BUY NOW?

Consolidated Mines Company stock. Mine at Randsburg, California. Listed on Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

It sold this week at 3 7-8, and 4 cents per share. SELLER'S LOSS! BUYER'S GAIN!

A gold brick of about $2000 is coming in every month and has been coming that way for many months. Indications are that the September brick will be larger than any former ones. Come right along and sell your stock if you wish to. If you have 100,000 shares or so our market will take it. We have one man who holds a big block of the stock now, who wouldn't mind taking another block of 500,000. If you think this is a bluff, try it on.

We have "knockers" on this stock on the floor of our exchange, as well as on the outside, but that only gives interest to the situation. Sell or buy this stock as it pleases you best. We will try and accommodate you, which ever you do. I do not know whether it will go up or down this week, but, I do know, it will not stand still. It is a commission to a broker every time he sells or buys. Here is an opportunity TO YOU. You have a chance to make a big profit on a small investment.

Provident Investment Co. 617 SO. HILL ST.

The plan of co-operative farming, dairying and live stock raising is of vital interest to you.

Once you fully understand the scope of this organization—the solid foundation on which its investments are based—the large and certain profits arising therefrom—you are naturally going to try and become a partner in the enterprise.

This plan does not appeal to the speculator or the man with a few dollars wishing to get rich quick. It is solely for the man who has a few dollars, or many, who knows the advantage of making an investment in productive land.

There is no personal element in this organization—no few men whose holdings dominate the management. Every stockholder is on an equal basis with his neighbor. There are no favorites. It is a straightforward proposition, organized to give the investors of the Southwest—large and small—an opportunity to join their capital under one organization and reap the profits of alfalfa farming, dairying and live stock raising.

This business of farming is the oldest business in the world. It is the business on which the business of the world is founded. It is the business which, under scientific, systematic management, pays the surest and greatest profits.

We do not urge you to buy stock in this company. You may feel you have other use for your capital, or it may be you do not believe in investments owing to some past unsatisfactory experience. But we do urge you to learn all you can from our printed literature regarding our plan, as it will be intensely interesting to you in many ways.

Understand that this advertisement is not for the speculator. It is for the man who appreciates good farm land security and who wishes to share in the profits of scientific, business-like farming on a wholesale plan.

We invite such people to call or write us for information. This call or written request does not mean any obligation to you. So make it a point, for your own benefit, to make this investigation at once. Call or mail the coupon.

The Oil Industry.

SANTA MARIA DISTRICT IS SCENE OF ACTIVITY.

Development Work About Equally Divided Between the Old Field and Cat Canyon—Asphalt Plant of Sufficient Capacity to Handle Latter's Heavy Oil Output Is Much Needed.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA MARIA (Cal.) Sept. 18.—There is about as much activity in the Santa Maria field as is noted in the other fields of the State. There are twenty-seven strings of tools running in the district, half of which are in the Cat Canyon pool. The output of the field for the present month will be approximately 500,000 barrels. Of this amount about 100,000 barrels comes from Cat Canyon and is the heavy, low-grade product.

The only solution for the handling of the Cat Canyon product, seems to be in establishing an asphalt factory of sufficient capacity, near the wells so that the manufactured product may be shipped to the markets by rail. The Santa Maria Oilfields Company, has the plans and specifications for a plant of about 4500 barrels daily capacity, all ready, but no work has been commenced as yet, and the company is still storing its output, which amounts to 1200 barrels a day.

The Brooks Oil Company has given up trying to pipe its oil to Sisquoc, a distance of six miles, and is tearing up its pipe line. This line was built before the company realized that its output was only about ten gravity stuff, and it has never worked satisfactorily, although the fall from the property to Sisquoc is several hundred feet. The company, has shut in its well temporarily, and is awaiting the completion of a spur track to be built by the narrow-gauge Pacific Coast Railway, from its present terminus on the Palmer Oil Company's property, to the Brooks lease, a distance of three miles. The company will then ship entirely by rail to the California Liquid Asphalt Company's plant at Hadley, which is controlled by the Brooks Oil Company.

The well recently brought in by the Dome Oil Company on its Cat Canyon property is a good producer, but the product is heavy, even for Cat Canyon oil and resembles liquid asphalt. There is enough gas pressure known to force even this stuff to the surface.

There is no doubt but that this entire district is underlaid with vast deposits of this heavy oil, and there is also no doubt but that if the wells could be put down to a proper depth the output would not only be lighter but would also be greatly increased. New methods are continually being tried out and new experience gained with each well; enough, in fact, to encourage the operators to further efforts, and it looks as if some day Cat Canyon would be a big producer of oil.

The company that took over the property of the Kernal Oil Company, in the Tepusquet across from the river Sisquoc, has abandoned the enterprise after drilling a hole 500 feet deep. The owners were not oil men and the heavy expense scared them out.

The Summit Oil Company, drilling about two miles north of the Palmer, has sixty feeet of oil sand at about 2800 feet. The company was about to make a test of this sand when the tools were lost in the hole and the drillers now have a bad fishing job on their hands.

The Bradley Canyon Oil Company about one mile farther north and west created a little excitement recently by running into an oil sand at a much shallower depth than any of the other wells in this district. It was at first thought to be the Palmer sand, but it is not yet determined whither it is a pay sand or not. Drilling is being continued.

The Merchants' Oil Company, controlled by the Santa Maria Oilfields, has taken a new lease on life and after several weeks of inactivity is again drilling. This company is also in the oil sand, but like all other concerns in Cat Canyon, its troubles have only commenced since it struck the sand.

The Dispatch Oil Company property has been leased by the former owners, Mell Kellerman and Tom Vigus, to L. D. Peters, who is trying to get a producer. This company's well was also drilled to the sand and then shut down on account of a fishing job.

In the Old Field the Western Union is running three strings of tools and last week finished up its new No. 5, which is a very heavy gasser and produces about twenty-five barrels daily of 36-gravity oil. The company has decided to drill it deeper in the hope of increasing the output. A new rig is also up on the Western Union's property.

The Rice Ranch Oil Company is also running three strings. This company's No. 7, which is one of the best wells on the property, recently commenced to flow and caused considerable commotion for some time. It was gotten under control, however, but still flows intermittently. No. 9, which was finished about two months ago, will probably be deepened. It is but one location away from No. 8, where a good body of sand was found, but No. 9, although deeper, shows no sand at all, the production being entirely shale oil, which, by the way, is the case in most of the Santa Maria wells.

The Pennsylvania Petroleum Company has decided to redrill its old No. 1, which was a failure on account of water trouble. The territory, however, has now been proved, and work will be started on the hole in the near future.

As a matter of fact, hundreds of acres in the old Santa Maria field are now proven to be rich and when there is a demand for the oil the territory will all be drilled.

Speaking of a demand for the oil, the product here "goes begging." All the output is sold and there's not a barrel of surplus in the field, but the Union Oil Company practically controls the situation and owns the greater part of the productive territory, and seems in no hurry to increase its output.

The Standard, although it has a storage farm here, and a pump station and an eight-inch line to Port Harford, has less to do than any other concern in the field. The storage tanks are empty and the pump station is shut down. In fact, the company has "lost out" in this field entirely. The only oil it is at present securing is the output of the Pennsylvania company, which amounts to 8000 barrels a month. This oil is run by gravity through the line to Port Harford.

The Standard at one time was handling the Pinal Oil Company's output of about 40,000 barrels a month, but the Pinal built a refinery of its own at Betteravia and is treating its own oil. Later the Pinal absorbed the Dome holdings, and is now a big concern marketing its own products.

There is just one significant fact in connection with the Pinal-Dome concern that looks as if someone were "after" it. From Betteravia the company ships its products in tank cars. At first it had no trouble in securing cars. Recently it has had no end of trouble in getting cars enough to handle its trade. This may be merely incidental or accidental, but to operators who went through the trying days in the early history of the Kern River find it looks at least suspicious. For, be it known that the Standard Oil Company claims the exclusive right to market kerosene, gasoline and other by-products of petroleum, and any concern that "gets in the way" along these lines is likely to bump up against things that are "dark and peculiar." The Puente Oil Company a few years ago had a few "experiences," and the Pinal-Dome Oil Company is likely to receive a sample of these "strong-arm" tactics.

The Standard, however, does not appear to interfere with the affairs of the Union Oil Company in this field and is at a distinct disadvantage, but, as one of their representatives recently remarked to the writer: "The Standard Oil Company expects to be doing business for several years to come. Watch us grow."

Our Bad Record.

[Boston Transcript:] Those who claim to have investigated the matter say that in the United States the number of murders in proportion to population is such as to establish this as the most lawless nation in the world. The number of murderers caught and convicted is said to be much smaller with us than in Spain, Italy or any of the Balkan States, not to speak of the larger and more powerful nations. The common and increasing habit of revolver-carrying in our country is a surprise to the law-abiding people from other lands. And it is a constant wonderment at home that general sentiment does not rise up and compel some regulation of the revolver-making and the revolver-selling industry. Of course, this would be the only way to diminish the carrying and use of pocket firearms. Scrutiny of buyers and records of sales cannot do much to prevent the wrong use of revolvers. By the way, what is the rightful use of revolvers by the general pblic? And in what proportion of cases is there any legitimate need of revolver practice?

For the Tourist.

FINE HOTEL FOR CITRUS BELT.

Little Town of Rialto Taking on City Airs.

Hostelry Planned Will Follow Mission Style.

Project Result of Railway's Extension Plans.

Construction will be begun within the next two weeks upon the beautiful tourist hostelry that has been planned by Arthur B. Benton for the little town of Rialto, in the heart of the Rialto citrus section. The structure will be ready for occupancy about January 1, or by the time the Pacific Electric cars are running on the new-assured extension from Pomona to San Bernardino. Set against the foothills and commanding a panorama of hills and valleys of unsurpassed beauty, the new hotel will contribute materially to the charm of the region which will be opened up by the advent of the projected car line.

The hotel will be erected for the Rialto Hotel Company, which is composed of the men interested in the Fontana Development Company and identified with the Rialto Chamber of Commerce. The funds immediately demanded for the project are being brevided by J. S. Torrance of the Torrance-Marshall Company, which concern is playing an important part in the development of the rich citrus belt to the west of San Bernardino.

The hotel will be in the mission style and of brick construction, with plaster exterior. It will be rambling in type and will follow the natural contour of its site, ranging in height in the different portions from one to three stories. The crowning feature, architecturally, will be a lofty observation tower.

The building will contain approximately fifty sleeping rooms, each with private bath and sleeping porch. The lobby will be large and will be surrounded by an interior balcony which will open directly upon an outside balcony at the second-story level. A beautiful feature will be a cloister extending across the entire front of the hotel and leading to the porte cochere. The dining-room will be of ample dimensions and will be lighted from a large glass dome in the ceiling.

The improvement will cost in excess of $60,000, this figure not including the outlay for fixtures and furnishings. A competent hotel man will be placed in charge immediately upon the completion of the building.

The grounds of the hostelry are 300x280 feet in size and beautifully situated. The landscape treatment will be elaborate, formal gardens being planned for the rear of the site at a portion of the grounds overlooked by the main interior court. Several tennis courts will be laid out. The front lawns are to be beautifully terraced.

LAST SCHOOL TO OPEN.

CLAREMONT, Sept. 21.—Pomona College, the latest of the local institutions in beginning its fall work, will open its doors for business Monday, September 23. Registration will occupy Monday and Tuesday. The formal opening will be on Wednesday at 11 o'clock, when President Blaisdell and Fred G. Athearn, a former student, now of San Francisco, will address the students.

Pomona is unique among the colleges of California, in that it is a straight college with no preparatory annex. From 400 to 500 college students will keep the faculty busy. Already applications for admission have been received to the number of 150 and the freshman class will doubtless be as large or larger than the record-breaking class of last year. More than a half dozen new professors will be on hand and the equipment in many directions has been greatly enlarged and improved.

READY FOR DEDICATION.

Monrovia Baptists Complete House of Worship of Rare Beauty and Convenience of Arrangement.

MONROVIA, Sept. 21.—The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church made the first use of the new church dining-rooms and kitchen last night, when it held its semi-annual meeting, followed by a church supper. The ladies pronounced the dining-rooms and kitchen perfect in appointments and arrangement, and are planning some delightful social gatherings during the coming season. The handsome new church, recently completed at a cost of $26,000, will be formally dedicated with impressive ceremonies some time during the coming month.

MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT.

A serious accident occurred this morning at the corner of Myrtle and Olive avenues, when Herbert Berry, riding a motorcycle, collided head-on with an auto owned by H. A. Unruh, executor of the Baldwin estate. The machine at the time contained only the chauffeur, who was driving slowly west on Olive, but on the wrong side of the street. Berry, who was badly cut and bruised, was at once removed to the Monrovia Hospital by Dr. Sanger, who witnessed the accident, and later taken to his rooms in the Myrtle Apartments. Dr. Sanger thinks that unless internal injuries develop the case will not prove serious. The motor was badly wrecked, but the auto received scarcely any damage.

Building Completed.

New First Baptist Church at Monrovia, cost $26,000, to be dedicated early in October.

CARE OF GLASSWARE.

Cut-Glass Articles Should Be Washed, One Piece at a Time and Two Waters Are Necessary.

[Philadelphia Record:] The pressed glass articles nowadays are such good imitations of the real, many women prefer to use them for every day rather than the more costly kind. In the case of breakage there is much less to regret.

But the cheaper glass must be kept in good condition if it is to keep its brilliancy.

In fact, it requires the same care given to cut glass.

Few women need to be told glassware which has contained milk must be rinsed in cold water before being put into the hot. Hot water only makes the milk stick more closely, and unless it is rinsed off in cold wate, the glass will be cloudy even with careful washing in hot water.

The safer plan is to wash one piece of glass at a time, and in the case of expensive cut glass a cloth should be laid at the bottom of the dishpan as a precaution. Soapy articles are apt to slip from the hand.

Two pans of water are necessary. One will contain suds made from warm water and a good white soap, the other warm water containing a few drops of ammonia.

Most women know glassware must be wiped dry while still warm. As this means it is also wet—not being allowed to drain—plenty of towels are necessary if there are many pieces to be cleansed. Some people claim glassware is made more brilliant if it is first rinsed in warm water and then in cold, the articles being allowed to become dry of themselves. Personally, I have not found the plan a success, but it is worth trying. Others may be able to do it successfully and thereby save time and towels.

Cloths for wiping glass should be without lint. A soft linen towel is excellent, afterward polishing with an old silk handkerchief. Tissue paper also makes a good polisher. A soft brush should be finally used which will penetrate the cutting.

Bottles, decanters, etc., may be cleaned by dropping crushed egg shells into them with the soapy water. This is a safe method. Potato peel, also bits of paper, may be used in the same way. For coarser glassware or for very bad stains, a handful of tacks or shot will be effective. If the stains refuse to budge, then a weak solution of the commercial muriatic acid will remove them. The vessel should be thoroughly rinsed after cleaning with the acid.

When decanters or glass bottles have a musty odor, they may be sweetened by mixing a little powdered charcoal with warm water, using it for thoroughly rinsing.

QUIZ MILL FOR WHOLE FAMILY.

City Attorney to Sweepers Must Take "Exam."

Civil Service Rules to Apply to All Appointees.

City Freeholders Split on Municipal Fads.

Every appointive officer of the municipal government from City Attorney and police judges to the lowliest street sweeper, will have to take civil service examinations, if the people ratify the proposed new charter. Even the city's judicial officers were not excepted by the city Board of Freeholders yesterday.

"Under this provision you will place your City Attorney where he won't amount to a hill of beans, and no self-respecting attorney would take the job," declared Commissioner Wellborn after the vote had been taken on the point of placing all officers under civil service. He made a fight to exclude the City Attorney from this rule. Commissioner Locke wanted an exemption in the case of the police judges. Both propositions were voted down, although the commission did vote to retain in the charter a provision that the City Attorney's salary shall be $6000 per year.

"You're putting into this charter the very thing that will kill it," declared Locke.

"Well, we have killed it so many times that we may as well give it another knock," said Brundige.

A COME-BACK.

Commissioner Locke gave notice that at a subsequent meeting he will move to reconsider this action, so that the office of City Attorney may be made elective.

Reconsiderations hereafter in the Board of Freeholders' meetings are to be on a different basis from those taken heretofore. The board, by a unanimous vote, decided that hereafter any subject that has been passed by a vote of eight members can only be reconsidered by a vote of eight.

The board took up the subject of making the public library independent, to be controlled by a board of five commissioners. It was proposed that a levy of not less than 4 cents nor more than 8 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation be made for the support of the library. These propositions were lost by a tie vote.

FRANCHISE EXTENSIONS.

By a vote of 6 to 4, a clause in the franchise section was adopted providing that the city may grant franchise extensions for three-year periods, but in no case shall the total number of years exceed the tenure of the franchise for the line with which the extension connects.

The board also decided that in the event of vacancies occurring on the board of seven commissioners that is to have control of the government, when appointments are made to fill the vacancies the Mayor shall have the power to reallot the offices of the commissions.

The charter must be completed by the 30th inst. A session will be held Wednesday evening to receive further reports from the Law Committee, and it is probable that nightly sessions will be the order until the charter draft is completed and signed by the fifteen members.

WOMAN'S PREROGATIVE.

FREEHOLDERS CHANGE MIND.

At the close of a long and animated discussion the County Board of Freeholders yesterday afternoon again changed their minds about the offices of County Auditor and County Assessor and decided to make the former appointive and the latter elective.

Members who were not at the meeting are to be seen by the secretary before tomorrow's meeting and their votes secured. It is probable believed the section will stand as now.

Willis Booth made a hard and practically single-handed fight against taking the office of Assessor out of the elective column. He declared that if at any time the machinery of the county under the proposed charter were to fall into bad hands, the opportunities to abuse the office will be prolific.

"The office of Assessor is practically the only one in the county in which every voter has a personal interest. The people should have a right to judge the character of the man who shall assess their property. As was shown in the election of the late Ben E. Ward, they are able to judge accurately. If the office had been apointive at that time, Ward would never have secured it and the county would have lost a high efficient servant."

It was decided to make the office of Auditor appointive by a vote of 6 to 3, the call standing as follows: Ayes—Dudley, Evans, Hunter, Kernaghan, Works, Wellborn; Noes—Booth, Seaver, Strine. On the motion to make the office of Assessor appointive, the roll was: Ayes—Evans, Works, Kernaghan, Dudley; Noes—Booth, Seaver, Strine, Hunter, Wellborn.

Kernaghan proposed that the Chief Deputies in the elective offices be appointed by the department heads without reference to the civil service, and this carried by a vote of six to two. As there will be only two or possibly three elective offices and the charter already exempts the Chief Deputy in one of them, the District Attorney's office, from the civil service, the clause will apply only to the office of Sheriff and possibly Assessor, if that office shall be finally made elective.

Kernaghan wanted the same provision to apply to county offices in which the head of the department is appointed from the civil service, but the motion was lost, six to two.

The percentage necessary for a recall was reduced from 20 per cent. of the vote cast at the last preceding gubernatorial election to 15 per cent. This applies to county, not township officers. In the case of township offices the percentage is reduced from 30 to 5 per cent.

District Attorney Fredericks concerning the "public defender" clause, a portion of which was published in The Times yesterday, was read to the board. A motion was made by Booth to limit the public defender to civil actions only, but was lost, six to three.

In order to complete the mass of work still to be done, the commission will meet at 9 o'clock this morning, and sessions will probably be held tomorrow and Tuesday to make engross and sign the final draft of the charter.

DEFENSE OF OLD MAIDS.

A Western Minister Gets His Answer for an Attack on a Much-Needed Part of Every Community.

[Ruth Cameron in Topeka State Journal:] "I have already got to the point of considering that there is no more respectable character on this earth than an unmarried woman who makes her own way through life, quietly, perseveringly, without support of husband or brother, and, who, having attained the age of 40 or upwards, retains a well-regulated mind, a disposition to enjoy simple pleasures, and fortitude to support inevitable pain, sympathy with the sufferings o fothers, and willingness to relieve want as far as means allow."—[Charlotte Bronte.

A western minister has recently gotten all the notoriety he could possibly have desired by saying that bachelors and old maids should be exiled to a desert island, there to reflect on their state as a waste of humanity.

Yesterday I recalled that brilliant statement and wished with all my heart that its author could have sat beside me on the trolley car.

I was riding in town on one of the morning cars. It was the hour at which most of the passengers are workers in shops and offices on their way to the day's imprisonment, but there was one woman with a little child in her arms. I did not happen to see the child because she was so placed as to be put off my direct line of vision, but I saw her reflected in the faces of three women opposite me. These three women were evidently going to work in shops or offices, they were middle-aged and apparently of that criminal class against which the minister preached. And yet, as I say, without being able to see that baby myself, I knew there must be a baby somewhere by the strange, sweet look which came over those three faces and the absorbed way in which they gazed across the aisle.

If that minister could have sat beside me, I don't think even the desire for notoriety could have persuaded him to talk about old maids that way again.

If there is any more ridiculous idea than this notion that the average old maid dislikes children and deliberately chooses a single existence because she has a pickle lime temperament, in spite of eager protests on the part of desirable males, I have yet to meet it. And yet it seems to be a favorite theory, both with men and with safely married females.

Stuff and nonsense! To be sure, there aren't many women who never "had a chance." But there are plenty of women who haven't had a chance to marry a man whom they could respect and like and trust—to say nothing of love. And is a woman to be blamed for not snapping up anything at all in preference to remaining single? Poor bachelor maids, how unfairly we treat them, alternately we make fun of them for being ready to snatch at a straw, and preach against them for not being ready to.

This western minister's statement was more widely quoted than it would otherwise have been because a good and wise bachelor girl, widely known and as widely loved, has rebuked him. "If I had found a suitable helpmate I might have spent my money in a different way which might not have done as much good as it does now," says Helen Gould. "Please think this over and before preaching on this subject again make up your mind that there is some good in living a single life."

The sanity and dignity of that quiet statement is as soothing after that foolish tirade on silence after a tu-

GLENDALE TO BE WELL LIGHTED.

ILLUMINATION PROJECTS ARE NEARING COMPLETION.

Systems of Verdugo Canyon and Verdugo Park Taken Over—Valley Town Showing Real Civic Spirit by Putting Cables and Wires in Underground Conduits.

GLENDALE, Sept. 21.—Under the management of City Electrician Harry B. Lynch, the various electric lighting projects which have been in progress here for the past several months are nearing completion. Streets in the section taken into the city some time ago, lying west of Central avenue, will have lights in about two weeks. Foundations have been set for 195 lighting standards, which were ordered several weeks ago. Six miles of underground cable for this work has arrived and an equal amount is now on the way from the eastern factory. The work of installing the current will be started at once.

The lighting department has just closed the deal whereby the city takes over the lighting system in Verdugo canyon and Verdugo park. The purchase of this extension means that those being served in that section will receive electricity at the same rate as those living in the center of the city.

In regard to the ornamental lighting system being erected in the center of the city Lynch stated today that this system will be finished and lighted by October 1. During the past two weeks the work of erecting the large iron standards has been in progress. This system is costing about $12,000 and will require $1000 per year for maintenance.

In an endeavor to comply with the wishes of the local board of trustees the Pacific Light and Power Company is just finishing the work of taking down its overhead cables and poles on Broadway between Glendale avenue and Brand boulevard. The wires are now encased in an underground conduit. The trustees have asked that all poles be taken from Broadway and the various companies are endeavoring to comply with the request.

A garbage collecting system has just been installed in this city. For months this question has been before the local board of trustees. Several methods have been tried, but have proved unsuccessful. Tiring of all other methods, the board has hired a man at $4.50 per day to collect the garbage. The collections are made twice a week, uniform cans to be used by the residents. The present system is proving satisfactory.

The following real estate sales were reported here this week: Twenty-one acres of the Verdugo property, at the corner of Verdugo road and Tenth street, to H. Nelson of Los Angeles, $12,000; this piece will be subdivided and put on the market soon; lot at the corner of Howard street and Broadway to Miss Ora Jones and Miss Minnie Cross, $5000; house and lot on Central avenue near Second street to John E. Balamanti, of Los Angeles, $4200; lot in the Pridmont tract to R. W. Dow, $1500; to Mr. Hennon a lot at Everett and Fifth streets, $900, and to A. J. Dupee, a lot on Third street, $875.

J. P. Shropshire has just finished the erection of a garage at the corner of Everett street and Broadway at a cost of about $6000. This building is entirely of brick and is fitted up with modern appliances. J. F. Stanford has just taken out a permit for a nine-room, two-story residence on Central avenue near First street, to cost about $3000.

The members of the First Baptist church of this city are preparing to take possession of their beautiful brick church building at the corner of Jackson and Third streets, which is nearing completion. This church is one of the finest edifices of worship in the valley and is being erected at a cost of about $50,000. It is of the Gothic style of architecture.

The Tuesday Afternoon club of this city has purchased a lot near the corner of Jackson and Fifth street, the price paid being about $1000. On this site the club expects, in the near future, to erect a commodious clubhouse to cost at least $5000.

McCombs Bros. have been awarded the contract for the improvement work on Raleigh street, this work to be started at once and to be rushed to completion. This improvement work consists of grading, oiling, tamping, sidewalking and curbing. Work was started Tuesday morning on the improvement of Moore avenue, from Glendale avenue east to Boynton street. This work will include a five-foot sidewalk and curb.

Streets are now being cut through the forty-acre section of the Richardson tract which was purchased several weeks ago by a Los Angeles syndicate. In this tract the streets are being oiled and graded and several miles of five-foot sidewalk and curbing are being laid. A number of homes ranging from $3000 to $5000 have already been started in this tract and many others are to follow. Work will be gin shortly on the improvement of Park avenue along its entire length.

EL SEGUNDO ACRES.

The residents of El Segundo Acres expect to have their new pumping plant in operation soon. El Segundo Acres, which is an addition to El Segundo townsite, was put upon the market three months ago by W. I. Hollingsworth & Company. El Segundo Acres consists of 112 acres, subdivided into large lots. The property is west of El Segundo townsite and overlooks the property held by the El Segundo Land and Improvement Company. The pumping plant, now nearly installed, consists of a sixty-horse-power engine, a fourteen-inch pump to produce between sixty and seventy inches of water, a concrete reservoir, a well, water mains and laterals. The water system is held by a mutual water company. Among the recent purchasers of El Segundo Acres, W. I. Hollingsworth & Company report the following: George J. Birkel (two lots;) E. H. Specht, R. R. Mabury, F. B. Ball, Clueta Badgley, Emma C. Peters, R. I. Sommers, J. Materna, C. E. Haldeman, J. Felix Prime, Henry Sommers, E. H. Guisho (two lots;) R. E. Cadwal der (two lots;) M. R. Domingues, Freda Erdon, Alice McArdle, Henry Smith, Florence McDermott, C. Samson, C. E. Longfellow, N. C. Bryson (four lots;) Thomas Wade (two lots;) Kate Parsons, Emma R. Scherhorn, Ernest Urchs (two lots;) J. Georgina Mills, N. P. Hannon, J. N. Polich, G. E. Todd, P. E. Binder, George E. Miller, W. S. Stimmel, Miss C. E. Haley (two lots;) A. B. Bridges, H. M. Fowles, Florence Somers, Mrs. B. McDonald.

CASH FOR VALUABLE SITE.

Strong & Dickinson, agents for the Andrews Boulevard Company, report the sale of 200x227 feet on the east side of Andrews boulevard, between Third and Fourth streets, to Dean Mason for a consideration of $25,000 cash. Mason is having plans drawn for a $35,000 home, which will have a width of 110 feet. A contract has just been let to Charles Stansbury to redress Andrews boulevard and Rampart boulevard, and to put both streets in first-class condition, also to make a street of Benton Way between Third and Sixth streets, with curbs and sidewalks, as a portion of the lots on Rampart boulevard have been cut in two, so as to provide a number of small bungalow lots facing on Benton Way.

TEST IS THRILLER.

Skyscraper Elevators, Purposely Overloaded, to Be Dropped Thirteen Stories.

A "drop for life" test of the elevators in the new thirteen-story skyscraper of the Los Angeles Investment Company, at Eighth street and Broadway, is to be made early the coming week, the superintendent of this work having already received applications from three men who are willing to undertake the feat.

The elevators are equipped with all of the latest safety devices, most of them never before used on the Pacific Coast. But the first run of the cars is to be made under extra-strenuous conditions because the elevators are to be overtaxed in weight capacity with bags of sand, and the operator who handles them must not only demonstrate that the cars will carry the excess tons, but finally he must go to the top floor, remove all break checks and permit the elevator to fall. The result is to be proof of the adequacy of the safety devices.

The volunteers in this undertaking are men who have installed the safety system, and declare they have no fear as to its perfection.

Next week, also, a floor weight test is to be made in the big building. There will be tons of concrete, so arranged as to be easily handled, placed on every square foot. The test is so severe as to call for four times the usual guarantee weight per square foot.

EAGLE ROCK TRANSFERS.

The Edwards & Wildey Company reports sales from their Eagle Rock office, including the following: In Occidental Heights—Nettie A. Bruce to Lillian I. Davis, 50x150 feet on College View avenue, near Hill," $600; Mrs. Margaret T. Vogt, 50x150 feet, northwest corner Colorado boulevard and Grand View, $900; Lillian I. Davis, 50x150 feet, west side Grand View, near Las Flores, $550; to C. W. Penturf, 50x150 feet in Park avenue tract, on Park avenue, near Central avenue, $500; Carrie Kenniston, 46x154 feet on Park avenue, facing Valley drive, $550; Frank Kenniston, Jr., lot adjoining, $500. In Fairview Tract—Charles K. Niblack, lot on Ellis avenue, near Rock Glen, $550; Carrie C. Niblack, lot adjoining, $550. In Occidental Terrace—R. W. Robertson, 55x160 feet near Las Flores drive, $875.

LAUREL HEIGHTS OPENED.

In Laurel Heights, a new tract put on the market lately by C. A. Sumner & Co., and situated at Sunset boulevard and Laurel Canyon road, the streets have just been rocked and oiled, while cement curbs and gutters and five-feet cement sidewalks have been laid. Water connections have been made to all lots, and a gas main laid ready for use. The lots range in size from 50x160 feet to 60x180 feet, 75x180 feet and up to 75x250 feet. High class restrictions are in force. The property is reached by the Laurel Canyon car line to Laurel avenue.

WEST END SALES.

Victor G. Kleinberger and F. H. Edwards, subdividers, report sales in their new West Adams and Washington boulevard tract as follows: Charles T. Bell, $750; N. C. Foutty, $590; R. V. Lindell and Clara C. Lindell, two lots, $850 each; William C. Dunn, $1000; Arthur W. Williams, two lots, $650 and $950; Edwin A. Ford, $1050; Ella Ford, $975; Pearl Webster, $850; O. J. Lavine, three lots, two at $900 each, and one at $700; Maria E. Klyal, two lots, $875 and $950; John C. Miller, $875.

NEW STORE COMPLETED.

Edward Victor, a capitalist, has bought for investment a lot at the corner of Vermont avenue and Forty-first drive, and has erected a substantial two-story brick building, containing four storerooms below and six apartments above. Three new residences have just been started, one a two-story, ten-room house, and the others seven-room bungalows, in Mitchel's Exposition Park Square. All of the sewer work has been completed in this tract, and the street work is all done, with the exception of oiling and sanding. L. H. Mitchel & Son, owners, have recently sold lots to Ernest Allen, corner of Manlo avenue and Forty-first street, $2250; Mrs. Emma Ridout, two lots on Fortieth place at $1400 each; J. H. Bathrick, two lots on Forty-first street at $1400 each; Edward Victor, lot on Vermont avenue at $2000, and J. B. Montgomery, corner of Forty-first and Hoover streets, at $2250.

WESTLAKE LEASE SOLD.

Sullivan and Sullivan report the sale of the building at No. 427 South Alvarado street, known as the Westlake Apartments, to the Maxon-Nolin Company of this city and the immediate resale to Carty Brothers of Santa Barbara. They also report the sale of the lease and furnishings of the Westlake Apartments to the Leighton Hotel Company. The house, which contains fifty rooms, will be used as an annex to the Leighton Hotel, and contains every modern convenience. The consideration for lease and furniture is given at $10,000.

A MONSTER CROP.

sugar-beet gatherers, in addition to men trained to the handling of machinery particularly in use for sugar beet work, are now garnering the great yield of beets in the Van Nuys-Lankershim lands near the town of Owensmouth. Three large beet "dumps" are required to handle the tremendous crop that is being taken from 8000 acres of the American Beet Sugar Company, and as many more acres owned by private individuals. Special cars are being used to carry these beets to the Oxnard refineries so that the shipments may not be confused with beets sent from other points. Special machines are used to gather the beets, these being "pullers" that drag the roots from the soil. Behind each machine forty men walk, picking up the beets and "topping" them with heavy knives. Behind these come the crews that pick up the tubers and throw them into wagons. The wagons go to the "dumps," where the cars are loaded for shipment. More than $10,000 a week in wages is being paid to the crews listed as "extras" and put on the "expert" pay roll.

SALESMANSHIP REWARDED.

At an informal dinner gathering of the employees of Robert Marsh & Co., at the unique private clubhouse that is hidden behind the Marsh residence, C. E. Jordan was awarded a gold watch last Thursday night for efficient salesmanship record. Other watches were presented with suitable engravings to W. H. Tonks, J. E. Stevenson and O. J. Keefe. The occasion was made a merry evening, with dinner, songs, toasts and entertainers. Principal among the latter was Turley, the sleight-of-hand man. About sixty were present.

HOTEL NEAR COMPLETION.

The new Vista Inn being erected at Vista, in San Diego county, by A. B. Martin, is rapidly nearing completion. This hotel occupies the top of a knoll in the center of the new town, overlooking the entire valley, following the line of the Santa Fe to Escondido. The site was formerly occupied by an early-day ranch-house. The new home of W. S. Morse in the same town has been completed.

Acropolis Will Live Again in Santa Ana School.

Los Angeles Architects Win from Large Field.

Competition First of Kind in This Section.

As the result of the grat architectural competition under the rules of the American Institute of Architects ever held in Southern California, Withey & Davis of this city have been commissioned to prepare plans for the magnificent new Polytechnic High School that is to be built by the progressive citizens of Santa Ana. The competition, governed as it was by regulations of the highest professional order, attracted some of the leading designers of the Southwest, a total of thirteen sets of plans being submitted to the Santa Ana Board of Education. These, it is stated by members of the board, were all of a high order of merit.

In the award John C. Austin of this city acted as architectural adviser to the educational body. In addition to the commission to draw plans for the school group, two prizes, one of $200 and one of $50, were awarded. These went to Allison & Allison, and Edgar H. Cline, respectively. Practically all of the competitors were Los Angeles architects.

The accepted plans of Withey & Davis call for a group of four buildings, a main, or academic building, a science, household and fine arts building, a manual arts and commerce building, and a cafeteria. These structures are to be erected on the new twenty-acre campus of the school at Walnut and Parton streets.

A total of $160,000 is available from recent bond issue for the structures in question, and it is expected that approximately $50,000 will be expended in equipment and in the laying out of the grounds. With the site, the splendid group projected will represent an investment of about $250,000.

The buildings will follow Grecian Ionic lines, the motive being taken from the Frechtheum, one of the stateliest structures of the Athenian Acropolis. The academic building, fronting Walnut street, will be particularly imposing, one of its salient features being a portico supported by stone columns two stories in height. The ends of the flanking buildings will be set to the street, the three principal structures inclosing a quadrangle of lawn. The buildings will be two stories in height with the exception of the cafeteria, which will contain a single story and which will be placed at the rear of the academic structure.

Working plans for the group are to be rushed to completion, as it is the intention to hold the commencement of next June in the academic building. The other buildings are to be ready for occupancy by the opening of the fall term of 1913.

QUARTERS OUTGROWN.

"The present High School facilities have been entirely outgrown, owing to the rapid advance in population of Santa Ana and the constant increase in registration of the school itself," said Prof. I. A. Cranston, superintendent of the Santa Ana schools, yesterday afternoon. "We now have a High School enrollment of close to 600, which is a gain of about 100 in the past year alone. The growth of the commercial High School work has been wonderful. With the increase in attendance there has also come the necessity for emphasizing vocational education, something impossible in the present crowded High School."

The present High School consists of two buildings, one for regular High School work and one for the commercial work, situated at the corner of Ninth and Main streets. Upon the completion of the new Polytechnic group the present structures will be used for seventh and eighth grade and intermediate work.

The magnificent site selected for the new High School is accessible to all parts of the city, being within a few blocks of the heart of the downtown district. The grounds have a frontage of 720 feet by a depth of 1200 feet. The property will be laid out after a carefully studied plan, full provision being made for the athletic sports of the student body. Provision has been made for future additions to the three main buildings and it is estimated that the problem of high school facilities for Santa Ana has been solved for a quarter century to come.

HUGE AUDITORIUM.

The academic building will contain an auditorium with a seating capacity of over 1500. This will be used for assembly purposes and for public meetings. In the same building will be four rooms for the classes in mathematics, five classrooms for the English students, and three language classrooms. A music room with a stage and a seating capacity of approximately 200 will be provided. Other rooms will include two study halls, two public speaking-rooms, a library, rest rooms for the teachers and girl-students, committee rooms and the rooms of the board of education.

The science, household and fine arts building will contain laboratories of physics, chemistry, botany, agriculture and physiography, together with lecture rooms for the students in each of these branches of study. The domestic science department will include a cooking-school, washing-rooms, millinery room, sewing-room, supply and locker rooms and a complete model apartment. In the fine arts department will be facilities for the study of free-hand drawing, water-color work and the applied arts.

The manual arts and commerce building will contain departments for woodworking and mill work, with finishing-rooms, lumber rooms, tool rooms, firing-room, dry kiln, glue room and toilet and wash rooms. The iron-working department will be provided with a machine shop, forge room, tool and stock rooms and a foundry. A feature of the manual training department proper will be a museum for the products of the stu-

MANY DEALS IN ESCROW.

Market Not So Quiet as It Appears on Surface.

Former Angeleno Adding to Extensive Holdings.

Orchard and Alfalfa Lands in Good Demand.

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 21.—Realty men had a dull week closing today, the only really slow week of the season thus far. While various deals are reported as being in escrow and at least two large transfers of land are known to have been virtually closed, none of them is sufficiently assured to the principals that the facts have been given out. On the surface, therefore, the market has appeared unusually quiet.

F. U. Nofziger, former Los Angeles Councilman, who made his debut in the Porterville district with his construction of the Porterville Northeastern Railroad, of which he is still president, has decided to move here with his family from Los Angeles, to give his personal attention to his business affairs. He has closed a deal for the purchase of the West ranch on Grevilia avenue just north of the city limits. The ranch consists of thirty acres of fine land, only a short distance from the foothills, and close enough to the business district to be considered suburban property. Nofziger has already taken possession of the property.

Harry Peegram of Spokane, in company with several investors of that city, has purchased sixty acres of fine foothill orange land just north of Green View Heights. Peegram has been here all this week arranging for the development of the property. It is reported that the new owners paid approximately $10,000 for the tract. It is the plan to put the entire holding into mixed citrus fruits.

Andrew Knudston of Strathmore, an orange grower of that district, has added to his holdings through the purchase of the twenty-acre Sprague ranch in the Tulare road district. The property is all out to alfalfa and the new owner plans extensive improvements.

H. A. Andrus, of Hemet, has purchased a forty-acre tract of the Turner lands in the Strathmore district at a price not named. The property is situated on a water dyke where ample irrigation facilities are possible. Andrus plans to improve the property.

H. L. Westover, of Southern California, has purchased twenty acres of fine orange land in the Mentz Hills south and east of the city limits. This practically closes the last of the big Mentz holdings, which were thrown upon the market a few months ago. This is the last of the large tracts lying within the Porterville district and practically the entire 1000 acres of foothill land has been sold in twenty-acre lots. A large proportion of the property is being prepared for spring planting. Westover is planning on putting his tract out to early navels.

J. B. Garver of Terra Bella, has added to an already extensive holding of alfalfa lands in this district by the purchase of a quarter section in the Tipton-Pixley alfalfa belt. Garver has purchased for investment only.

SOUTH COAST ACTIVITIES.

Many Improvements in Prospect in Popular Beach Centers—Sales of Real Estate Reported by Dealers.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 21.—Now that the summer season is over, and vacationists have left the beaches for their various homes, the towns of the South Coast are preparing to settle down to more serious matters. There are many improvements in prospect and next season will see a great improvement in the already well established cities.

Sales of property at Bay City have been good during the past few weeks and are still holding up. Two lots were sold during the week to I. W. Graham and Mrs. Davis. Mrs. Davis will start a handsome beach residence on her property at once.

Many municipal improvements are in prospect at Huntington Beach, among them the new pier and a civic building to contain the city offices and the public library. Property is changing hands to good advantage.

An improvement association has recently been organized in West Newport, with most of the principal residents represented in the membership list and among the officers. One of the first of the good works of this association will be urging of a canal from the bathing pool to the canal that leads into the bay. Work on this will be commenced in a few days. The channel will have cement sides and will be fifteen feet deep, so that boats can pass to and from the bathing pool at all times. The water in the pool will be kept fresh by the changing tides. The lake is oblong in shape and the corners will be improved with trees.

The Dam-Rouselle Investment Company reports a good week in real estate at West Newport, and it seems that there will be no let-up on beach property during the winter. It is estimated that 80 per cent. of the purchasers will build before next season.

A general feeling of optimism prevails in East Newport since the bonds for a municipal light plant for the city of Newport carried during the past week. It is the idea of the board of Trustees to have a complete string of electric lights from the end of the city to the other, as soon as the city light plant is installed.

The automobile road passing through East Newport is to be curbed at once, permission having been given the street superintendent by the Board of Trustees last Monday night. Several new homes and apartment houses are being planned, and a new business block will be built this fall.

FOURTEEN HOMES STARTED.

The Southwest Land Company, owners and subdividers of the Vermont Square properties, report fourteen new homes started in these tracts, as follows: Mark B. Folsom, south side of Forty-first drive, between St. Andrew's and Gramercy; Harry J. Zell, south side of Forty-first drive, between St. Andrew's and Gramercy; R. L. Wilcox, south side of Forty-first drive, between St. Andrew's and Gramercy; Mrs. Johanna Chick, south side of Forty-fifth street, between Kansas and Budlong; W. E. Clopine, corner Kansas and Fiftieth streets; Fred J. Bluemle, south side of Forty-sixth street, between Normandie and Halldale; John Carlquist, west side of Budlong, between Vernon and Forty-fifth streets; John Sward, south side of Vernon, between Kansas and Budlong; R. R. Crabtree, north side of Forty-first drive, between St. Andrew's and Gramercy; W. F. Redmond, corner Kansas and Forty-seventh street; Gottlieb Dombrowski, corner of Forty-seventh and Raymond; M. Peterson, south side of Forty-ninth street, between Denker and Harvard; R. F. Crum, north side of Forty-first place, between Gramercy and Arlington.

LOOKING TO FUTURE.

BOARD HAS SCHOOL PLANS.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

SOUTH PASADENA, Sept. 21.—With the idea of providing for South Pasadena the best that can be had for the money in the way of domestic science and manual training departments in the High School, the local school board and other officials are devoting much time and discussing plans of similar departments in surrounding cities. A $70,000 bond issue has recently been voted for these buildings, and other improvements to the present High School building.

There is now a question of the location of the proposed new buildings, whether they shall set back twenty-five or more feet from the front of the present High School building, or forward to utilize space. It is argued in favor of the latter plan, that, by setting the two new buildings on a line about thirty feet in front of the present structure, a hollow-square effect would be afforded, and enough room would be left in the rear for two more buildings in the future.

Mrs. G. R. Crowe has sold to B. E. Jennings of Oklahoma, 100x160 feet on the south side of Spruce street, between Fair Oaks and Fremont avenues, improved with a nine-room frame residence, the consideration not being named. This property was purchased for a home, and, with his family, Mr. Jennings will move to this city.

Herbert Burdette and Seth Van Patten have purchased homesites in the Verdugo Park region.

Harry Paine has had plans completed for a seven room bungalow to cost $3700, which is to be erected immediately on Monterey road.

George Lockyer, who recently sold his ranch at Porterville, has purchased the property at No. 264 Pasadena avenue, near the Lincoln Park station, and moved his family to this city.

VETERANS LIKE TOWN.

SEVERAL WILL RETURN.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

VAN NUYS, Sept. 21.—Reports made up-to-date show that the old soldiers made good use of their time during encampment week. Many hundreds of them were given complimentary automobile rides from headquarters through the courtesy of W. P. Whitsett. Quite a number of them made purchases in the new town of Van Nuys.

Among those intending to return and build, was J. M. Beckley of the Fourteenth Ohio, who made a purchase of suburban acreage to the extent of $3000. Mason Bagley and wife, who came with the Rhode Island visitors, purchased $2000 worth of acreage also. They will make their future home in Van Nuys.

Mrs. Clara E. Covell, accompanying the Massachusetts W.R.C., bought a town lot for $450. Other sales follow: L. L. Heberling of Redding, $2400; F. H. Streit, $1600; James P. Heanski of Victoria, B. C., $2800; Mary H. Lawrence, $1700; Philip Benjamin, $1000. All these sales were made through the office of W. P. Whitsett.

Building is active. The new store building being constructed for Thos. H. Keefe on Sherman way is nearing completion. A kindred line of motorcycles, bicycles and articles will be installed soon. The new apartment-house on West F street is being finished. A new residence for Mr. Philips has been started on Sherman way.

CAMDEN COURT SALES.

The Lyons Dividends Company reports the following sales in its tracts: Two lots in Camden Court, to Laura E. Wilson, $10,000; two lots in second addition to Huntington Park, to Ebenezer Burr, $2000; two lots in Huntington Court, to Ebenezer Burr, $2400; three lots, Florentine Square, to Ebenezer Burr, $3000.

VILLA HOME STARTED.

A beautiful Italian villa home will shortly be erected on Harvard boulevard at a cost of approximately $50,000. The site was recently purchased by J. A. Rogers from Mr. Hammond of the First National Bank through the agency of William H. Schweppe & Co. Rogers has built a number of handsome residences in various parts of Los Angeles. The lot fronts ninety-five feet on Harvard boulevard and commands a view of the mountains. The builder has already broken ground and work will be rushed.

dents. Arrangements are also made for a photographic dark dark, mechanical drawing room, blue print room, offices and lecture rooms.

In the same building large quarters will be reserved for the commercial department, where will be rooms for the study of book-keeping, shorthand, typewriting and penmanship.

The cafeteria, though only a single story in height, will be in architectural keeping with the rest of the group. Provisions will be made for 300 students.

The buildings of the group will be of masonry construction, with plastered exterior. The academic building will be 245x76 feet in size, with a rear wing containing the auditorium. The manual arts and fine arts buildings will each be 190x70 feet in size.

The Santa Ana Board of Education is composed of the following members: W. L. Duggan, president; Lydia C. Smart, secretary; Viola S. Norman, Harry G. Dean and J. M. Cain. Edgar H. McMath is principal of the High School and V. L. Hughes, principal of the Commercial High School. The faculty of the regular High School numbers twenty-eight, and there are seven instructors in the commercial department.

Several store and flat buildings are being erected in the vicinity of the Manual Arts High School and Exposition Park as the result of the home building and development activity in this part of the southwest. Among these improvements is a structure of frame and plaster that is nearing completion at Vermont avenue and Fortieth Place. The building, which was planned by W. J. Bliesner, is two stories in height and contains four stores on the first floor, with four complete flats above. The structure, which is 87x50 feet in size, occupies the east half of a site 87x165 feet in dimensions.

WILL URGE NEW LAWS.

For the purpose of considering the several important policies to be recommended to the consideration of the real-estate men of California at the eighth annual convention of the California State Realty Federation, to be held in Los Angeles, October 10, 11 and 12, the board of directors of the organization will hold a special meeting in San Francisco, Saturday, September 21, in the offices of Mabry McMahan, the president. James G. Stafford of Los Angeles, executive secretary and the active director of the work of the State Realty Federation, will present his draft of the convention programme, and will report on the work being done by the several committees. J. L. Craig of Stockton, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the realty federation, will meet the directors and outline the proposed State realty license law, which, should it be passed, will, in the opinion of many prominent real-estate men, result in more protection for the investing public, and to the legitimate real-estate agent. State legislation authorizing the State Comptroller to receive irrigation bonds as security for State and school funds also is urged by Chairman Craig, and such a law has been drafted.

PLAN TWO DEPOTS.

The Pacific Electric is making plans for the construction of the new Washington Park station at the intersection of the Playa Del Rey line with Washington boulevard. This line bisects the Washington Park tract, and as soon as the formality of a crossing grant has been made by the State Railroad Commission another station will be built by the Pacific Electric at Madison street on the same subdivision. Landscape engineers are at work on the drawings for the new five-acre island park to be built on the natural island in Ballona Creek, which skirts Washington Park on the south. Several picturesque bridges will be built and the park platted with walks and drives. The installation of the water and sewer pipes throughout the tract is now nearing completion.

WORK TO CONTINUE.

It is the intention of W. S. Collins, owner and developer of Balboa Island, to complete all improvements on the larger sections of the island before the opening of the summer season next spring. For this reason development operations will be continued throughout the winter. These will constitute the laying of several miles of sidewalks, concrete bulkhead, cement curbs and the completion of the roadwork on the island. The completion of the new bridge has greatly aided the development work on the island as many teams can now be kept busy hauling dirt and oil over land from Santa Ana. Though not officially opened as yet the bridge is being used daily to enhance the development work on the island.

BUYS KERN TRACT.

Harry L. Heck has sold for the Stebbins Land Company, to Marcus H. Saxton of Los Angeles, 160 acres in Kern county, for a consideration of $16,700. The place is improved with a fine pumping plant. Saxton will improve the place for a home. Other sales follow: Marcus H. Saxton to Title Insurance and Trust Company, trustees; lot 1, of Kinney Heights tract of Los Angeles, improved, with nine-room and five-room residences, southeast corner Arlington and West Twenty-first street, consideration $9500, mortgage $4500; W. E. Moore to Mrs. Nancy J. Wilkins, six-room house at No. 6811 Holmes avenue, lot 51x151 feet, $2400. Miss Hattie J. Wilkins to W. E. mense Activity in Brentwood Park Makes Noted Show Place of the West Among the Most Highly Improved s Now Being Installed in the Far-famed Brentwood Park. Gangs of Men are Transforming Her Already Superb Landscape Gardening Into a Veritable Paradise of Tropical Splendor.

A JAPANESE ENTRANCE AND GARDEN IN BEAUTIFUL BRENTWOOD PARK.

The saying that "Valuations go by contrast" was never better exemplified, than it is in the relative home lives of the aristocracy of Europe in their estate homes, and those of our own country.

When we learn of how the modern home improvements, common to our own homelife in America, are lacking in the various, old baronial, manorial and other European estate homes; how superior do we find the homelife of our own land, and particularly in Southern California, to that abroad.

It is true that scarcely any of the old noted suburban palaces of Europe bearing the same relation to the cities there, that Brentwood Park bears to Los Angeles here, can boast of even a fraction of the modern home facilities, that Brentwood Park had even when it was first subdivided into a manorial homeplace.

A landscape artist familiar with the most luxuriant royal parks and gardens abroad, was the one who laid out Brentwood Park; combining and concentrating in it many of the charms of these places.

This accounts for the fact that so many of those who have traveled largely over the world, are struck with the similarity of Brentwood Park in many details to, and its superiority in many points over, such homeplaces abroad.

The very location of Brentwood Park, from a scenic standpoint is perhaps one of the greatest factors in its favor, nestling in the embrace of the long chain of mountains, and commanding a panoramic view of city and sea, of unparalleled splendor.

General Plan of Brentwood Resembles an Amphitheater.

Brentwood Park as far as its natural environment is concerned, greatly resembles the ancient Roman amphitheaters, only that it is one on a tremendous scale.

Directly back of Brentwood Park and comprising part of it, is a mount upon which is being installed one of the most ideal conceptions of a homeplace in America. So superior is it indeed, to the usual homesplaces, that it is recognized as one of the most important show places of Southern California.

This mount is to be arranged in a series of three tiers of floral gardening effects to represent the three zones. The top is to be one great embankment of white bloom, which to the distant spectator will greatly resemble snow. Even in the last haze of sunset or at the first blush of dawn, will it take on the same, pyramic scarlet and purple effects, as the snow-banked mountain peaks.

The center of the mount is to represent the temperate zone and will, therefore, be planted with a profusion of imported and domestic shrubs and plants typical of the temperate zone.

The base of the mount, as well as its two great canyon arms, stretching onward to the sea, will be devoted to a luxuriantly planted reproduction of the torrid zone. Here will be great sunken gardens with every imaginable type of tropical plants.

Near the base of the mount a superb lake is to be installed, which will be so located as to reflect to the vision of the spectator a perfectly mirrored reproduction of all of the beauties of the mount. Surrounding this lake will be a bewildering mass of foliage and flowers of various types, overhanging its border, and reflecting themselves also in the cool depths of the water.

Around this lake and at various intervals, in fact, throughout the mount will be arranged the magnificent homes.

Sloping down from this mount, the remainder of Brentwood Park maintains a continuous incline toward the sea. Its broad, superb boulevards pursue a serpentine course throughout; the center, of which thoroughfares, is eighty feet in breadth.

Big Activity Installing Many New Improvements.

Despite the fact that Brentwood Park is recognized as one of the most highly improved suburban homesites in the Southwest, other improvements are now going in that will place it preeminently above the greater majority of high class subdivisions.

One of the vital points of interest concerning Brentwood, is the fact that within about two weeks at the latest gas will be permanently installed. This is true of very few subdivisions in California, offering the suburban charms of Brentwood Park.

Gangs of men are now at work installing the gas mains, so that within a fortnight it is expected that even the most remote property in Brentwood Park will not be without its full and free use of gas.

Other gangs of men are also at work on the embellishing of the driveways, parkings, sidewalks and floral effects throughout, until the whole scene in and about Brentwood Park seems but one vast beehive of activity.

From the beginning the floral gardening of Brentwood Park has been regarded as a masterpiece of sylvan charm; but with present improvements it bids fair to even exceed this present noted beauty.

The homes of Brentwood Park are considered among the most magnificent in the West. None of these range in value less than ten thousand dollars and the majority of them go into considerable fortunes.

Up until the present, the Braly-Janss Investment Company, 320 Pacific Electric Bldg., owners and subdividers of Brentwood Park, has represented the exclusive Selling Agency for Brentwood Park; but during this month the L. D. Loomis Company at 421 Wright & Callender Bldg., will become selling agents with the Braly-Janss Investment Company.

So much for the good that this change will fail to accomplish. Now let us consider the harm that it may do. I read, a few months ago, not in an American but in an English paper, that if this change in the method of electing Senators were made, it would not be fifty years before reformers would be saying that it was unjust to have big New York represented by only two Senators, and little Delaware also by two—that the Senators should represent population, not States; and if this so-called reform were adopted then that feature in our Constitution which had been most commended by the publicists of Europe would be taken from it—that the influence of the separate States as States would be lessened, that, as related to the central general government, they could no longer preserve the rights peculiar to the people of separate localities; and that this fact, in time, would inevitably lead to the disruption of our country.

There are other examples of the danger threatening our institutions on account of the half-baked, illy-considered features of the Progressive programme. Take their present primary law in this State. What could be more unwise than a measure framed in such a way as to render it illegal for a man who has once voted at a primary that has nominated, perhaps, a clearly dishonest candidate, to join with others in nominating, by petition, an honest man of the same party? What could be more unwise than to render it impossible—by intention at least—for eighty or one hundred thousand in this State to vote, at the next election, for a President, or a national policy, of their own choosing? These are the kinds of measures—to say nothing of more vicious ones, like that of the recall of judges—which, instead of furthering the rights of the people, deprive them of their rights, in such a way, too, that, in critical emergencies corageous and sincere men may be left no alternative except to resort to violence and revolution.

Jefferson Davis furnished the occasion which brought Mr. Lincoln his position in history. Mr. Roosevelt seems to be doing the same service for Mr. Taft. Whatever may have been the latter's mistakes, by his vetoes, recommendations and comments upon current topics, he has won the gratitude of all who believe in human liberty as guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States. Fifty years from now this fact will be fully acknowledged; and, so far as his reputation is concerned, it will make no difference whether, at the present time, he succeeds in resisting the tide that is loosening our freedom from its moorings, or whether he is overwhelmed by it. He will be recognized as a man who, when it was unpopular to do so, did his full duty toward that system of government which he had sworn to uphold, and the overthrow of which, if it be overthrown, the opinion of the wisest and best will unite in considering one of the greatest calamities recorded in history.

DESIGN IS STRIKING.

One of several fine dwellings now under construction or projected in the new Brentwood Place tract of the James R. H. Wagner Company is a picturesque bungalow of striking and unique lines planned by Parker O. Wright for W. E. Groniger. The residence will occupy an attractive site commanding a fine panorama of mountain, sea and valley. It will contain seven large rooms and will be handsomely finished as to the interior. The color scheme will be James R. H. Wagner, president of the company which is developing the tract, is now having plans drawn by Arthur Roland Kelly for a beautiful home which is to crown a promontory on the property.

Vegetable Electric Battery.

[Christian Herald:] Scientists tell us that there has been discovered in the forests of India a strange plant which possesses in a very high degree astonishing electric and magnetic power. The hand that breaks a leaf from it receives instantly a shock equal to that which is produced by the conductor of an inductive coil. At a distance of six meters a magnetic needle is affected by it. The energy of this singular force varies, but it is most powerful when the sun is hottest, and in times of storms its intensity increases in striking proportion. One never by any chance sees a bird or an insect light on the electric plant; nature seems to warn them that they would find their death.

Yankees in India.

[Edison Monthly:] A hundred and fifty miles from Calcutta, in Kalimati, stands the first steel and iron power plant ever constructed in India. This enterprise was projected by a wealthy Parsee, planned by an American engineer from Pittsburgh and executed by another Pittsburgh man with the assistance of native labor only.

Among workmen were Bengalis, Punjabis and Sikhs, for whom a town accommodating 25,000 was built in the midst of a jungle. The equipment of the plant includes three horizontal turbo generators of the Zoelly type, capable of developing some 4000 horse-power, which is used to drive the machinery of the Tatia Iron and Steel Company.

Good Sized Catfish.

[Kansas City Star:] There are still some pretty good sized catfish in the Missouri River. Two fishermen took one from a net near the Hannibal bridge that weighed 125 pounds and was a scant inch short of five feet in length. The fishermen walked into the city market with the big fish suspended across their shoulders. Fish dealers, at the city market, said it was the largest Missouri River catfish that had been brought in in ten years. The fish measured eleven inches between the eyes.

Personal.

F. C. Evans, who has been with the St. Clair and Jastro Oil companies in the Kern River fields for the past five years, has gone to Prescott, Ariz., to assume charge of the Verdi Valley Oil Company property.

Two old pioneers of the Coalinga district, Charles Wesley Adamson and J. C. McLaughlin, will prospect in the Parkfield country.

F. L. Brown, president of the Palmer Union Oil Company, is expected soon to go to Europe. The trip is in connection with the English deal which the company has had on for some time, and which it is expected will be closed this fall.

GOOD YEAR FOR CARS.

Switzerland, the home of fine watches, is increasing in the manufacture of commercial cars with no little success, and the industry had quite a good year in 1911, the value of the automobile exports exceeding those of the imports by about one-third, according to news which has just come across the sea. At the same time, foreign cars find a market in the little Alpine country, French, German, Italian and American cars being sold. American automobiles have been on that market for only about two seasons, but during that time they have attracted considerable attention, and the demand is increasing for popular priced machines from the United States. The number of cars now in use in Switzerland is estimated at 4000, of which 3500 are touring cars and 500 commercial cars. Of the twenty-eight different makes which are represented, eight are Swiss, seven German, six French, two Italian, two American, two Belgian and one English.

DON'T WANT AUTOS.

As a result of Capt. F. C. Pendleton of Brooklyn, N. Y., driving his automobile through the roads of Isleboro, Me., that had been shut to motor traffic on the grounds of an unwritten law the residents of that town called a special town meeting, and by a vote of 58 to 7 directed the Selectmen to take steps to exclude automobiles from the island kingdom. The Selectmen are in a quandary, for they do not know whether or not they have the authority to exclude motor vehicles from the town limits. If they find they cannot do so a bill will be sent to the next Legislature asking for such authority.

John S. Mitchell is ready to receive entries for the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race. He has the National, the Cadillac, the Buick and is waiting for the other Cadillac, the Franklin, the Mercer, the Case, the Pathfinder, the Stutz—well we need not enumerate. We want at least as large an entry list as last year and then some.

BLUNDERS OF BULL MOOSERS.

Losing Ground in the San Joaquin Valley.

Kern County Citizens Are on the Other Side.

Carpet-Bag Boss Sent in to Work for T. R.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

BAKERSFIELD, Sept. 13.—Bull Moose papers over the State have been printing wildly inaccurate reports of the political situation in Kern county, tending to show that the supporters of the third party greatly outnumber the old guard Republicans. That the reverse is true is easily demonstrated by facts and figures well-known by Kern county people and easily obtainable by any seeker after the truth.

In the primary election Congressman Needham, concerning whose Republicanism no voter had any question, won by a handsome plurality in Kern county over rival candidates, all of whom made an active canvass for votes while Needham did not once visit the county during the campaign and did not return to the State from Washington until a few days before the election. Moreover, two of Needham's opponents were Kern county men, and for that reason received a support which would not otherwise have been given them.

BULL MOOSERS BOLTED.

In the primary election, also, the regulars elected thirteen delegates to the county convention as against nine for the Bull Moosers in Bakersfield, and the same proportion was maintained generally throughout the county. Reports colored to suit the Bull Moose papers assert that the Taft men were outnumbered in the convention and bolted, whereas it was the Roosevelt delegates who bolted and undertook to take possession of the convention by force. The regulars retained possession of all the papers and records of the convention and proceeded with their election of officers, adoption of resolutions and appointment of committees without a break in the proceedings. The third party men remained in the hall, and after supplying themselves with a copy of the certified list of delegates obtained at the County Clerk's office, they organized a separate convention representing less than thirty-five delegates out of nearly 200 duly elected in the county. The Republicans finished and filed their certificates of election of officers of the County Central Committee an hour before the Bull Moosers had completed their organization.

For chairman of their County Committee the Republicans elected E. F. Brittan, a prominent attorney of this city. The Bull Moosers chose Barclay McCowan, a real estate speculator who has been a resident of the county but a short time and who has never before been associated with the county's political life.

A CARPET-BAG BOSS.

McCowan, in effect, is a carpet-bag boss, placed in charge of the third term movement here by the State machine of the Johnson-Lissner crowd, who have failed heretofore to secure any foothold in Kern county. He has established a headquarters with a stenographer and press bureau and has taken charge of the State administration's communications to and from the county. From some source or other McCowan is well supplied with money, his lieutenants claim, and is laying the foundations of an extensive political machine in the county.

JASTRO OUT OF POLITICS? NIT.

Already, however, the new Bull Moose machine has made a number of notable blunders. It first projected itself into the supervisor campaign in the primary with the announced intention of putting H. A. Jastro, the Democratic candidate and for many years supervisor from the Fifth district, "out of politics." To accomplish this it injected into the campaign a crusade of recrimination and mud-slinging never before equalled in a political contest in the State, with the net result that Jastro received not only the Democratic nomination but the nomination on the Republican ticket as well.

A SECOND BLUNDER.

The second blunder was in trying to pervert a legitimate movement for the betterment of moral conditions into a factional political contest. In this attempt resolutions were introduced at a Sunday night mass meeting threatening Superior Judge Mahem with recall, and lurid accounts were sent out to Los Angeles Bull Moose papers. The next day the men who introduced the resolutions publicly repudiated them, and the Los Angeles Tribune, which printed the Bull Moose version of the affair and flooded Bakersfield with copies of the issue, was required to print an explanatory dispatch to the effect that no steps ever were taken to recall the judge.

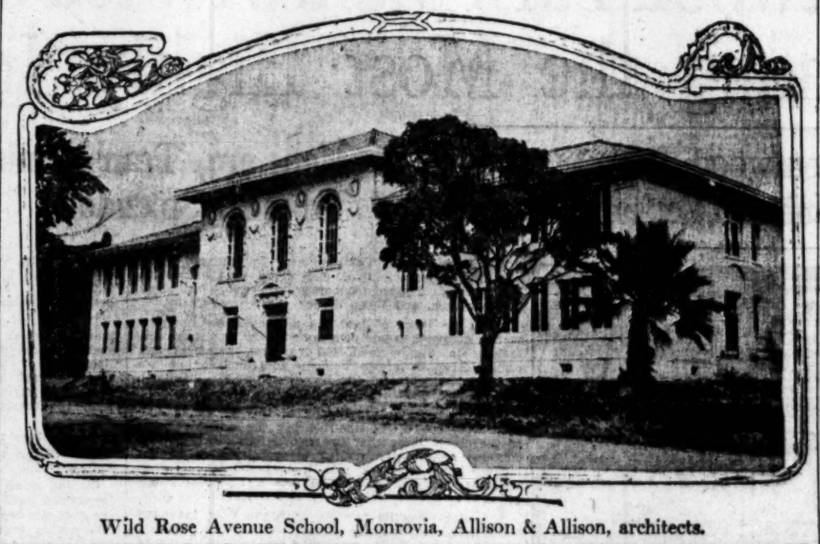
APPOINTS LIQUOR MAN.

The third of the series of Bull Moose blunders is rather amusing than disastrous. On account of the death of the supervisor from the First district the appointment of a member of the board fell to Lieut.-Gov. Wallace, in the absence of the Governor on his mission of enlightening the East. The local Bull Moose boss recommended O. F. Rinaldi of Randsburg, and the Lieutenant-Governor made the appointment accordingly. The next mail brought word to the acting Governor that Rinaldi is the agent of a Los Angeles brewery and the holder of two retail liquor licenses in his own name.

There were big blotches of blood on the moon when this fact was communicated to the man who dug up a whole vineyard of winegrapes once and who came to Bakersfield to speak in the interest of prohibition in the local anti-saloon campaign a year ago. Wallace, it is alleged, tried to recall the commission, but it had passed beyond his hands. Rinaldi is occupying a seat on the board and has a fair chance for election this fall now that the prestige of the appointment is added to his candidacy.

Everyone in Kern county is laughing over the affair, and wondering what the local Bull Moose organization will do to itself next.

Beautiful New Southland Grammar School.



Wild Rose Avenue School, Monrovia, Allison & Allison, architects.

MODEL OF TYPE.

New Monrovia Grammar School Modern in Construction and Appointment—Many Novel Features.

MONROVIA, Sept. 21.—The Wild Rose grammar school, Monrovia's latest product in educational housings, has just been turned over to the Board of Education, having been completed at an outlay of something like $55,000. This handsome structure, which forms the last unit in a wonderful system of public schools, is a fine example of modern school architecture. It is of a modified Spanish style, simple and dignified, contains eight classrooms, reception and restroom, principal's office, manual training shops, library and an assembly hall capable of seating 500 persons.

Among the novel features in this up-to-date building are library alcoves in each classroom, in addition to the regular reference library; 'phones, communicating from each classroom to the principal's office; electrically-controlled fans for ventilating; thermostats, acting on a variation of two degrees, for regulating temperature, and the latest improved vacuum-cleaning apparatus.

The grounds, which occupy an entire city block, will be parked and terraced about the school, and the remainder devoted to a playground and athletic field. Tennis courts, basketball fields, a running track and all the fixtures of the new city playgrounds will be installed during the coming season. The school was planned by Allison & Allison of Los Angeles.

CROPS OF THE FOREST.

Moth Collecting Is Profitable as Sometimes One Worth Many Times Its Weight in Gold Is Secured.

[London Answers:] It is only when, as now, the fly buzzes on the window pane, that most people yearn for the depths of forests. But at no time of the year are those depths deserted for long by living human beings.

In summer they are veritably happy hunting grounds for many botanists, egg collectors and other diligent snappers-up of generally unconsidered trifles. Even fungi are not neglected. Some men collect them for their own table and the proprietor of a Soho restaurant roams Epping Forest in search of certain edible varieties, subsequently utilizing most of his harvest for flavoring purposes.

The most potentially profitable forest industry, however, is moth collecting, the season for which extends from May to September, though July and August are, perhaps, the best months for night moths. This distinction is due to the possibility of catching an insect worth many times its weight in gold.

The market for moths generally is prejudicially affected by the circumstances that many collectors are forest roamers themselves and that the price for rarities is restricted through the limitation imposed by some of such men, who will not add to their treasures any insect, however rare, that they have not caught personally. But for all that moth hunters have a chance of making "big money."

ORANGE VISTA SALES.

The following recent sales of land in the Orange Vista tract, in the Perris Valley, are reported by Emil Firth: William M. Whitman, ten acres, $2269; Toney Hagg, five acres, $1200; D. B. Dixon, five acres, $1240; Thomas A. Brown, twenty acres, $5100; Ivory C. Hardison, twenty acres, $5100; William M. Scott, ten acres, $2531; A. A. Bissell, ten acres, $2500, and William L. Cumpston, fifty acres, $11,999.

Joseph Ury Crawford, who has just retired as consulting engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad, having reached his seventieth year, has been twice decorated by the Japanese government. He was appointed consulting engineer of the government of Japan in 1878, and was decorated by the Emperor with the Order of the Rising Sun. In 1910 he received his second decoration, that of the Order of the Sacred Treasure. He is a Civil War veteran, who went out a private and returned a captain.

Fishing Boat's Mighty Catch.

[London Globe:] An amusing story is going the rounds of the French press concerning the adventures of the fishing boat Marie Jeanne. The little vessel had been fishing a long time and had not succeeded in taking more than a basket of sardines.

Then there was an unexpected disturbance under the water and the fishermen felt a strong resistance to their attempts to land the fish which they had taken. It was evidently a large porpoise or some big fish which would repay their trouble. But in spite of all their efforts they could not draw it up. Then they perceived their little vessel was being carried against the wind. The men were alarmed. "Cut the line!" the master shouted. "Cut it, boys!" he screamed.

When the submarine Fruictidor came into the basin at Lorient every one was surprised to find that it had a rope attached. The master of the Marie Jeanne, on learning this, applied to the treasury for the cost of the rope that he had lost.

Signboards Taxed in France.

[Consular Reports:] A heavy stamp tax is about to be levied in France on all signboards that can be seen from any public path, road or railway. All such advertisements set up, except on the wall of a house or enclosure or within 328 feet of any group of houses or buildings, will be taxed from 50 to 400 francs per square meter.

The tax will be doubled if there are two advertisements together; three times the tax will be collected when there are three advertisements, and quadrupled for four or more.

Motorists in particular have campaigned against the wayside signboard, and in some places here restrictive measures have already been taken by the local authorities within their jurisdiction. Many people would like to suppress the signboards in rural districts altogether, but it is considered an encroachment on the personal liberty of a land owner to prohibit him from allowing signboards to be erected on his own property. It is, however, possible through legislative enactment to impose a tax sufficiently high to diminish the quantity of signboards that are increasing in a disturbing manner in some of the most beautiful regions in France.

Of Extraordinary Interest to Everybody!!!

In this announcement we say something to you that will interest you, not only as an investor, but will cause you to wonder at the marvelous advancement being made by the wonder city of the United States—Los Angeles.

What we speak of refers to solid Los Angeles—not an outside proposition.

Every word throbs with meaning, every word means dividends to stockholders in

Pacific Home Builders

You have wondered as have thousands—that the beautifully level stretch of land adjoining Griffith Park on the east and directly on the Glendale car line had not been solidly built with homes long ago.

The property was conceded by live real estate men to be the MOST DESIRABLE INSIDE RESIDENCE PROPERTY. BUT THEY COULD NOT BUY IT because the original owner refused every offer made for the entire tract of 222 acres—or over 1300 large lots. It was only after PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS had demonstrated their fitness as a developing factor on the beautiful "Angelus Tract" that the heirs of the Richardson estate consented to a sale of the 222 acres to PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS. The new tract under the name will be widely famed as one of the really beautiful residence tracts, possessing as it does all the desirable features of the best, with none of the drawbacks of many.

ANGELUS PARK will immediately be improved with wide streets, parkways, and with all city utilities.

ANGELUS PARK will soon be 222 acres of happy homes. The well-known high-class improvements, together with the artistic homes of our Angelus Tract, will be duplicated.

That statement means increased and continued dividends for PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS' stockholders.

Another Point of Interest

The next dividend will be declared October 1st, on the basis of 12 per cent. on par. All stock purchased now will participate in this distribution.

Of Still Greater Interest

a certain amount of the $1.50 allotment of stock can still be purchased at that price and when that is sold, the price will advance to $1.60 per share.

At the price—considering the present earning power of the Company, with the positive increasing earning power due to the purchase of the great ANGELUS PARK, the present offer is unquestionably the best ever made to investors in all California—the land of opportunity and fortune.

You are interested in the building of the greater city for the good that may come to you individually.

The development of inside real estate by PACIFIC HOME BUILDERS is a matter of INDIVIDUAL INTEREST TO YOU, presenting as it does an opportunity to share in the large subdividers' profits by becoming a co-partner in this enterprise.

AS TO THE COMPANY MAN.

BY NEWTON A. FUESSLE.

Odium attaches to the term "the company man." It is a relic of the black days of labor warfare when suspicion gravitated to every man who took the part of the company in the war councils of the employees.

The objection to "the company man" is based on the distorted belief that the common enemy of the workmen is the company which furnishes them opportunity and livelihood.

The era of hatred for "the company man" is passing. The sunshine of clearer vision is soaking through the dark superstitions of the past. The day is rapidly approaching when every employee of a railroad or other commercial corporation will be proud to be known as "a company man."

The stern competition in commercial pursuits, the hostile forces which assail them from the outside, the public suspicion of big enterprises, the legislative blows that have been showered upon them—these are swinging the pendulum backwards. And today one beholds the harmonizing tendencies between workmen and employers of given organizations, welding the two forces into a compact, co-operating unit, the whole making its stalwart stand against the adverse forces of competition and harassment felt on every hand.

These adverse forces cannot be successfully combatted unless the united efforts of both employers and employed are directed into a defense. Upon the successful resistance of opposing forces depends the bread and butter of every individual in the organization. More than that, upon such successful resistance depends the future of every member of the organization, and of the organization itself.

The present is important. But the future is more important. Upon the safety of the future depends peace of mind, contentment, and happiness. And if these three are absent, a proficient day's work is impossible. The breeding fear that the future holds promise of calamity, of want, of disappearing oportunity, has blasted the ability to do proficient work of many a man, destroying his value to himself and to his employers.

Take the case of a railroad which is under fire by public opinion and adverse legislation. The most powerful argument in defense of the railroad thus assailed is the doing of the best character of work by every unit of the railroad's organization, and the delivery of the highest and best type of service to the public.

Along with each man's raising of his work to the highest possible degree of excellence, each member of the organization should constitute himself an attorney for the defense of his company. Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific, has put this sentiment into clean cut language in a ringing plea to workmen:

"I maintain that every railroad man," he says, "should assume the attitude of 'an attorney for the defense' of his company and his business, and as such should advance every argument he knows in favor of his cause, admitting nothing to the opposition that is not supported by evidence which would convince the most skeptical."

Here is a viewpoint of clearly defined value. It has been advanced before, but never in as clear and effective a fashion as characterizes Mr. Elliott's manner of saying it.

Every railroad needs attorneys skilled in the practice of law. But the service of these men is usually called into action after cases have been carried into court. Important as their service is, it does not compare with the service that each man in the rank and file of workmen can put forth on his company's behalf, if he will only constitute himself an active attorney for the defense, advocating the cause of the company in his daily walks of life.

The legal department, as everybody knows, gets busy when a suit has been brought, a claim filed, a deed to right-of-way withheld, or a rate suspended or withheld. The legal department is concerned more with the cure than with the prevention. The frame of mind of the litigant, in other words, is always part of the general attitude of the whole community, the whole public. If public opinion were materially different toward the railroad in any particular community, it is obvious that this would play an important part in the ultimate action of litigants against the railroad.

The task of molding public opinion, therefore, is the important role that must be played by the attorney for the defense in the rank and file, in this new era of co-operative effort between workmen and their employers.

Before the claim was filed, the suit brought, or the rate contested, whether it emanated from individual or from the State, it is manifest that there existed in somebody's mind an idea that a certain condition or set of conditions needed changing. This idea is usually based on an entirely mistaken notion of the real facts involved. Suits against railroads are frequently nothing more than a reflex action of the general opposition to railways, which, right or wrong, exists in many localities, crystalising itself ever and again into protracted litigation, based often on feeble or fancied grievance, but which, when carried into the courts, piles up the costs on both sides, which in the end, the public has to pay.

It is against the public's mistaken understanding of the railroads that the efforts of the attorneys for the defense in the rank and file should be unceasingly directed. Where the railroad is manifestly in the wrong, there should be no disposition to whitewash it. But where litigation bounds forth with sinister persistence from a mistaken public attitude, a vast damage is done, regardless of which side wins. And it is against this widespread tendency that the employees should be up and doing.

The lawyer is not forever apologetic for his client. He advances his claims in the most favorable light. He answers and resents unjust accusations and contentions. He does not share the lamentable apathy with which most workmen regard the cause of their company. He is alive to the momentous questions that confront the business. He throws himself into the defense with spirit and vigor. He does not employ the judicial temperament. The judge is on the bench to furnish the judicial point of view. The attorney fights for his client, and with if victory is possible.

The analogy between the attorney in the legal department proper and the attorney in the rank and file is clear. The latter should defend and stand behind his company in like manner. He should fight his fight and let the public be judge. The ability finally and fairly to judge the contentions of opposing forces is not within the mental scope of members of either force. It takes a third party, namely the judge, be it the judge on the bench or the general public, to render fair and impartial judgment after the evidence has been presented by both sides, and after both have argued their cause.

There are more ways to plunder a railroad than by rifling its tills, holding up its express trains, or dynamiting its bridges. The employee of a railway or other organization, who does not defend its good name, uphold its prestige, and refute the untruthful attacks which are directed against it in his presence, plunders its assets. Such employee is the most dangerous liability on the books of the company.

To challenge the claims, on the other hand, of the opposition, demands a thorough knowledge on the part of the loyal employee of the evidence, and of the best way to present it. This requires an intelligent and comprehensive study of the entire railroad problem. The subjects of overcapitalization, relation of rates to the cost of living, demurrage, reciprocal demurrage, and the like, should be gone into as deeply as possible by every man on a railroad's pay-roll. This is one of the unwritten duties of the railroad man.

Every employee of a public service corporation should inform himself thoroughly regarding all pertinent corresponding subjects. By so doing, he will not only prepare himself to refute the attacks of all enemies on the outside, but will cause the generation of a tremendous moral force which will compel the managing heads of this company to conduct their affairs justly and fairly.

It will, in like manner, be a long step toward the better mutual understanding of those who give and those who receive employment within the organization itself. For where each side understands the problems and difficulties of the other side, each approaches nearer to the other, and their viewpoints become more and more alike. Thus is harmony built, co-operation established, and the rights of both safe-guarded.

Heavy Loss.

THOUSANDS OF HORSES DEAD.

UNCONQUERABLE EPIDEMIC IS RAGING IN KANSAS.

Estimated that Twenty Thousand Animals, Valued at More Than Two Million Dollars, Have Been Lost from Cerebro-Spinal Meningitis, and the Disease Is Still Virulent.

[Kansas City Star:] For several weeks a serious epidemic has raged among the horses of Kansas, and there has seemed thus far no way of successfully combatting the same. Nearly every case is fatal, and the losses are becoming of a most serious character.

Dr. F. S. Schoenleben, head of the veterinary department, and E. H. Webster, director of the experiment station of the Kansas Agricultural College, have been visiting the districts in Western Kansas in which the horse plague is prevalent, in company with Dr. S. Sheldon, State Veterinarian of Missouri.

They said that in the western half of Kansas at lehst twenty thousand horses had died of cerebro-spinal meningitis in the last month and that the disease was as virulent now as ever. That, they said, made a total loss of $2,000,000 in horses alone. The indirect loss, particularly in farm work, which cannot be done because of the scarcity of horses, will add greatly to that amount.

It is estimated conservatively that in Ness county 1500 horses have died, in Bartin county 1000, in Saline county 500, in Ford county 800, in Sheridan county 700, and in other counties from 250 to 1000. The officials of the Santa Fe Railroad estimate from carefully collected reports that 5000 horses have died in the counties through which its lines run.

Dr. Webster and Dr. Schoenleben say that the disease is in seventy-five of the 105 counties of the State. Dr. J. H. Cheney, veterinarian in Great Bend, said that 1000 horses had died there, and that the disease was spreading without lessening force. He estimates that not more than from one to three horses in 100 which were stricken with the disease recovered from it.

In Great Bend a group of men have widely advertised that they have discovered a remedy for the disease, which the government and State veterinarians say baffle them still, but although the so-called remedy has been tried in many cases in Barton county, the great percentage of fatalities and the small percentage of recoveries has not been altered.

Dr. Charles W. Fort, a veterinarian of Saline county, who is in close touch with the progress of the disease, said today that at least 500 horses had died in his county, the percentage of deaths was 75 per cent. of all cases and that the disease showed no signs of abatement, as many new cases were developing each day as at any time since the beginning of the scourge in this county two weeks ago. The reports that the epidemic is dying out, are based upon voluntary reports sent in to the livestock sanitary commission by men throughout the State, but it must be borne in mind that not one farmer in one hundred reports the cases to anyone. In all the hundreds of cases visited by the government veterinarians in Ford county, not one had been reported to the commission or to any person likely to report it. In the first week of the epidemic farmers were more likely to report cases than now, when the appearance of new cases is taken as a matter of course.

Dr. Schoenleben said today:

"We rode today from Great Bend to Salina through 100 miles of the richest farming districts in Kansas. I made it a point to talk with the farmers who got on at each station and I found that the horse plague is prevalent everywhere throughout that section and there is no abatement of the disease. I was told that between Odin and Dubuque in a stretch of ten miles of country forty horses had died this week."

RAILROADS ARE ANXIOUS.

The railroads may make an offer to haul free and give express service on gasoline and steam traction engines and plows to Western Kansas so that the farmers will be able to plow for the fall sowing of wheat. The railroad company has begun an investigation regarding the probable wheat acreage which will be lost because of the inability of the farmers to plow and sow their wheat on account of the horse plague.

"Few people realize the seriousness of the situation which confronts the farmers of Western Kansas," said Frank Jarrell, publicity agent for the Santa Fe, today. "There are hundreds of farmers who have lost nearly all of their teams and plowing is at a standstill. Many haven't half their ground plowed, some have very little. Most of those are afraid to work their well horses. They cannot work the sick ones and the ground apparently must remain idle unless something is done at once to relieve the situation. Some of the counties where the disease has been the worst are among the biggest wheat counties of Kansas and the acreage will be materially reduced unless something is done at once to help out. In some sections the horses are so scarce that no work can be done and the farmers do not want to bring in new ones and horse owners do not want to take their teams into the infected district."

In Central Kansas many of the farmers owning tractors and plows have finished their work and some of them have notified the railroad company they would be willing to take their machines into the infected district and do the plowing at cost to help out the stricken farmers. It is expected that the Santa Fe will ask the Public Utilities Commission for permission to haul tractors and plows free of charge for a short time in order to get the machines into the infected counties and at work at once. That appears to be the only solution of the problem.

The time for wheat sowing is almost at hand and within the next month practically all the wheat to be sown in the State will be in the ground, or should be. Many farmers could not get their usual acreage plowed and sowed in this short time without additional help and they have not the teams to do anything. Officials of the Santa Fe are trying to work out some scheme by which they can relieve the situation and help the farmers get their wheat into the ground.

Dr. Yamina Sen of China is said to be the first woman admitted to the fellowship of the Royal Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow, Scotland.

WHAT KIND OF OIL?

Controversy Arises Over Product Obtained from Standard's Well in Coalinga District.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

COALINGA, Sept. 19.—In drilling for the paraffine sand recently struck on section 28, the Standard Oil Company on the west line encountered a peculiar stand at 2670 feet, from which a production of 130 barrels was secured by pumping in fourteen hours.

The well was finished in 8⅛-inch casing, and it was believed to be in the paraffine sand, but when the oil was brought to the surface by the pump it was found to be of a peculiar heavy formation gauging at 14.3 gravity and very much unlike the paraffine sand secured at approximately the same depth a short distance away.

Considerable controversy has arisen over the oil, some saying that it is of a paraffine base and others believing it is of asphaltum. The well sanded up and the casing was pulled yesterday. It is now being cleaned.

Well No. 1 of the Welsh-Chandler property was finished up recently at a depth of 2285 feet with 6⅝-inch casing. The well is located on section 13, 20-15, and is making about 175 barrels daily of 16.2 gravity oil. The water sand was shut off at 2256 feet with 8¼-inch casing.

The K. T. & O., the operating company of the Southern Pacific, is arranging for quite extensive operations on the East Side fields, sections 11 and 25, 19-15. Thirty head of mules will soon be put into action, hauling the supplies for the rigs and camp. There are now six strings of tools running on section 11, and 23 is evidently good territory.

Rev. Fannie E. Austin, the newly-installed pastor of the Universalist Church of Quincy, Mass., believes that the chief reason why people stay away from church is because the gospel of fear is no longer preached.

Make Your $ Greater By Developing The Acre

We are offering you the richest, broadest and safest opportunity on the Pacific Coast today for the making of your dollar greater from the developing of rich territory and the steady growth of its value. Gibraltar is at the present time negotiating for the purchase of three different 2000 to 3000-acre tracts of land, any one of which will provide rich profits in the developing and planting from our own stock of trees. One of these tracts is located in the San Joaquin Valley and the other two are located in Southern California south of the Tehachapi. The one that best suits the interests of our shareholders in the creating of orchard homes will be bought, and as soon as the purchase is made the price of our 8% preferred stock will be advanced without notice in keeping with the greatly increased value of our shares.

Cash Counts in Making Big Profits

We are buying this land for cash at a figure below the market price and at one which insures an immediate profit of from 100 to 150 per cent. The price on one tract that we are considering is $150 per acre and you cannot buy another acre of good land in that vicinity for less than $300. Planted to trees this land will bring from $500 to $600 an acre. The profit from using our own trees must be added to any consideration of ordinary land development figures. Here is a profit of 100 per cent. made on the cost of the land alone and 200 per cent. to 300 per cent. on the marketable price above the cost.

Greatest Nurseries In World

The march of progress and the advance of California are treading upon the heels of this Company in the carrying out of its plans for the developing of land and the supplying of the Olive and Orange Industries with trees. The Gibraltar Company has been forced to add extensively to its aggregation of nurseries by purchase, and has as well installed immense new propagating plants and nurseries of its own creation at Hemet, San Bernardino and Redlands. This move makes a chain of over thirty nurseries owned and a capacity of combined production in excess of the output of all the Olive Nurseries of the world.

Big Money in the Land

Any good land in this section of the State would cost from $100 to $125 an acre if bought in 2000-acre tracts, and would cost the individual if he bought in 5, 10 or 20-acre tracts from $250 to $300 per acre. This alone gives a big profit, but GIBRALTAR is going ahead of this by the making of exceptionally good deals through knowledge of our land experts and through the using of our own stock of growing trees. Trees and planting at the lowest figure is $125, and as the acre developed and planted is salable for from $500 to $600, there is a clear profit of $500,000 to $750,000 on a 2000-acre tract for GIBRALTAR shareholders.

Three Profits Combined

Great profits are assured from the developing and subdividing of the territory that surrounds Los Angeles and other California cities. Even larger profits are to be made from the use of the immense series of the Gibraltar Company in the creating of orchard homes and little farms with the planting of our own olive and orange trees. The returns are certain from the sale at the present market price of olive and other trees, but the biggest money is to be made from developing our own land. The profits from growing the trees, developing the land, and of selling the planted orchard at the value above the land are all combined.

DEMANDS OF OLIVE INDUSTRY

These 6,000,000 more trees, being propagated to meet the demands of the olive industry, are in addition to the established nurseries of the Company, which already have growing the largest stock of olive trees in the world. The thriving conditions of the olive industry alone and the great demand for trees at present prices insure big profits aside from the greater profits of the land developing and the orchard projects of the Gibraltar Company. The market price of olive trees and the value of the property already owned insures the selling price of our 8% preferred stock at 15 cents by January 1st.

a closed shop church all right for the seventh day?

We refer to your membership, because it includes scores of non-union workmen, some of whom lead in prayer and exhortation at your prayer meetings, teach your Bible classes, and labor with you in every good word and work. Men of character, intelligence, influence—among the choice spirits of your congregation.

Now, let the following statement sink deep into your heart so that it may arouse you to a consciousness of your duty to "reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine" that your church and the churches of the land, and their pastors, may be given to see their duty and discharge it intelligently, courageously and in the fear of God: Among the members of your congregation, to whom we have referred our men who have been entreated and importuned, threatened and persecuted; but, with a clear conception of their duty as American citizens and Christian men, they have refused to sacrifice their Americanism by joining a closed shop labor union. They value their rights as American citizens as highly as you value yours as a Christian citizen, and would defend them with their life.

We have seen these men tried as by fire; and with every trial their Americanism stood forth stronger and purer.

But you know these men, their character and their worth. If more is needed to put an end to labor sermons which please union agitators and Socialist organizers and provoke the publication of what they are pleased to call "an appreciation," go learn of them.

will see to it that laws are passed to take care of such matters, with the result that both contenders in labor controversies are likely to suffer from legislation inimical to the interests of both.

Yet in the face of all this there are idle able-bodied men in our city who whine, "I can't find work." Don't pay any attention to their whine. They are the men who would not work if work were found for them. They are the men who largely made up the Socialist-anarchist Harriman parades of November and December last, pretending to be discontented union labor men. They are just "truck" with which decent union labor (if left to itself) does not associate. They are the I.W.W. fellowers of William D. Haywood and Co. They are our street-corner loafers and chief shouters at Socialist-union-labor open-air meetings. They are the men for whom our jails are waiting when they violently disturb the peace. They are those who are ready to shout "'Rah for Gompers, 'rah for Harriman, 'rah for Darrow, or 'rah for any old thing which is 'agin' the government" as represented by law and order. They do not belong to the 90 per cent. (though oft deluded) decent part of union labor. They are against capital because they have no capital and will not work to secure any capital—not even a dollar's worth of it. They want (and too often get) your capital, decent union-labor man. It is men of this undesirable class who too often by the gift of the gab and your supineness get control of your unions and lead you into strikes, etc. They have all to gain (of yours) and nothing to lose (of their own.) Vote them down every time!

Scarcity of Railroad Labor.

Not only in the West but also in the East the railroads seem to be hampered by a scarcity of labor. The difficulty is in obtaining labor for ordinary maintenance of way work, and this is attributed to the extensive road building now being done by State and county governments. This is what an official of the Lehigh Valley has to say about the matter: "We have managed to keep our full force in the transportation department without much trouble, but it is harder to get men for work on the tracks than for many years past. We are told everywhere that the building of public roads is what takes the men away from the railroad jobs. The shortage of labor is not because of any extraordinary demand created by extensions and improvements. It is difficult to keep even the regular section gangs up to their normal strength. Of course the shortage is felt all the more keenly when improvements are under way, and it has been a serious handicap in our third and fourth tracking this summer."

Railroad Wages in United States and Abroad.

The average daily compensation of railway employees of all classes for the year 1910 was in the United States, $2.23; in the United Kingdom, $1.05; excluding supplementary allowances negligibly affecting the average, it was in Prussia-Hesse $1 cents and in Austria 89 cents. The lowest paid railway employee in the United States, the ordinary trackman, receives a greater compensation than many of the railway employees of France, even those of higher grades and with responsible duties. The compensation of railway employees is from two to three times as high in the United States as in Italy.

A recent report of the English Board of Trade on railway wages shows that the average weekly pay of enginemen in the United Kingdom in 1907 was $11.17; of firemen, $6.67. In the same year enginemen on American railways received an average weekly compensation of $25.80, counting six days to the week and firemen $15.24. Recent returns make it clear that in 1912 enginemen and firemen in the United States are compensated at rates of pay for specific runs that are two, three and four times as high as the corresponding rates on representative English railways.

MAKE IT RESPONSIBLE.

If Railroads are Responsible to the Public Why Should Not Organized Labor Be the Same?

[The Mediator:] At the recent meeting of the engineers wage arbitration board at Manhattan Beach several addresses were made by high officials of eastern railways. Among other things Vice-President Stuart of the Erie Railroad said:

"The power invested in labor leaders, with the absence of responsibility, is alarming. While they have the vote and indorsement of the men they represent, yet the moving spirit is the leader. In the past five years the company I represent has received five strike votes. The leader in charge claimed he had the power to stop the highways of the country and expressed his intention to exercise it; to appreciate the gravity of this situation, imagine any other individual—a president of a railway, or its directors, assuming to stop the public highways for any reason and deprive forty to fifty millions of citizens of the necessities of life. There is no law to cover the action or determine the responsibility of the labor leaders who possess this great power and who have repeatedly stated their intention to exercise it. The best test of their power is for the general public to attempt to pass a Federal law to place responsibility upon organized labor engaged in interstate traffic. If the common carriers are responsible to the public, as operating agent, why should not employees, organized or otherwise, be held responsible to some extent to perform their duties to the public, as part of the complete transportation organization? Organized labor appears to resent every effort to apply responsibility."

OPENS OWN OFFICES.

G. W. Quin, who has been associated with the subdivision department of Robert Marsh & Co. for the past year and who was for a number of years engaged in realty operations in Spokane, Portland and other Northwest cities, has opened an office for himself at No. 912 Story building. Quin will make a specialty of acreage for subdivision purposes.

Labor's Unrest.

STRIKES ON AND OFF AND STRIKES COMING.

STRIKING is the most costly game which labor, union or otherwise, can play, win or lose. The enormous indirect losses by strikes can only be guessed at, but we know that they cost American labor fully $300,000,000 in lost wages in the past twenty-five years, every dollar of which was lost as completely as if it had been bank bills burned up in a furnace. We also know that from October 1, 1910, to September 30, 1911 (see Gompers's last annual report,) the unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor (Gompers and company) paid out of the wages money of their members over $4,500,000 for strike relief, though Gompers and company (see its annual report referred to) carefully refrained from paying out more than $4192 for the same purpose, out of $360,000 of labor's wages handled by it in that federation year. In the previous federation year the same get-rich-quick organization as carefully confined its "strike benefits" to $6484, out of about the same handling of wages money. We also know that practically futile strikes in Great Britain have cost hundreds upon hundreds of millions of dollars in the past two years.

For instance:

Railway strike of 1911	$150,000,000
Coal strike of 1912	250,000,000
Dockers' strike of 1912	300,000,000
Total loss by three strikes in two years	$750,000,000

besides many minor strikes, each of which was, relatively, equally as costly.

No matter how the cost of these strikes is divided in the first instance, it is a fact that in the final analysis labor pays the entire bill in one way or another.

Who else but labor paid for the great Debs railway strike in Chicago a few years ago? Who else but labor paid for the recent textile strikes at Lawrence, Passaic, and New Bedford? Who else but labor paid for the just-abandoned furriers' strike in New York City? Who else but labor paid for the silly hotel waiters' strike in the same city? Who else but labor has paid for the futile strikes (most of which died an infant's death) of recent years in Los Angeles? Who else but labor has finally paid the cost of all the strikes which have ever occurred anywhere in this country or in any other country? In all strikes labor not only loses wages but, finally, pays all the other cost besides. The strike-agitators don't pay a cent, but get their fat salaries and fat expense accounts, win or lose. The fact is that strikes are brought about by these non-working agitators so as to insure these fat salaries and fat expense accounts (doubtless padded to the limit,) while working union labor submits and pays. Pages upon pages might be written and printed on this subject, but all said and done, it is working labor, union and otherwise, which suffers the whole loss of strikes, first, last, and all the time. Submitting to this costly despotism is labor's—particularly union labor's monumental folly—a folly which is costing it millions upon millions of dollars, year after year. And all for what? Practically for nothing. Even if a forced raise of wages is secured by a strike (a very rare event) it is never a permanent raise. Wages depend upon the law of supply and demand, and the quality and quantity of the labor put forth.

By reason of the strike this spring our output of anthracite coal this year has fallen off and will be 8,000,000 tons short of last year's output. Many of the miners who stopped work April 1 have not returned to their places. Each mine operator could find work for 100 to 200 more men. Striking demoralizes any working force as strikers move away and among those who stay permanent idleness is begotten by the strike.

What did Darrow do with the $200,000 even sent him by Gompers and company to help keep the McNamaras from the gallows or the penitentiary? Echo answers what. Industrial Workers (?workers) of the World have stirred up a strike of the ore dockmen at Superior, Wis. If iron ore shipments stop, there will be a heavy decrease in work in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio, etc.

Two thousand telegraphers on the Canadian Pacific have voted to strike for a 27 per cent. wage increase (they refused a 6 per cent. increase,) and eight-hour day and time and a half for overtime.

William D. Haywood of the I.W.W., and of malodorous Idaho memory, has called a general strike for all over the country for the end of September, in sympathy with Ettor and Giovannetti, who are charged with murder during the Lawrence (Mass.) strike, and whose trials are set for September 30. This is as unreasonable as would be a general strike set to last till the McNamaras were pardoned out of San Quentin Penitentiary. Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor (Gompers and company) decently says:

"Organized labor, as typified by the American Federation, is not following the leadership or suggestions of Haywood or any of his ilk."

In the meantime Haywood has been indicted and arrested elsewhere.

The furriers' strike in New York has been compromised (as all strikes should immediately be,) and settled. When the settlement was made known the strikers cheered, hugged each other and wept. The wages are to be fixed by conferences after (not before) the strikers go back to work. All this could easily have been done without a strike. The eight-hour workday and Saturday half-holiday are granted. During the strike large surplus stocks were sold off by the employers to advantage. But little attempt was made to fill the places of the 10,000 strikers. Of course the lost wages are a dead loss forever.

The feared immense building tie-up expected in New York by reason of the teamsters' strike has been averted by an agreement to refer to arbitration for a week the demands of the sand and excavation teamsters. This stay enabled work to begin again on the new subways. It also gives work to the 30,000 to 40,000 mechanics who have been idle three weeks.

Arbitration also averts the threatened and voted Chicago street railway strike of 15,000. The differences are to be passed on by a board of three. The agreement for arbitration was brought about by Carter Harrison, Chicago's broad-minded and successful Mayor.

The International Union of Steam Engineers, assembled in convention at St. Paul, emphatically turned down William D. Haywood's call for a general strike on September 30, to be led by the Industrial Workers (?) of the World, the would-be American Syndicalists, whose methods are the same as those used in times past by the Paris Communes, murderers of thousands of innocent people and destroyers of millions of dollars' worth of equally "innocent" property. All honor to the steam engineers, and also to the citizens of San Diego, who recently bravely and effectually resisted the I.W.W. efforts there.

Hundreds of striking miners in West Virginia have been wisely disarmed by the militia. Practical civil war has been in progress there for several weeks. Mother Jones is leading them. Twelve men have been court-martialed. Dumdum and poisoned bullets have been used.

Twelve thousand trainmen in southeastern railroads demand wage increases of from 15 to 20 per cent. Mediation may be evoked under the Erdman act.

Neither striking workmen can be compelled by law to return to work nor can employers be compelled by law to re-employ striking workmen upon any terms or conditions. That's industrial liberty under the law.

Arbitration hearings on the eastern railroad engineers' claims will go on for a week or no longer. The firemen's held-over claims will follow. Continuous daily sessions of the arbitrators are being held.

Three thousand men are striking at Duluth. Only one car out of every ten of the street cars is in operation. Cars are being smashed into kindling wood. Non-union motormen are being dragged from their cars and brutally beaten.

The striking dredgers at Sacramento will voluntarily be given more pay

MUNICIPALIANA.

Growth of Cities.

[Leslie's:] Of the cities which have over 25,000 people now, the lead in rate of growth in the last ten years was greatest, 539 per cent., in Oklahoma City, with Muskogee, of the same State, standing second, with an increase of 494 per cent. The growth there is due to the fact that the entire State of Oklahoma is new and is rapidly filling up, its increase in population in the decade ending with 1910 having been 109 per cent., or more than any other State except Washington, whose growth in that time was 120 per cent. That great commonwealth of the Northwest is diversifying its activities, and, with 1,200,000 inhabitants, it is the most populous State west of the Rocky Mountains except California. Its leading city, Seattle, with 237,000 people, grew to the extent of 194 per cent. in the last ten years.

The largest rate of increase of any city of over 100,000 people west of the Mississippi in the decade was in Los Angeles, 211 per cent. With 415,000 inhabitants, it is the largest city on the sunset side of that river except St. Louis and San Francisco, and it will probably lead San Francisco by 1920. It is a health resort as well as a great business center.

Washington Reduces Indebtedness.

The city of Washington, D. C., is probably the only municipality in the United States that is reducing its debt. With a payment of $1,591,687.40 the past year, the total indebtedness is left at $10,240,499.57, of which $8,258,550 is bonded debt, while the remaining $1,981,949.57 is the unsecured debt to the United States.

Self-Supporting Boosting.

The hustling residents of Rifle, Colo., have devised a scheme for gaining settlers that is self-supporting. In the first place several of the business men raised a fund of $250 to send a man into Nebraska in search of homeseekers. Ranch sales to the amount of $6000 was the result. The ten men, who had put up the original $250 to pay the expense of the "runner," then called upon the seller and asked for a commission of 5 per cent., or $300. He agreed and paid over the money. This was left in the fund, and another man will be sent out in the near future to search for more homeseekers that the Rifle section may increase her population. By commissions it is intended to keep on hand a working fund, so that the business men will not have to go into their pockets every time they want to do something.

Another thing these "progressives" did was to stop the sending out of town for calendars. One of the hustlers showed the business men that they gained no patronage by annually issuing thousands of dollars' worth of pretty calendars to their regular patrons. He then urged them to unite on one calendar, which could be secured by the Chamber of Commerce, and to have the additional money turned into a fund for road purposes. The scheme met a hearty approval, and Rifle has been shunned by the outside calendar men this season.

Profit in Dancing.

One hundred dollars a day gleaned from the pockets of young men who like to spin their girls over a waxed floor in waltzes and two-steps has shown the Cleveland (O.) city authorities a way to increase municipal receipts and the present one dance hall conducted by the city is soon to be one among many.

TOO HIGH FOR COMFORT.

Workmen Balk at Task of Pouring Concrete Forms at Top of Lofty Incinerator Smokestack.

PASADENA, Sept. 21.—The great smokestack of the new city garbage incinerator on South Raymond avenue, near Glenarm street, has now reached a height of ninety feet, and several of the workmen have quit the job rather than climb the scaffolding to pour the concrete. The stack will be 155 feet high when completed.

This stack, which will be the highest and largest in the city, is fourteen feet in diameter at the base and seven feet at the top. At the base the concrete is twelve feet thick and at the rim of the top it will be six inches.

W. C. Crowell, the contractor who is building the incinerator, stated last night that the plant will be completed in about sixty days. It is to be a $45,000 improvement. Men are now at work on the inside of the building, installing some of the machinery and the grates. The blower has already been put in.

Of building permits issued last week those for improvements to cost $1000, or more, were:

James L. Turner, five-room bungalow, No. 920 Worcester avenue, $2000; Mrs. Isabelle F. Lathy, six-room bungalow, No. 721 South Euclid avenue, $2500; W. E. Stevenson, seven-room frame dwelling and garage, No. 877 North Los Robles avenue, $3600; City Builders' Investment Company, five-room bungalow, No. 1116 Stevenson avenue, $1700; Eva Fenyes, repairs to burned building, No. 55 East Colorado street, $4000; Mrs. F. B. Antiobus, seven-room bungalow and garage, No. 1253 Stevenson avenue, $3000; R. H. McGinnis, seven-room bungalow, No. 314 East Orange Grove avenue, $2500; Mrs. C. V. BRITISH ISLES ARE DECAYING.

WAY THEY LOOKED TO EX-GOV. M'CORKLE ON RECENT TRIP.

ShopKeepers Need American Visitors in Order to Live—One Locked the ex-Governor in While He Made a Sale, as He Was the First Customer for Six Weeks.

[New York Sun:] Ex-Gov. William A. MacCorkle, who is still a power in West Virginia politics, got back on the Mauretania of the Cunard Line yesterday, after a four-day observation tour of parts of the British Isles. Gov. MacCorkle had intended remaining two weeks over there, but the bad weather and the fear that things were not getting along right at home drove him back, and having once made up his mind to come he couldn't get away soon enough.

"I got hold of a fellow over there and told him to get me a berth on the next steamer," remarked Gov. MacCorkle at the junction of Peacock alley and Rubberneck lane yesterday in the intervals when passing acquaintances would let him speak seriously, "and he went out and brought back one for an eight-day steamer, an inside room, at $525. I wouldn't have it, and I managed to get the doctor's room on the Mauretania.

"But people in London, Americans I mean, were just piling over one another in an effort to get a berth on a home-coming steamer. Why, I knew one man who offered $550 for second cabin passage on the Mauretania, with the proviso that he be able to take his meals in the first-class saloon. He had a ticket for a steamer sailing a week later, too, but it was not soon enough for him. However, he didn't get on the Mauretania.

"England," observed Gov. MacCorkle, "is in a state of decay. You see signs of it on every side. Passing through Wales on the train I was struck by the evidences of retrogression in the iron and steel industry. Everywhere you saw foundries and factories with their roofs falling in and no apparent attempt to make repairs. In Birmingham, which we Americans usually consider the most hustling of all British towns, I was struck with the tumbledown look of the factories, and Liverpool's state was appalling. Of course the cotton industry is in a fine condition over there, but apparently it is the only thing that is doing well.

"I had a peculiar experience in Rochester. I went across the street from the Bull, an inn immortalized by Dickens, to an antique shop. It was a fine, big shop, with lots of things in it. I was amazed when I got inside of the door by the actions of the man who was apparently the proprietor."

Gov. MacCorkle wears a goatee, and a moustache, and though his friends say he is better looking, he bears a strong resemblance to the traditional likeness of Uncle Sam with which the British are familiar, and which used to be one of H. Clay Evans's strong points when he was Consul-General in London.

"The first thing that man did was to shut the door after me," went on Gov. MacCorkle. "Then, to my astonishment, he locked the door and put the key in his pocket. Then he smiled at me.

"'Do not be alarmed at my actions, sir,' he said. 'I have neither the intention of robbing you nor of doing you bodily injury. You will pardon me when I explain.

"'You are the first man that has been in this shop in six weeks that looked as if he were going to buy anything, and I am determined you shall buy. Take anything you want at your own price. I must sell you something.' Then he explained.

"It seems that with the bad weather and so on, there had been no visitors to his part of the country of the buying kind, for the greater part of the summer. He said he had not made in the whole time a single sale of any account.

"'I have never before realized,' said the merchant, 'to what a great extent we shopkeepers in England depended upon the trade of Americans. If some more of them don't come this way and buy, there are many of us that will go broke.' He was very happy when I made a small purchase."

The only other wells located in close proximity to the south side of the Mt. Solomon anticline are those of the Folsom lease. Folsom No. 2 will be recalled as one of the best wells in California.

The new gusher looms up as a vastly important factor, not only in the figures of production for the Union-Newlove people, but also to the Rice Ranch Oil Company, and the New Pennsylvania Petroleum Company. The Newlove company has sites in the area for a half-dozen new wells, the Rice Ranch for a couple or more, the New Pennsylvania for four or five.

Well No. 7 of the New Pennsylvania now looms up with vast importance, and will be the synosure of many eyes for the next few months. This well is located only 450 feet to the north of Newlove No. 21, and is now 2500 feet deep, with the eight-inch casing, and going along without a hitch. It is generally conceded by local experts that New Pennsylvania No. 7 is going to be a big well, also that the Old Field is still far from being a back number.

Another extremely important strike was made this week, when the Bradley Canyon Oil Company, operating near Fugler's Point, struck the sands at a depth of 1340 feet. Some weeks ago The Times correspondent prognosticated a strike in the vicinity of 1500 feet, and the prediction seems to have found verification in fact. As the hole has bridged over and no definite test has yet been made, the actual importance of the strike cannot be accurately estimated. Before the well bridged over, however, there was a strong flow of oil and mud, intermixed, with a strong pressure of gas coming up. A test of the oil showed it to be of light gravity—about 20 plus degrees, Baume. So important have some of the bigger oil men considered the strike that rumor has it that a number of new deals for property in the vicinity are being promulgated, and it is certain that new development will soon begin.

It seems certain that, should the Bradley Canyon well prove a success, the city of Santa Maria will before many years find a string of derricks in close vicinity to the incorporated area. For it is an authenticated fact that anticlines in the big fields of California run in a direction northwesterly and southeasterly. And the Bradley Canyon well is situated well along toward the southeasterly extremity of the anticline.

Still a third important strike has occurred in the vicinity of Casmalia, and upon the Arellanes ranch. This strike was made by the Olympia Oil Company upon the old lease of the Casmalia Land, Oil and Development Company. The latter company drilled a well, a couple of years ago, to a depth of 1800 feet, and got a production of about twenty-five barrels daily of extremely heavy oil, almost tar. Deeming it impracticable commercially, they abandoned well and lease, both of which were recently taken over by the Olympia people. The new holders immediately deepened the old well. At a depth of 2500 feet another sand was encountered and the well is now flowing at the rate of 600 barrels daily. The product, which is about 11 degrees gravity, has been contracted for and is being delivered to the California Asphalt Company.

The Palmer-Union Oil Company spudded in No. 7 Blochman this week.

In fact, it is said that even now some of the older producers are dropping off rapidly.

Fullerton is next on the list, with an average of 112 barrels a day from 272 wells. The long life of wells in this field owing to the thickness of the sand is well known. As a matter of fact the sand here has never been fully penetrated. The drillers generally go into the sand as far as possible, but have always been forced by gas pressure and oil to finish the well before going far into the "pay."

That Santa Maria is not on the decline is proved by the output of the wells in that field. The average is ninety-four barrels a day from 168 wells, which is very high, considering the fact that most of the wells are from six to ten years old and also that very few new wells have been drilled in the old field for the past three or four years.

The Sunset-Midway, while it produces more oil by far than any other field in the State, and is also called the gusher field, is fifth on the list, and shows only ninety-two barrels average per well a day, from 917 wells. Of course ninety-two barrels is good, but for the investor in stocks it is well to know that every producer in this field is not a millionaire maker.

McKittrick's average is eighty-five barrels per day from 220 wells, but this large average is made up on account of the Belridge pool, which is included in the McKittrick figures. These wells, like the Lost Hills wells, are shallow and start off big, but are likely to decline more rapidly than those in deeper territory.

The Coalinga wells show good staying qualities, for many of them are eight and ten years old. The average per well at present is sixty-one barrels per day. There are 855 producers in the field.

The most wonderful field in the State is Kern River. No exceptionally large well has ever been brought in there. The territory is not more than 1200 feet deep, the entire area of the field does not exceed four miles in any direction, and there have been probably 2000 wells drilled in the district. Most of them are ten and twelve years old and still the field is putting out over 1,000,000 barrels of oil each month. There are now 1637 wells producing, with a daily average per well of twenty-one barrels.

The different fields with the number of wells producing and the daily average per well is given herewith.

The Oil Industry.

BIG STRIKE IN LOST HILLS.

Standard's Well Spouts Oil Over Derrick Top.

Proves Up a Great Deal of New Territory.

Union Brings in Gusher in Santa Maria.

Considerable excitement was caused in the town of Lost Hills by the coming in of the Standard's new well just adjacent to its boundaries. The strike was made at a depth of 2800 feet and the oil shot over the top of the derrick.

The Standard's strike appears to be of great importance to the Lost Hills district, as it opens up new territory, and demonstrates the existence of a new oil sand deeper than has been estimated. The Standard passed through three oil formations in drilling the well, and had just entered a fourth when the well broke loose. This fourth sand lies beneath the brown shale, and the hole was drilled down to it because the upper strata did not come up to expectations.

The oil encountered before the sanding up of the well was of light gravity, and it is said that by virtue of the strike a considerable portion of the territory east of the anticline in the vicinity of the town of Lost Hills has been proved up.

Gusher in Santa Maria.

The results of deepening the Union's wells in the Santa Maria district are more than satisfactory, if the production obtained from No. 21 is any criterion. This well has come in at 3100 feet, and is doing from 1000 to 2000 barrels of 29 gravity oil. The flow is variable at present.

This is the second big well brought in recently by the Union in the old Santa Maria field. No. 37 which was drilled straight through to the deeper sand, came in as a 3000-barrel gusher. It has since settled down to about half that production, and is an exceedingly fine well.

Natural Gas Coming.

On Monday, September 23, natural gas from Midway is scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles. The first supply was turned into the great twelve-inch main 126 miles long, last Tuesday at 4 o'clock.

The first gas to be used will be from the Honolulu Oil Company's property, but the wells put down by the Northern Exploration Company on sections 22 and 26, 31-23, are also about ready to be brought in.

Two hundred feet of perforated pipe has been brought to section twenty-two to be used in bringing in the well. The water has been cemented off and the fittings set in concrete that the heavy pressure looked for may not break away and the gas get beyond control. The concrete anchor for the fittings on section twenty-six is also setting in readiness for the well to be brought in.

On the Honolulu lease, section 8, 32-23, arrangements are being made to erect a large meter house that it may be determined at all times how much gas is leaving the west side end of the line. It is estimated that Los Angeles and the suburbs will use 30,000,000 cubic feet of gas each day. This amount can at times be furnished by one good well.

North Midway.

It is expected that at an early date the Sunset Railroad will be extended from the town of Shale to the General Petroleum Oil Company's Bear Creek property, a distance of two miles or so. The surveys for the line have been completed.

On the Bear Creek holding the General Petroleum Company is carrying on very active development work, several strings of tools being in operation. This property is located on section 14, 31-22.

On section thirteen the General Petroleum Company is building a large 50,000-barrel tank for storing oil, and a pipe line has just been completed over the old Esperanza holding. This line passes over the Midway Pacific Company's property, where a right of way was granted some time ago. It is stated that this line—which joins another on section twenty-three—will be connected up with the line from the Los Angeles Harbor to Midway.

North of the General Petroleum's property on section thirteen the well of the Oakland Midway Company is about to be perforated. This well a short time ago shot oil to the top of the derrick. The gravity of the product was 22 degrees.

The Midway Pacific Oil Company is drilling on its holding, and has recently had trouble owing to a joint of casing becoming lodged in the well. The joint was side-tracked and work is progressing again at a depth of 850 feet. The company is using electricity with great success to operate the tools.

It is reported that the Brookshire Oil Company has succeeded in getting a flow of 200 barrels from a well recently finished on section twenty-four.

There is also some talk of the Coalinga Monterey Company on section twenty-four becoming active. This concern has one well which is said to be doing about seventy-five barrels.

New Developments.

The United Oil Company is now drilling three wells, which have been cemented to completion on section 20, 31-23, in the Midway district.

The Midway Northern Oil Company has resumed drilling on well No. 3 after relays caused by the repairing of a boiler.

The Boston Pacific Oil Company on section 32, 31-23, has the rig up for No. 2 well, and is now hauling brick for the erection of the boiler. The No. 1 well which proves up this large territory is still flowing in the neighborhood of 2500 barrels daily.

The California Amalgamated Oil Company is preparing to drill well No. 4 on the old July lease to increase the supply of water in its boiler water department. The rig used to drill the number three water well has been moved to the location of the proposed No. 4.

Get to Bloomington Before the Car Line Gets There

The strong bands of the P. E. line are reaching farther and farther into the heart of the rich citrus belt. Already Pomona has been reached and by the first of the year it is expected all the other centers of orange culture will be connected with Los Angeles by Pacific Electric Railway.

You know what a third railway entering a district means. You've seen it demonstrated too many times to be unaware of the bustle and activity, the wonderfully increased values of acreage, that follows the advent of the interurban car line.

Maybe you've lost out on just such splendid opportunities as this before by delaying. See that it doesn't happen again. Here's the cream of the choicest orange land in Southern California—right in the midst of things—now reached by the Southern Pacific transcontinental railroad, the Crescent City Railway and Riverside street car line and forming the junction of the five principal avenues of travel in Southern California.

Here's sandy silt soil with decomposed granite—"proven" beyond a doubt by the full bearing 12 to 14-year-old orange and lemon trees all around, and the high prices and first awards boasted by Bloomington citrus fruits.

Water—that important requisite—so much of it here that two additional proven supplies haven't even been touched. And there's a busy town, too—with sidewalks and oiled streets, with planted parkings and electric lights, with stores, school, church, two packing-houses and an olive oil mill.

One-year-old groves at $450 an acre, unplanted acreage and older groves at proportionate prices. Phenomenally easy terms. Sounds good, doesn't it? And it IS good, but if you want to reap the full reward of foresightedness, GET THERE BEFORE THE CAR LINE.

The best proof that we HAVE the goods is to take a trip out. Get maps, literature, etc., at our office.

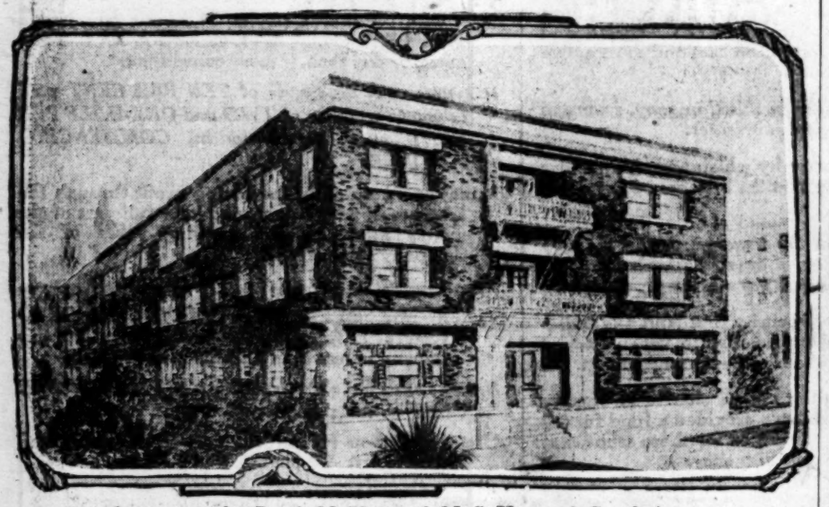
Attractive New Westlake Apartment House.



Apartments for Jennie M. Hoggard, M. S. Yeager & Co., designers.

THOROUGHLY MODERN.

Ninth Street Apartment-House Contains Many Up-to-Date Features, Among Which Are Built-in Safes.

Construction is well under way upon a three-story and basement apartment-house for Jennie M. Hoggard on the north side of Ninth street just west of Park View avenue. Plans for the improvement, which will be ready for occupancy about November 1, were drawn by M. S. Yeager & Co., which concern is also superintending the construction.

The building will be three stories in height and of brick construction, the front being faced with old gold pressed brick and the trim being of stone. The place will contain sixty-five rooms, divided into thirty apartments, each with a disappearing bed. The ground area of the structure is 41x130 feet.

Among the up-to-date conveniences of the building will be a vacuum cleaning plant, steam heat, hot and cold water, wall safes, built-in refrigerators and a 1500-gallon reservoir for the storage of rain water. The baths will be floored with cement.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

Word comes from Washington that with the retirement of Maj. Daniel Arnold but one officer who had seen service in the Civil War will be left on the active list of the United States Army. This is Col. John L. Clem, now serving as Chief Quartermaster of the central division, with headquarters at Chicago.

Deputy Fire Chief William Guerin, head of the Bureau of Fire Prevention, New York, has won a degree of bachelor of laws by attending night school and studying at odd times during the day. He is about to apply for admission to the bar, and if successful will quit his fire work.

With 16 years' continuous service to his credit, Harvey Palmer of Loveland, Col., claims the honor of being the oldest rural letter carrier in the United States in point of service. When the government first experimented with the rural delivery idea in 1896, Palmer was one of the 42 carriers appointed, and he is still covering the same route.

E. W. Deming, the painter, is preparing once more to forsake civilization for life among the Indians. He soon will go to Oklahoma, where, along the Cimarron River and along the South Fork of the Arkansas, he will spend several weeks with the Pawnees, making studies for one of the immense panels he is painting for the Plains Indian Room at the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

Having adopted twenty-six children during his life, Joseph Hinchman, aged 87, a prosperous farmer at Merchantville, N. J., has established a unique record. While he never had the entire twenty-six under his roof at one time, not infrequently did he have six or seven. Two-thirds of them are now in business for themselves, and the others are also good citizens.

Rear-Admiral Hugo Osterhaus will retire from the command of the Atlantic fleet and be succeeded by Rear-Admiral Charles J. Badger about January 1, according to an announcement by Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer. Rear-Admiral Osterhaus will go to the Naval General Board, the change being in line with the policy of the department to have its rear-admirals serve on the board before retiring.

Isaiah T. Montgomery, who made a striking address in Chicago a few days ago to delegates to the National Negro Business League, rose from the life of a slave to a position of wealth and power in the South. Among other things he founded the prosperous town of Mound Bayou, Miss., which now has a population of more than a thousand people. All the town officials are negroes. Montgomery was owned by Joseph E. Davis, brother of the Confederate President, and after the war rented two large plantations from his former master, devoting them to cotton. It was only a question of time before he became known as one of the largest cotton-growers of the South. In 1887 he bought a large tract of land and started a negro colony, calling it Mound Bayou. He began this work at the age of 40.

Milwaukee's Socialistic Rule.

The two years that the Socialists administered the affairs of the city of Milwaukee appear to have been expensive ones for the taxpayers, but the Socialists retort that good things come high, and this is the reason for a million dollars extra expense for the two years. After the Socialists went out of office in April last, it required two months experting of the books before the new Controller could make a report of the financial affairs of the city. Every transaction for the two years had to be checked back, there being no other way to determine the charges against any fund.

One of the things the Socialists were going to do was to reduce the cost of paving which had averaged about $2.35, and a lot of work was done at about $1.85, but with no guarantee that the paving would last, and it was necessary to tear up and relay about one-half of it, which brought the cost far above the old figure.

CATHOLIC BALL LEAGUE.

At the first meeting of the Catholic Athletic League of Los Angeles, held at the St. Joseph Young Men's Club last week, steps were taken toward the formation of a baseball league which will play throughout the winter, composed of the following teams: Knights of Columbus, Los Angeles Catholic College, Y.M.I., Holy Names, St. Joseph, Loretta and the Hibernians.

IMPERIAL SPORTS ACTIVE.

Bert Eling returned from the Imperial Valley last week with the news that all the schools of the valley had taken up basketball, tennis and track athletics. Arrangements are being completed now for the first tournament which is to take in basketball teams from all schools in the section.

Apophyllite and Orpiment.

LORDSBURG (N. M.) Aug. 26.—Q.: I am mailing you today two samples of mineral that I am unable to identify. Both samples are from narrow fissures in antimonial-silver, located near Terrazas, Chihuahua, Mex. It has been suggested that the canary-color of sample No. 1 makes the sample carotite, the valuable uranium mineral, but I await your classification. No. 2. I can only think that it is some variety of quartz in small crystals. E. C. L.

A.: Glad to hear from you. The canary-colored sample somewhat resembling a yellow mica, is orpiment (tersulphide of arsenic.) Primary form a right rhombic prism with a perfect cleavage "parallel to the longer axis and occurs in small crystals, but rarely." Orpiment also occurs massive, foliated (like your sample,) columnar, disseminated, and sometimes reniform. Color "bright lemon-yellow passing into golden-yellow." Of resinous luster, but pearly on planes of cleavage. "Subtransparent or trunslucent only at the edges." Sectile; streak yellow, and slightly paler than the color of the mineral." Thin laminaé obtained by cleavage; flexible but not elastic; hardness 1.60; sp. gr., 3.44. Chemical composition: Arsenic 61.86; sulphur 38.14, percentages, respectively. Orpiment dissolves in aqueous ammonia or in nitro-muriatic acid (aqua regia.) Orpiment is distinguished from suluhur by its foliated structure, and by the odor of garlic (arsenical fumes) given off when burning on charcoal. Orpiment is artificially prepared nowadays, by subliming arsenious acid (ordinary arsenic of commerce,) with a small percentage of sulphur.

As to sample No. 2. It is well to remember that quartz is crystallized in hexagonal prisims, "sometimes terminated at both ends by six-sided pyramids," and when crystallized only at one end you can nearly always count six pyramidal sides at the end, as it were. Under the miscroscope it is observed that your sample is in minute, square prisms, "whose solid angles are (sometimes) replaced by triangular planes, which, by a deeper replacement, assume the form of rhombic planes." Color grayish-white; opaque (other samples are transparent,) with a shining luster on the lateral planes of the prism; and of pearly luster on the terminals. Streak white; brittle; of uneven fracture; becomes feebly electric by friction; hardness 4.7. Sp.gr., 2.3. Apophyllite (chemically,) carries 52 per cent. silica; lime 24.70; potash 5.37; fluorine 1.20; and water 16.20 per cent. Before the blowpipe it exfoliates, intumesces, and "ultimately fuses to a white vesicular glass; with borax melts readily to a transparent globule." In nitric acid flakes separate out, and in powder form, added to nitric acid the solution, becomes gelatinous and translucent. Minerals that form a jelly with acids are zeolitic minerals.

Phosphorus Present.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26. — Q.: Herewith a sample of specular iron from a locality in Los Angeles county. Is there any element in the sample that would be detrimental in the smelting of iron? Fluxes are near at hand. Specifically: Is this a good commercial grade of iron ore? T. T.

A.: The sample is not a good grade of iron ore. Phosphorus is present in the mass, and if the deposit is represented by the sample iron manufactured from the ore whether by smelting with fuel and flux, or electrical furnace, the product would be "cold short," owing to the phosphorus contained.

Zinkenite and Baryte.

TENEPEA (Nev.) Aug. 27.—Q.: I am sending you by a friend and partner six samples from my claims, which are located forty-seven miles from railroad and twenty-three miles from Golconda. The country rock is made up of granite, limestone, and porphry, and following the leads on the claims are several stringers. No. 1 sample is the wall (hanging,) and No. 2 is from the foot-wall. No. 3, this ore appears to carry both zinc and antimony, and if it has a name in mineralogy please name it and give approximate composition of the same. I take No. 4 as heavy spar; am I right? As to No. 5, what would you classify it as? No. 6 I found on the surface, but not in place, and the weight of this gravel is what puzzles me, that is, the little boulders are so heavy that I cannot place them. M. S. P.

A.: Glad to hear from you. Sample No. 1 is a coarse pegmatite (graphic granite,) and No. 2 is impure limestone, cement-rock, if you please. No. 3 is, in chemical formula, sulphantimonite of lead, and while it is known as Zinkenite, in mineralogy, it carries but a trace of zinc; in fact, no zinc value. Zinkenite occurs in "regular six-sided prisms, terminated by low six-sided pyramids." Color steel-grap; opaque; of bright metallic luster; streak and color the same, and a peculiarity of the mineral crystals is that the faces of the prisms are often deeply striated longitudinally, while "those of the pyramids are uneven, but not furrowed." The fracture of the mineral is uneven; it is 3.5., in hardness, and sp.gr., 5.30. "The crystals, which are aggregated in groups, and present a columnar composition, occur on a massive variety of the same species in quartz. Their length often exceeds half an inch, their breadth two or three lines; but frequently they are extremely thin, and form fibrous masses."

Before the blowpipe zinkenite decrepitates. A sample placed on charcoal and the lamp-flame played on the mineral results in a fusion as low as gray-antimony (in the scale of fusibility,) and during fusion metallic globules are formed which are entirely volatilized; the charcoal, meanwhile, being coated with white lead-oxide. The mineral (in reality ore,) receives its name from the locality of its orignial find—Zinken, in the Harz, Germany. The approximate composition of ore represented by the sample is: antimony, 44.39; lead, 31.84; sulphur, 22.58; copper, 0.42, percentages as given.

You are right on No. 4, it is baryte (barium sulphate.) No. 5, we classify this ore as hematite (iron peroxide,) with interspersed, sparingly throughout the mass, phosphate of lime in microscopical crystals, and also known as apatite. The pebbles, four in number, contained in small muslin-sack, are scheelite (calcium tungstate.) This scheelite is No. 6.

Lepidomelane.

LOS OLIVOS (Cal.) Aug. 27.—Q.: I am a student trying hard to master chemistry and mineralogy, and one of the first obstacles that I have met with is: What kind of mineral does the sample belong to? I have tested it and have arrived at no definite conclusion. It may be hornblende, tourmaline, pyroxene, etc., and I will thank you if you will give me a short description of the mineral together with the test you use for identification of the mineral. F.S.S.

A.: If you have not a small collection of the 120 mineral samples recommended by Prof. Dana it would be well for you to obtain them. The sample is Lepidomelane, a variety of uniaxial mica, "occurring in small six-sided tables, or an aggregation of minute opaque, micaceous, crystaline scales, united in granulolaminar masses." Basal cleavage perfect. raven-black in color. Of adamancent and leek-green;) the sample is Raven-black in color. Of adamantine-vitreous luster. Streak mountain-green. Brittle. Hardness, and specific gravity 3, each. The sample carries over 8.50 per cent. potash.

In testing this mineral proceed as follows: Place a little of the powdered mineral in a test tube; pour c.p., hydrochloric acid over the sample in the tube—enough acid to cover the powder by volume, i.e., half-inch of powdered mineral is covered (on top) with half an inch of acid. The mineral will go into solution, and from the solution, silica in the form of the crystalline scales of the mineral, separates out. Before the blowpipe lepidomelane acquires a pinchbeck-brown color, and fuses to a black magnetic globule, and with borax affords a bottle-green glass.

It is very often a great help to find the sp.gr., of a mineral of which we have no knowledge of its composition; when massive for instance, and lacking crystals; then try the blowpipe and charcoal, adding the fluxes soda or borax, where necessary, and by the time we are ready for acids and other wet methods a fairly good clew to the variety of mineral should have been acquired. On any samples you may test for carbonates with dilute acids first, if so desired. Figuratively, there is no prop leaning against our door of limited knowledge, and it is a pleasure, always, to welcome students when they call upon us, and they can rest assured—one and all—that we will do all in our power to help them over the dry, grad-grin facts (as it often appears to students) of mineralogy, chemistry and metallurgy.

There comes a day and hour to every student, however, of any trade or profession, when the foundation of their chosen vocation appears somewhat in sight and understood, and this knowledge comes to us, strikingly, as it did to Adam and Eve when they ate of the forbidden fruit.

Dueling in Albania.

[Kansas City Star:] Albanians used to practice a peculiar form of dueling. Sir Richard Burton, who once commanded a corps of bashibazouks, writes that "the Albanian contingent, who generally fight when they are drunk, had a peculiar style of monomachy. The principals, attended by their seconds and by all their friends, stood close opposite, each holding a cocked pistol in his right hand and a glass of raki or spirits of wine in the left. The first to drain his draught had the right to fire, and generally blazed away with fatal effect. It would have been useless to discourage this practice, but I insisted on fair play."

STRIKES ON AND OFF.

or shorter hours but the strike as a strike fails.

The Erie Railroad has taken a firm stand for the open shop.

Pennsylvania telegraph operators employed on the lines east of Pittsburgh and Erie have almost unanimously voted to strike if they cannot get all they ask.

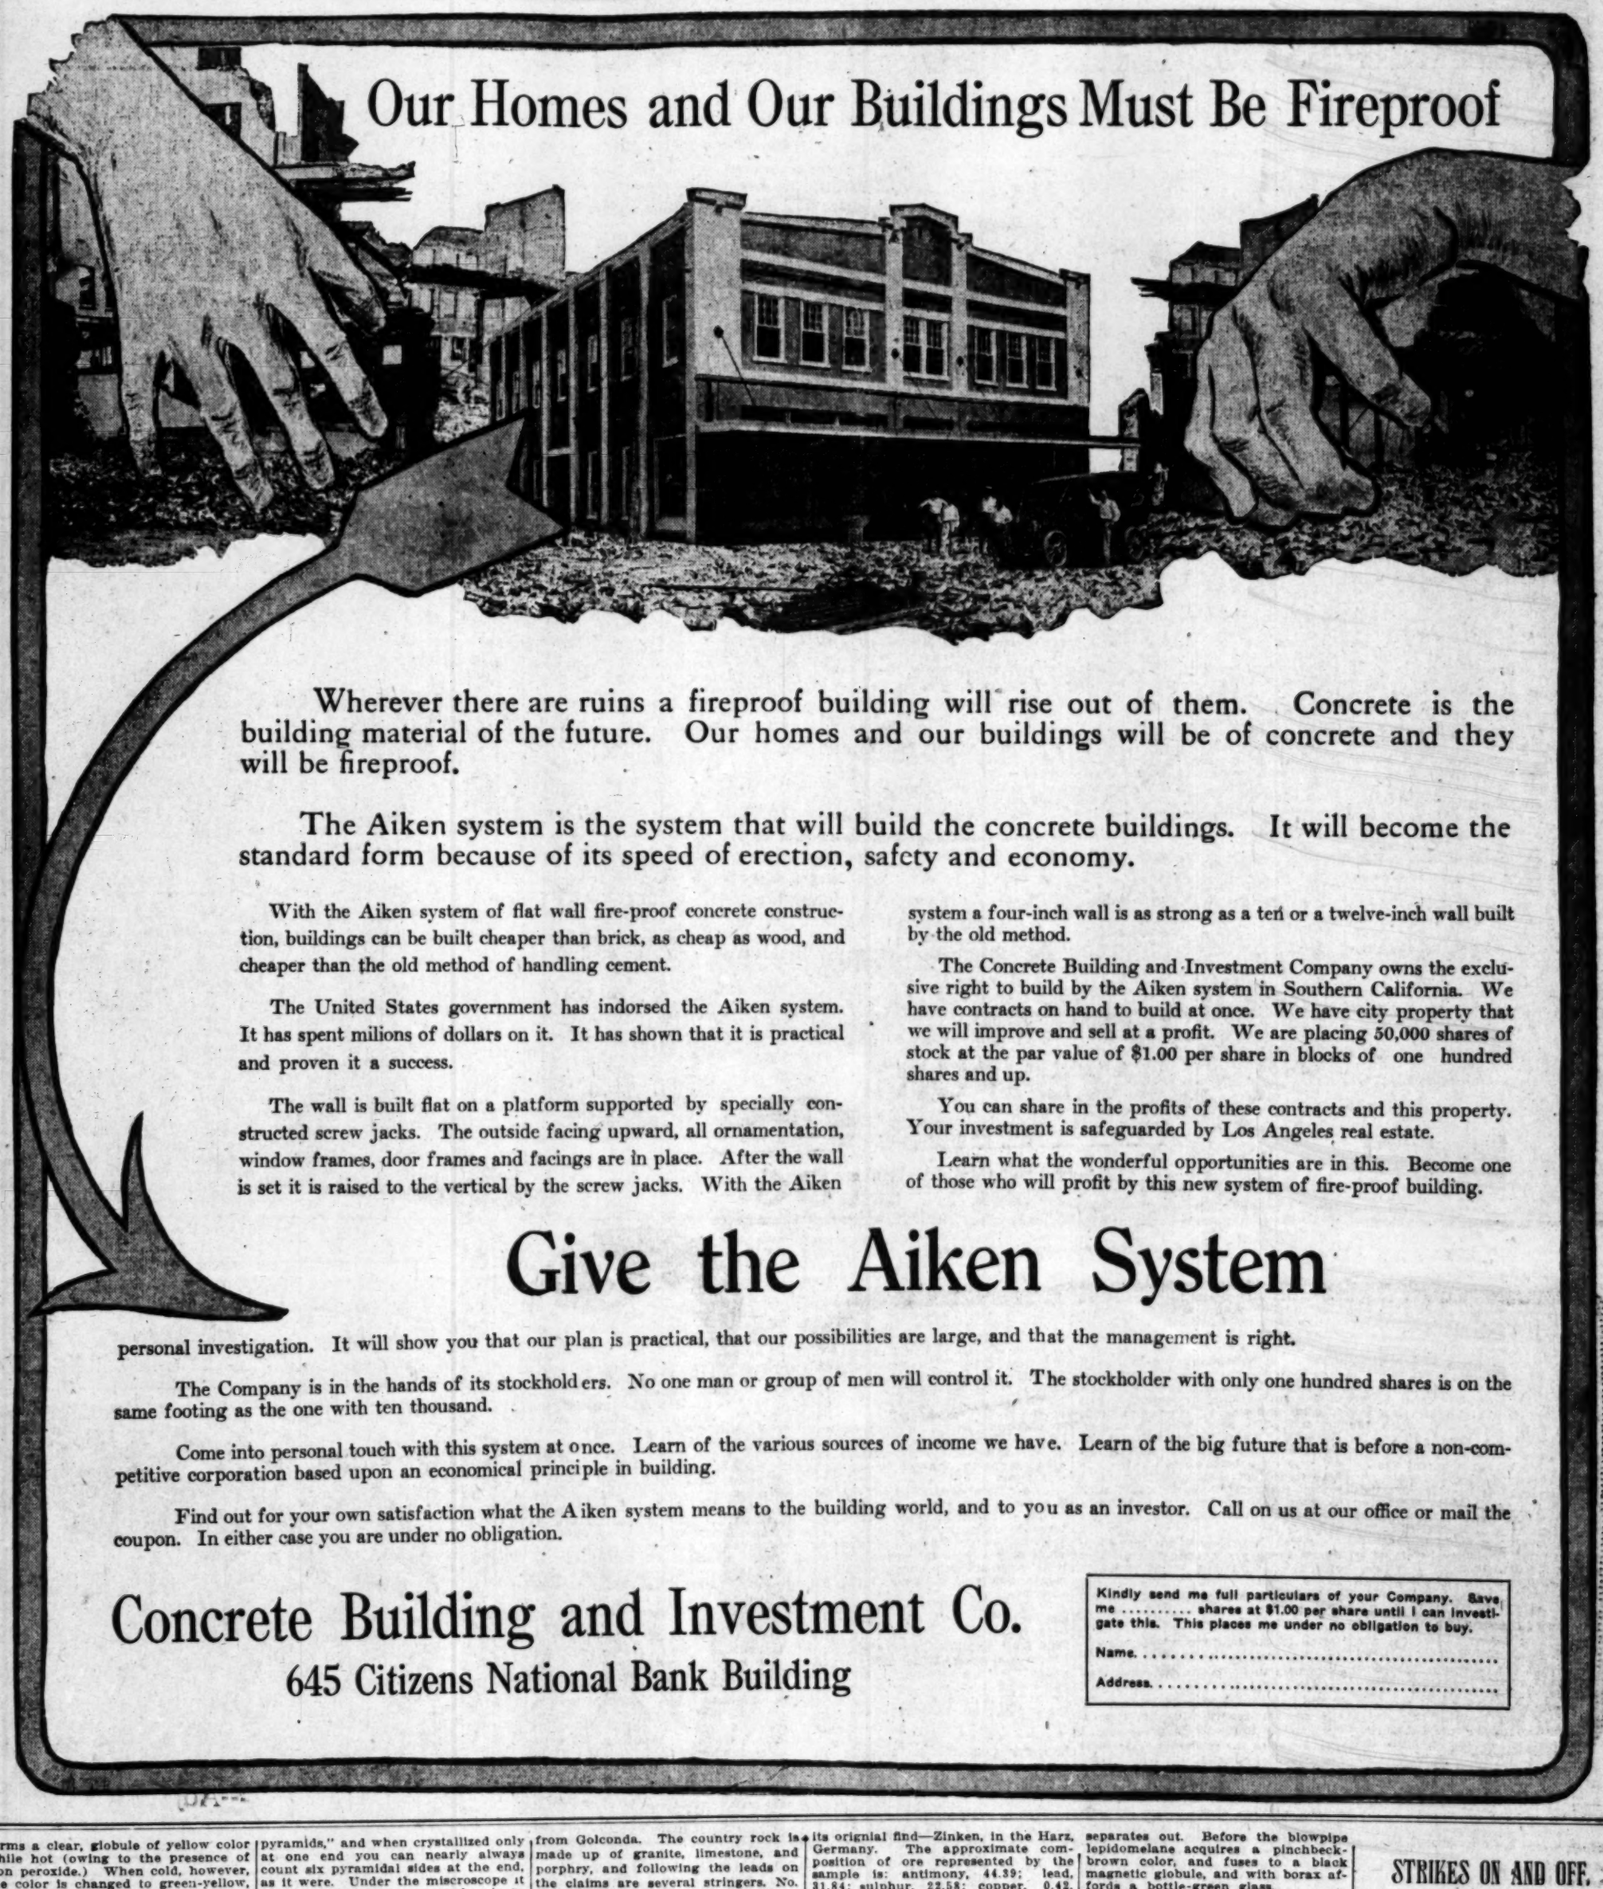
Though fruiting wages are only about 25 cents a day in Japan, yet Jap California grape pickers, 200 of them, have struck for a raise from $2 to $2.50 a day—ten times as much as they could earn in their own country. Jap house servants at Hollywood tried this game but the good women resisted and beat them at it. It is to be hoped that the grape growers will as valiantly resist.

Shipping strikers at Marseilles, France, have agreed to arbitration and gone back to work. That is as it should be in all wage disputes, but the arbitration should come first. These many signs of willingness to arbitrate are encouraging in the general labor situation the world over.

Freight handlers on the Delaware and Hudson Railway are getting ready to strike for a raise of from $1.80 to $2 a day.

The twelve cotton cloth mills at New Bedford, Mass., closed for eight weeks by the weavers' strike have been re-opened for work. Thirteen thousand workers have been idle. There is no report that any of the strike demands have been granted, but apparently not because, as yet, the workers have only partially returned for work.

A street car strike, as well as the ore men strike, is in progress at Superior, Wis. That is very near the street car strike violence, serious violence, going on at Duluth, Minn.



Wherever there are ruins a fireproof building will rise out of them. Concrete is the building material of the future. Our homes and our buildings will be of concrete and they will be fireproof.

The Aiken system is the system that will build the concrete buildings. It will become the standard form because of its speed of erection, safety and economy.

With the Aiken system of flat wall fire-proof concrete construction, buildings can be built cheaper than brick, as cheap as wood, and cheaper than the old method of handling cement.

The United States government has indorsed the Aiken system. It has spent milions of dollars on it. It has shown that it is practical and proven it a success.

The wall is built flat on a platform supported by specially constructed screw jacks. The outside facing upward, all ornamentation, window frames, door frames and facings are in place. After the wall is set it is raised to the vertical by the screw jacks. With the Aiken system a four-inch wall is as strong as a ten or a twelve-inch wall built by the old method.

The Concrete Building and Investment Company owns the exclusive right to build by the Aiken system in Southern California. We have contracts on hand to build at once. We have city property that we will improve and sell at a profit. We are placing 50,000 shares of stock at the par value of $1.00 per share in blocks of one hundred shares and up.

You can share in the profits of these contracts and this property. Your investment is safeguarded by Los Angeles real estate.

LANKERSHIM'S SUB-IRRIGATED SECTION OF THE SAN FERNANDO.

Prolific Fruit Crops Grown Absolutely Without Irrigation. Highly Developed Territory Adjacent to Los Angeles Affording Typical Suburban Environment.

SYNOPSIS.

Location and environment of Lankershim.

Description of the town and its living facilities.

Scenic beauty spots of the district.

Schools and social orders.

Realty values of town and country.

Agricultural conditions of the district.

Easy marketing conditions.

Villa Vista, a new citrus section of the San Fernando Valley.

Names of property owners willing to give further information on the country.

IF THE colonist and homeseeker desires to inspect a first-class deciduous fruit section or suburban home place, let him board a Pacific Electric car at the Hill-street station in Los Angeles and travel in a northwesterly direction out Sunset Boulevard, through beautiful Hollywood to Cahuenga Pass in the Santa Monica Mountains. As the trolley winds its way over the pass, the traveler may feel that he is crossing a barrier which naturally separates the bustle and whirl of an active metropolitan city from the quiet of the real country. The contrast is striking as he surveys from the summit of the pass the spacious San Fernando Valley beyond, surrounded with its lofty, restful mountains, after having just passed through a densely populated city.

Then as the car conquers the grade and rushes down the track on the north side of the mountains, the exhilarating air and freedom of the country more fully assert themselves. The car line turns a little to the right and coming out of the pass, the visitor sees the town of Lankershim a short distance out in the valley.

From the mouth of the Cahuenga Pass the route leads for a mile or so through a rich section of deciduous fruit orchards. If it be early summer, the luscious, highly colored fruit hanging on the branches of the trees and mingled with the healthy, green foliage, form a picture of agricultural richness which typifies the fertility of the country. In the midst of such environment we find Lankershim.

Comparatively but a few years ago this entire territory was part of the famous Lankershim rancho, which had been purchased by the Lankershim family from the original Spanish proprietor, Don Andreas Pico, former Governor of California before the State had become part of our Union. There were about 60,000 acres in the rancho. Mr. Lankershim farmed the territory until his death, when his heirs incorporated the Los Angeles Farming and Milling Company and took over the management of the estate.

Later several Los Angeles capitalists organized the Lankershim Land and Water Company and purchased 12,000 acres of the rancho which they subdivided and sold in small tracts. A postoffice was established in the community and called Toluca. The modern Toluca has evolved into the town of Lankershim.

LANKERSHIM.

The town in itself has kept nothing to remind the visitor of its past history. It is all new, all modern, all suggestive of future prosperity. One of the main county roads, a splendid macadamized auto boulevard, passes through the town and forms its main street. On both sides of this street are several modern pressed brick business blocks which at once establishes an atmosphere of solidity and progress.

Both sides of the main street are skirted with cement sidewalks and curbing as are also many of the side streets throughout the townsite.

A domestic water plant furnishes water, under good pressure, to the residents at a nominal rate. Electric illuminating current is supplied also by the Southern California Edison Company. The San Fernando Valley Home Telephone Company has established a telephone system throughout the district and operating in conjunction with the Home Telephone Company of Los Angeles furnishes connections with the city without charging an extra toll. The Sunset Telephone Company also has a trunk line in the town. From the Lankershim postoffice extend free rural delivery routes through the surrounding ranching districts. The town's schooling facilities, churches and social orders are mentioned in another part of this article.

These conveniences, coupled with the fact that the Southern Pacific steam railroad passes through the town affording easy freighting of all commodities and the frequent and rapid service of the Pacific Electric passenger cars, are inducements this town offers to the prospective homeseeker.

First-class banking facilities and a number of retail stores amply supply the business needs of the community.

Nor should we forget to call the stranger's attention to the numerous and artistic residences of Lankershim, for the pretty home has become as much of an asset to Southern California towns as any other feature.

SCENIC ATTRACTIONS.

Lankershim is very fortunately situated in relation to scenic environment. To the westward and the south stretch the rolling Santa Monica Mountains, separating the San Fernando Valley from the ocean, but at the same time not barring from the inland basin the cool refreshing breezes.

To the northward and meeting the Santa Monica ranges tower the higher peaks of the Sierra Madre Mountains with the smaller Verdugo range in the foreground.

Between the Sierra Madre range and the Verdugo Mountains flows a fair-sized stream called Tejunga Creek which is responsible for a large portion of the sub-irrigation conditions in this section. The subject of sub-irrigation will be further discussed under the heading of ranching.

South of Lankershim and following the base of the Santa Monica Mountains may be found the course of the Los Angeles River with its many pretty dells and nooks where picnics are frequently held.

A few miles east of the town is the popular Griffith Park, one of the places of rendezvous for Los Angeles autoing parties.

SHERMAN WAY.

A short distance from Lankershim and joining the main county road on Fifth street of the town commences the great boulevard known as "Sherman Way," which was built at a cost of half a million and has become a distinguishing characteristic of the gigantic development taking place in this part of the San Fernando Valley. Sherman Way extends for eighteen miles to the new towns of Van Nuys and Owensmouth. It is a magnificent driveway, laid out in three divisions, one an asphaltum auto speedway, one a macadam thoroughfare for ordinary teaming and the central division forms the right of way of the Pacific Electric Railroad. The several drives are separated one from the other by concrete curbing and skirting the whole boulevard for its entire length is a beautiful parking of the choicest ornamental plants.

The climax of perfection of modern road construction will have been reached when "Sherman Way" will be brilliantly illuminated at night with electric lamps. The promotion company at the back of the enterprise intends to add this feature as soon as possible.

Leading up into the Santa Monica Mountains, the county has constructed a splendid mountain automobile drive which connects Lankershim directly with the upper end of the picturesque Laurel Canyon. Right on the summit of these mountains is a tract of 140 acres known as Laurel Park which commands a magnificent view of the surrounding mountains and canyons and which the owner intends to sell for subdivision purposes. Eventually Swiss chalets will dot the sides of these craggy peaks and travelers who have been abroad will come here to see, ot their astonishment, a second Switzerland, embellished with all that modern America has advanced to make home life comfortable.

Besides the scenic attractions mentioned there are a countless number of minor attractions, each of which has a special charm in itself, but which could only be fully appreciated by a resident of the district.

SCHOOLS AND SOCIETY.

One of the features which has become a weighty factor in holding easterners in Southern California and causing them to reside permanently, is the fine moral tone exemplified by our smaller towns. In this regard, our smaller towns are a great source of interest to the easterner. He finds the saloon eliminated. The old frame school building of his eastern home town is totally eclipsed by the excellent, modern brick or concrete school buildings of the West, equipped with the latest heating and ventilating devices and first-class sanitary conveniences. He finds artistic church buildings in the western towns and that the moral influence for good of these institutions is exerted beyond the confines of the house of worship and in a practical manner. He finds all things neat, clean and new in the West and they appeal to him very strongly.

In regard to the moral tone of Lankershim it may be said that it is typically Southern Californian. It has no saloons or other places which could be objected to by a man with a family of children. It is essentially a "home" town in every sense of the word.

The Presbyterian and Methodist denominations have active congregations and hold regular services. These churches also have allied with them a number of tributary social and religious societies.

There is a good grammar school centrally located in the townsite, where a staff of four teachers instruct over 190 pupils in the building. The enrollment has increased so rapidly, however, that it was found necessary to erect a new $17,000 concrete structure. This is now in course of construction and will be completed shortly. It will contain four large and well-lighted rooms and an assembly hall. Domestic science and manual training will be taken up and a course in elementary agriculture is a new feature in the school's course of studies.

Lankershim is fortunate in being in the Los Angeles school district, as it receives from the city thereby all the latest and best in schooling facilities which are installed in the public schools of Los Angeles.

High School facilities are afforded at Hollywood, where is found one of the best institutions of its kind on the Coast. Special rates on the electric car line are afforded the school children traveling to and from Lankershim.

Working in conjunction with the local school is a Parent-Teachers' Association of fifty members which holds regular meetings at stated intervals at the homes of its members.

The W.C.T.U. is represented at Lankershim and among its twenty members may be identified some of the most prominent ladies of the community.

REALTY VALUES.

Realty values have been steadily advancing throughout the Lankershim territory owing to the continual and increasing demand, but tracts of good land and town lots may yet be had at moderate prices commensurate with the excellent improvements installed about them.

Residence lots may be purchased for $350 each and up. These are all of standard size and include such improvements as graded and oiled streets, cement sidewalks and curbing, domestic water piped to the property line and domestic electricity.

Business lots may be purchased at moderate prices, depending upon location.

Unimproved acreage is selling at $300 per acre, and up, while improved lands command a price ranging from $500 to $1000 an acre, according to location and farming conveniences.

RANCHING CONDITIONS.

It would indeed be difficult to look elsewhere in the State and find a farming community as large as the Lankershim district which has such natural resources. There is but one soil in the Lankershim district, a sandy loam, and this is very nearly of the same quality throughout the whole district. It will produce any kind of vegetation which will survive the climate of the locality, and as a very equable and pleasant climate is experienced and one conducive to the life of all popular varieties of plant life, it remains to be shown by actual test, what there is in the vegetable kingdom which will not grow here.

The popular "dry-farming" method of cultivation without irrigating, is adopted in this section and gives the best results in all the fruit orchards. The loose consistency of the soil permits it to be pulverized easily and a permanent mulch is thus maintained on the surface to a depth of from six to eight inches by frequent cultivatings and harrowings. This treatment of the soil conserves moisture and draws it to the surface by capilliary attraction.

Under these conditions and methods the peach grows to perfection. The flavor of the fruit could not be bettered by irrigating and as the crops are, with a few single exceptions, always as heavy as the trees will bear, it becomes not only unnecessary to irrigate, but it would be decidedly unwise to do so.

I. C. Ijams and Sons of Lankersim won first prize for Tuscan cling peaches at the State Fair in 1911. The fruit exhibited by them was grown on their Lankershim ranch under the "dry farming" methods of cultivating and was never irrigated by artificial means, not even when the young trees, fresh from the nursery, were first planted in the ground.

Apricots make the second crop of importance in the Lankershim district. They grow prolifically and mature nearly. This season the growers had a very fine crop.

But the wonder crops of this district are melons. Watermelons, cantaloupes, casabas, squash, pumpkins, pie melons, grow like weeds and strickly speaking require less care than weeds for the latter are more or less a source of anxiety to the careful farmer, while the melons are not. They are grown absolutely without irrigation.

Alfalfa is grown with irrigation and will average 10 tons to the acre a year. Four out of six cuttings a year may be had without irrigating. Garden truck is also irrigated.

The irrigating wells average from 100 to 200 feet in depth with lifts which run from 15 to 40 feet. The underground water supply has surprised some of the local ranchers by continually rising in level. The only accounting for this may be in the fact that the growth of timber and brush in the mountains having increased steadily during the last few years without encountering any damaging forest fires, has facilitated in holding back large quantities of water which would otherwise stream off the barren mountain slopes and go to waste.

One of the agricultural pursuits rapidly taking first place in the district is poultry raising. Many of the orchardists are utilizing the spaces between their fruit trees for poultry and find it very profitable to do so while waiting for crops to mature or for young trees to come into bearing.

MARKETING.

Each month of the year, excepting two, the ranchers of the Lankershim district are selling to the Los Angeles market one or more of the various products which they grow. There is a continual marketing going on from March to December and the growers receive the best prices for their fruits, due to the fact that their orchards are close to the city, permitting them to ship matured and well ripened products without fear of having them spoil in transit.

In this connection we must again call the reader's attention to the district's good roads. From Lankershim all the way into the Los Angeles market place, a distance of about eleven miles, extends one of the best of the county's macadamized driveways, the surface of which is as hard and as smooth as an asphalt paving. The grade is very uniform and does not exceed 6 per cent at any place.

Many of the ranchers load their wagons during the afternoon with one to three tons of produce, and at 11 o'clock in the evening start to drive into the city, arriving at the market around 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. In the month of August of this year it was not unusual to see wagons and trucks carry out of Lankershim as much as 100 tons of fruit a night.

A number of the most prosperous ranchers, who have large quantities of fruits to haul to market, own their own auto trucks. Some of these also ship in the fruit of other ranchers at a nominal cost. Besides these, small partnerships have been formed, where two or three ranchers have purchased an automobile truck together and use it jointly. A number of individual men or truck companies make regular trips between Los Angeles and Lankershim daily, and many of the ranchers find it a paying proposition to ship in their stuff by these.

Close as is the Los Angeles market to the district, the fruit men here are not dependent alone upon the city as a place to dispose of their goods. The Bonner Fruit Company, a $50,000 cannery concern, located at Lankershim, affords a local market. This concern has been in operation a little over three seasons and has done a very good business, besides paying the grower fair prices. Peaches and apricots sold here have averaged the grower between $20 and $25 a ton for the last three years. When in full operation the cannery consumes about forty tons of fruit a day.

A few miles to the north of Lankershim and not far from the mouth of the Tejunga Canyon and the slopes of the Sierra Madre Mountains, is the new and thriving community known as Villa Vista.

This district is a little higher in elevation than Lankershim and is adapted to the cultivation of citrus fruits. About eighty acres of young orange trees have been set out here, and a larger acreage is to be planted during the coming spring. Forty acres of the young orange trees were planted early last fall and these survived the exceptional frost of last winter, with but the loss of a few leaves. An inspection of the trees at this time reveals a beautiful and healthy orchard of very uniform-sized trees, and is a splendid recommendation for the country.

Convenient grammar school facilities are afforded the young people living at Villa Vista, while an excellent high school at San Fernando meets the requirements of the more advanced school students.

The Tejunga Water Company supplies the community with domestic water, their supply being derived from the Tejunga Canyon. A large reservoir, located at a good elevation, stores the water and assures a continual supply at all times during the year.

In regard to the agricultural conditions of this community it may be said that they are identical with those already described of Lankershim, to which can be added the climatic conditions favorable for citrus culture. Deciduous fruits are grown to some extent and thrive under dry farming cultivation the same as in the Lankershim district. Marketing facilities are also very fine.

Considering the fact that the Villa Vista district was first opened last April, it is wonderful to witness the extent of the improvements already installed. The activity of the men who have taken up holdings here is the greatest assurance of future success that any young community could desire. There are less than 200 acres yet remaining unsold in the Villa Vista tract and the present property owners would be glad to welcome energetic, live-awake neighbors who have sufficient capital to develop the country properly.

The people living in the district have organized an improvement association and this body has taken the initiative in all civic and business matters. Persons desiring detailed information on Villa Vista are invited to correspond with the secretary of the improvement association or with any of the names given below.

...The letter was written on May 9 ...and two weeks later the Cincin- ...nati Railway bridge, being ...built by the Pittsburgh Construc- ...tion Co., was dynamited. May ...12 Peoria was dynamited a ... time, and bridges was dynamited a ...third time. On August 27, a viaduct ...in Erie, by the same company was ...destroyed.

...September 30, 1908, Ryan wrote ...to Webb from San Francisco ...that he was passing through Cin- ...cinnati and noticed that piers had ...been put in for some kind of a bridge ...although he saw no material ...there stored somewhere near.

...January 27, McNamara wrote to S. S. Hobart, inquiring about the Wisconsin Bridge Company's work at Clinton. He wanted to send a man there as soon as the work started, he said, and he wanted a quick reply. The bridge was dynamited by Ortie McManigal on the night of February 16, a little less than a month after Ryan had called attention to it.

On April 25, 1910, Ryan wrote to McNamara that he intended to send Webb up to Bethlehem to look after work that McClintock & Marshall were doing and also to run down to Richmond and Norfolk and look after work there. He referred to the Peoria job and said that he agreed with McNamara that it had better be left in the hands of Hockin. "I don't mind spending a reasonable amount, in view of all the circumstances," he concluded. On May 1 he wrote to McNamara, asking what Clancy has done or recommended in regard to organizing in Los Angeles, Cal. On June 7 McNamara wrote to Ryan saying that Clancy was very anxious that Hockin be sent to Los Angeles but the board member had so many things to do that he did not think it advisable to send him out to the Coast. Ryan answered this letter on June 11 and said that he agreed with McNamara as "there is sufficient work for Hockin back this way." It was during this period that so many explosions occurred that are charged by the government to Hockin.

M'NAMARA'S MANY LETTERS.

McNamara was in charge of the correspondence of the organization and nearly all the letters that the government will submit as evidence of the conspiracy were written either by him or to him and these involve practically all of the members of the executive board and many others that were prominent in their home locals. As Hockin, board member at the time and now acting secretary, was, according to the letters, the most active among the dynamiters, with the possible exception of Ortie McManigal, he would naturally be expected to figure largely in the correspondence. In addition to this he is often referred to in letters to other members and always as a man who was very busy or who would be sent to look after certain work.

WILL HOCKIN PEACH?

There has been an impression ever since the Federal grand jury took up the investigation that Hockin was willing to testify for the government but that the District Attorney refused to guarantee immunity. It is known that he was present in the office when the government officers made their second raid in search of correspondence and it is believed that he gave the pointer on which the officers acted. He denies a willingness to confess and the District Attorney, while denying nothing, refuses to discuss Hockin's relation to the evidence or admit that he will be used as a government witness.

Late in March McNamara wrote to Paul Morrin of the St. Louis local, asking him about the building of a bridge at Mt. Vernon, Ill. What the reply was is not known but on April 19 the machinery of the bridge company was dynamited and on May 9 Morrin wrote to McNamara that he had been to Mt. Vernon and his friend Coleman had taken him around to show where the eruption occurred. He added that "it seems that they don't want a recurrence of the affair, for I counted ten watchmen and a couple of others prowling around." Two days later McNamara wrote to Morrin:

"The McClintock company are having their troubles all along the line, according to reports. I judge from your letter their margin of profit at Mt. Vernon will be small after they get through paying guards. Over at Cleveland they admit being $50,000 to the bad on the viaduct and it is not half completed yet. Similiar reports are received from other points. In spite of it all they seem to round up big contracts and only today I heard they secured six thousand tons of steel for the Big Four shops in this city. I may be able to do something for you in the Mt. Carmel job. At any rate, I will try."

According to McManigal, Hockin acted often as paymaster and he complained that he did not always get the full amount of $200 and expenses that the executive board allowed for a dynamite job. In one of McNamara's letters to Hockin the latter is taken to task about the way he keeps his accounts and makes his reports. This letter reads in part:

"You say his expenses were $70 Brice's (James B. McNamara) expenses were $33.70. That would make $83.70 and $200 added to that would make $283.70, which would clean up the whole transaction with the exception of the $150 advanced, and you should have some definite understanding as to just what is to be done as far as that is concerned. I am enclosing check for $283.70. You can cash it and retain $133.70 for Brice." In the same letter he complains to Hockin about the way his accounts are kept and says that "one transaction should not be in connection with another, but each and every one should be settled up fully and clearly and not confused with anything in the future."

THE WEBB LETTERS.

The indictment charges that Frank Webb of New York wrote to McNamara on Jan. 28, 1909, asking that Hockin be sent on there to do a job and saying that Mike would furnish the finances. McNamara replied that he was having the proposition looked into but he wanted more details and Webb replied that the "job" is at the new operahouse on Huntington avenue, opposite the American League park. The idea was one or two derricks or more. They are all on the ground floor as yet, five in all. When I left there was no extra guard at the job. The Boston operahouse was dynamited by McManigal March 27, 1909. Mike, referred to in the letter is M. J. Young of Boston, one of the men now under indictment.

Under date of Feb. 28, 1909, Webb wrote to McNamara: "I took a look of the Hoboken job yesterday, the first good day I have had this month. The job is tied up for the present, waiting for foundation. Can't tell when they will start. Tarheel has two jobs in Jersey City for the La. both over a street, but in no shape to do anything with. They are taking down old work now which don't amount to much and to get it right it would have to be watched and worked at the proper time to make it a success. If you want to take a look, take a belt line car at the Pennsylvania ferry in Jersey City The job is on Pacific avenue in sight of the car. Might possibly be in shape while they are in the East."

McNamara wrote to Webb that he was taking steps to close up the two deals and trusted that it would be possible to make a success of both. On the same day, March 2, 1909, he wrote to Hockin: "I am enclosing you copy of communication from the New York end. Don't you think it about time to close these two deals up? I would suggest that you take the matter up immediately. If necessary go to Chicago and see the agent and have it understood that both transactions are to be closed up without further delay." Two days later Hockin wrote to McNamara that he would go to Chicago and asked for a check for $60. McManigal says that Hockin met him in Chicago, directed him to go to Boston and see Mike Young and then go to New York and see Webb. McManigal says he blew up the Boston operahouse on March 27 and four days later he did the job at Hoboken, N. J. He said Webb wanted operahouse on March 27 and four refused because he had no orders for them from Hockin.

It was at this stage in the dynamiting that McNamara and others became suspicious of McManigal and it seems that they were uneasy every time that the "individual," as he was called in much of the correspondence, did not make detailed reports of his movements. The delay in the Boston Operahouse and Hoboken jobs caused a great deal of uneasiness. Writing to Webb, McNamara voices this when he says: "I was at a loss to know what to think about these matters and was very uneasy until today. Ryan arrived at headquarters this morning and gave me some information that would lead me at least to believe that the individual is all right." In another letter McNamara seems to have become more uneasy. Writing to M. L. Pennell of the Springfield (Ill.) local, he says:

"I am surprised at your letter. That is all I care to say through the mails, for the Lord only knows who reads all the letters that come into this office and all that leave it."

HOW CAMPAIGN STARTED.

In December, 1909, the plans for an extensive dynamiting campaign were laid and the first work was to be done on work that Caldwell & Drake of this State had under contract. Just before Christmas, McNamara wrote to Charles Beum, member of the executive board, to go over to Omaha and look at the Courthouse which the firm was building. In the same letter he asked Beum to come to Indianapolis from Omaha so that he could talk over the situation at Ft. William, Duluth, Des Moines and Omaha. In a few months explosions occurred in these cities and the government has evidence that the plans were laid at that conference. Within a few days McNamara sent to Hockin, Clancy, Butler, Webb and Young, members of the board, a complete statement of all the work being done by McClintock & Marshall.

In one of the letters from Pennell, McNamara is advised that five carloads of steel and one hoisting engine had arrived for McClintock & Marshall and asked what should be done. In another letter there is a request that Hockin be sent to Springfield, as the Jeffries company has a contract for coal tipples and "if something is not done Local No. 46 will fall by the wayside." Both the McClintock and the Jeffries jobs were dynamited March 8, 1911. Letters also passed between Reddin and McNamara regarding the Heyl & Patterson job. This work was dynamited March 16, 1911, the damage being $50,000.

A letter which recalls the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times Building is from O. A. Tveitmoe, inclosing a check for $300 "for money advanced." The letter expressed the hope that Santa Claus would be as generous with surprises as he had been in the Golden State, and it is clear that the reference here is to the dynamiting of the Times Building, in which so many lives were cruelly sacrificed. It was to Tveitmoe that McNamara sent the Christmas present when he ordered the Llewellyn Iron Works destroyed.

The letters, nearly 200 of which are in the possession of the government, are from or about all the men indicted and the government is able to trace practically every job of dynamiting to an immediate or remote connection with them. In this connection the evidence of Ortie McManigal will be very important, for it will show that he received instructions in harmony with the letters and that he carried out these instructions to the letter and received pay for them. It is not generally known, but McManigal kept notes of many of his conversations with McNamara and with Hockin, Webb and Young, and others. These notes show his expense account from place to place, his hotel bills, his meeting with the local agents and the instructions that he received from them. They make such a chain of evidence in connection with the letters that the government does not believe it is possible not to secure convictions.

The jury from which the twelve men will be selected to try the dynamiters has been selected and will come from all parts of the State. It is composed of farmers and business men, and the list shows that there is not a man on it whose fitness can be questioned. Notwithstanding this, it has been scrutinized very closely both by the District Attorney and the attorneys for the defense, and it is believed that there will be some of the members of the panel who will be objected to by the defendants because they are connected with manufacturing and other industries and might be supposed to have prejudice against the defendants.

KERN EMPLOYED.

Senator Kern has recently been employed by the defense and is now going over the indictments and is frequently in consultation with the defendants. He and Newton W. Harling of this city will be the leading attorneys for the defendants, but it is thought that some of the defendants will bring lawyers from their own cities.

Ortie McManigal is expected to reach here some time next week and will be the star witness for the government. It is expected that he will make many disclosures that are not contained in his confession and that through Detective Burns the whole story of the tracing of the dynamiters and the location of the explosives will come out.

So complete has the government made its case that it is in possession of evidence showing practically all the purchases of dynamite from the time two years before McNamara's arrest, to his removal to Los Angeles; that he secured catalogues from the Trojan Powder Company and the National Powder Company, both of New York, and began the wholesale career of dynamiting that resulted in the destruction of more than $2,000,000 of property. It will be shown when and where these purchases were made, by whom they were made and on what roads they were shipped to the point where the explosives were used. The purchase of machines for the explosions of the dynamite and nitroglycerine are also known and those found in the basement under the iron-workers' offices in the Central Life building will be offered in evidence.

h Iron Ore Smelted With Electricity.

eat Deposits Have Been Worked but Little.

mand Is Keen for the Metal Produced.

EDDING (Cal.) Sept. 19.—After periments extending over a period seven years and expenditure of the sum of capital, the Heroult ctric iron furnace appears a demonstrated success. The single ace in commission is producing ten tons of high quality pig iron day and the management is erect- steel framework for the second . Other furnaces will be later ded and if everything culminates satisfactorily as indicated the blem of smelting California iron ore employing coal or coke will e been effectively solved.

ot only has the improved Her- plan demonstrated its ability to duce pig iron on a commercial e, but it is manufacturing gray , a feat that the iron makers of den have been unable to accom- h despite long years of patient t and research. The accom- hment of this work has elated Heroult management, as it means the iron immediately becomes aluable article of commerce with- the necessity of having it treated steel mills, as it is for most pur- es.

The Heroult smelter is owned and erated by the Noble Electric Steel mpany, numbering numerous thern California and Eastern ple among its stockholders. Pre- inary operations were commenced 1905, and active smelting was be- n in 1907. Dr. Heroult, the noted nch scientist, personally visited plant at its initial run.

s developments progressed it be- me evident that numerous altera- ns must be made to enable the nace to withstand the intense heat, under the supervision of Prof. F. Lyon the problem was slowly quered.

ecent work has been particularly dent and a keen demand prevails all the iron produced. It is stated with everything proceeding satis- torily the company is confident of ability to sell the product at about ton.

hout California vast de- sits of iron ore exist, but the ab- nce of coking coal has hitherto prevented the development of the on industry. With electricity proven n efficient substitute for coal it is rtain the iron beds will be ex- loited and a new industry of vast portance developed on the Pacific oast.

So impressive have recent develop- ments been at Heroult that the Noble ompany is said to have taken op- ions on some of the mammoth iron eposits in the Minaret district, Madera county, the largest deposits n the West. Near the Heroult melter large beds of magnetic iron re have been developed and a large onnage is available for immediate xtraction.

SAN DIEGAN BUYS MINE.

The famous old Landecker quarts property, near Placerville, has assed into the hands of S. G. Ames, the San Diego capitalist and real estate dealer. The purchase price is withheld but is said to run fairly rich. It is understood that several wealthy San Diegans are interested with Ames in the acquisition.

The Landecker years ago was one of the most noted producers in the El Dorado portion of the Mother Lode. It has been worked under several managements, but none of the companies had the courage to sink to depth after the fairly rich upper deposits had been exhausted.

The new owners plans to send the shaft deeper and to prosecute vigorous development at several points. In the old workings con- siderable milling ore is exposed, and with modern milling facilities it is believed the formerly neglected ores can be made to yield profits. Ames has carefully examined several properties in the Placerville district, and the Landecker was taken over only after a thorough considera- tion.

KEYSTONE GOING DEEP.

The main shaft of the Keystone mine, at Amador City, has reached the 1350-foot point and is being con- tinued to a depth of 2400 feet. It is estimated six months will be required for the consummation of this work, after which extensive lateral de- velopments will begin.

The management believes the rich ore bodies of the upper levels ex- tend to depth, and that crosscuts from the 2400-foot and upper levels will intersect the veins hundreds of feet below their present point of development. Strong interests are back of the Keystone and the new work is going forward steadily.

In the upper levels large quantities of low-grade ore are exposed, all of which is expected to yield good profits when on a large scale. The Keystone is one of the most celebrated mines in California, being credited with a production of over $11,000,000 from comparatively shallow workings. C. E. Downs is manager.

RICH QUARTZ IN HOMESTAKE.

The Homestake mine, near Snow- den, Siskiyou county, is compelling at- tention following the opening of rich shoots of ore. Some of the quarts is of phenomenal value, small por- tions of the shoot at times assay- ing $60,000 to the ton. The quarts is so rich and attractive that Siski- you county has purchased ore and specimens which will be exhibited at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

The vein ranges around four feet wide and has been opened about 200 feet in length. The main adit is in 500 feet with considerable lateral workings. A power ditch is being built and a water energy of 100-horse power will be developed. Arrange- ments have been made for the early erection of a five-stamp mill, having a capacity of fifteen tons per day. As all the ore is free milling there is no need to install costly milling equip- ment. J. F. Boyle is superintendent.

AT HIGH GRADE.

The Llewellyn Mining and Milling Company is arranging for early activ- ities at the Last Dollar group. Sur- face indications are particularly promising and the owners plan to sink to fair depth and prosecute work on a systematic scale. The property lies in one of the most favored sec- tions of the field and is considered to possess much promise. D. Samu- els, T. J. Jackson and other Los An- geles people are interested.

The Ft. Bidwell Consolidated Com- pany is operating the ten-stamp mill steadily on quartz from the Sugar Pine claim and demonstrating its abil- ity to affect a fair recovery of this somewhat refractory ore.

The Big Four mill is running on ore from this property and making a good recovery. The Sunshine reports intersecting rich quartz about twenty- seven feet from the adit portal. As- says run from $80 to $750 per ton, with the vein ranging six inches to two feet wide. The Modoc mines, Spearmint and several other com- panies are pushing work on an en- larged scale. The approach of fall has stirred operators to making pro- visions for the long winter season.

IMPOUNDING TAILINGS.

The South Eureka and Central Eureka companies have purchased land to be used as impounding grounds for their mill tailings. The farmers in Jackson valleys have been violently complaining against dis- charging the tailings into Sutter Creek, and the two companies have arranged to deposit the material else- where and thus avoid litigation. The tailings of both mills carry gold val- ues in a fine state, and it is probable that steps will be taken later for its recovery.

MINES SHOW PROMISE.

The Consolidated Mines Company is drifting and stoping on four levels of the Good Hope claim near Rands- burg, and is about to resume shaft sinking. Indications are stated to be particularly encouraging, with values holding up splendidly in the lowest workings. A crushing of sixty-eight tons of ore recently yielded $2700. It is reported promising ore has been intersected between the Galveston and Twin Brothers, two other claims of the Consolidated. It is understood the management is contemplating sinking a shaft at this point.

VALUABLE MINERAL FOUND.

Silica Deposit Near Lakeview Thought to Be Extensive—Yields Good Returns.

LAKEVIEW (Cal.) Sept. 17.—Large quantities of silica are being mined back of the Crystal Springs ranch on the hills south of Lakeview, from a deposit recently developed. From two to four cars of the mineral are being sent out each week from the Loyd siding, three miles east of Perris, each car carrying about twenty tons. The silica tests 90 per cent. glass, and brings from $3.50 to $5 a ton, cost- ing about $1.50 a ton to mine and load on the cars.

Although discovered about eight years ago by V. V. Stevens of Perris, it is only recently that the silica has been mined. At that time Stevens was prospecting for gold. He had specimens from the silica mine an- alyzed but as they showed neither gold nor copper, he thought them of no value. Recently he learned the value of the rock and filed on the mine again. It is now being operated on a royalty basis by Frank Trujillo of Perris.

Dynamite and picks are used to mine the deposits, and they are easily worked. Some of the output is shipped to Los Angeles, where it is made into glass, and a shipment is to go to San Francisco to be used in the manufac- ture of chemicals and drugs.

REPORT CASH SALES.

O. A. Vickrey & Co. report the sale of two lots on Fifty-fourth street, just west of Vermont, for J. E. Schieffelin to C. W. Robey, for a consideration of $2000. The property will be imme- diately improved. The sale of a lot on Micheltorena street near Sunset boulevard, for Minnie Gray Taylor to Ernestine L. Machold, for a consid- eration of $1500, is reported by the same company, as are also the sale of a residence and lot at No. 1051 Over- ton street for Lillie B. Meyers to Sterling N. Pierce for $6000 cash, and the purchase by Mrs. Frank Haas from Mr. Ferris of a house and lot at No. 1132 Arapahoe for a consider- ation of $6000 cash.

INSPIRATION BRANCHING OUT.

Employing More Hands for New Work.

Miami Company's Payroll Is Very Large.

Historical Property to Be Again Developed.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Sept. 20.—About 800 men are now employed by the Inspiration Company, and the number is being increased weekly. Mine de- velopment is being pushed through five shafts and a couple of tunnels, and two main working shafts are be- ing sunk. The plans for the com- pany's 7500-ton concentrator are be- ing worked out in detail for the con- structing force, and a number of large buildings are being erected, including a dormitory and a messhouse.

The reclamation service has a force in the field surveying for the transmis- sion line which is to bring to the In- spiration plant 7500 kilowatts of pow- er from the Roosevelt Dam. As no guarantee is in the contract calling for continuous power the company will erect an emergency steam plant capable of handling the load should the electrical supply cease from any cause.

At the Miami Company's mill and mines about 1000 names are on the payroll. During the past month were produced 4222 tons of 38 per cent. concentrates, with about 70 per cent. of recovery from 97,890 tons of ore mined, this representing about 2,900,- 000 pounds of fine copper.

About 30 per cent. of the ore was secured in the course of development work and further exploration of the ground is progressing with the aid of two churn drills, operated in the northeastern claims of the company. Additions to the boiler plant gives steam for an aggregate 2400 horse power. The company's old No. 2 shaft has been abandoned, due to the cav- ing of the workings below, a condi- tion expected and provided for.

The Iron Cap mine near Globe, has developed into an ore shipper, having sent to the Old Dominion smelter a car of iron oxide running about 8 per cent. in copper. This ore is from a four-foot chute found on the 650- foot level, 120 feet east of the Wil- liams shaft. Another drift has been started on the 800 level to cut the same ore body.

The Iron Cap is a property once considered of the highest promise, situated in the very heart of one of the most highly mineralized sections of this district, but the sinking of an expensive shaft to cut a great surface showing on the dip did not seem to materialize quite up to the hopes of its promoters. Locally there is no doubt that the property has within it large deposits of copper and there is belief that the new strike when fol- lowed up will lead to large things. The company is fortunate also in owing about the only ground in the locality upon which a townsite can be placed for the benefit of the many surrounding mines.

Bringing out reminiscenses of early days is the announcement that the old Mack Morris mine in Richmond Basin, eight miles northwest of Globe, is again to be worked. The property is now owned by the White Metal De- velopment Company, which has begun cleaning out the 200-foot level, the work being slow and difficult due to the caving of works that have been unoccupied for about thirty years.

In the pioneer days of this camp, when a dozen silver mills were in operation, and Mack Morris, Stone- wall Jackson and Silver Nugget were the richest of all. The first named outlasted the others, but finally, in 1882, sesemed to have reached its end, under the expensive and crude min- ing and milling methods of the time, to which had to be added the expense of freighting supplies 150 miles through the Indian country, from Will- cox station on the Souuthern Pacific.

It was said at the time that the last bullion shipments from the mill had been richer by the addition of many Mexican dollars, their purchase charged up to expense. The manager of the property started east by way of San Francisco and leaped from the train into the great gorge of Cape Horn in the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

The president of the company then made an investigation. He came up from an inspection of the mine and immediately ordered out every work- man. Then with his own hands he firmly nailed two-inch planking over the shaft and announced that the Mack Morris had closed down for ever. But his prophecy has not held good and by modern methods it is hoped that the lower-grade ores may be made profitable and that new de- posits of the white metal may be found by intelligent extension of the old workings, which were at com- paratively shallow depth.

Tonopah.

KEYSTONE MINE CHANGES HANDS.

LOS ANGELES PEOPLE SAID TO BE OWNERS NOW.

Property Was Abandoned Because of Difficulty in Treating Ore, Which Carries Good Silver Values. Large Shipments of Bullion from Belmont Mill.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) Sept. 19.—The Keystone group of claims in the Rat- tlesnake canyon district changedhands this week through the medium of J. A. Hillyer of this city and E. A. Ed- wards of Los Angeles. The associates of the latter are not known at this time, but they are said to include some of the leading business men of the Angel City. It is claimed that over $30,000 worth of ore is lying on the dump awaiting treatment.

The property is situated seventy- five miles northeast of Tonopah, and it is one of the oldest in Nevada, but the ore proving refractory and not amenable to the processes in vogue twenty years ago when most ores were shipped via San Pedro to Swansea, Wales, for reduction, the mine was abandoned.

The ore carries good values, with silver predominating, and it is simply a question of treatment for the new owners to master. It is alleged that the metal will yield to cyanide.

The second consignment of bullion for the month of September from the Belmont mill consisted of forty-seven bars, having a combined weight of 80,466 ounces, valued at slightly bet- ter than 76 cents an ounce, owing to the gold content, making a value of $61,155. The third consignment ag- gregated 118,372 ounces, valued at $90,000. There were no matreial changes except a continuance of the immense ore bodies on the 700 and 1000 levels.

Developments on the North Star have resulted in an improvement on the 850 and 1250-foot levels. On the vein recently cut on the former level drifting and rising is being vigorous- ly prosecuted on from two to three feet of ore averaging more than $35 a ton. The work in the two levels yielded a carload of the rock, which is being sent to the old Belmont mill at Millers. It is expected to make this shipment twice a week.

On the 1250 level the south cross- cut near the west boundary line of the Belmont has penetrated the hanging wall of what is apparently a big ledge, about a foot of which gives good assay returns. The discovery is thought to be an extension of one of the Belmont veins, and will be ex- plored with a drift in the event that no more important finds are revealed in the crosscut in the meantime.

On the 600-foot level of the Wan- dering Boy shaft of the Jim Butler a promising looking but broken body of quartz has been disclosed, as men- tioned last week, and the prospects for a permanent ore shoot grows bet- ter with each day's work. The find has penetrated to a distance of about ten feet, and in the minds of many men the ore will resolve itself into a solid body, bringing back the old (Nev.) Sept. 20.—at the Goldfield Hotel involving the transproperty of the Mining Company to the Southwestwere perfected. James and Howard owned control since was organized. stock interest, assume all the of the old company, are at the head of Mines Company are mining throughout the E. E. Eshleman, R. F. Theriditsen is of the Sterling Borax Comalso a director and manager of the big Tonopah Mines Company the mill of the Homeat Gateway near Rhyolite, will be moved to the erected shortly. From the discovery the Great Westwas considered one of the of the districts Mr. Brady will director of general manJim Aylward is slated for superintendency. The mill of the Mines Company will soon be run, and this, it is believed significant activity in other in the Bullfrog district is tributary to the Bernalliver district, other district and all travel and supplies from this camp.

Interest is being manifested in mining men and others in the line of discoveries of potash deposits in this part of the State, and several locations are striving to secure options on ground near that which was filed upon by Joseph Lee and his associates. E. M. Ross, one of the pioneer mining men of the Goldfield district and president of the Old Kaintuck Mining company, has been in Death Valley for some time with James Reynolds, also of Goldfield, and reports the finding of potash salts in the water of the lake below the bed of the lake. The fine below the level of the lake. Tests of this water yielded 25 per cent. of the soluble salts, which is said to be better result than is shown at the surface of the lake in San Bernardino county.

Reynolds and his partner went into Death Valley on August 23 with two burros and five burros, all laden with bags containing all the water they could be carried, and while in the midst of the horses died of heat. They drove in a wagon to the edge of the valley sink and could only go into this veritable hell at night. The heat during the day is intolerable, a thermometer registering 140 degrees in the shade. It is said that eggs left on the sand in the sun are cooked as nicely as in boiling water.

Prospectors along the border of the lake on the higher ground, claim to be worked to advantage, and quantities of ore that can be worked at a profit upon the completion of the proposed railroad, which is to be built from a point on the Santa Fe and Tidewater to the shores of the valley, and it is believed that the county will become an important factor in the production of silver and gold ores in the future.

Reynolds, manager of the Florence Mines Company, announces that he is shipping high-grade ore, a smelting ore, and shipments have already reached good volume. This product runs $200 per ton or better. Ore of this grade now exposed more than two feet in width, and this is but one of several important announcements that have come from the Florence property for many months, and it is said that this famous mine may be about to come back to its former fame as one of the foremost producers of the country. This property was opened some time ago on the 600-foot level, at a point about 1,000 feet south of the shaft. Manager Reynolds reports that excellent ore is being secured on the 600-foot level, and there are indications of a large tonnage of good milling ore ahead.

Development of importance have been made in the Diamondfield Black Eagle during the past few days. The principal work is in the hands of Pat Crowley, one of the best known miners of the district, and the sampling has not been confined to high-grade ore in the new workings, but at the bottom of the shaft, a new vein was cut a short time ago, and a drift run in virgin ground, with the result that ore of a shipping grade was opened up. Ore containing gold has been exposed yielding values of $146, and showing over a width that averages by conservative estimate around $53 a ton. The Diamondfield company has put on an extra shift at the east end under Turner's direction and will proceed with all possible speed.

Favorable reports have been received to the effect that the past week's developments in the workings of the Mohican Big Four's mine have been of a sensational character and the value of ore that has been encountered is said to be but little less than from the richest chute in the average value of the entire deposit. Plans for the erection of the Big Four mill will be carried to completion as quickly as possible, and the mill machinery has been ordered. The ore is a free-milling product and can be treated at comparatively small cost. The Big Four mill, with a hoisting capacity of 100,000 gallons daily from the 600-foot head, has been installed, the station at the bottom of the shaft is finished and is now in operation.

Manager Pustech will leave within a few days to inspect the property on which he and his associates are constructing at Jamestown, nine miles south of Antelope, and about 30 miles east of Goldfield. Important development was made on this property last week and Pustech is making an excellent showing. Pustech and his partners are operating at this point for several years, and believe they are about to be well rewarded.

Active development is about to be resumed on the property of the Randolph Gold Mining Company, in the Gold Mountain district, about thirty-five miles south of Goldfield. George M. Hunter, who has been connected with the company for some years, will have charge of the new operations.

Sheriff W. A. Ingalls left this morning with provisions and supplies for the men who are at work on the mining claims owned by himself and associates between the camps of Antelope and Jamestown.

James Golden, Charles Woodruff, Charles Lee and many others who are leasing in the Klondyke district, between this camp and Tonopah have exposed ore of shipping grade, and the camp is prosperous beyond expectations.

Drifts are now being driven northwest and southeast, at a depth of 320 feet, from the shaft of the Lone Star Consolidated, and machine drills are employed in the work, insuring success. This ground is now regarded as the most promising prospect in the inside zone of the Goldfield district.

The Tonopah ore shipments for the past week were as follows: Tonopah Mining Company, 3250 tons; Belmont, 3110 tons; Montana-Tonopah, 1034 tons; Tonopah Extension, 1071 tons; West End, 815 tons; MacNamara, 465 tons; Jim Butler, 300 tons; North Star, forty tons; total 10,205 tons of an estimated value of $225,125.

FIND RICH ORE IN TWIN BUTTES.

WAVE OF ACTIVITY SWEEPS MINING SECTION.

Valuable Sulphide Secured from Glance Mine—Owners of Plumed Knight Undecided Between More Trucks or a Railroad for Transporting Their Output.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Sept. 20.—During the past few months there has been a remarkable development of the mining section lying immediately to the southward of this city. The latest is within the village of Twin Buttes, where a ledge has been found twelve feet wide, sampling 12 per cent. copper, though assays of 27 per cent. have been secured. The find was made at the depth of forty feet, at the side of an old sixty-foot shaft sunk by a former owner, in the course of cutting out a station. The claim is owned by the Pioneer Smelting Company and lies only 200 feet from the Twin Buttes Railroad.

Ore is being sent to the smelter from the Glance mine, a property which has been inactive for six years and which is now being re-equipped. The mine, owned by the same interests as the smelter, has added importance through its bodies of sulphide ore, needed badly in the local smelting processes.

Under the same ownership is the Plumed Knight mine, seven miles from the smelter, to which it is furnishing ore by means of a large motor truck at a cost of 70 cents a ton. The owners are considering whether to add a couple more trucks or to build a connecting railroad. The ore is a self-fluxing sulphuret, running between 3½ and 10 per cent. copper.

The Morgan property is making heavy ore shipments to the smelter and the ores from the Austerlitz and other Santa Cruz county mines is to be diverted from the El Paso works to those of the Pioneer Company. Plans are therefore under way to increase the capacity of the local smelter from 150 to 200 tons a day.

A carload of ore a day is being shipped to El Paso from the Three R mine near Patagonia, a property lately sold by R. R. Richardson to N. L. Amster of the Shannon and Arizona Commercial Copper Companies. In charge of the property is W. S. Sultan of Globe, who has seventy men employed, with six machine drills at work on development. The main vein is forty feet in width at several points where cross cut.

Three miles west of the Three R property is the Bradford mine, lately purchased of the Perry estate by the Copper Queen Company. Development work is in progress and occasional shipments of carbonate ore are being made. It is understood that $75,000 was paid for the claims.

Pumps have been started for the unwatering of the 400-foot shaft of the San Xavier mine near Tucson, a property once known as one of the largest local producers of lead, silver and zinc. It is now under examination by A. W. Forbes, representing eastern capitalists who have an option upon it.

The troubles of the new enforced semi-monthly pay day and of the order system dear to Mexican employees have been obviated at Courtland by establishing a weekly pay day.

T. H. Minor, a Bakersfield oil operator, is inspecting mining property in the Arivaca district, in which he is interested with Max Junghandel.

STUDY OF FLY LIFE.

Experiment to Determine How the Insects Survive the Winter and Method of Hibernation.

[Washington Star:] Dr. Arthur L. Murray of the Health Department, will conduct a series of experiments to determine why certain members of the germ-spreading species are able to hibernate during winter and bring on another season's fly population.

Much has been learned of the fly and its habits which has made extermination of the insects on a large scale possible, but, so far, scientists and sanitarians have been unable to explain why a limited number of the pests are able to live through cold weather. The only theory that has been advanced is that some of the insects are endowed with hardier constitutions, but it is by no means certain that this is the reason.

The result of Dr. Murray's experiments will be awaited with interest by the scientific world. He will make both indoor and outdoor investigations. The claim has been made that some flies manage to hibernate out of doors by seeking refuge in the ground, and Dr. Murray will endeavor to ascertain whether such is the case.

For the purpose of the experiment Dr. Murray will construct large traps in which the insects will be kept for observation. Food will be supplied the prisoners. The effect of cold weather on them will be carefully observed, and the flies that survive will be subjected to tests of every kind in the hope that the reason of their ability to withstand the cold may be discovered.

The experiment, if successful, may pave the way to complete eradication of flies. The insects which compose each season's survival of the fittest class are few. When their peculiar constitutional qualities are better understood it will be possible to make more effective onslaughts on them. In fact, many scientists believe that the time to strike a death blow at the fly family is in autumn or early spring, when there are but a few of the insects to be destroyed, and Dr. Murray's investigations may throw considerable light on the feasibility of the plan.

NATIONAL CHARITY.

BY NEETA MARQUIS.

It is interesting to learn that modern charity, which aims to cure poverty and dependency as well as to relieve distress and suffering, was founded by an old Scotch clergyman, the famous Dr. Thomas Chalmers of St. John's Parish, Glasgow. It was in the early part of the nineteenth century, when English ways of administrating charity were just being introduced into Scotland. Dr. Chalmers, being convinced that the State method was "inefficient, expensive and blighting in its influence on the poor," brought his Scotch thrift and independence to bear on the situation and, securing exemption for his parish from State administration, he proceeded to district it, place a deacon in charge of each district, and then personally train the deacons in their duties as overseers and guardians of the poor. There was no laziness or deception encouraged in that parish, for what money they had was religiously safeguarded. "There was not much to get in St. John's Parish, and it was not easy to get it." But personal and friendly encouragement to self-help were given without stint. "Not alms, but a friend," became the shibboleth of the administration. And so well do these words voice the spirit of modern practical benevolence that they have become the slogan of organized charity the Christian world over.

Dr. Chalmers left a record of his work and methods in his lectures and addresses, and nearly half a century later a new movement was inaugurated in London based on the same principles. The London Society for Organizing Charity was the result, and that society has grown and branched and taken fresh root until it has spread, banyan-like, over the entire United Kingdom, the colonies, and throughout the United States. Their year book for 1912, which has just been received by our local organization, contains a list of 469 separate societies, including one each in Turkey, Hawaii and Egypt.

The first society in the United States was organized in Buffalo in 1877 by a minister who was acquainted with the work in London. Other American cities followed in quick succession, until now there are nearly 400—one in practically every city of over 10,000 inhabitants in the United States.

Associated charity is essentially for application to city problems. It is an organization of the city conscience in relation to the social evils which present themselves wherever men are congregated in great numbers. In small towns and country districts the community sense is already strong, and mutual interest and personal knowledge are sympathetic and intimate. But in the city there has to be an especially appointed and credentialled band of educated workers to cope intelligently and efficiently with the complicated problems in distress and poverty which present themselves.

A little over a year ago, in June, 1911, the various city organizations reached the point of a permanent national organization. Although there had been, for years previous, national conferences of sociological workers, the time came when only by systematic national co-operation of all the scattered societies could the best results be obtained. The National Organization, membership in which costs the individual society only $10 a year in dues, was fathered and brought to successful accomplishment through the earnest and untiring efforts of the Charity Organizing Department of the Russell Sage Foundation, the institution which has fostered the greater part of the most scientific sociological work in the United States. It has as its field secretary, Francis H. McLean, one of the best-known sociological workers and writers on the continent, and it has its own telegraphic code and transportation rules, in order to regulate the transportation of indigent persons, who were formerly irresponsibly "passed on" to get rid of them, regardless of the fact that such persons had no claim on the community to which they were being sent. Thus, a national conscience has been added to the civic conscience in the treatment of the poor problem.

The National Society is organized on the Y.M.C.A. model, which so phenominally successful as to have now 3000 associations where in 1854 it had but twenty-six, is looked upon as the most practical. The field secretary and financial secretary are the only salaried officers in the organization. This arrangement is similar to that of the individual societies, in which all the officers except the secretary in active charge of the work serve without pay. There are office assistants, of course, as the work demands, but these are not officers, nor do they draw officers' salaries. Thus, an ancient joke about the charity society money which goes in handsome sums to everybody except the object of charity is seen to lose its keen point.

September Days Are Days of Gold In The Big Pines

Days of golden sunrises and golden sunsets, of golden leaves and sparkling mountain air as exhilarating as the golden wines drawn from the vineyards of this golden state, offer a wealth of health to the purchasers of half-acre homesites in the Big Pines, where discriminating people of Los Angeles and other California cities are establishing a bungalow town which combines the delights of living close to nature with all the modern conveniences.

At the City's Gate

The Big Pines all-year-around resort is located at the head of Swarthout Canyon in the Sierra Madre Mountains and is within four hours' railway ride of Los Angeles via the Santa Fe to Grava Station and thence over the trackless trolley right-of-way of the Lone Pine Utilities Company direct to the site of the log cabin hotel which is to occupy a 15-acre plot in the center of the tract.

Lots Selling Rapidly

Half-acre building sites in The Big Pines are meeting with a ready sale at $300 and up and are deeded to you under an iron-clad contract that absolutely prohibits the felling of all live timber and the erection of more than one bungalow on a lot, thereby insuring privacy and elbow room to every resident and the preservation of the natural charms of wooded slopes and shadowed aisles of pine and cedar.

A large number of the lots on the Big Pines Bungalow Townsite have already been sold but opportunity yet presents itself, if taken advantage of at once, to secure choice locations at prices disproportionately low considering the sublime panoramic view they command.

Fraction ledge, or an extension of a parallel to the west end vein.

An important development in the Tonopah Extension has been the exposure on the 500-foot level of from one to three feet of black sulphides freely impregnated with native and brittle silver in advancing stope No. 504. Second in importance to this is the marked improvement in the Rainbow stope on the same level, which has been carried up to the 400-foot level, with an immense tonnage of good milling ore exposed.

The report of the Tonopah Mining Company for August shows net earnings for the month amounting to $129,348; 14,420 dry tons were milled of an average value of $17.78. Gold and silver bullion weighing 236,500 ounces and valued at $196,100, were shipped, as were sixty-two tons of concentrates, worth $31,000. According to the report from the mill, ninety-six stamps of the 100 were kept dropping during the week, crushing 3378 tons of ore, of an average value of $19.63, with an extraction of 90 per cent., yielding $48,000.

RAIN SPOILS RACE MEETING.

Vanderbilt Battle Date Is Changed to October.

Tetzlaff in Fiat and De Palma in Mercedes Favorites.

Cheers for California Ring from Grand Stand.

BY ATTORNEY E. E. HEWLETT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANDERBILT CUP RACE COURSE, MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Heavy rain prevented the cars from starting in the Vanderbilt cup race today.

Ralph de Palma in the Mercedes and Teddy Tetzlaff in the Fiat are the favorites in the Vanderbilt cup race and in the grand prize. Tetzlaff and Bruce Brown are the ones picked out. Tetzlaff in the Fiat "Seventy" made the fastest time on the wet course and when there was a possibility of the cars starting this afternoon, he proved to be a strong public choice.

One of the sensations of the course was sprung today when Tetzlaff and his mechanician appeared on the course in black sweaters on which was written in white letters "Los Angeles, 1915." This seemed to catch the fancy of the throng and the men were cheered to the echo. The crowd was enthusiastic and there is every reason to believe that we can have a big race out in Los Angeles two years hence.

Three cheers for California sounded good from the grand stand. There are many road race fans who would be ready and willing to make the trip across the continent for a big race in Los Angeles. The racing spirit was never stronger and judging from the crowd even in the rain, motor racing is a sport that has the largest following of anything which now interests the sporting public.

The Vanderbilt cup race course is dangerous. The rain has made it more so. There is a possibility that the battle will be fought on Monday, but we may have to wait even longer. In the meantime, the men are trying out carefully and occasionally a fast lap is turned. Seems to me that Tetzlaff is driving faster and better than he ever did before and I can say as much for De Palma and Bruce Brown.

This race has developed into a fierce fight between the fastest cars on any course. When the machines are sent away in the Vanderbilt and grand prize races it will mean something to win those trophies. Tetzlaff will take no chances. He is watching his car night and day. Each of the other drivers are also on edge every minute and are in perfect training for the race of their lives.

BARNEY FOR PHOENIX.

READY FOR RECORDS.

Following is a telegram received from Barney Oldfield last night regarding the Phoenix road race:

HUTCHINSON, (Kas.) Sept 21—[Bert Smith, Automobile Editor of The Times:] Would like to race at Phoenix meet providing satisfactory arrangements can be made. Think I could surely break world's record on the Phoenix track providing they have an electrical timer that would be acceptable to the A.A.A. Have had the most successful season in my entire career, both in speed and gate receipts. Am driving faster than ever. Will surely regain all my short-distance records on first track that is suitable.

RACES CALLED OFF FOR TWO WEEKS.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The Vanderbilt cup series of automobile races was this afternoon postponed for two weeks.

This decision was reached at a meeting of the automobile dealers' association followed by a meeting of the drivers. The Vanderbilt cup race will be held on October 2; the Wisconsin challenge and Pabst trophey races on October 3 and the Grand Prix on Saturday, October 5.

HERRICK MAY DRIVE CASE LOS ANGELES-PHOENIX RACE

Hamlin, the Air-Cooled Favorite, Ready to Start in the Big Motor Classic, and Wagner Wires that De Palma and Mulford Are Ready to Start Their Cars Over the Sands in Fierce Battle for Western Track Honors.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

WILL Harvey Herrick enter the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race? This is the question that may be answered this week. Herrick is stripping a Case car. He admitted yesterday that he would like to start.

The Case racer he has stripped looks every inch a speedster. Herrick knows just what he needs for the desert grind and he is paying strict attention to the work that is being done on the car. As a result he expects to have a ninety-mile-an-hour Case ready for action.

What will Herrick do with the Case when it is out of the shop this week?

He will drive the car over the roads to Phoenix. Why, of course, this does not mean that he will enter the race, but when you look at the gleam in Harvey's eye it is a good guess that the winner of two Phoenix road race will be at the wheel of a Case this year.

Wild Bill Ruess may be in the speed battle. His challenge to race a certain driver for $5000 a side has created considerable comment and Bill is ready to back up the challenge with the money. He will stake his Pope-Hartford against any car this driver decides to handle. Bill is in fine shape and is fretting to get into a speed contest like the Phoenix road race.

With Ruess at the wheel of a Pope-Hartford the Phoenix road race would be one of the most attractive speed battles ever pulled off. Each year Bill has come up to the scratch, but has hesitated just before signing the entry blank. Not that he is penurious, far from it, but Bill likes to be at least half way sure of a victory. Now, he is ready to race one man at least.

BRIGHT STARS.

Ralph de Palma plans to enter the track races at Phoenix after the great road race. Caley Bragg and Ralph Mulford also expect to ship their cars out there for the race. Teddy Tetzlaff is almost certain to start in the road race and will then figure in the track events with a larger Fiat car. Hughie Hughes will enter the road race in a Mercer.

This is the news flashed over the wire last night by Fred Wagner, starter of the Vanderbilt cup race at Milwaukee. According to Wagner the Los Angeles-Phoenix road race this year is attracting attention throughout the East. He says all of the big race drivers are anxious to get into the classic but the most of them favor the track events in preference to the road race. There is a reason for this.

AIR-COOLED RALPH.

Ralph Hamlin will be in the road race. He has determined to enter the Franklin six-cylinder and he is about to strip the air-cooled beauty for the sand-digging stunt. Hamlin was never in better shape for a race. He is out to win this year and is keeping his word that he will start again this year. He will certainly make a strong bid for first place and is sure to start as one of the favorites if not the favorite.

Don Lee has decided to enter another Cadillac. This means two classy thirty-horse-power Cadillac cars in the big race. Don will go to Phoenix to watch the finish. He has been nettled ever since the Cadillac failed to make the showing Don was satisfied his thirty-horse-power racer could make last year. This time he is out to win.

The prize money is up. John S. Mitchell of the Hollenbeck Hotel says $5200 is in the bag for this speed battle. This means the largest purse ever offered for the race. Towns all along the route are offering purses for the race and in order to win all or any of them the cars must finish at Phoenix. There is $2800 up for the track races.

ANOTHER CADILLAC.

Don Lee announced yesterday that he would enter another Cadillac in the Phoenix race. This second Cadillac is to be driven by Charles Soules, one of the best-known race drivers in the country, while William Bramlette was named by Lee as the driver of the first car to be entered for the race.

This announcement by the California Cadillac distributor means that two of the best drivers to be found will pilot a pair of strong contenders for honors in the great desert classic. As a desert road driver Bramlette has a great reputation, and while Soules has won his fame on the track, he should show well in the Phoenix run and be a valuable addition to the track events at Phoenix later.

Bramlette and Soules are now on the course in one of the 1913 cars. They will drive over the road in easy fashion for the purpose of teaching the course to Soules. Bramlette is quite familiar with the road, but during the next month Soules expects to spend much of his time on the Ocean-to-Ocean Highway, preparing for the race.

It will be about three weeks before Soules goes over the course in the car in which he will drive in the race. Bramlette will drive his own Cadillac and have entire charge of the car in the race.

Experts say that this will be the fastest Phoenix race ever run. The Cadillacs are expected to do better than seventy miles an hour on the good stretches and the other cars which are to be driven over the desert will be tuned up to a high pitch, as well.

Fred Fuller is out with the National driving over the sands and preparing himself or a fierce grind. He will be one of the puzzles of this great race. With Earle Y. Boothe to keep a watchful eye over him, Fuller is doing consistent work with the speedy car, and when he starts, he will at least know the course from here to the heart of Arizona.

The Buick is entered. The entrance fee was posted last week. Louis Nikrent is the driver. This classy car, which won the race the first year, will be sent into the battle stripped for action and the driver will be prepared for a race that should make every driver at least remember the Buick was in the contest. Nikrent is planning to drive over the sands in a few days to try out his car.

John Tiedemann will never win any popularity contests in this city. A vast majority of our people seem to dislike John. Several thousand of them put in most of yesterday afternoon booing him. One of them, a fan in the left field bleachers, engendered so much dislike for John that he tried to bounce a pop bottle off his head. Every man in that section of the bleachers claimed the honor. Just about the time that the Oakland players seemed inclined to crawl over the gate a poke at someone, a policeman appeared, and prying one of the bleacher people off his rough plank, escorted him from the park. This was done largely for the moral effect which it would have on others with pop bottles on their persons. The ejected gent returned later.

Tiedemann's particular crime yesterday consisted of getting away with an interference stunt behind Umpire Newhouse's back at second in the fifth inning.

RED HOT GAME.

Talf about the grand old game with trouble trimmings! Washington-street Park was a red-hot cauldron for two and a half hours yesterday afternoon. The Oaks hooked more morsels out of the seething mass than did the Tigers, and won, 10 to 5, making it even up on the series. The Tigers tried to chew up Newhouse, and the Oaks attempted to masticate Hildebrand. At the same time, the Oaks were biting big chunks out of the reputations of two Vernon heavers. They stormed Roy Castleton from the hill with a three-run outburst in the second inning. The remainder of the afternoon they amused themselves batting John Brackenridge around the lot. Believe me, they hit that ball with rare abandon.

Every man on the Oakland team hit it one or more times. Collectively, they hit it nineteen times. Even old "Bill" Malarkey, not content with holding the Tigers to seven hits, hacked off a double, two singles and a sacrifice in five trips to the bingle bin. Patterson pocketed four hits, and Coy and Hetling coined three each. Because he got only two hits, Leard claimed an alibi in the shape of a batting slump.

Roy Brashear was Vernon's cladding sticksmith, with a batting miscellany consisting of a double and a home run. In the eighth inning he drove the ball into a mesh of electric wires above the left field fence. The sphere hung in midair until Brashear had reached second, and then dropped down inside the park. Umpire Hildebrand waved Brashear on around the circuit, claiming that the ball would have cleared the stockade but for the wires. The Oakland players swarmed in from the field, and held a war dance with Hilde as the centerpiece. It took quite a spell for him to shoo them off.

But to return to John Tiedemann.

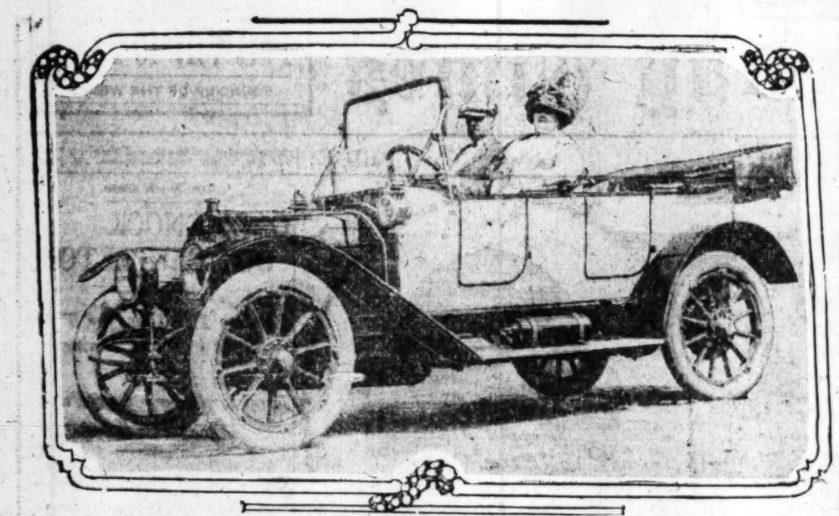
GREAT FACTORY NUMBER OF PINK SHEET EARLY IN OCTOBER.

ON or about the first Sunday in October, The Times will issue a special Automobile Factory Number of the Pink sheet.

After his epoch-making trip across the continent in behalf of the National Highway, Bert C. Smith, automobile editor of The Times, took occasion to visit the homes of all the big motor cars. In this special number he will describe his visits to these centers of industry and tell something of the men who are turning out America's greatest machines.

Every other special number of The Times Pink sheet has been copied by the other papers in this city; but sometimes they haven't found out until the last minute and have had to dash around in a fierce frenzy.

This will give them all plenty of warning, and prevent them bursting blood vessels by over-exertion at the eleventh hour. Even if we do get the ideas first, we are humane by nature.



S. F. Wiles and Wife of Imperial, in Their New Moon "40."

Mrs. Wiles raised the first cotton crop in the State and is now well known throughout the United States as the California cotton queen, having 640 acres in cotton in the Imperial Valley.

COTTON QUEEN DRIVES MOON.

Nervy Driver to Cover Imperial Valley Roads.

Intrepid Chauffeuse to Make Novel Overland Run.

Lone Star Ranch Owner Now Deals in Planets.

S. F. Wiles, of Imperial Valley fame, purchased a Moon "40" for his wife last week, and Mrs. Wiles expects to drive the car back to the valley when they tour down some time this week.

Mrs. Wiles is well-known throughout the United States as the first woman to grow cotton in California. A native of California, she has spent much of her time in and around Los Angeles, where she has a host of friends.

It was after the marriage of her daughters that Mrs. Wiles accompanied her husband to the desert, and it was while he was in the east on a business trip, that she undertook the culture of cotton.

"I am enthusiastic over the future of the Imperial Valley," said Mrs. Wiles. "Having regained my health, I owe more to the valley than if I had merely lived there. We spend our winters there and come to the coast for the summer. There is no more delightful climate to be found anywhere, than in our valley for eight months of the year. Many eastern people come out to Imperial for the winter and it is becoming more and more popular as a winter resort."

"While I love Los Angeles," continued Mrs. Wiles, "I have great hopes for the future of the Imperial Valley. I can remember when I was offered acreage on West Pico street, between Vermont and Western, for $250 an acre. I was advised not to invest, as Los Angeles was only a boom town and could not ever amount to anything. My advisers were not exactly correct in their predictions and I believe the growth of the city will not stop till it reaches from the mountains to the sea.

"The possibilities of Imperial Valley have not been uncovered. It has been developed wonderfully, but there are greater things to come. There are many 'doubting Thomas' people, you know and they can not see it, but the time will come when they will say about the valley as I have so many times said about Pico Heights. Why didn't I."

Mrs. Wiles believes that cotton growing is the coming industry in the valley and they expect to get more land this season and raise more cotton than ever before. It is expected that there will be nothing raised on the Wiles ranch this coming season but long staple cotton. The spinners rent the seed out for experimental purposes and Mrs. Wiles says that the Imperial soil is the most wonderful in the United States, for the raising to this long staple cotton.

It is said that this grade clears $100 per acre and costs no more, requires no more water, no more labor and no more cultivation to produce. The short staple cotton brings but $50 per acre and the Imperial Valley growers, it is said, are going into the long staple industry extensively and will have thousands of acres planted.

In speaking of her new Moon car, Mrs. Wiles said, "It seems that we are dealing in planets. Our ranch is known as the Lone Star, we have a Moon motor car and to make it complete, the sun, moon and stars, my son does the driving at present.

"We tried out several cars and decided that the Moon was the car we wanted for service on the desert. I liked the comfortable easy riding qualities and the engine seemed to be powerful. When Mr. Wiles came out and said he had bought the car I was delighted. I feel that the car will do well in Imperial. There are a great many automobiles there now and some are doing much better work than others, but I believe our Moon will prove just as good as any. I want a car for touring, for hard service on the road and for business purposes as well."

This will not be the first Moon to go into the valley as Walter Hawk, the old Los Angeles High School football captain, who now owns a ranch near Holtville, has a Moon roadster. The car has been driven for several months and does not show the effects of the hard use to which it has been put in anyway. Hawk is in the city with his car now, having driven in for the summer. He will drive down when he returns to his home the latter part of this month.

Automobiles are hurting the street-car company in St. Louis, according to James Campbell, president of the North American Company, which controls the United Railways Company. The recent financial statement of the United Railways showed a falling off in receipts, which Campbell attributed to the increasing use of the automobile.

Need of More of Them.

OVERLAND DEALERS WANT MORE MACHINES THIS YEAR.

THAT the Overland company struck a popular chord in offering a thirty-horse-power, five-passenger, completely-equipped touring car at a low price is vividly demonstrated by the attitude of Overland dealers in increasing their 1912 allotments from 25 to 100 per cent. Dealers of the country know the popular pulse beats of the public so far as motor car value is concerned and their attitude in demanding an increase in cars is evident that the Overland for next season is dollar-for-dollar value.

Among the important improvements of the thirty-horse-power car are improved brakes, which are larger and more powerful; a three-quarter floating rear axle with Hyatt bearings; lengthening the wheelbase to 110 inches, lengthening the engine hood, nickel plating all bright parts, enameled radiator, larger tonneau, Timken roller bearings on front axle and other refinements which make for comfort, durability and "standup-iveness."

Following his recently-adopted policy of banishing the yearly model bugaboo in connection with Overland motor cars, President John N. Willys will also apply this policy to Garford cars.

Garford and Overland cars will in the future be manufactured each working day in the year just as any staple product is manufactured. President Willys believes that Overland and Garford cars have reached a near-perfect stage as is possible to make them, and that to make radical changes each year simply to style them new models is a fallacy and a policy that interrupts system and efficiency. With the Overland and Garford plants working each day with no interruption, no changing of patterns and machinery, and each man familiar with the work he has to perform, a larger production and better workmanship is assured.

From Near and Far.

MOTOR RUMBLES FROM HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

NO LONGER do we look upon the motor car with dark suspicion, and the stale old joke about breakdowns in lovely remote spots finds it hard to raise a sympathetic laugh these days—it is as unworthy and out of date as the "Ask Papa" joke. Why, we start off on a holiday jaunt of several hundred miles run now with the utmost confidence and complaisance and this last summer has seen the touring automobile at the zenith of its charm and capactiy.

Simply everybody has been a-motoring and whole families are returning daily "from the jolliest holiday we ever spent." One such is the A. W. Redman family of this city, who have been having the most fascinating automobile holiday all up the Coast, staying over night at one or the other of that fine chain of comfy hotels where they know how to spoil one so nicely. Santa Barbara and Del Monte were reached under perfect conditions, but the attempted run to Bartlett Springs found them caught in a really heavy northern shower, which necessitated them staying over at Cloverdale for two days. They made the best of it, however, and had no end of a good time, and the last we heard they were in San Francisco on the way further north.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wells—Mr. Wells is THE Mr. Wells of the Santa Fe—and their daughter, motored up to San Francisco last week—and rumor has it that he finds it better than even a Santa Fe train when you want to really enjoy yourself.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. M. Crocker of Fitchburg, Mass., are among the many eastern tourists who choose the automobile way of seeing the Coast and, with San Francisco for the headquarters in the north, and Los Angeles in the south, they are managing to see everything worth seeing under the most comfortable conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Shea of this city have started on a lengthy tour by motor car, and so far we have heard of them from Santa Barbara, Del Monte and San Francisco. They will investigate some Canadian points of interest before returning home.

Mrs. Timothy Guy Phelps is a hostess who pins her faith to the automobile party, and last week she entertained some friends from Grand Rapids, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. I. P. Witter, J. D. Witter and Miss Ethel McClean, with a lovely run to Santa Cruz, with entertainment de luxe at Casa del Rey for the week end.

Edward Greenway, the Beau Brummell of San Francisco's smart set, motored down to Del Monte for the golf tournament in his Thomas car, which he would not consider it respectable to be seen without; and Mrs. W. Matson, with Miss Lurline Matson, who drive everywhere in their beautiful Packard, have also been touring the northern part of the State in company with Mrs. J. H. Low and her little girl.

The lady golfers find their motor cars indispensable, and Miss Edith Cheesebrough, the Coast champion, with the Misses Alexander, were driving a Stevens car at Del Monte, in which they afterward returned to Tuxedo Park.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Garland in their Pierce car also took in the Del Monte tournament by auto, and are expected home this week, as also are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Foote of Pasadena in their E.M.F. car. The latter party includes Mrs. Foote's sister, Miss M. L. Barton.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Bassett of Pasadena passed through Casa del Rey last week en route for the north, and another large party of autoists included Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Hill, with P. S. Hill, M. S. Hill, R. S. Hill and Emmett Hill, all of Oak Park, Ill. Mr. Hill is a retired capitalist of that city and the family is seeing California, north, south, east and west, under the most ideal conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Bostwick of San Francisco, who are equally well known in Los Angeles society, made a week-end tour to Santa Cruz last week with the Hon. and Mrs. Thomas Sammen of Yokohama, Japan, as their guests. Mr. Sammen is American Consul-General to Japan and they were en route for Washington, breaking their journey for a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Bostwick.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Clayton, with Miss Clayton, all of San Diego, are among those enjoying an auto tour up north, and were last heard from passing through Del Monte.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Foote of Pasadena, with Miss M. L. Barton, were among those motoring to Del Monte for the tournament, in their E.M.F. car, and Conde Jones of the San Gabriel Country Club carried some gay and lively golfers both to and from the Del Monte tournament, leaving a profound impression at every place they halted! H. N. H Woodcock and A. T. Jergens were of the party, and they will long be remembered at Pasa Robles.

Miss Virginia Pease of Pasadena and Richard and Philip Bard were among last week's touring autoists—they hie from Pasadena, where they are all socially prominent. The young men are sons of State Senator Hueneme Bard.

Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace, with Mrs. Wallace and their daughter, Miss Katherine, motored up to Pasa Robles, with A. J. Whitherell, and their automobile plays a daily part in their holiday.

William S. Fawcett of Imperial Valley fame is piloting a leisurely motor party up the coast, which includes his wife and daughter, and Miss Andrews. They absolutely declined to be hurried and if they cannot make one place for food and rest, why, bother, another will do just as well!

Gen. C. Forman, that well-known old-timer, is another patron of the auto, and he was seen passing northward last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Auchincloss and Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lefferts, all of Redlands, are likewise viewing the country by automobile, taking things in easy stages and making long stop-overs at pretty spots.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams of New Orleans, with a nurse and two small Williamses, have been making similar easy investigation of the charms of California, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCleod, with their three kiddies, are returning to Los Angeles this week after a mountain trip lasting several weeks in their machine.

AUTO SAFEGUARD.

English motorists are becoming quite enthusiastic over the "Get-You-Home" badge which was recently evolved by the Royal Automobile Club. This is a little brass disc which may be carried on the key ring, and bears the words: "Urgent. Owner requires assistance (as per form of request.) Reasonable charges guaranteed." The owner of such a disc, on becoming stranded on a country road, has but to send it to the nearest repair shop to secure immediate attention and assistance. A feature that will be appreciated is that the presentation of the disc will place the services of a towing car at the disposal of the motorist, with no charge for any distance up to ten miles.

Smith Brothers, Auto Dealers,

Gentlemen:

I beg to inform you that I have used your 1912 Knight-Stearns Five Passenger Touring Car for about nine months--having driven it now eight thousand miles--that there has been no adjustments or mechanical work of any sort done on the engine, except one tightening of the connecting rods and one washing of crank case and cylinder with kerosine. The engine is now just as strong, flexible and quiet as it ever was.

Although I have driven cars constantly for eleven years, of many patterns and makes from the best to the poorest, this engine far surpasses any other I have ever seen.

Wishing you continued success, I beg to remain

Yours very respectfully,

Beats the Men.

RUSSIA'S ONE WOMAN DRIVER.

Janina Jozwik Makes Good in Warsaw Taxi.

Hears America Is Real Motor Woman's Paradise.

Wants to Drive Millionaire Down Broadway in Car.

(By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.)

WARSAW, Sept. 21.—Russia's first woman chauffeur hails from Warsaw. Her name is Janina Jozwik, and she is barely 20 years old.

Her appearance on the cab ranks a few days ago caused quite a sensation. The other drivers, mere males, took it as a joke. But when they saw she plied for fares, and got so many that she could have filled fixe taxis if she had them handy, they began to grumble.

No woman had been known to drive a car here before, and Miss Jozwik was taking the bread out of their mouths. They were so threatening that the police offered her protection. Janina refused it. "I'll get round them," was all she said. And she did.

She helped a comrade or two to make several adjustments. They were surprised to see she knew more about it than they did. When she had a good day—and they are mostly good—she treated them to all sorts of things. She has won them all, and now not one will let a street arab jeer at her.

"There must be a lot of women drivers abroad," she said to me. "I have always longed to cross the seas. Do you think they will let me drive a taxi in New York if I go?"

I said I thought they would not mind. "That's all right then," she replied. "I want to save up a bit first, as our Polish peasants say the people turn them back if they go with empty pockets. But I shall get a few hundred dollars together, and then be off to America. I hear America is a woman's paradise. I want to try it."

WINSOME JANINA.

The winsome Janina was trained at the Warsaw School for chauffeurs, and took out her license as soon as any other pupils. She comes from a small farm in the Lomza government. Her mother and father, brothers and sisters till the soil. She thought differently. Seeing an American thrashing machine on a rich neighbor's land fired her imagination. She begged permission to help clean it. She made friends with the engineers in charge, who were stunned at her aptitude. One of them laughingly declared he would pay for her to be a mechanic. She took him at his word, came up to Warsaw and went into the Chauffeurs' School.

She had to work hard, as she had no money for board and lodging, and made what she could doing rough jobs for mechanics' wives.

"I often and often only slept two hours," she said smiling. "But it did me good, as it trained me for night work with my taxi. Mother and father were wild with me for coming up here and said that the devil invented motors of all sorts. But they are glad enough now, as I send home money for my eldest brother, who is to be apprenticed to a blacksmith."

REAL NERVY.

Janina is quite unique in all the Czar's wide realms, though some years ago Moscow started a couple of women "izvoztchiks" or ordinary cabbies, but they were both well over forty, and by no means attractive. They drew no more custom than their men comrades. They dress like them, wearing the long, tight coat over a sheepskin, and the funny stiff hat. They are noted for the fact that their cabs and horses are always in the pink of condition.

Janina says she only wants two things to make her perfectly happy. One is to take her whole family of twelve for a ride in her taxi, and the other to drive a real, live millionaire down Broadway.

NO-MUD ASSOCIATION.

Means Better Roads, but Best of All Elimination of the Mud, the Bain of All Autoists.

A "No-Mud" Association has been formed in Paris, and as a result of the activities of the organization, taking the shape of threats of legal action against the mud-splashing omnibuses, the municipal council has decided to hold a competition for splash guards. It will be remembered that tests of such guards, designed to protect the passers-by from mud thrown by the wheels of a car, were held in France some time ago, but no official action was taken.

The coming examinations are for motor buses only, and if a successful device appears it is probable that an ordinance will be passed requiring its use. October has been set for the trials, and the machines will be run over a specially prepared mud track lined with boards divided into squares. This will enable the quantity and distance of the mud thrown to be measured. After this the devices will be tried out for 100 consecutive hours in the usual service of the machines.

The appliances must be capable of being run for twenty yards against the curb without being seriously damaged, and must stand a contact with the curb at an angle of 30 degrees without being carried away. Besides buying the successful devices, the Paris municipality will award a first prize of $400 to the winner. The total sum which will be divided among the successful competitors amounts to $1200. Besides the official tests, the Automobile Club of Seine will repeat its splash guard competition of last winter in a similar event to be held at Versailles, November 2-3.

CHINESE AVIATOR FOR MOON.

Taes Agency for China But Will Spend Some Considerable Time at Factory Studying the Car.

Capt. Tom Gun, the Chinese aviator who has secured the agency for the Moon car in China, is now at the Moon factory in St. Louis, studying the construction of the car.

This information was received by Lynn Buxton in a letter from the Chinese aviator last Friday. Gun expects to remain at the Moon factory till the first of the year. He is then to return to Los Angeles for a short time and sail for China. The agency was secured through the influence of Buxton, the Southern California distributor.

Rebel activities close to towns in the Federal District and close to the limits of the City of Mexico are causing a falling off in motor-car touring in that section.

The Moreland truck is being shown in all the cities along the Coast. We have our outside man, Cecil H. If we had an association in this city that would try to secure the right kind of legislation, that would work for the needs of the truck owners, the business would assume a much more substantial basis."

WINTON MAN HERE ON VISIT.

SAYS LONG-DISTANCE TOURING HABIT IS STRONGER.

Takes in the Sights of the City and Country With Agent Howard and Is Pleased With the Prospects for Big Business This Season—Believes This Is to Be a Hummer.

The Pacific Coast representative for the Winton company, H. L. Owesney of San Francisco, was a visitor to the city last week as a guest of W. D. Howard, local Winton distributor.

During the few days which he spent in this section, Owesney did a great deal of touring. He visited all the near-by towns and saw practically all of Southern California from the front seat of a Winton. It had been a busy month for him and while he came south on business, he found no end of pleasure here, according to his own statement. In speaking of conditions on the Coast, he said:

"Business was never better. In San Francisco, we are selling more cars than at any time during the last four years, and everything seems to be in a flourishing condition. The same holds true throughout the entire State and the Coast.

"I have noticed that there has been more long-distance touring this summer than ever before in the history of the automobile industry. Of course, the general improvement of roads is largely responsible for this, but the improvement of cars generally is also partly the cause. I am more than satisfied with business from a Winton standpoint, and I believe this will be a record automobile year in California and on the entire Coast."

KISSEL KARS MAKE GOOD.

Rain and Mud No Obstacle on Trip Around the Lakes With Quartette of Speedsters.

Four Kissel Kars were started from Hartford on a trip along the lake shore up to Door county as far as Sister Bay. In the party were William L. Kissel, P. A. Rix, E. W. Sawyer, H. A. Sawyer, Dr. F. W. Rogers, Otto Wollner, Henry Lieven, Louis Portz, J. G. Liver, W. E. Sauerhering, Peter Kreutz, Edward Russell, A. J. Hemmy, Harry Heppe and Cliff Smith, all of this city; Judge M. L. Lueck, Theodore P. Hemmy and Paul Hemmy of Juneau; H. A. Schluckebier and A. B. Chandler of Beaver Dam, and William Behling of Milwaukee.

Four Kissel Kars belonging to William P. Kissel, Judge Sawyer, Otto Wollner and P. A. Rix were used on the trip, and a distance of more than 400 miles was covered by these machines over all kinds of roads without one single mishap or delay on account of trouble to the machines.

The trip had been planned several weeks ago, and when Friday came with a heavy rain in the morning and threatening weather all day, there was considerable gloom in the hearts of all those who were to make the trip. Relying on the endurance of the Kissel Kars, and not to be outwitted by the weather, the owners gave orders for all to be on hand at the appointed hour, and at 7:45 o'clock the cars were started on their journey. The trip was a good test for the Kissel Kar, and demonstrated conclusively that it is "Every Inch a Car."

FOR MOTOR TRUCKS.

In planning the second annual 1000-mile reliability run for motor trucks the Chicago Motor Club has abandoned its set of rules used in the first test, and has likewise ignored the rules laid down by the contest board of the American Automobile Association last year. The rules proposed for the contest are more exacting than those in force last year, and contain a number of innovations. Drivers will be penalized for work on the road and for being late at controls, as in 1911. The route is approximately 300 miles shorter than the one traveled in 1911, when the contesting cars visited five States on the 1355-mile tour.

MOTOR COURSE ON AT U.S.C.

Boothe and Smith to Handle Novel Undertaking.

Complete Curriculum Now Has Been Arranged.

Each Lectures Every Other Week During Semester.

Launched on what promises to be one of the most successful plans ever adopted by motor men who would teach the young the technicalities of a motor car, the automobile course at the University of Southern California has been adopted and the curriculum has been decided. Lectures will be given by prominent automobile engineers and the workings of a motor will be thoroughly explained.

From the time when self-moving cars were a joke to many, down to the latest 1913 model, the students will have an opportunity to study the history and the mechanism. The men, and for that matter the young women, will be able to learn how hazardous it once was to operate a motor car. They will be told how machines, even in France, were restricted to side streets and how in this country they were looked on with disfavor.

Earle Y. Boothe, agent for the National, and Stanley Smith of the Stearns-Knight, will be the two dealers in charge of the course. Each will deliver a lecture every other week and each has selected a course to be followed. Both of these men are college graduates and have had an opportunity to study the motor car from every possible angle.

The University of Southern California is the first college in the country to give a full credit for automobile work and the course will have an unusually large enrollment. The two dealers are well-known automobile men, and they will bring into the lectures their years of experience. Bert Dingley, the racing driver, has also been secured as mechanical expert and the boy or girl who takes the course will be able to gain a useful knowledge of the motor car.

Every part of motor construction will be covered. The lectures have been so arranged as to gradually educate the students. A majority already have the first principles of the motor car, but the course will be handled as if no boy or girl had ever learned the first thing about the mechanism of the power-driven vehicles.

The first lecture will be on the history and introduction of the automobile and week by week the students will be taken through the different parts of autos, auto laws and after hearing of the plans to build the national highway the professors will take up the electric machine.

The lectures in the order in which they will be delivered are as follows: "Introduction and History," "Dissection of the Auto," "Power Plants," "Driving Mechanism," "Lubricants," "Lubrication," "Accessories," "Tires and Their Making," "Selection of an Automobile," "Traffic Laws and Rules of the Road," "Commercial Uses," "Races and Benefits," "The National Highway" and "Electrics."

A lecture on ignition will be given and one other on a subject to be selected. This has been left open and advantage can be taken of a visit by an eastern factory expert.

GOSSIP ALONG GASOLINE ROW

BY BERT SMITH

George Purdy Bullard left for Phoenix last night with Mrs. Bullard. The wife of the prominent Attorney-General of Arizona, is in love with Los Angeles and always manages to spend the summer in this city. Her husband returns with the history of several important triumphs scored in the courts of the new State of Arizona, but also with the firm conviction that the Phoenix road race will be greater this year than ever before.

Warren Vance has returned from the East after an absence of two months. He visited the Case and the Carter car factories and reports business buzzing in Detroit and other centers. He was welcomed fittingly by his side-partner, J. J. Canavan, who has been at the helm of the Vance-Canavan Company while Vance was away.

H. O. Harrison is in San Francisco again. Now you see him and now you don't. No telling where he'll be this week, but it's easy to guess that he will be selling cars. As the Flanders agent Harrison is sure to cut the right figure. Once more let us arise to say Harrison has come into his own.

Willie Carlson is up in the air, figuratively speaking. He has been selling Simplex cars faster than any other salesman ever had a chance to sell them. He has been the real goods with Oscar Werner, but since the Simplex man disposed of his interests Willie has not decided just where he will devote his energies.

There are some dead ones along the row. Let each stand up and answer to his name. We have heard the prophesies each year and still we have seventy-two dealers who are doing business on a large scale. Now, if any man feels that he belongs to the has-beens or the never-wases let him please say so now or forever hold his peace as the season is about to open when only the live ones figure.

Park Stair of the local branch of the United States Tire Company has closed a deal whereby a majority of the Alco trucks which are received here will be equipped with the new United States demountable tire. This tire has revolutionized the truck tire business and the United States company has been rushed to fill orders.

George Robertson, the famous racing driver, has taken the agency for the Piston Gas Saver in New York. The Halliwell Company received a large order from Robertson last week. The old pilot became interested in the Piston Gas Saver through the racing men. De Palma is using it on all of his cars, as are also a number of other well-known racing men. Robertson tried it out and found it so successful he has taken the agency and is pushing the article.

Agents may come and agents may go, but Baldy Smith stays on forever. When you hear the latest from San Francisco, they tell you A. J. is the real live one of the Bay City. He is selling Elmores just as he did years ago in Los Angeles, and he asks no odds of anyone. When it comes to shooting quail, A. J. bags them on the fly, on the wing, or any other way, but he always gets the limit.

B. L. Graves is handing out the Ford cars. The way he has sold them shows his class. He need ask odds of no man. His predecessor did well, but Graves is doing better, and he still has a record set up that will be well worth shooting at. Watch us grow.

Lyman Stewart is on his way to Lake Tahoe in his new Loxier. Accompanied by a party of six others, Stewart is taking it easy and making a tour of the trip instead of a run. The party has been on the way a week and it is expected that they will be gone for at least three weeks more.

Ralph Hamlin will enter the Phoenix road race. This is decided. Without him the race would not be half as interesting. He will start as one of the favorites. He will use the same car that he drove last year. Now, with the experience the air-cooled kill has gained in three fast races, why should not Ralph start as the favorite? If you ask me for a tip, why I should say Ralph will win.

How about Harvey Herrick? There, if the Mosquito Kid enters the Phoenix road race he will upset all the dope. Herrick is a great driver. He has proved this time and again. He is the premier speedster of them all, and when it comes to handling a car in a desert grind, why he is in a class by himself. If Herrick starts, watch him every minute, no matter what car he drives.

MANY FIRE FIGHTERS.

Philadelphia is going to get a "flying squadron" for fire fighting—some time. Until recently it was thought that thirteen machines would be purchased this summer, but it was not so to be. Bids have been received for the machines, but the money for their purchase is tied up until the City Council meets again, so the Department of Public Safety is waiting for that momentous event to take place. Of the thirteen machines which are to be bought, five will be of high-power and speedy and will be manned by picked members of the fire department. These will constitute the flying squadron, which will be first on the scene of trouble.

Persistent Rumor Emphasizes the Importance of Bullock's Fair Prices on First Quality Auto Tires

TIRE PRICE ADVANCE EXPECTED THIS MONTH

Rubber Market Said to Make Increases Necessary.

According to eastern advices, there is a likelihood of an advance in tire prices in September on account of dissatisfaction among manufacturers in present margins of profit, following the gradual advance in the price of rubber that has been taking place for some time.

The period covering present guaranteed prices expires on the 1st of next month, and it is believed that at that time there is likely to be a general readjustment of prices.

Economy Says:

"No auto owner should overlook the possibility of an advance in the price of auto tires. Forehanded buyers will do well to provide for future and immediate needs at once."

PEERLESS TRUCK WINS ON NIGHT AND DAY STUNT.

BY THE use of a new screw-power hoist dumping-body designed by the Peerless Motor Car Company the Southern Fuel and Material Company of Mobile, Ala., has accomplished with its five-ton truck the transportation of the unprecedented volume of 150 tons every twenty-four hours. The truck in a night and a day covers 100 miles, a distance of five miles. In the truck body is carried from five to six tons of gravel and in wagons formerly drawn by mules, which are used as It is replacing twelve mules. It makes ten trips in a working-day over trailers, twenty-five tons more is handled. Recently the truck has worked night and day, doubling that mileage and tonnage.

The performance is in part due to the use of the power dumping-body built to meet the problems of coal dealers and contractors, which will unload five tons of coal, sand and gravel or any loose material in thirty seconds.

The truck is backed into position. The lever that unlatches the tail gate is tripped. Another lever turns the power of the truck motor into the dumping mechanism. The front end of the body rises rapidly. In thirty seconds the entire load is off the platform.

Instantly the Peerless may be started on its return. A touch upon the controlling lever starts the body downward and it can continue to descend while the truck is in motion. When the body reaches its normal position the mechanism is automatically disengaged. The entire process is accomplished without special effort on the driver's part.

The Cartercar Man.

MOTOR MARKET VAST; MORE CARS THAN EVER--RADFORD

"ONLY few who can afford them have bought yet," states Harry R. Radford. "It is really funny," says Radford, who is vice-president of the Cartercar Company, "how people continue to be deluded about the motor car industry. After all these years of successful growth, and each year more motor cars being built, there is hardly a day that you do not hear people talking about the motor car market being filled and the sale of cars ceasing.

"In every hotel lobby, on the street cars, at gatherings of business men and almost everywhere there is always some one who is dubious about the future of the motor car and feels that the demand is about filled. The funny part is that these same people do not stop to realize that there will always be individuals who have plenty of finances. They do not consider that, after having once owned an automobile, these people would never go back to any former methods of local transportation.

"Where do the cars all go to? This question is easily explained when one pauses to consider that less than one out of every hundred people in the greatest wealth center of the country own automobiles. In New York itself, that great metropolitan and wonderfully progressive city whose streets appear to be one immense, continuous flowing stream of motor cars and which is held to be the greatest automobile center in the United States—less than three-quarters of one percent. of the population are listed as owners of automobiles.

"Then go to the valleys and plains of our vast Central States and see the thousands and thousands of farmers who are buying automobiles, and you will never ask where the cars go The futre of automobiles which have made good is as certain as the future of any staple line of merchandise on the market."

In Foreign Lands.

OVERLAND SUITS THIS MAN ACROSS ATLANTIC OCEAN.

IT IS NO uncommon occurrence to receive unsolicitated testimonials from Americans regarding American motor cars, but G. W. Bennett, vice-president of the Willys-Overland Company, has received an unusual letter from an Englishman defending Overlands in preference to English-made cars, costing three times the price of the Toledo product.

Stuart A. Hirst of Leeds, Eng., chairman of the Yorkshire Aero Club, is one of those broad-minded subjects of King George who believes in giving credit where credit is due. In his letter to the Overland company he says:

"As a motorist with a personal experience of a dozen makes of cars, I can truthfully say that my best investment for the money spent has been the thirty-horse-power Overland, on which I have done upwards of 12,000 miles. I got this car a year ago last March, and during the past sixteen months I have never had to lay it up for overhauling or any serious repairs.

"I had calculated that it was cheaper to buy a new Overland every year than to spend three times the sum for a car which I might not want to keep after the third year, but I am glad to say my present Overland is running far too well for me to deem a second Overland necessary.

"Besides my Overland I have two expensive cars, but from the standpoint of a return on one's investment I can easily place the Overland first. The engine is so reliable—never having been down yet—the cost of tires are so slight, and the petrol consumption at twenty-three to twenty-six miles per gallon so ridiculously low."

Studebakers Are There.

MAKING GOOD ON SEVERE TEST.

POSTOFFICE OFFICIALS TRY THE STURDY DELIVERY CARS.

Revelation in Delivery Service Is Proved to Postmaster Harrison, Who Is Enthusiastic Over the Work of the Cars that Are on the Fierce City Test Stunt.

Uncle Sam's test of motor-driven vehicles for use in collecting mails in Los Angeles has progressed ten days, and already the local postoffice officials are enthusiastic over the work performed. The two cars in use on the test have demonstrated that the horse is a back number, and it will not be surprising if the "hay burners" are relegated to the past within a month.

One of the cars loaned to Postmaster Harrison was donated by the local branch of the Studebaker corporation. It is a regular Studebaker "20" of the delivery wagon type, and the only change made in the car was to install an electric light in the compartment where the mail bags are stored.

So far the test has proved exceptional, as the car has established a perfect score. Not only has it gone through without a single stop for mechanical trouble, but has also escaped that bane of all motorists—tire trouble. Frank Griebel, the Studebaker employee, selected to drive the machine during its thirty-day test, puts in his twelve hours every day at the wheel, and finds the work comparatively easy.

"From what I hear, there isn't a chance for the horse to stick," said Griebel. "We have performed the work so much more efficiently, and with so much more dispatch, that the automobile has already demonstrated its worth to Mr. Harrison and the other officials. The test on fuel consumption will also be in our favor, for when the car isn't working it doesn't eat, while the horses formerly employed had to have their hay and oats just the same."

The government test will be concluded in less than three weeks, and the result of the experiment sent to Washington for final decision. It is expected that before long the Federal departments will all employ automobiles to the exclusion of horses, and that motor trucks will take the place of the heavy wagons now hauling mail to delivery and distributing points.

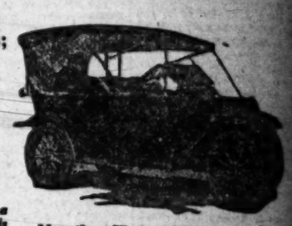
With 104-inch Wheelbase, the Marathon "Runner" is big enough to be, and is, a dependable car for all purposes. With a 25-horse power motor ample power is assured both for speed and for difficult grades.

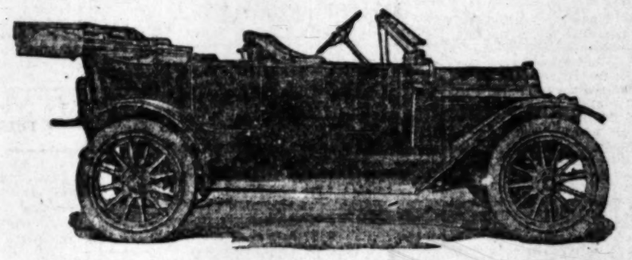


Marathon "Runner" Touring Car, 25-H.P., 5 Passenger, Equipped, $900.

MARATHONS for 1913 differ materially from former models. All of the characteristics peculiar to Marathon construction have been retained, but in other respects there are radical changes.

Marathons Are Completely Equipped. There is a world of satisfaction to the buyer in this feature. No matter if he has paid only $875 for a car that meets his full approval, much of that feeling of complacency is lost when he is put to the necessity of buying a lot of needed extras. Everything is on every Marathon that is needed. Not an extra need be bought.

Marathon Comfort.—Is emphasized by wider and deeper seats, and more luxurious upholstery. Without a sacrifice of the long and characteristically graceful lines that have made Marathons noticeable, there is an added width that makes for a delightful roominess. The upholstery is of that deep, satisfying kind that is looked for only in cars that demand high prices. It is a combination of the most expensive leather and the most skilled workmanship, with the added coolness and cleanliness of high grade seat covers.



Marathon "Winner" 5 Passenger Touring Car, Completely Equipped, $1350.

MARATHON POWER. Rather sensational at this point, too. The "Runner," for example. Full 25-horse power, every unit doing enthusiastic work, in a car of this weight means motion. The "Runner" certainly earns its name. It is speedy, of course, but the point that appeals most to those who know is the fact that there is always plenty of power in reserve, and the satisfaction of knowing that it is a giant on the hills. The enclosed power plant, probably the Marathon's most distinctive feature, means longer life, increased efficiency and dependable power.

Marathon Price. They all wonder how we do it; $875 for a car with the specifications, advantages and equipment of the Marathon "Runner" seems almost an impossibility. And it is, almost. That's why only 25% of our output this season will consist of this model. The line between profit and loss upon it is a hairline. But here's the point. The "Runner" is going to be the biggest and best advertisement for us that an automobile factory ever had. It will go into every state in the Union; nearly all civilized countries, and will give perfect satisfaction to its owner, under all conditions, and be a lasting credit to its makers. That's why.

New Henderson, One of the Latest Sensations, Direct from the Eastern Factory.

At the wheel is J. W. Willcox, the local agent; with him E. J. Fleming, secretary of the Harbor Commission; in the tonneau, left to right, J. W. Lecky, sales manager for the new Henderson company, and F. Hetzel, the shop foreman, with A. J. Frowman, one of the enthusiastic salesmen.

Looks Good.

HENDERSON CAR HERE ONE OF THE NEW SENSATIONS.

ONE of the new and interesting 1913 cars is the Henderson which has just reached here. For the first time this car will be exhibited on Automobile Row this week and J. W. Willcox will be kept busy entertaining the many prospects who are anxious to look the car over carefully. The Henderson has made good in the East and seems certain to get the right kind of recognition here.

The Henderson Motor Car Company of Indianapolis is working overtime, according to Willcox, the Southern California distributor for the Henderson car. Willcox has just returned from an extensive tour in the East. This included a trip to his boyhood home in Winnipeg, Can., a visit to the Henderson Eastern Motors Company, New York distributors, and the Indiana factory.

"Can he come back" is the question propounded in the world of sport on the retirement of a champion. "He has come back" describes the reentry of Willcox in the gasoline car selling field in this city. During the last season that Willcox waged in the interest of the Maxwell before his retirement from business, he sold more than 1000 of these little autos. Willcox feels that even greater success will attend his efforts with the Henderson line.

To say that the local motor dealer is enthusiastic over the Henderson is putting it mildly. He asserts that in a few days he will receive his new 1913 demonstrator, and that its arrival will create a sensation in the Los Angeles gasoline car field.

"From present indications, the Hendersons will double their proposed output for 1913," said Willcox. "While at the factory, I met Henderson distributors and dealers from many cities. The whole organization from the vice-president and general manager, R. P. Henderson, down to the smallest dealer impresses one with the "get there" spirit, one of the biggest factors in marketing the product of a factory.

"The all-important reason for my visit to Indianapolis and the factory of the Henderson, was to get an increase in our allotment of cars for 1913. However, when I arrived at the factory, I found that there were several others on the ground with the same idea uppermost in their minds. After a conference with the agents and distributors and heads of departments, it was decided before I left the Indiana capital city that the output must be increased to meet the demand."

Welcome to Our City.

REGAL MAN HERE PLANS CAMPAIGN WITH ANTHONY.

REPRESENTATIVE Maximillian Adolphus Wiessenburger of the Regal Motor Car Company of Detroit was a visitor here last week and made his headquarters with Conferderte States Anthony at the Big Four Automobile Company, agents for the Regal. Maximillian is a most interesting young man, who is finishing his sixth year with the Regal people. He is one of the best boosters that ever reached the West, and is here to stay if C. S. Anthony has anything to do with keeping him.

Direct from the Regal plant he gave a most interesting account of the trials and tribulations of the Regal agents who are clamoring for 1913 models. It shows how well Anthony stands with the firm when he already has his new Regal cars in the showroom, while the New York dealers are, some of them, still fighting hard to get cars.

According to the Regal man, every 1913 car will be sold and it is even now a question of allotment. He will divide his time up and down the Pacific Coast, with the agents out here and will visit every dealer who has Regal cars for sale, and will listen to complaints, if any have them to make.

"If you have any kicks, make them now, or forever hold your peace" is the motto under which Mixiimillian is sailing, and if Wiesse fails to get away, with the goods he won't be to blame as he has almost every man I've ever met, backed off the boards when it comes to putting up the right kind of an argument. He is enthusiastic and really believes in the product.

If he had his way, Anthony would get all the cars he needs. As a matter of fact, however, the cars must be parceled out in lots to each of the men in the United States. Anthony will get a number, but already the local dealer fears he will not be able to supply the demand for the handsome underslung car which has proved such a seller in this community.

Ever since the Regal first made its debute on the race track at Santa Monica a host of enthusiastic Regal owners have boosted for the car. Now, while Wiesse is here, he expects to talk with these owners, to learn the needs of each and then he will discuss plans with Anthony toward making the Big Four Automobile Company one of the greatest service stations the Regal plant has in the West.

BAKER IN COMMERCIAL FIELD.

Pleasure Cars Exhibited at Canadian Shows With Good Results Along Selling Lines.

For the first time in its history the Baker Motor Vehicle Company has adopted the policy of representation at the different Canadian exhibitions and shows. At Toronto, where the annual fair was held, the Baker company's exhibit of pleasure cars and commercial trucks was in charge of W. H. C. Burnett.

The new Canadian plant of the Baker company at Walkerville, Ontario, is to be used to supply the present demand and further exploitation of the Canadian field.

Coupes, broughams, Victorias, runabouts of different styles, are some of the pleasure car models which the Baker company is now producing.

In the commercial field the Baker is widely known through their large installations with some of the largest corporations and concerns in the United States operating extensive delivery systems. Baker trucks are manufactured in capacities ranging from one-half to four tons. Besides having trucks in a great many different classes of city delivery service, the Baker company has recently produced an electric tractor which will prove of great value in heavy contracting and building lines.

THIRD AUTO SHOW.

Plans are going steadily forward for Atlanta's third automobile show, which is scheduled for the early fall. Instead of having the show at the tag end of the Southern buying season, as was the case last year, this one will be given at a time when Southerners are beginning to buy cars, it will come at a time when money is easiest in Dixie and it will come before any other shows have taken the edge off the enthusiasm of prospects. Already arrangements have been made to combine with another exhibition which comes after the automobile show in the matter of decorations, and in this way the automobile show will get the benefit of the decorations that cost $16,000 at a price a great deal less than that.

NEWERF NEEDS MORE ROOM.

Space for the Miller Tire Is Inadequate and Plans Are Made to Enlarge Quarters.

The steadily increasing business of the W. D. Newerf Rubber Company has made it necessary to rearrange the salesroom and make additional room for Miller tires.

Newerf's private office has been moved upstairs and the entire lower floor will now be used for sales purposes. Emergency racks are placed in the rear of the salesroom and in the rear of the building is the shipping department.

Several carloads of tires have been received this month and the shipping clerk and his crew have been working overtime getting the goods out on back orders.

Newerf is now planning to build a large new building on account of the growth of his business. He is the Miller tire agent for the entire Pacific Coast. He has recently opened a large warehouse in San Francisco to care for the northern trade.

Accidents are even possible when the car is left standing. Should the car be left on a hill without the emergency-brake lever set as it ought to be, it is apt to gather momentum and become a source of danger to other cars as well as itself.

The Richmond (Va.) Automobile Club is interested in the matter of an automobile show, and has appointed a special committee to investigate the prospects of obtaining a comprehensive exhibit some time during the coming winter or spring.

BURT INTO THE NORTH.

Auburn Man Expects Big Record for This Season Because of Strong Demand for Cars.

W. J. Burt, State distributor for the Auburn cars, left this week for a trip over the northern territory. While north Burt will see to the placing of more agents in the localities not already represented, and call on the many representatives who now are selling Auburn cars.

Since taking over the northern part of the State Mr. Burt has put a great deal of life into his representatives in that section, and every one reports that the Auburn car will be well represented this year in his particular territory.

Auburn cars are selling well in California and this year Burt expects to establish a record that will eclipse anything he has ever made. He says the demand for the Auburn is stronger this season than ever before and is confident that when the totals are rolled up for 1913 the Auburn will show a surprisingly large mark.

TURKISH FINISH FOR CHALMERS.

INNOVATION IN CUSHIONS FOR NEW CLASSY THIRTY-SIX.

Double Drop Frame Another Feature of the Nineteen-Thirteen Car Which Is Attracting so Much Attention Both in the East and Throughout the Middle West.

The eleven-inch Turkish cushions in the new Chalmers cars are an original product of the Chalmers factory, and has set a high standard for the 1913 season.

These Turkish cushions are as soft as the softest pillow and have a wonderful effect in increasing the comfort of the passengers.

The springs of the cushions are of unusual flexibility, and the hair is long and soft. Even the leather is put on in soft, flexible folds—not in hard, tight tufts.

The seats conform with the lines of the body as a person sits in the car. They are also tilted back and the passenger is seated in a natural and restful position. The seats are wide and there is plenty of foot room.

The double drop frame is another Chalmers feature for 1913, which is found in the highest grade cars. This gives the desired low center of gravity. The springs of the "36" are thirty-nine inches long and semi-elliptic in front and forty-five inches long and three-quarter elliptic in the rear. On the "36" the wheels are 36x4, and on the "Six," 36x4½. There is no bumping or jolting in the new Chalmers.

Great attention has also been given to the small details of finish and everything has been done to make the 1913 models more beautiful than ever.

Many advance orders have been booked by the Western Motor Car Company for the new models.

SHUTT TO QUIT.

It is not probable that Vincent Shutt will play with Pomona even in the interstate games this year. He is in college and the four-year rule would not effect him in the games with the larger colleges, but Shutt says he has had enough football and is willing to remain on the sidelines in the future. "When a man plays the game for four years it is time for him to quit and devote his time to something else," said Shutt when questioned. "Of course some players follow the game after they have left college, but for my part, four years is the limit."

The assessment list of Manitowoc, Wis., gives but 549 horses for 1912, as compared with 721 in 1911. The number of motor cars owned in the city in 1912 is 182, as compared with seventy-five a year ago.

Louis H. Hamm of Bangor, Me., has a pet seagull, one of a pair which he found while on a fishing trip in July. The other bird flew away, but Mr. Hamm expects that he will return. Both had been given entire liberty, Mr. Hamm's little daughter having made pets of them.

Danford K. Marsh, who died last week, at the age of 86, had been postmaster of Marshlands, Tioga county, Pa., since 1857. President Buchanan appointed him. One of his sons is a postmaster.

The Prince of Wales will take up his residence at Magdalen College in October. Magdalen College is probably chosen because Dr. Warren, its president, is well known to the members of the royal family.

HAUSER GETS A MOON.

Popular Baseball Player Is Presented With Handsome Machine at Game.

Arnold Hauser, premier shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals is now the owner of one of the best motor cars owned by any ball player—a great big Moon, model 49, touring car.

His popularity amongst the ball players, umpires and owners in the big leagues, his friends in many cities, and especially in St. Louis is shown by his winning the circulation contest of a St. Louis afternoon newspaper. The grand prize was a fully equipped Moon "49" five-passenger touring car.

He earned it by the same hard conscientious work which always characterizes his stellar performances on the big league diamonds.

Hauser or "Pee Wee" as he is affectionately dubbed by all ardent fans took to his car as naturally as he does to the national game.

Last Thursday when he was presented with the car at the Boston-St. Louis game, he proudly and skillfully drove around the diamond to the delight of the fans. Roger Bresnahan, manager of the Cardinals, was the privileged passenger to make the trip.

VACATION IN A REGAL.

T. E. Harris Has a Great Time Touring Over the Country in Underslung—Lies His Car.

F. E. Harris of Garden Grove returned from the north last Wednesday in his new Regal "underslung" and reported a very enjoyable trip.

The Regal was delivered to Harris after having been run up to the agency and he started on his three weeks' trip without any preparation whatever. The car was loaded well, carrying a complete camping outfit and four passengers.

Not once during the trip of more than 1300 miles did Harris have any trouble with his car and he now says that motor vacations are far ahead of anything else in the real rest line.

F. E. White made a 500-mile trip in his Regal last Saturday, Sunday and Monday, with a party of four friends.

They made five hours to San Diego on the first day. After taking in the points of interest in and around San Diego, they went across the Mexican line and visited Tia Juana. On the return the party made several side trips which stretched the time of the tour to almost three days.

GRABOWSKYS ARE COMING.

The first carload of new 1913 Grabowsky motor trucks is expected to arrive early this week, by Hawley, King Company, Southern California and Arizona distributors.

The first carload will be followed closely by two others and all trucks are sold before they arrive. The new Grabowsky has all the exclusive features of last season with several additional improvements which should prove popular.

Facts and Logic and Sentiment.

WILD GAME EXPERT TELLS HOW TO SAVE THE DEER.

Frank C. Clarke, the Investigator of Mammals of the Fish and Game Commission, Makes a Plea for Refuges to Prevent the Utter Extermination of California's Game.

BY FRANK C. CLARKE.

THAT the large game animals of California are rapidly running to extinction is a fact which needs no proof. This is true in nearly every part of the State but is especially true in Southern California, where hunting large game has been zealously pursued for many decades, and where conditions of food and shelter have not been so good for the longevity of the species as in the northern portions of the State.

We have only to compare the game in the State today with that of just one generation ago in order to see that our present large game supply is but a mere remnant of the great hordes of elk, deer, mountain sheep and antelope that once ranged in our mountains and valleys.

Of course with the settlement of the country it is not to be expected that the game would be retained in its former numbers. Nothing of the sort. That would be an impossibility. But the reduction to the present status, with proof of utter impending destruction, unless radical measures are taken, is to be greatly regretted.

Recourse lies in a more efficient administration of the fish and game laws all over the State in conjunction with the establishment of a good number of large game refuges and parks—places of considerable size where game of any or all kinds may take refuge and breed and remain undisturbed the year round.

Where once well established (and with most game this does not take long,) the game will radiate out from these places into the neighboring territory in search of more food and new pasturage. This principle has been well demonstrated in the case of the national parks of this State as well as in the case of many private parties who have protected the game life on their ranches to say nothing of the success of Eastern States in the work.

GAME IS VALUABLE.

Before going further let me say a few words regarding the value of our game. Many people greatly underestimate its value, or do not value it at all. This is a great mistake. Our game is not only a great advertisement but is a great resource to the State.

The thousands of game birds and animals annually killed in California have an intrinsic value of thousands and tens of thousands of dollars.

The State Fish and Game Commission reports the annual sale of nearly 160,000 licenses to our hunters. Of course not all of our hunters kill what they go after but if they do not succeed in getting one kind of game, they perhaps do another.

This large figure at least indicates the strength of this great army of hunters that passes each year into our hills and mountains in search of game. Not only this, the game is a direct drawing card to thousands of eastern people who come to visit our State. All of these bring money into the State and lots of it, too. It is hard to make an accurate estimate of the hundreds of thousands of dollars exchanged every year in preparing for and carrying out hunting trips and expeditions into the deserts and mountains.

VALUE OF HUNTING.

The thousands of our city populations who go into the country during the summer time, even without rod and reel or without a single firearm, greatly prefer to visit regions where the natural features are still in evidence, where the forests still stand and where the birds and animals still prevail. It is the right of these people to enjoy the presence of these creatures living, just as much as it is for the hunter to enjoy them dead or enjoy the killing of them, and they should have an equal chance to do so.

The pursuit of game is a healthy exercise. There is none better. It instructs in the care and use of the rifle, and thereby increases the value and efficiency of our citizens as soldiers and patriots; it teaches the amateur hunter to care for himself and teaches him how to care for others. In other words, to one who has never made an expedition into the mountains before, one good trip is far more valuable than the reading of half a dozen books upon the subject.

Besides being valuable for trophies and for products, game is valuable as a food, especially as an immediate GAME KILLED WANTONLY.

It should never be considered as a staple article. When so utilized the result is market hunting, and this very feature (hunting for the market) is the prime reason why most of our large game has so nearly reached complete extermination. With the settlement of the country, the extent of the game land has been greatly decreased. This has been logical consequence. But the decrease per unit of game area left is to be looked at from a different standpoint.

The reduction of wild life of this kind has been brought about by wholesale slaughter, especially hunting for the market, whether for the flesh alone or for some other part. During this great slaughter, in some places the flesh alone was utilized, in others the skins only were saved while in other cases the antlers or the teeth or some other part was all that was used, the rest going to waste. It is absolutely the truth that thousands of deer, elk and other game have been killed in this State in which cases not a pound of the valuable flesh was saved, while with thousands of others nothing but the flesh was saved. Such has been the practice which has brought about our present-day conditions.

Many people in the State claim that the deer are on the increase in this State, and give as a proof the facts that in some places more deer were killed this year than last.

WHEN HUNTING'S A CRIME.

But these facts are misleading. It must be remembered that the number of game-pursuers is increasing greatly each year, especially the past four or five years. Not only this, the facilities for reaching the mountains and valleys and traveling through them are being greatly improved each year. Automobiles are coming into use, new roads and trails are being built, which take hunters into the very depths of the game country. Firearms are being improved and other hunting material made more efficient.

As the game becomes scarcer, it increases in value per capita, and the hunter, who goes in pursuit of it, trains himself in order that he may be able to cope with his rival hunter for the valuable prize. In brief as the game decreases the hunters increase. The result is evident.

For the above reasons it is not surprising that more deer were killed in some places this year than last. But this doesn't prove an increase of them. They were more closely hunted out.

Frank C. Clarke and His Deer Friends.

Special investigator on mammals of California for the Fish and Game Commission and fellow in zoology at the University of California.

Furthermore the natural season was late all over the State, while the deer season was early in many parts of the State. The bucks were still poor when the shooting began. This was not so much the case at this end of the State as it was in the second, fourth and fifth districts. There when the season opened, many of the bucks were still out in the open allowing their unmature antlers the benefit of the sun. To shoot lean, thin, old bucks with antlers only half or two-thirds grown, is certainly little short of a moral crime, to say nothing of the absolutely unsportsman-like method of such a barbarous performance.

FOR BETTER PROTECTION.

As a remedy to regain and keep a good supply of large game in our State, we must offer better protection to these animals. The idea, however, is not to offer protection without deriving benefit to the people of the State. We must regain our supply and then kill in accordance with the stock we have. This is the only logical plan to follow, and is just exactly what the rancher does with his stock. He protects and shelters his animals, allows them to propagate in accordance, with the capacity of his ranch, and then slaughters in accordance with the supply, always retaining sufficient numbers of the right age and the right sex to allow for the proper increase for the succeeding years.

So with the game. We must give them room to multiply and must protect the females and the young. With deer it has been observed that buck is sufficient for eight or ten females.

Many people claim that there are many barren does, simply because they see does without fawns. Without a doubt there are some barren does, but very few. Nature guards against this. But because a doe has no fawn with her, it is no proof that she is barren. The fawn may be hidden away in the brush as is characteristic with these animals, especially when the young are very small. Or the predatory animals (mountain lions, coyotes or bob cats, etc.,) may have killed the fawn or fawns as the case may be.

We should note two important facts here. One that besides not killing females at all we must not kill the males off beyond a certain point; and second that predatory animals do a tremendous damage to our large game. Both of these features can be well regulated under a properly-established system of game reserves.

THE GAME REFUGES.

To see what may be done with game upon reserves, let us turn our attention to the national parks of this State. Many of the residents in that country claim that the supply of game (deer especially) around the parks for fifteen or twenty miles is due to the outflux from these reserves. The same experiments have been tried on many large ranches in the State. Private protection has greatly aided in the movements of the Fish and Game Commission of the State. Eastern States give us more excellent examples along this line.

Maine, for example, kills more large game now than she did several generations ago, just simply because she established and maintained a practical system wherein the moose, deer, etc., receive protection and were not killed off beyond a certain limit.

The particular kind of a reserve makes little difference so long as it is efficient and practical to operate. It must be a refuge and breeding ground for all kinds of game, with a close season throughout the year.

The "alternate-township" system works excellently in some places, but would be at first difficult to operate here on account of a lack of well-marked township lines in many places. Furthermore, in this system the boundary lines are artificial, which seems to be less desirable than one where the boundaries are natural, such as mountains, rivers, etc.

As stated above, Southern California is particularly in need of game reserves. Every county should have certain portions of its mountain lands set off as game reserves. These reserves would be open for campers and tourists, of course, but not open for hunting. In many places it would be best to have these areas set off in the national forest reserves, though this is not at all necessary. In some cases it would undoubtedly be best for certain cities to have their watersheds game reserves, rather than stock pastures, or if stock be allowed to graze there at all, only in small numbers. Without a doubt this would be conducive to a better supply and a better quality of water, as game would not deplete the ground of so much vegetation nor pollute the streams as do herds of domesticated stock.

To begin with, let us consider the present county of Los Angeles. This county has large tracts of the most excellent country for game purposes, tracts which are both in the national forests and which are not. Portions of the Sierra Madre mountains, in the Angelus forest, together with lands running out into the desert, should be put into reserves for game. The larger the tract of land the better, but the smallest should be no less than one township (23,000 acres.) It is preferable, however, to have them larger than this, say three or four townships, where they are small there should be many more of them. At any rate, they should not be so far apart that game would not pass from one to the other. The "alternate-township" system is an excellent one in this respect, as it gives an almost immediate passage from one reserve to the next.

IN THE MALIBU.

Portions of the Santa Monica Mountains should be by all means turned into a reserve for game. Many people claim that it is robbing them of their hunting grounds to turn hunting lands into reserves. It is certainly a very narrow sportsman in this large State who is selfish to the extent that all he looks for is his immediate enjoyment, who cares only for himself and not for others, not for the game, and not for those who are to follow after his departure. The true sportsman will yield in the matters of game conservation just as much as the scientific farmer who yields to the conservation principles of his industries.

The counties of Santa Barbara, Ventura and Los Angeles all have large tracts of good game lands in the Santa Barbara National Forest, besides many other portions adaptable to the same purpose, many parts of which are at present good for little else.

San Bernardino county has immense tracts of lands in the San Bernardino and other ranges of mountains.

In Riverside there are the San Jacinto Mountains, also the San Bernardino, Santa Ana and other ranges, all of which would afford the best kind of reserves. A single reserve does not necessarily have to be all in one county. It can just as well overlap and include portions of two or more counties. San Diego and Orange both have good mountain regions in the Cleveland forest that should be turned into reserves for game.

One of these in San Diego is the Palomar Mountains, eastward to the desert; the other is the Laguna Mountains, eastward to the desert. Each would be ten or twelve miles long by the same in width. These would afford shelter for all kinds of game—deer, mountain sheep, quail, etc.

Imperial county can speak from experience, as her territory has witnessed the extinction of the antelope and burro deer, this latter being the largest and grandest deer of the West. Imperial has plenty of land which will make the best of reserves for desert and mountain forms.

WHAT IT WOULD COST.

The cost of establishing reserves and making definite their boundaries is a small one. The returns in a very few years will net a tenfold profit. When once established the State or nation, whichever establishes the reserve, must protect the game thereon—must prevent unlawful shooting, punish violators and keep down the predatory animals.

In conclusion we shall lay special emphasis upon the necessity of acting at once upon the problem of game reserves and game conservation. Our large game especially is passing out of existence. It is of far too great value to be lost in the manner that it is now going. We cannot afford to lose it. One dollar spent now will go farther than the expenditure of $20 five years hence. The status of our game shows it to be in a most critical state of affairs. Now is the time to act and act hard. The co-operation of the entire public is needed. A police force can do a great deal, but if the sentiment of the public is not behind them their efforts will ultimately fail.

The refuges should include forest or desert lands or both. There are many large areas in California almost unfit for anything else that are excellent regions for the purpose of game conservation.

THE PRIVATE PATENTS.

Where tracts of patented land lie owners may declare their holdings, or parts thereof, game reserves for a shorter or longer period of years. Any holder of land has this right—to declare his holding a game reserve for a period of three to five years, etc., so long as such area is at least 160 acres.

An ideal system would be to have game reserves all over the State with each near enough to the next so that game could pass from one reserve to another. This is apt to be of the greatest necessity in the future to prevent the natural outcome of inbreeding which might result among isolated groups of birds or animals.

The work of game conservation is a public matter, the purpose of which is to retain a good supply of game for every man or woman wishing to hunt the same. The public should for all time have access to those parts of the great national forest reserves not included in the game reserves. We should not allow our game to drift into the hands of a few, but keep it for the public in general. The public should take this work up and assist in every way possible. The fish and game protective associations stand at the head of the list. In addition to their efforts, the boards of Supervisors of the counties should take it up, as well as the Assemblymen and Congressmen. Private parties, especially those holding land in the game regions, can be of the greatest help in this work, both by setting examples of private game farms and by encouraging the movements otherwise.

This age stands for conservation, and our game is one of the great factors of conservation. It is of great value to us all. We must protect it and retain it as a national source of constant wealth. The Eastern States and the older countries of the world all protect their game. They have well-established systems of conservation and, as time goes on, value their game more and more.

We will do well to imitate them, but have the possibility of doing more than any of them. So let us be true sportsmen enough, of the first order, to improve our game conditions and benefit ourselves; to co-operate and pass on to the future generations those valuable gifts which were passed to us, in order that those who come after us shall not be deprived of treasures though our neglect and carelessness.

MARATHON MAKES GOOD.

Reaches High Total for This Year But Looks Even Better for Coming Season.

Six years ago the first Marathon was built with a borrowed capital of $2500. The beginning of the 1913 season finds the Marathon Motor Worsk with a complete modern factory, witha floor space of over 250,000 square feet and an output of 10,000 cars. The average increase per year has been 400 per cent.

The general sales manager of the Marathon company, H. H. Brooks, states that this year's increase does not adequately represent the possibilities of the present factory facilities, but that the number has been limited in accordance with the factory policy since its organization. Mr. Brooks's idea is that the way to reach the greatest success is to grow steadily as a result of the actual demand for Marathons by people who have either owned them or seen them in operation, that the best advertisement is the car itself, and that such growth is permanent and sustained.

That this policy has been greatly successful in the case of the Marathon plant has been amply demonstrated. A growth in six years from a $2500 concern, to a $1,000,000 corporation, with an increase in output from one car to 10,000 is ample justification for a continuance of that policy.

As a matter of fact, the 1913 addition to the Marathon adds much more than 100 per cent. to last year's capacity, and it will be 1914 before the maximum output is reached even with present facilities, but provision for future growth is necessitated by the certainty of the continued increase in Marathon demand.

In view of the fact that this is a factory and not an assembling plant, that it is by far the largest and almost the only motor car factory in the South, its success is of especial interest to the motor world.

Eyewitnesses of the game say that Buffalo really had no license to win, as George Brown led off for Newark with a triple and then neglected to score. Even Sharpe admits that Browne should have scored, as "Bud" fell down on his face fielding a drive while George was inhabiting third.

"Cy" Parkin was born twenty-eight years since. This auspicious event took place in Hudson, S. D., and the only thing that prevented the citizens from rising up and naming the town "Cy" was the fact that it had already been christened. Why any city should stick to a name like that with the title "Cy" running around loose, is beyond comprehension.

As a drinking man, Mr. Parkin isn't much of a success. He adheres strictly to lemonade and our various mineral waters. At the same time, he recognizes a free lunch on sight. He has a pronounced weakness for cheese and crackers, with an occasional radish on the side.

"Cy" is a college graduate. For years he attended a "bush" college in South Dakota. While he attempted only two studies, writing and recess, he neglected but one. That was writing. "Cy" played baseball and football on the side. The college had a fine football team. It was composed largely of coal miners, and assassinated a good many promising athletes from time to time.

"Cy" has been playing professional baseball for seven years. But he has only started. That explains why he doesn't pitch oftener. "How do you think I'm going to last twenty years if I throw my arm off in a single season?" queried "Cy," turning fiercely on his interviewer.

Here's hoping that you last forever and a day, "Cy." Without you, life in the Coast League wouldn't be worth the price of a meal ticket.

BASEBALL NOTES.

In a recent Central League game the battery for Grand Rapids was Smith, Smyck and Schmidt.

The veteran, Jack Flourney, is finishing the season with the Frankfort team of the Blue Grass League.

Attention of Giant supporters for a world's championship is called to what the Boston Red Sox did to to a left-hander named Plank.

Tom Drohan of the Kewanee team of the Central Association is a bear. His fourteenth straight win was a no-hit game, pitched against Hannibal, and he had won twenty out of twenty-three pitched up to August 30.

Ottumwa of the Central Association sold three players at the eleventh hour in Pitcher Frank Gregory to Cincinnati for $1500, and Pitcher James Dunn and Outfielder Dan Senno to Birmingham for $500 each.

In a double-header on August 28 in the Southern Michigan League the Adrian pitchers allowed Lansing but one hit in each game. White pitched the first game for Adrian, Troy the second. Lansing scored a run in the first game on errors.

Baseball at Henderson in the Kitty League was lagging, but now is on the boom. Cause: The pretty young girls of the town got out and sold booster tickets and no one could refuse to buy. Tip for other hard pressed minor league magnates.

Dave Green, recently declared ineligible to play in the South Atlantic League because he had drawn more than the salary limit, has quit the game for the season and gone to Chattanooga, where he has a store that demands his attention.

Bill Everett has been deposed as manager of the Cairo team of the Kitty League and the team finishes the season with Tim Flood in charge. A number of changes were made in the final two weeks of the season in hopes of landing up in the race.

Pitching a double-header for Savannah against Columbus, Heinie Shulz, who has been sold to the New York Highlanders, allowed but four hits in eighteen innings, two in each game. He walked but three men in the two games and struck out seventeen.

After Friend Williams had pitched a no-hit, no-run game for Bridgeport, in the Ohio-Pennsylvania League, Secretary Farrell notified the club not to use him again, as it was disclosed he was under suspension for failure to report to Dallas of the Texas League.

Secretary Farrell has issued notice that the claims of players of the defunct McKeesport Club of the Ohio-Pennsylvania League for salaries have been allowed and part payment will come out of the $350 which Topeka pays for Shortstop Jimmy Patterson of McKeesport.

In the recent field day events held at Ft. Wayne a new record for bunting and running to first was made by Booe of the Wheeling team, his time being three seconds flat. Booe also won the base circling event in fourteen seconds, and the seventy-five-yard dash in eight and one-fifth seconds.

In the coming fall series between the Browns and Cardinals in St. Louis conditions will be reversed in that the Browns will be strong favorites on the recent showing they have made in the American League. The series will start October 8 and seven games will be played.

The National is easily the home-run league of the two big shows. Recent averages give the older body 201 four-base swats against 126 for the younger. The leading home run swatter of the National League, Zimmerman, far outshines Baker and Speaker, leading the American.

Secretary Farrell is acting as paymaster for the defunct Sharon Club of the Ohio-Pennsylvania League. A check for $500 in payment for Allen, purchased by Washington, was sent to Farrell's office and he distributed the money among players who had not been paid their salaries.

Danny Blake of the Decatur team of the Three-I League became offended at the roasting he got from the spectators in a recent game in Peoria and started out to do the Ty Cobb stunt of getting satisfaction with his fists. He tackled the wrong man—an innocent bystander—and was arrested.

Albert Leak, who was considered the star pitcher of the Central Kansas League, was sold by Junction City following the close of tthe league season to Traverse City of the Michigan State League for $500. When not pitching, Leak played the outfield for Junction City because of his ability to hit.

Muscatine of the Central Association has used sixty-eight players in the season just closed. The position of the team in the race is evidence of the folly of such a policy without further comment. Three different managers tried to make something out of the jumble that the club directors insisted on handing them.

The Nebraska State Automobile Association has established a central bureau of information for tourists, in Omaha. Reports of the condition of the roads in all parts of Nebraska and adjacent sections of Iowa, Missouri and Kansas will be on file, and a man will be on duty daily to serve the automobilists.

A pinch hitter and utility man that can produce is a valuable asset to any club.

CHESS NOTES.

Frank Marshall entered a handicap tournament in England and won every game against his forty-nine competitors, yet was placed third in the prize list. Here is a chance for the Englishmen who have been so busy explaining why they have been beaten by the Americans in the last twenty years of Olympic games, to explain how they can beat Americans at chess under the conditions above set forth.

In this case, the absurdity is due to their new system of scoring games by differential values, instead of counting one point for a game won and half a point for a draw, as is the usual method. A mild suggestion toward the revision of the British tariff on games seems permissible.

Marshall encountered forty-eight opponents simultaneously at the British Federation meeting, winning losing three. On a second session he won twenty-seven, drew three and lost six, in a total of thirty-six games.

Marshall drew both games played with Dr. Speijer of Amsterdam, and is now engaged in a match with Janowski, in Paris.

Dave Barkeloo, the 15-year-old champion of Minnesota was the sensation of the recent Western Chess Association at Excelsior, although he did not take the championship. Only three men in the tournament beat him, while he won five and drew three of the remaining games. Among his defeated opponents were expert Lee of Chicago. His losses were against the three prize-winners.

O. E. Frazier of Los Angeles and A. G. Pearsall of San Diego are competitors in the King's Gambit correspondence tournament, which started last week under the patronage of Prof. Rice of New York, for the purpose of testing the opening in a variation favored for the defense by Spielmann, of Munich, who won the Abbazia gambit tournament.

KISSELS ON DELIVERY.

Co-operative motor delivery service is getting to be popular in some cities. A case in point is Minneapolis where three of the largest concerns in the city have their deliveries made under contract. The delivery company uses six Kissel Kar motor wagons of 1500 pounds capacity, each one of which is manned by a uniformed driver and assistant. Collection of packages are made at the store three times a day and the packages collected are taken to a clearing-room in the garage, where they are sorted and assigned to one of the five-route wagons which make three trips daily. The delivery company charges a contract price of a given sum per package.

BULL DURHAM INDIFFERENT.

"Bull" Durham seems to have given up all hopes of joining the Vernon pitching staff, this season at least. Having bought a half interest in a grocery store in the south end of the city, he is playing the part of a real business man. He says that he has not given up baseball entirely, but is working into something which will be his when the arm is not in shape or the season is not on. When next season comes around, if there are calls for his services, he may join the ranks again, but in the meantime, he will sell groceries.

Nothing but Class.

FLYER FROM FINLAND WINS.

Easy Victor in Five-Mile Dash at Pittsburgh.

Kiviat Takes Honors in One-Mile Event.

Drew Shows Class in Dash of One Hundred Yards.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 21.—Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish athlete, running in the five-mile race, for the senior championship of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States here, today won the event easily in 25:44 2-5. His nearest competitor was Harry J. Smith, the metropolitan champion, who finished several hundred yards behind him in an exhausted condition. Kohlemainen, however, seemed fresh at the finish.

While the foreign Olympic hero and the five-mile race were the features of the afternoon, there was an exceptionally good programme of track and field events.

A. R. Kiviat, Irish-American Athletic Club, won the one-mile race in 4:18 3-5, breaking the A.A.U. record and according to officials, could have hung up a new world's record with a little more effort. Kiviat ran easily and seemed to slow up on the back stretch of the last lap. J. A. Power, Boston A. A., who yesterday won the junior honors in this event, finished second, yards in the rear.

In the running high jump, J. O. Johnson, Boston A. A., and H. I. Grumpelt, the New York A. C., both Olympic participants, tied for first place with six feet three inches, equaling the A.A.U., record. In the jump-off, Grumpelt was unable to maintain that mark and dropped to second place.

In the pole vaulting, H. S. Babcock, New York A. C., Olympic winner and world's champion, was the center of interest. Babcock won the event easily with twelve feet, much below even the A.A.U. mark.

H. P. Drew, of the Springfield, Mass., High School, won the 100-yard dash in ten seconds flat.

For the fifth consecutive time, J. J. Eller, Irish-American, won the championship in the 220-yard high hurdles, with a mark of 25 1-5.

Results:

The 440-yard run: T. J. Halpin, Boston A. A., won; M. W. Sheppard, Irish-American A. C., second; A. Pepis, Irish-American A. C., third. Time 49 2-5.

The 100-yard dash: H. P. Drew, Springfield, Mass., High School, won; A. T. Meyer, Irish-American A. C., second; R. Carroll, Pittsburgh A. A., third. Time 10 seconds flat.

The 120-yard high hurdles: T. P. Nicholson, University of Missouri, won; E. M. Pritchard, Irish-American A. C., second; L. B. Darland, Dominican Lyceum, New York, third. Time 15 4-5 seconds.

Pole vault: H. S. Babcock, New York A. C., won, height, 12 feet; G. B. Dukes, New York A. C., second; Masters, Sewickley, Y.M.C.A., Pittsburgh, third.

Running high jump—J. O. Johnson, Boston A.A., first, with 6ft. 3in.; H. I. Grumpelt, New York A.C., who made the same distance but lost in jump-off to Johnson, second; Eugene Jennings, unattached, third. Equals A.A.U. record.

The 16-pound hammer throw—M. J. McGrath, Irish American A.C., won with 174.67ft.; P. Ryan, I.A.A.C., second, 172.62ft.; A. M. McDoughall, I.A.A.C., third, 149.97ft.

Run, hop, step and jump: Platt Adams, New York A. C., won, distance, 45.71 feet; M. J. Fahey, Irish-American A. C., second; H. Oltman, National A. C., third.

Five-mile race—Hannes Kolehmainen, unattached, won; Harry J. Smith, unattached, second; J. G. Silva, Boston A.A., third. Time, 25m. 43 2-5s.

Kolehmainen was given a wonderful ovation.

The 220-yard dash—A. T. Meyer, Irish American A.C., won; A. Robinson, Boston A.A., second; M. E. Robertson, N.Y.A.C., third. Time, 21 4-5s.

The 220-yard hurdles—J. J. Eller, Irish American A.C., won; F. Brady, N.Y.A.C., second; F. J. Myer, Pittsburgh A.A., third. Time, 25 1-5s.

The 16-pound shot—Patrick McDonald, Irish American A.C., won, with 48.51ft.; R. I. Beatty, New York A.C., second, with 46.89ft.; H. E. Kiagre, New York A.C., third, with 40.98ft.

Three-mile walk—R. B. Gifford, McCaddin Lyceum, Brooklyn, won; T. Carroll, Irish American A.C., second; A. Voeltmecko, Pastime A.C., third. Time, 22m. 14s.

Running broad jump — Platt Adams, New York A.C., won, with 22.44ft.; H. Fryckberg, Shannahan C.C., Philadelphia, second; D. Broderick, Irish American A.C., third.

Discus throwing—E. Muller, Irish American A.C., first, with 132.22 ft.; H. L. Beatty, N.Y.A.C., second; P. McDonald, Irish American A.C., third.

The 56-pound weight—P. J. Ryan, Irish American A.C., won with 37.87 ft.; Patrick J. McDonald, Irish American A.C., second, 37.50ft.; M. J. McGrath, Irish American A.C., third, 37.45ft.

Javelin throw—Harry Lott, Mohawk A.C., New York, won with 162.65ft.; Edward Aro, Kaleva A.C., Brooklyn, second, 152.58ft.; F. Lund, Irish American A.C., third, 147.99ft.

One-mile race won by A. R. Kiviat, Irish American A.C.; J. A. Power, Boston A.C., second; D. Y. Noble, New York A.C., third. Time, 4m. 18 3-5s. Kiviat broke the A.A.C. record.

The 880-yard run—M. W. Sheppard, Irish American A.C., won; D. S. Caldwell, Boston A.A., second; E. Frick, New York A.C., third. Time, 1m. 57 2-5s.

Another Attack on Shakespeare.

[London Chronicle:] Canon Lyttleton, headmaster of Eton, in a sermon preached at Stratford-on-Avon, declared that Shakespeare was not a Christian, and asked how it was that "one held to be the supreme interpreter of human life completely ignored the supreme wonder of earthly existence."

Sir H. Beerbohm Tree, who was interviewed on this subject, remarked of Shakespeare:

"To him it would have seemed a selfish credd to do good in order to obtain reward. Was he a Christian? Why, he was in a great sense even something more, in Dryden's undying words in 'Absalom and Achitophel,' he was

A man so various that he seemed to me

Dreadnought Moline

Investigate the Many Reasons Why You Should Buy the Moline Dreadnought "40"

A Classy View of the King of the Road

You'll Never Be Satisfied Until You Are the Possessor of This Car of Cars, When You Know It

A Few Reasons Why

124 INCH WHEEL-BASE—Insures an easy-riding car, with plenty of room in the tonneau. This is usually only found on cars costing from $2500 up.

FULL 10 INCH UPHOLSTERY—Ample coil spring of the best webbing, Turkish Rocker Springs throughout; and clean, sanitary, white, curled hair, covered with hand-buffed pebbled leather cut from the whole skin, make up an upholstery trimming ten inches deep that we do not believe is surpassed in any car in the world.

IMPROVED SPRINGS—Front, semi-elliptic; rear full elliptic. The spring equipment, together with the 124-inch wheel base and the deep upholstery assure you of perfect comfort, no matter how long the ride.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING SYSTEM—Complete electric lighting equipment, with dynamo and storage battery.

FLUSH SIDE BODY—The beautiful lines of the Moline Dreadnought are not surpassed by any other car. There is not a distinguishable difference between the two sides of the car, as there is no tool box, gas tank or other incumbrance in sight.

LONG STROKE, 40 H.P. MOTOR—The Moline Dreadnought was the first among long stroke motors, and has led ever since. This unit power plant including the 4½x6 motor, selective type transmission, and cone clutch, is supported on a three point suspension.

GAS TANK ON DASH—An indispensable innovation, for three reasons. 1. Enables raising carburetor six inches, giving greater accessibility. 2. Shortens suction pipe giving a live, snappy mixture. 3. Positive gravity feed on any grade. No matter how much gasoline in the tank every drop can be utilized.

OAKS KNOCK OUT CASTLETON.

The ex-tar opened the fifth with a single. Mitze forced him at second, R. Brashear to Litschi. It looked like a double on Mitze at first, and Umpire Newhouse went scampering over toward that base after judging the play at second. But the double did not develop. With Newhouse Tiedemann wrapped his arms around Litschi. No man can complete a double play while in the embrace of a strong, young gent weighing 220 pounds. So Lew did the next best thing, and let out a yell that could be heard for a mile. But the yell came too late. When Newhouse finally turned around and surveyed the premises, Tiedemann was standing at second with his arms folded and wearing an expression of childlike innocence. A murder could have been committed at second base, and Newhouse wouldn't have seen it. Not having been an eye witness of the "strong-arm" play, he called Mitze safe at first and refused to allow Hogan's claim of interference. Whereupon the Tigers held a little war dance of their own. Mr. Newhouse sought the advice of Mr. Hildebrand, but the latter did not happen to be dispensing any advice, and the decision stood. It was at this point that one fthe fans tried to "bean" Tiedemann with a bottle.

ROY OUT OF FORM.

Castleton looked acceptable to the fans just once. That was when he fanned Leard, the first hostile batsman. Right after that, things began to happen tto Roy. Patterson and Coy sandwiched a walk by Zacher with singles, snugging up the sacks. Fast fielding here intervened to stave off the slaughter for another inning, the two Brashear's and Litschi collaborating in a double play on Cook's drive that sen Oakland to the field.

In the second, the Oaks resumed slamming Castleton right where they left off. Coo hit to left, and went to second on a passed ball. Tiedemann and Mitze were easy victims. Malarkey, not supposed to be much of a factor from a batting standpoint, jolted a double to right, scoring Cook. Leard singled, and filched second. Patterson walked, and Zacher landed Malarkey and Leard at the counting pan with a left field single. Exit Castleton. Enter Brackenbridge. Coy was quietd on a fly to Kane.

But further than this the switch in pitchers did not produce the desired results. Hetling lacreated a Brackenbridge bender for two bases in the third. Cook bunted to Brack, who fell down once or twice, and then gaily tossed the ball into right field. Hetling counted, and Cook ran to second. Tiedemann sacrificed, and Cook anchored at the plate an Mitze's fly to Carlisle in deep left.

FIRST TIGER RUNS.

Vernon began to furrow the sod in the fourth. Kane and Bayless beat it to first ahead of outfield drives. Roy Brashear double Kane home and Bayless to third. Bayless scored on Litschi's out, Hetling to Tiedemann, Gus passing up an easy plan at the plate. Brashear went to third on this play, and scored when Litschi drove to Hetling, and Gus chose to operate on Lew at first. Tiedemann transfixed an infield fly to Burrell.

Coy singled infield after two of his mates had been embalmed in the fifth, and Hetling tripled him home. Cook was killed off on a fly to Kane.

Kane hung up Vernon's fourth ace in the sixth. He drove to Cook and contrived to knock the ball out of Tiedemann's hands. Cook's attempt to kick a field goal on R. Brashear's grounder, and Litschi's single, blazed a trail to the plate, for Kane.

Oakland widened the gap with two runs in the eighth, with singles by Malarkey, Patterson and Hetling and a wild pitch as the ingredients. Brashear's homer in the eighth goaded the Oaks into a two-run outbreak in the ninth. With one down, Mitze sorted out four wide ones. Malarkey nicked a batting percentage of 1000, by fanning. Leard walked, and scored with Mitze when Patterson dropped a single to center.

The "worm" is due to flop about twice today.

The score:

DUCK PROSPECTS ARE VERY PROMISING.

Local sportsmen are looking forward to a great duck season. In visiting the preserves of the different clubs, it is seen that there are thousands of birds and a great deal of water.

Sprig are plentiful on all the preserves. There are thousands of teal, also, and a great many mallard. There are some blue-wing and canvasback to be found on all the ponds, but not as many as there were found in the olden days.

Up to about five years ago these birds were quite plentiful in Southern California, but now are scarce.

At the Bolsa Chica and Gadwell clubs there are thousands of birds and plenty of water. The members of the Sunset, West Shore and Lomita clubs are looking forward to the opening with anticipation of big bags. It looks as if there will be more ducks for the big day this year than ever before.

There are a great many ducks in the waters of the Green Wing and Pasadena clubs.

The birds seen on the preserves are home birds. The club members who have been watching the waters say that never before were there so many local birds in the waters at this time of the year.

The Irritating Color White.

[Boston Herald:] A London physicians assert that children are irritated and made peevish by the use of the color white on and around them; that children's clothes, cots, toys, perambulators, the nursery wall papers and ceiling should be green, blue, yellow, anything but red or white; that nurses should wear dresses of slate, gray, blue or print. White is hurtful to the retina, and frets the eyes as well as the nerves.

And now will there be a crusade against whiteness? Is there a white as well as a yellow peril? Melville admitted that he could explain himself only in a dim and random way. The physician in London merely asserts: he does not inquire into the psychology. Is white no longer to be associated with the innocence of the child, the purity of the bride, the benevolence and wisdom of old age, the vision of the four and twenty elders and the redeemed? There are some that place by reason of its imaginative flight the "St. Agnes" of Tennyson, with is intense white light far above the "Idyls" and "In Memoriam." There are sensitive aesthetes who find perfect beauty in the restful whiteness of a chamber door. Nor should it be forgotten that white, the color of mourning in Japan today, has been the outward symbol of grief in western lands.

Largest Yet.

SQUAD OF FOOTBALL MEN.

Hopefuls Out for U.S.C. Varsity.

Regular Game on for Third Week in October.

Game With U. C. May Be Staged at Race Track.

Football situation at U.S.C. and all the car marks of a banner season. The largest squad in the history of the institution is working each afternoon, under the leadership of Coach Manning and Adamson. The new coach has a great hit with the men and there is an air of serious intent and purpose pervading the whole

The Trojan varsity has a hard schedule this season, beginning with the first game on October 19 and ending with the clash on Thanksgiving with the University of California, and the Australian team and the Occidental College team will be played in the south between the two games with the northern universities. At the present time there is a great deal of discussion going on in regard to the playing field of the U.S.C. game on October 19. The Los Angeles Harness Association has made a tempting offer to the management of the university to play the game to the Exposition Park grounds. Coach Howard has not as yet signed a contract with the local association, but would like to put the game there on account of the park. The trouble with the park is the fact that it would be almost impossible to get up bleachers to accommodate the seating capacity to hold the crowd that is expected for the game. The interest in this battle between the two colleges is fast growing into one of the big western games of the season. In building the stands these will be so arranged that they can be put on the outside of the field as the game is going to be played on the infield there would be about fifty yards between the field of play and the rooting sections. The management of the field itself is also worrying the U.S.C. management. It will take about one month to get the baseball field in the best condition, and the athletic authorities doubt very much if the playground at the park can be put in shape for the big game in so short a time. At the present time it is in bad shape but packs very hard underneath which is bad for the game. Should these difficulties can be overcome Coach Howard says that he will be very glad to put on the game at Exposition Park, but the first thing to be considered is the Trojan varsity, which has a better chance to win on the playground the game will be played there, but if the chances are the game will be played at the

The matter will not be definitely settled until the arrangement of the turf and surface of the field can be learned that there will not be any rain days before the game there will be no difficulty, but the team will have at least this length of time to get used to the new ground.

SHOOTING NOTES.

Clay-bead blue rocks will rest this week. That is, they will not be used until late in the afternoon, when The members of Company A have arranged for the use of the range. A number of the soldiers are also members of the Los Angeles Rifle and Revolver Club and these may break a few shots after the regular military practice is over.

There are still a great many doves in the vicinity of Elsinore, according to those brought in by hunters. The birds are rather scarce now, but an increase in the limit is brought in from the north near this city.

"Although there are a great many ducks at Bear Lake, but it is expected that they will leave before the season opens, as is their usual custom. It is unknowing person going there now would think that that would be the greatest duck shooting ground to be found, but soon after the opening of the season, there will be few, if any, there, if former seasons are to be taken into consideration."

TO PREVENT SKIDS.

"There says Desmund for the Tires That Do Not Glide Is Stronger than Ever Before.

"For the first time in the history of the company advance orders are being received weeks ahead of when they will be wanted. This is the case of the San Francisco and Los Angeles branches of the United States Tire Company where motorists are beginning to make sure that they will have the non-skidding treads or chain-like anti-skid tires when the rains come on, placing their orders for delivery in November delivery.

"Manager John S. Wise of the Los Angeles branch judges that reservations already been made in Southern California for a hundred thousand. These do not include the orders of anti-skid tires which the various agencies have ordered for the coming winter business, but come from owners who want to make sure of delivery when the rains start. The condition obtains in San Francisco where Manager Tom Williams says the demand is even greater than in the southern end of the state.

"The district manager C. A. Desmund says more anti-skid tires will be sold this winter than ever before. They will be used less, he says, as users have found that the anti-skid plants and bringing the machine to a standstill, but they prevent skidding under additional service.

CHANGES MADE IN NEW RULES FOR FOOTBALL.

All Players Should Wise Themselves Up to What They May Expect This Winter—No More Freak Goals Possible—Arm and Hand May Now Be Used in Coming Down the Field.

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

THE changes in the 1912 football rules have made the great American intercollegiate sport one of great possibilities, where brains will be held at a bonus. Straight football can be used and also the chance for more trick plays is offered. In short, the game has been opened up more than ever. However, there is one point that we cannot get away from, and that is the fact that the team holding the ball will be the one on the winning end of the score.

The first change is in the field itself, which has been altered from 330 feet in length to 300 feet from goal line to goal line, but there is a ten-yard zone at each end of the field, behind the goal line. In this zone it will be possible to complete the forward pass and score a touchdown. This means that the man who is to receive the forward pass may be across the goal line, but will not be ruled out if he takes the ball inside the ten-yard line and scores.

KICK-OFF CHANGED.

The kick-off has also been changed, due to the shortening of the field. The games this year will be started by kicking off from a point sixty yards distant from the goal of the team receiving the kick. This rule has been made to do away with the possibility of kicking the ball over the goal line, as would be the case if it was on the fifty-yard line.

New or substitute players may report to either the referee or the umpire this year instead of just to the referee, as was the case last year. The size of the ball has also been defined this season. It must not be over twenty-eight and one-half inches on its long axis or under twenty-eight inches in circumference. On its short axis it may not be over twenty-three inches in circumference or under twenty-two and a half. The weight may not be more than fifteen ounces or under fourteen ounces.

The length of the intermissions between the first and second periods and the third and fourth have been shortened from two to one minute each. Another change has been made in connection with this time rule. When a fair catch is made after time has expired the catch shall be allowed and the ball declared dead after the following play is completed.

NO MORE FREAK GOALS.

There are several changes under rule six, but of no very serious moment. The opportunity to make a fair catch is still further explained this year. The difficulty of last season in having a bounding ball score a goal has been remedied. The rules now state that the kick shall not count if the ball touches the ground or any player, after leaving the kicker's foot, before passing over the crossbar.

Under rule seven, the kick-off privileges of the loser of the toss are more definitely described. The loser of the toss has exactly the same privilege in regard to choice at the beginning of the third period as had the winner of the toss at the beginning of the game.

Under rule nine, it is provided that a backfield man going up on the line of scrimmage must conform to the same position of hands and feet as the other linemen. It is also clearly provided in this rule that if one player of a side is in motion and it happens to be a man on the line of scrimmage, another man must take his place, as there must always be seven men on the rush line when the ball is put in play.

TWENTY-FIVE-YARD LINE GONE.

Rule ten, regarding the kick-off, has been modified materially. In the past the side kicking out, after the kick-off, was allowed up to the twenty-five-yard line. Now it can have only to the twenty-yard line, while the opponents may come up on the twenty-yard line. It is also provided, under rule fifteen, as there have been many claims that when on a kick-out a ball is booted out of bounds the opposite side might refuse to have it kicked over again, regarding this as a penalty; it is now provided that in kicking the ball, in a case like this, is not a penalty, and may not be declined by the opposing side.

BIG CHANGE IN EIGHTEEN.

Rule eighteen has been greatly altered in that it now provides that the men coming down the field under a punt or a forward pass may use their arms and hands to ward off their opponents. The forward pass rule has been changed so that it is now possible to throw the ball any distance toward the opponents' goal, instead of within a twenty-yard limit.

THE VITAL CHANGE.

Rule twenty-one carries the most vital change of the season. Here the team is allowed four downs to advance the ball ten yards, instead of three as was the case last year. This means that straight football will have a chance and that heavy line-plunging men will once more be in style.

Rule twenty-five has been changed so that only one man is allowed to walk up and down on each side of the field, instead of three as last year, and five as was the case formerly. Rule twenty-seven does away with the field judge, so the officials will be the referee, umpire and linesmen. The doing away with the twenty-yard zone for the forward pass was the death knell for the field judge, but we will welcome this change, as it will remove one more extra man from the field of play.

GOLF NOTES.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

The Ameer of Afghanistan has acquired the golf habit and there has been great excitement in Scotch professional golf circles since His Majesty sent over an urgent message that a first-class professional be packed up and dispatched to Afghanistan at once. This pampered menial will be required to lay out a golf course in the palace grounds at Kabul, instruct salaaming Arabs in the gentle art of green keeping, make the royal golf clubs, and teach Afghan courtiers how to play golf just a shade less well than His Majesty himself that will ensure peace and prosperity to the buffer state.

The emoluments attain proper oriental splendour, but alas, they carry with them heavy responsibility. For one thing, the Afghan language, the rhymthic Arabic, is profoundly deficient in expressive swear words. Indeed, they have not even a comfortable equivalent for "Gee Whiz!"

The making of the course should be a simple matter, however, for Kabul itself is but a piece of rescued desert and natural sand bunkers abound.

In these dreary prosaic times when pirates and soldiers of fortune and properly adventurous gentlemen are almost unknown, your Scotch golf professional is a lucky fellow and comes in for all the adventure. Sultans and Nawabs, Bigums and Jams, Ameers and Khedives, Shahs and Czars are all taking up golf with feverish zest because it combines all the dignity of kings in theory and all the strategy of war, all the skill of armaments, all the energy of the hunt, all the poise of the diplomatist, and all the royal vocabulary in practice. So the golf professional is dispatched to foreign lands and the awful responsibility of international good will rests upon his shoulders. Then there is always the jolly chance that your oriental potentate will return to first principles and consign his beloved teacher to the darkest dungeons of the castle every time the royal player goes off his game, to say nothing of an occasional decapitation just to keep the sport lively.

There is trouble brewing for the player who declines to hand in a score in club competition unless it happens to be a good one. A long article in the London World and another in Golfing are devoted to this subject, which is condemned as thoroughly unsporting.

The indictment goes on to say that many a player will hold his card until he has ascertained other scores, when he will always fail to record his own should it not be a winner. To obviate this, another new and menacing rule is to be instituted to the effect that no scores must be disclosed until all cards are in.

It seems a hard, unkind rule to make a man record a really bad score whether he wants to or not but we can imagine what a comfort such an arrangement would be to those responsible for keeping the course tidy, around about the twelfth and thirteenth holes the litter of torn-up cards on a tournament day is positively tragic.

The French golfers have taken up "goat golf," which they acquired from the United States, but they found the name altogether too inartistic and changed it into "Tiger golf." You can't get a Frenchman's goat, but you can acquire his tiger, and the system seems to have caught on wonderfully. Tigers, I observe, are a good deal dearer than goats at present, being wrought in silver and costing twenty-five francs each. Hence tiger golf in France is rather an exclusive pastime and signifies affluence.

They had deluges of rain every single day throughout August in Great Britain and every kind of sportsmen sent up a moan that could be heard in sunny California, but now they are trying to smile hopefully since the green-keepers have assured them that nothing could have been better for the courses. Links or no links, however, you would never get a Californian to swap weather with dear old England even for a month. Still, all the same, those lovely links at Beverley, the fine new course at San Gabriel, the new Altadena links, the new Midwick links, and the self-confident Annandale links can all do with a raging deluge at the present time—sixteen gallons to the quart, please, Mons. Pluvius, when you do start, and don't come for a mere week-end. Make it a month while you are about it. We shall all doubtless grumble at the time, but we shall love you for it afterwards.

The Roebuck Club's professional, H. H. Barker, made a wonderful score on the Alabama course last week when he achieved the round in 33, 30 and 33. He secured two 2's, five 3's, and all the rest 4's—par for the course being 72.

Which reminds me, there were actually fifteen rounds under 70 in the Baden-Baden tournaments, and this notwithstanding such deluges of rain on two of the days that the pros complained that, while the outward half was not so bad, coming back was awful since one had to play against the tide! C. H. Mayo made the best single round with 65.

In the meantime Prince Albert of Schleswig-Holstein has been trying to live down his title by winning the Homburg tournament with great eclat.

A new garage is planned for Los Angeles, which will be the largest automobile house in Southern California.

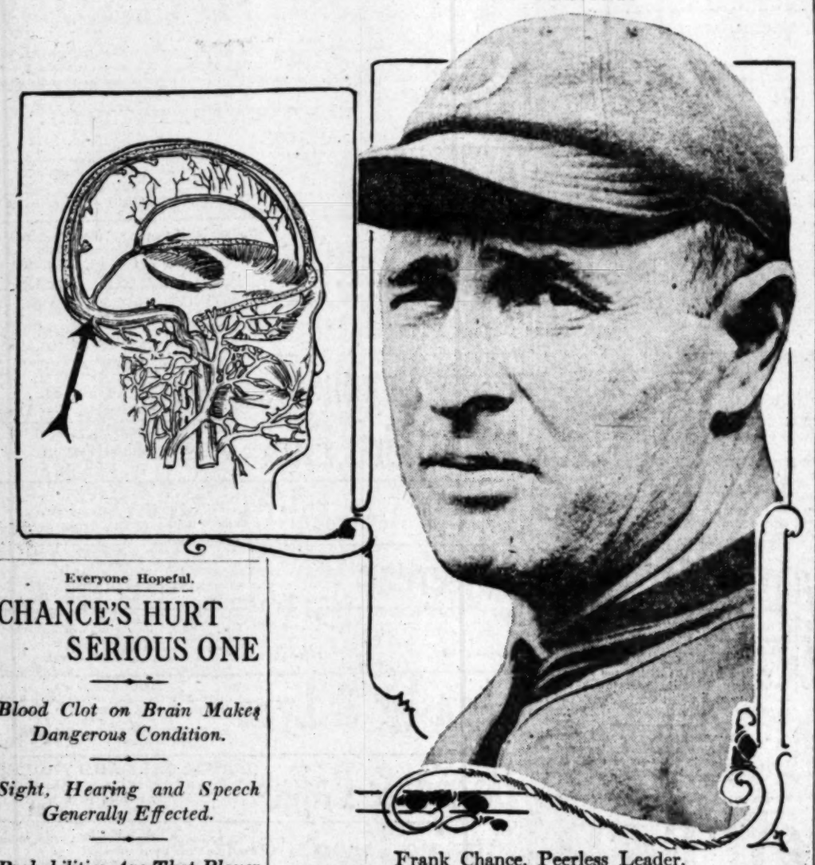
Fresno Man Who Became Famous.



Frank Chance, Peerless Leader.
Wonderful manager of Chicago Cubs, who may return to baseball again after operation performed to remove a blood clot from his brain. Arrow shows the affected spot on his head.

Everyone Hopeful.

CHANCE'S HURT SERIOUS ONE

Blood Clot on Brain Makes Dangerous Condition.

Sight, Hearing and Speech Generally Effected.

Probabilities Are That Player Will Completely Recover.

WHEN the news was flashed across the country via the "Pink Sheet Route" that Frank Chance was to undergo a ticklish operation, the removal of a bloodclot from the base of the brain, it started a veritable baseball witching hour.

It is safe to say that at one time or another every ball fan between the ages of 10 and 75, who is any kind of a fan at all, has heard of Chance. And it is equally safe to guess that every one of those fans on reading of his operation will say as one man: "Gee, I hope he gets well." So he very probably will live up to his name and come back to the great national game as good as new.

Of course it is hardly likely that Chance will ever again take active part in the game, as his contract with Murphy expires this year and he is so "well-heeled" that he could well afford to retire to a life of ease. But he won't, take it from anyone who knows a real down-to-the-ground player like Chance.

The fact that he is the manager of the Cubs at the paltry(?) salary of about $25,000 annually and owns a California orange grove isn't a circumstance to the fact that he has been for twenty years a fine ball player, first, last and at all times on the job.

Although every one is more or less acquainted with Frank Chance's history as a man and as catcher and first baseman in the big leagues it is not generally known that he has perhaps stopped more "bean balls" than any other player in the game today, and the fact that he cultivated the habit of stopping them on a certain spot directly behind and above the left ear is responsible for his present jaunt to the hospital.

By actual count twenty-eight balls have bounced off Frank's cranium and each one contributed its share of damage to the sensitive nerves and delicate blood vessels of the head until the severe headaches from which he suffered for the past year became unbearable and the knife was the last resort to regain his health.

Expert diagnosis of his case proved that a blood clot in the cerebellum, arising from a hemorrhage either from one of the arteries supplying the brain or from the sinews which lie contiguous to the brain, gave rise to the symptoms which caused his suffering, and was no doubt brought on by the constant irritation to this most delicate part of the human body.

In speaking of this operation, Dr. Andrew Stewart Lobingier, a well-known authority on all things surgical in this city, had this to say:

"Of course Mr. Chance's ultimate recovery depends largely on the size and situation of the blood clot before removal, the injury by pressure to the brain substance and the length of time before an operation was determined upon. Injuries in this region often result in very serious impairment of the motor nerves, which govern the muscles of the legs and arms, as well as those which preside over the co-ordination of movements of the body so that the entire muscular system acts as a unit and without confusion of movement.

"In almost all instances of pressure on the cerebellum, whether from blood clots, cysts or tumors, the optic nerve of vision is likely to be seriously impaired and in many instances the patient may become partially or wholly blind. The success therefore resulting from an operation on the brain would depend largely on the promptness with which the correct diagnosis would be made and the promptness and skill with which it is performed.

"Paralysis of the opposite side from the head injury is also to be prevented only by the early removal of the pressure on the brain."

This concise statement of this case by Dr. Lobingier gives one a clear idea of the danger of head injuries to ball players, who depend almost entirely on their optic and motor nerves for the pursuit of their profession, and as Frank Chance was particularly fortunate in having Dr. Frolich, the eminent German specialist on operations of the head and brain, to attend him, it is not unlikely that by the time this goes to press he will no doubt be well on the road to recovery.

However, it might be well just to casually caution the men who encourage the annual annihilation of grandmothers to be a bit wary how they stop the "bean balls" of designing adversaries in future, as in this one thing might not be pleasant to follow the example of the "Big Chief."

LOS ANGELES MOTORMAN WAS THE FIRST TO INJURE CHANCE.

"FRANK CHANCE was not hurt by a succession of bumps on the head by pitched balls, but by one pitched ball, and I saw it pitched."

This was the startling statement made yesterday by "Boomey" Overall, once pitcher for the Chicago Cubs and now living in this city.

"The first accident to Chance happened sixteen or eighteen years ago in Visalia, Tulare county. It was in a game between Fresno, for which Chance was catching, and the Visalia team.

"Along about the sixth inning the Visalia pitcher flung a high, fast inshoot and the ball hit Chance on the left side of the head back of the ear.

"He dropped to the ground as if shot. He was carried from the field unconscious and sent home to Fresno that night on the train. He did not really recover his senses for several days, and for sixteen years his hearing and speech have been affected by that blow.

"That blow broke up the game and the pitcher, Charley Button, quit baseball that day.

"He is now an employee of the Pacific Electric Railway in this city, where he has been for some years at the car barns at Seventh street and Central avenue."

Easy for Some.

FAME COMES TO BROTHERS.

Baseball Genius Crops Out in Many Families.

Delehanty Boys Have Won the Highest Honors.

Tebeau, Ewings and Clarksons Among the Noted.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

"Killilay went out, R. Brashear to N. Brashear," droned a jaded scribe into an over-worked telephone in the cell set apart for the newspaper toilers at Washington-street Park, Thursday.

The news was not important in itself. The fans didn't care whether Killilay went out that way or through the gate. It was valuable only in incubating the reflection that some people are inclined to make baseball a family affair. The Brashear boys are related. Some, who have noticed the similarity in their names, may have suspected as much. They are brothers.

But they lack a lot of having a monopoly on this brotherly business. They have rivals right in this league in the athletic persons of Del and Ivan Howard. The Brashear case probably is more notorious, however, as Roy and "Kitty" are working on the same team. Both have seen service in the big league. Del Howard also illuminated the big show for a number of years, but his kid brother hasn't been able to make the riffle yet. He was drafted this season, but lost out in the draw. He is young, and has both hopes and prospects.

Jack Killilay is a victim of one of the most acute cases of family baseball infection in recent years. There are four brothers in the tribe, and every mother's son of them has pitched professional ball. The others are Harry, who tried out with the Angels in the spring, and Ed and Martin. All are heavers worthy of their hire, but Jack is the most celebrated of the bunch. He was with the Boston Red Sox last season, and has been showing major league form this year.

Then there are the Gregg brothers, Vean, of Cleveland, and his younger and less illustrious kinsman, who hopes to win a few games for Portland before he retires. Elmer Criger, who pitched some of the best and some of the fiercest baseball seen in these parts while playing with the Angels, is proud to be known as Lou Criger's little brother.

The Stovall family has given a trio of brothers to professional baseball. George, manager of the St. Louis Browns, is the leading member of the clan. The others are Jess, formerly with Vernon and almost endless big league teams, and Sam, who has minor-leagued at odd times. "Dutch" Schmidt of the San Francisco club, and Charley Schmidt, who aided the Detroit Tigers into an American League pennant or two, are known as the "backstopping brothers."

Frank Arellanes of Sacramento also has a brother who was quite a ball player once upon a time. Some of the more ancient fans will remember Abel Arellanes, who brought fame and glory to Oakland, Watsonville, and other promising cities back in the infancy of baseball. Abel even now gets out and shakes the kinks out of his legs about once a week in a semi-professional way.

FAMOUS DELEHANTYS.

Six brothers went out from the modest Delehanty domicile to do battle on the diamond. The late Ed Delehanty ran second to none of them as a slugger, and the fans still talk about his record of four home runs and a single off Terry of Chicago in 1896, equalling the mark made by Bobby Lowe the year before. Jim Delehanty was some slugger himself, and aided materially in Detroit's triumphs. He is nursing a pair of bad legs at the present writing. Frank Delehanty worked in the American League for a couple of years, and Joe had a sup of coffee or two in the National. Tom is on the retired list. Will is the baby of the family.

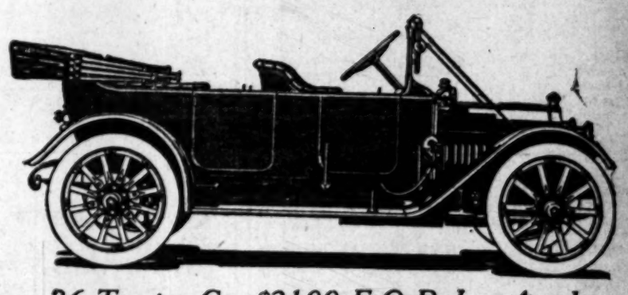
The Donohue clan contributed four brothers to the professional ranks, Pat Donohue, who went from Portland to the Boston Americans; the famous "Jiggs," who in his day was regarded as a worthy rival of Hal Chase, and Frank and Will, lesser luminaries. Pat was a catcher, and "Jiggs" worked in the wake of the wood in his youth. One cold spring morning, "Jiggs" stepped on a patch of ice that had been late in thawing out, and came down so hard that he found it impossible for several days to assume the kangaroo crouch used by backstops. This converted "Jiggs" into a first baseman. He worked out in that position while waiting for nature and the club trainer to heal his wounds, and during this time it was discovered that he had been born to play that bag.

Then there were the Zamlock boys, Carl and Archie. Carl pitched for San Francisco last season. Archie went to the big league along with Charlie Enright, but an injury to one of his knees put him permanently out of the running.

"Dad" Rohrer, the little second catcher of the Oakland club, is the son of a real ball player, and shows that cases of consanguinity on the diamond is not entirely confined to brothers, not to mention Jim O'Rourke, and his athletic offspring.

Probably a census of organized baseball would reveal more cases of this nature, but those cited are sufficient to show that the baseball bacillus has a fondness for singing out certain families.

Chalmers MOTOR CARS 1913



36 Touring Car $2100 F.O.B. Los Angeles

The Striking Beauty of the Chalmers "Thirty-Six" Is Its Striking Beauty

Some one recently remarked that the millennium wouldn't really be here until a strange genius devised a way to make a stylish article comfortable.

The possession of this combination—beauty and perfect ease—is a Chalmers characteristic.

The Chalmers "Thirty-Six" is the fashion plate for cars of its class and better, and one to be proud of in the most expensive company. It has an impressive dignity that attracts attention.

No Chalmers "Thirty-Six" owner is ashamed to drive his car in five-thousand dollar company or better. It has the grace and manners of the best society, and the best people are driving Chalmers cars for that reason.

There is no poor finishing of Chalmers cars, no faded colors, no loose construction to make a Chalmers owner envy his extravagant brother.

Every Chalmers "Thirty-Six" gets twenty-one coats of the best paint and varnish. Colors are deep and cheerful to the eye, in combinations chosen especially for their attractiveness and good taste. Trimmings are made to conform with Chalmers style, the Top and Windshield are designed for beauty and durability.

With Chalmers Distinctive Style goes always Chalmers Distinctive Comfort. Eleven-inch upholstery makes the seats as restful as an arm chair. Everything has been done that can be done to make motoring a rest instead of a strain. The springs are long and flexible, and the tires are large. Rough roads have no terrors for Chalmers drivers.

In a Chalmers the longer the ride, the greater the pleasure. Come and see these cars at our showrooms.

THE FINAL CHOICE

In these days when there are scores of good automobiles manufactured, when the buyer may well be perplexed as to the final choice, it is foolish buncombe to advertise any car as the "best on earth." There is no best.

The wise buyer today looks both at the car and the organization back of the car.
A guarantee is no good unless it will be fulfilled.
Any car may go wrong. An automobile is but a piece of machinery.
If the car goes wrong, what about the guarantee?
Will your seller take proper care of you? That is the vital question today. Is the seller a permanency?
Will his organization be here a year from today?
Buy a good car and from an organization that is stable.

The Kissel Kar is the Equal of Any Car

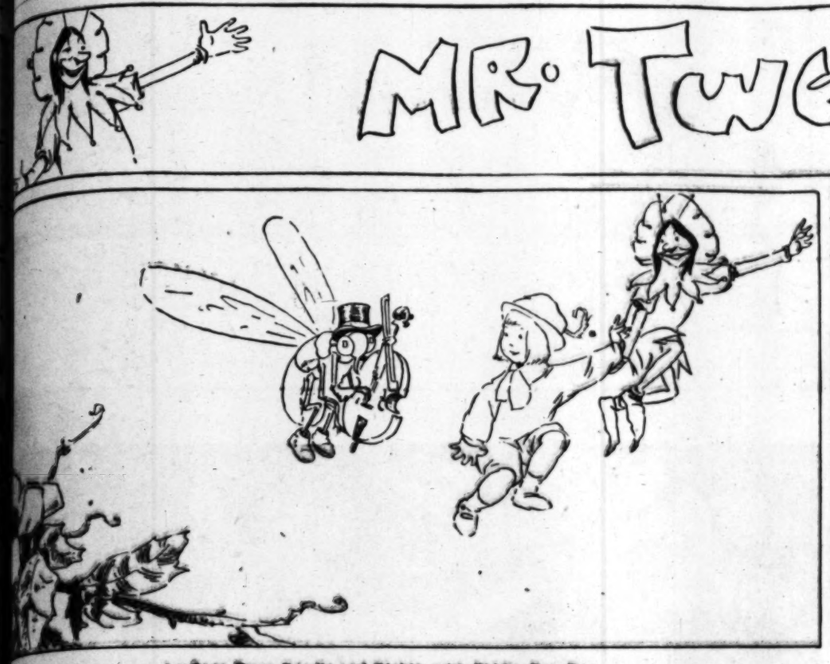
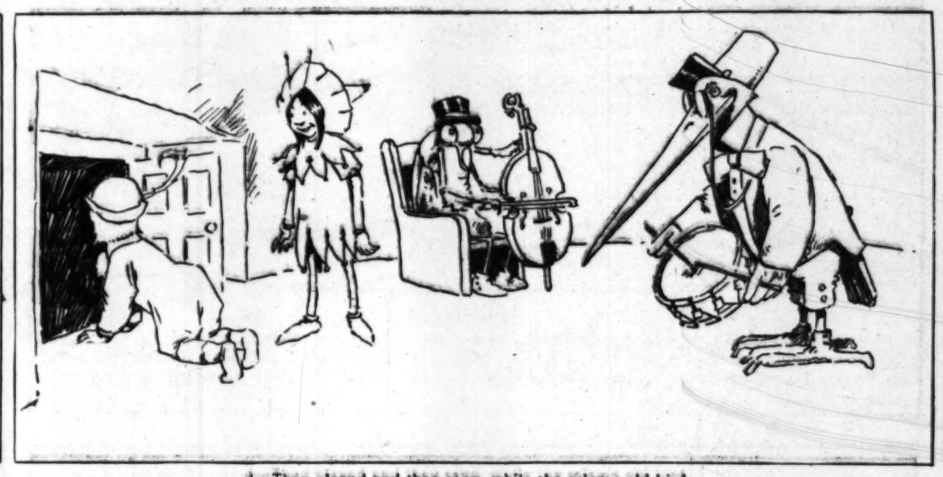
MR. TWEE DEEDLE



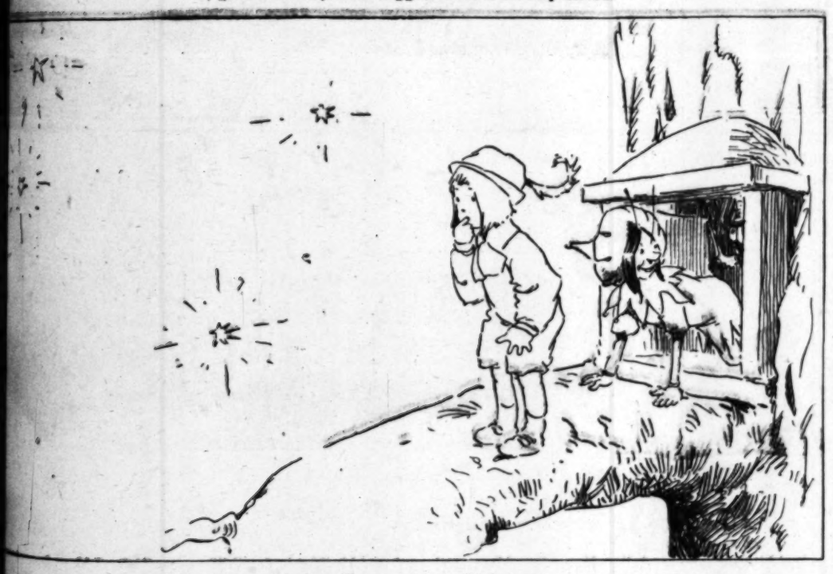
1—Once Twee-Deedle and Dickie, with Fiddle-Dee-Dee,
Flew to Woodpecker's home in the hollow oak tree.

2—While the locust played softly the other two sang
'Til the woods all around them with melody rang.

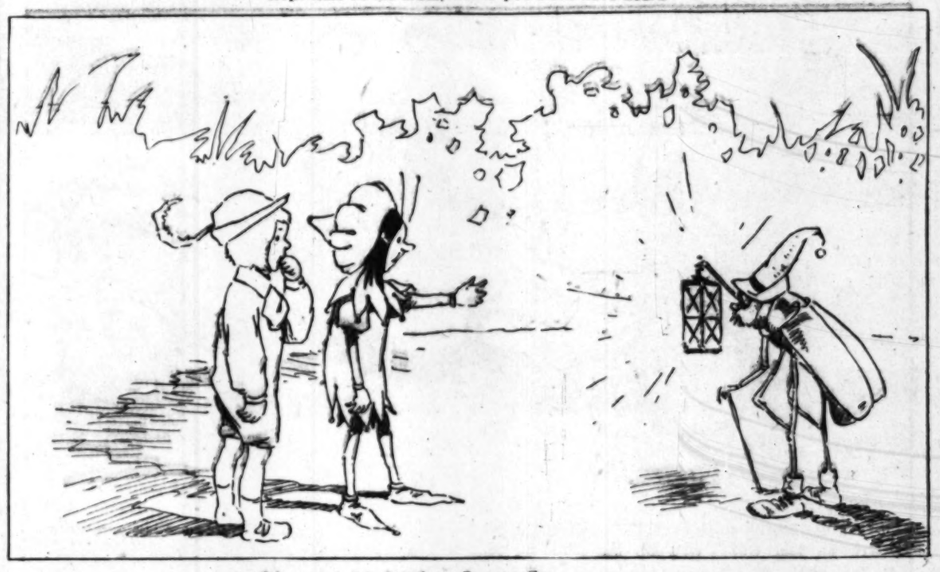
3—In a minute Old Red Cap's front door was thrown wide,
And the Woodpecker begged them to all step inside.



4—They played and they sang, while the solemn old bird
Kept time on his drum, which you often have heard



5—When at last home they started Dick found to his fright
That they'd sung day to sleep and 'twas pitchy dark night!



6—"Never mind," said Twee-Deedle; "here comes our good friend
Father Firefly. Surely his lantern he'll lend."

7—The firefly kindly soon showed them the way
Home, where Dolly was waiting to hear of the day.

8—When she'd heard Dolly promised that never again
Would she or her playmates cause fireflies pain.

THE DIRECTORY OF TODAY

The wide folded girdle defines the waist line. Note the long sleeves with tiny buttons on the outer line and a pleated lace ruffle at the wrists and extending halfway to the elbow.

A smart military hat shows the uprolled brim that hints of the dashing shapes of the leaders of the revolution. At one side is a white wing; but a stiff brush or a cockade is equally popular in our modern directory.

BEHOLD, it is here, with many councils, numerous committees and protegees, and the rule just as absolute as that of any monarch. Brought down from the days of history, and conspicuous for lack of any reign of terror, the modern directory has been firmly established in fashionland. Its subjects are loyal and—let it be added—charmed, for the directoire modes have a dash and a charm that are decidedly becoming to the majority of women.

The styles of the modern directoire are modifications of the ones more than a century ago, and therein lies the art of designers. Evidences of other days are introduced on all parts of a gown, and the result is a new beauty for womankind.

In the white silk frock for afternoon there is the soft pannier, held down by buttons that extend from the bodice in a straight line on the left. There is the Robespierre collar of satin, turned down over a double frill of shadow lace.

In the neckwear the directoire influence is most decided. The collar of lace is turned back flat, away from the neck, and a double frill of lace falls in front—promising to fill in any coat that may be worn. These collars, by the way, are developed in black-and-white silks, and are important accessories for the coming season.

On frocks the broad girdle with long sash ends has claimed a prominent place. Of red and blue on a cream-colored dress it gives a fresh, novel effect. The striped silk hints of the French colors, and you need not worry if the ends are seen under the smart white cloth cutaway jacket added to this costume.

Buttons play an important role in the modern directory. They are shown in black satin, outlining the revers, the small vest and the front of the pannier. The white silk shows the contrast of black advantageously. Black tulle in pleated form outlines the collar and falls over the hands, while a black girdle carries out the note of black in the underskirt. A straight, deep cuff edges each coat sleeve, having black buttons on the outer seam.

For the street there is a directoire suit of soft "velours de laine," or woolen velour. Blue is the color, with braid binding on the jacket. Large buttons fasten the cutaway jacket, and red surah forms the folded girdle and the sash hanging in front. A broad lace collar gives the new cape effect and the frill of lace completes the military costume. This coat, by the way, can be turned back and shows a red silk vest with brass buttons.

Just a word regarding the materials that are used in the making of the new fall models. This for the benefit of those thrifty women who provide their own material and have their own tailor or dressmaker copy an imported model, or are fortunate enough to be able to do it themselves.

From Paris come suits made up in broche—which is either cloth or silk—a French term for brocade, meaning material having elaborate figures woven on the surface of the fabric.

Velours, in all the softness of velvet, are seen in the high-priced models; laine, plush and cloths of new and beautiful weaves.

Bedford cords in woolens are good. This type of weave is repeated on silk in bengaline, which will be used largely for trimming purposes, collars, cuffs, revers and vests.

Poiret shows some stunning afternoon costumes that in every line carry out the directoire idea. These are of satin brocade and epingle velvet, with draped skirts that in many cases are opened up the front, falling gracefully apart for perhaps twelve or fourteen inches.

No hesitancy need be felt by women concerning the new ruler of the modes. The success of the directory and the consequent becomingness of the styles are assured facts. If you doubt it, look at the representation before you.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

SMOOTHING OUT VACATION KINKS.

HOW do you and your family feel about returning to the city after the summer holiday?

Probably there are as many types of opinion and behavior as there are individuals in the household. Taking the children first, you will be likely to find frank resentment at the end of the vacation and this shows itself in impatience, in fretfulness, in "grouchiness," according to the personal disposition.

John would not be the conscientious man he is if he had not thought for some days before he came back that it was time his hand was again on the helm, and this conviction and the plans he is making for resumption of work render him more or less abstracted and absorbed so that the children whisper among themselves that "Father is a gloom!" and you have wondered if anything has gone wrong with business.

As to you, you may have been a trifle distrait, too. The refreshment the vacation has given you has supplied you with new energy and you are full of schemes for little changes you mean to make in the house. Those long dining room curtains are to be cut to sash length, that worn breadth in the hall carpet is to be covered with a rug, the old ingrain on the children's bedroom floor is to be taken up, the boards painted and the carpet sent away to be made over into small rugs.

Then there is the fall dressmaking. The girls must positively have some new school frocks, your spring suit must be touched up to answer for use in the early fall, last winter's light dress must be sent to the dyer's so as to be ready for remodeling a little later—there are countless things to be done and all are so nearly equal in importance that you can hardly decide which to attack first. Is it any wonder that you are a little hasty of speech, a little intolerant of the claims and interruptions that at another time you would take placidly?

Element of Dreariness Creeps In.

With it all there is a sense of reaction. You may say honestly that you are happy to be back in the dear nest, that there is no place like home, that the conveniences you did not have in the country are all the more enjoyed when you return to them, that you had stayed away long enough and that you are glad the moving is over and you can settle down to the familiar sequence of duties. You say all this and you mean every word of it.

Yet with it all there is the knowledge that the one outing of the year is ended, the only time when you can shake off household cares has come and gone, and that before you stretches the level of domestic duties, the more or less humdrum round, with nothing of real change ahead of you for months to come. Whether you recognize the sensation or not, there is a certain element of dreariness in the prospect, a "slump," as your schoolgirl daughter calls it, which weighs upon your spirits, fight against it as you may.

Now if ever is the time to labor for patience with yourself as well as with others. There is need of the grace! For the young people are feeling the "slump" as you are and without the compensation you have in your plans for the home, in your satisfaction in being back in your own special niche. Try to bear with them in their unpleasant moods and tenses and to put up with the prickles they present to everything and everybody.

"Great is the expulsive power of a new affection!" Try to find one which will drive out the memory of the joys you have all left behind you.

Pleasures Need Not Be Costly.

Even before you come back to your home think what you can do to reconcile the members of the household to the pleasures they are losing and to give them an interest which will tide them over the first hard days. What such an interest may be will depend upon the age and sex of the young people, but the mother love that always sharpens your wits where your children's welfare is concerned will help you to find out a way.

"O, there are plenty of things I could do if I had the money!" you may tell me. "But our expenses are so heavy now that I can't spare anything for mere pleasures."

That is what we all feel, but some of the pleasures need not be costly. Your eldest boy, for instance, has never taken much satisfaction in his room—and you don't wonder at it. Like many bedrooms allotted to boys this has been a sort of refuge for old furniture and the collection of halt, maimed, and blind has seemed good enough for a careless lad.

See now if he will not take a little pride in making it more attractive. Suggest that he put up a plate rail and offer him various trophies in the line of mugs and pictures, and perhaps an old piece of arms to display. Tell him that this will be a beginning of such things and that when he once has the place for them they will come to fill it.

Try to make this the keynote of the room and go on to have the wall painted or papered, the furniture mended or recovered, and encourage him to do all of this he can for himself. You know if his interests are for sports or for natural history or for books. Play upon this and give him a pride in his pursuits and his surroundings.

What of the girl? Generally she is an easier proposition to handle than the boy. She will tell you she is interested "in no end of things." Decide which one of these will give her most pleasure and profit and talk it over with her. Perhaps she wishes to learn some kind of needle work or a handicraft, like hammering brass or working in leather or wood carving.

Possibly she may care for domestic pursuits and crave a scientific knowledge of something connected with home economies. Or she may be "just girl" and wish for social enjoyments more than anything else—dancing classes, good times with the boys and the girls, and all the butterfly pleasures natural to young people.

Discuss these things with her in one of the quiet hours you and she should often have together and don't laugh at her schemes and cravings. If she confesses her aspirations towards benevolent work and her longing to go into a settlement, take the subject as seriously as she does and let her talk herself out to you and rid her system of the pressure upon it. The fact that she yearns for these things now is no sign that she will want them a year hence, but the thought that she may be preparing for them will help her over the hardness of a concluded vacation and a renewed routine.

Another Call on You for Patience.

And John? I don't know that John needs quite so much coaxing back to running in a groove as the rest of them, for he has the absorption of his work outside of the house. All the same, he feels the change unpleasantly if he comes home night after night to a torn up and disordered house and a wornout wife. Another call upon you for patience!

Your impulse would be to pull everything to pieces at once and make a big job of putting it to rights again, and possibly this might be the easiest way for you. But it would be hard on the rest of the family, and especially on John, who feels the "slump" whether he acknowledges it or not, and has a right to some consideration when he comes home weary from a work for which his muscles are still soft after the rest.

Unless you are a remarkable exception to the rest of humankind and particularly womankind—you will overdo abominably after your vacation.

"I always expect a rush of patients when vacation time is over," said a physician to me when I had gone to him to ask for a tonic and had bemoaned myself for getting tired so easily when I had come back from a month's holiday only a fortnight before.

"We all make idiots of ourselves," he went on. "We take our outings and come back feeling we could move mountains and then proceed to tackle the mountains. And the mountains won't move, so we tire ourselves out attempting to do impossible things we would never have thought of when we weren't unusually "husky." If a man would work after his vacation as he did before he'd get some good from his outing, but as soon as he feels rested he does too much—and then he comes to me for a tonic!"

Don't we all make this mistake? And isn't this in a degree responsible for our depression after we come back to work?

Other valid causes exist for such depression. We have lived in the open, we have breathed pure mountain or sea air, we have taken much outdoor exercise. Simple commonsense should tell us that when we leave all this for the city streets, when we shut ourselves at work within four walls, when we abandon rowing, tramping, fishing, games of all kinds and have little or no bodily exercise except that involved in doing housework or going to and from school or business—and generally taking a car for that—we cannot expect to feel the physical glow we knew when we were leading a normal life.

Bear this in mind when you are inclined to be severe on your children for "dawdling around," when John comes in looking as if the cares of the world were upon his shoulders and "wonders if this fatigue can mean typhoid!" Apply the same patience to your own case. Don't make up your mind you are getting to be an old woman, that you can't work as fast as you used to do, that you get tired! tired! tired! so easily. These are not symptoms of chronic laziness or disease or senile decay. You are all of you simply suffering from a sharp attack of the close of vacation!

Time and Patience Only Cure.

But is there nothing to take for it? I have indicated certain remedies, but there is no prophylactic unless it may be time and patience. A few palliatives exist and it is "up to you" to find them. All that sort of thing devolves upon the mother. It would not occur to the children, and John usually is so busy observing his own symptoms in all the time he can spare from his work that it never comes to his mind that you may be suffering from the same complaint which afflicts him.

Look about you then for something which will help you all and you will probably discover it in some sort of diversion. Haven't you heard that the results are almost invariably disastrous if you break off a drink or drug habit too suddenly? It must be stopped by degrees. The vacation habit has not been pernicious or harmful, but it has been powerful and you cannot expect to check it in a moment without suffering from the shock.

Let yourself down easily. Work shorter hours at first, even if there are many things waiting to be done. Keep to the custom of Saturday half holidays for all of you. Go for trolley rides or for afternoons in the parks or at the beaches or other pleasure resorts of the kind near you and look upon the expense of such outings as less than a doctor's bill or medicine. When you cannot go into the country contrive some sort of frolic at home and conduct it along such informal lines that it won't tire you. Live simply so far as housekeeping is concerned. Make fruit take the place of made desserts while this is plentiful and comparatively cheap.

Give a picnic air to the regular meals by dispensing with formality and when you can take a meal with you on a little excursion do so and save yourself table setting and dish washing.

Try all this and see if you don't have a gradual settling down of wheels into the rut instead of a sudden "slump" which breaks springs, strains the running gear, and shakes up the passengers.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

BECAUSE of the enormous number of letters sent to the department I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 100 words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I want all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them. Marion Harland.

"I HAVE read with much interest your article upon corporal punishment. To my mind there is nothing equal to it in any way, shape, or manner. It has a refining and elevating influence when rightly administered and accepted in the proper spirit.

"My mother was a wonderful woman in every respect. The world is better to me because she once lived in it. She and I were chums and more like sisters than mother and daughter. I had no secrets from her, but I was obliged to obey her. I was soundly hand spanked for my misdemeanors to my great and lasting benefit and perpetual and grateful remembrance. I can never recall having any feeling of resentment toward my mother because she punished me in that way. All honor to her who gave a sound switching to her daughter when she was 15 years of age! 'We' do not think there should be any age limit as to when corporal punishment should cease. It should depend upon the capacity acquired for right behavior on the part of the child.

"There would be fewer girls upon the streets in the immodest attire of today; fewer gadabouts among women frivolously inclined, and less race suicide if corporal punishment in a mild, humane manner were more generally administered. A little touching up with the switch or the hair brush, as occasion required, would be of inestimable value to the rising generation—were more of them recipients of the salutary discipline. Provided always that the chastisement were accompanied by the persuasion upon the part of the child that it was given in the spirit of love and with a view to his or her betterment.

"YOURS FOR THE ROD (New York City).

Our esteemed correspondent is right in the main, according to my ideas of family government. She strikes straight out from the shoulder in a whole hearted fashion that earns the respect even of those who do not quite agree with her. I am disposed to take issue with her upon a single point. As I said upon a former occasion, my own mother, a wise and loving disciplinarian, held and believed for certain, and practiced her belief, that the child who is judiciously trained in habits of obedience and self-control from earlier infancy should not require corporal punishment after it is 5 years of age. By then, according to her, it should be so well grounded in habits of obedience and decorous behavior as to be in some degree capable of self-government. With each of the seven children who grew up to man's and woman's estate under her gentle rule a word of command or admonition was all that was needed after that age.

I do not recollect ever defying her authority. I certainly never felt resentful of her punishments. In fact, as a mere infant I used to wonder within myself why I loved her better by the time I was allowed to kiss her and say that I was sorry for my naughtiness. The blessed soul had a saying (that each of her children had said "I won't!" to her just once—" usually by the time it could talk. And never again!" she added, compressing the lips in which the law of kindness abode continually. In the recollection I echo our friend's "All honor to such mothers!" But—the girl of 15 who has not so far profited by her decade and a half of steady discipline as to need no government save that of moral suasion is a grievous exception to the time seasoned truth—

"Just as the twig is bent, the tree's inclined."

Bending here signifies continued influence for good and "inclination" in the right direction. In a word, she would be a "freak"—a blot upon the page of life.

I apprehend much and vehement dissent from those who read the plain talk of our disciple of Solomonic domestic regimen and my cordial acquiescence in her views as a whole. The lists are open to all who would express sentiments in favor of or opposed to the trend of the article. The Corner would always give both sides of a question—when there are more than one.

Honey Cake.

"I noticed some weeks ago a request for a recipe for honey cake, and I have not seen a reply. Therefore I take the liberty and give myself the pleasure of contributing the inclosed, which I took down from the lips of the eminent cook, Mrs. Anna Scott of Philadelphia, and have altered very slightly for my own use. The cakes are nice when baked.

"Honey Cake.—Three cups of flour sifted twice with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half of a cup of white sugar, and the same of milk; one-fourth of a cup of butter, one egg, and a cupful of strained honey.

"Rub and beat the butter and sugar to a cream, stir, and beat into this the milk and beaten egg. Do this gradually, whipping light as you proceed. Now add the honey in like manner and when you have a light, smooth batter, work in the flour with a wooden spoon. There should be flour enough to enable you to make the ingredients into a soft dough, sufficiently consistent to be rolled into a sheet a little over a quarter of an inch thick. Cut into shapes with your biscuit cutter and bake for eighteen minutes. Keep the pan covered with thick paper for the first half of the time. The cakes should be light and puffy. We call them "Honey Cookies," and like them.

"ELEANOR G., Pittsburgh, Pa."

Mrs. Scott's fame is so well known to us that we accept her formula with thanks. As a lover of the dear old fashioned cooky that never really goes out of favor, I welcome a new variety.

Worcestershire Sauce.

"Members of the exchange have been asked several times for a recipe for English Worcester sauce. Let me hand over to you a copy of one clipped from your own page, and warranted by myself [after trial of it] to be fine. It is far less expensive than the foreign product of the English manufacturer, keeps well, and has a flavor superior to my taste to any I have bought.

"WORCESTER SAUCE: One gallon of vinegar, twenty lemons, one ounce each of salt and of garlic, one-fourth ounce of cayenne pepper, half an ounce of black pepper, one ounce of mace, two grated nutmegs, two ounces of English mustard.

"Peel the garlic and put the cloves into the lemon whole. Cut the lemons in half and dig out the contents. Chop the pulp fine and mix well with the rest of the ingredients except the vinegar [leaving the garlic cloves whole]. Now divide the mixture equally among the halved lemons. Fill the peels with it, set them in earthen dishes and bake, closely covered, in the oven until they are nicely browned. Pack while hot in a deep crock and cover with heated vinegar. Fit on a tight cover and set in the cellar for ten days, stirring up from the bottom twice each day, and fitting the cover on again at once.

"At the end of this time chop the lemons fine, and mix with the rest of the ingredients. Let all stand for five hours before straining through a double flannel bag into a clean crock. Let it alone for a week [keeping it tightly covered]. Then pour off carefully, not to disturb the dregs, and bottle. The liquid should be of a clear brown color.

The recipe I have copied says: "Taken from an old English cookbook of 1715." I suppose there are shorter cuts to the same result by this time. Yet I have not found this so tedious as one might think from a single reading. The waiting for so many days sounds formidable, I think. But you don't have to carry the sauce in your mind all that time!

"The entire process did not consume two hours. J. T. A. [Chicago].

You have proved your right to the title of "Regular Reader," bringing forth the clipping published so long ago that it was forgotten by myself. The recipe is quaint and attractive. I suspect, with you, that our rushing age may have sought out a shorter route to the same end. This will suffice until another of later date is sent in.

Apple and Nut Dumplings.

"'Apples are ripe and beginning to fall.'"

"Maybe the member who is puzzled what to do with these same windfalls may like to try the recipe which I flatter myself is original with me? My family clamor for 'more' whenever we have this dessert.

"Apple and Nut Dumplings—Pare and cut into thin slices ripe, tart apples. Have ready a good pastry as for pie. Roll out and cut into rounds rather larger than for cookies. In the exact center of each lay four slices of apple, sugar generously, and upon the top arrange a tablespoonful of chopped nuts—pecans or walnuts or blanched almonds—sugar them and lay a second round of pastry on these. Pinch the edges together and stamp with the handle of a spoon or a "jigging iron," if you have it, to prevent the escape of juice, and bake to a nice brown. When half done they should be washed over quickly and without taking them from the oven—with white of egg beaten light with a little sugar. This makes a beautiful crust.

"Eat hot with hard or liquid sauce.

"A CHICAGO MEMBER."

So far as my knowledge and memory of recipes go, you may claim the proprietary rights of the recipe with which you tempt those of us who cannot hear of a new and attractive dish without longing to try it forthwith.

"Years ago I invented what a member promptly christened "Marion Harland Compôte," which bore a family resemblance to your delicious dumplings. I repeat the formula here lest you may suspect me of depreciating the value of your inventions by the mention of the dish.

Marion Harland Compôte—Select fine, ripe apples—pippins, if you have them—and extract the cores. Do not break the outer skin if you can help it except around the core. Have ready enough chopped nuts to fill the cavities. Mix plenty of sugar with the nuts and a very little ground cinnamon. You may leave it out if you prefer the unadulterated flavor of nuts and apple. Heap the mixture in the center of each apple and set all in a deep dish well buttered. Pour about them a cupful of cold water sweetened with two great spoonfuls of sugar, and bake, covered closely, until the apples are tender. Uncover and brown delicately.

Eat ice cold with cream.

You see we do not trespass upon one another's preserves, although the main ingredients are the same in the recipes.

A Hod Full of Bricks.

"You have repeatedly invited housemothers to send in what you call 'briefiets' collected during our active years of housewifery. Once you said that the structure of successful housekeeping is made up of these 'littles.' Perhaps you may be able to use a few 'bricks' I have picked up here and there in twenty odd years of married life.

A Hodful of Bricks.—To restore faded ginghams, calicoes, muslins, and other washable materials, shake and beat out all the dust, then wash quickly in lukewarm suds made of old castile soap, thoroughly "ripe"; rinse in clear cold water and then lay in a strong solution of alum for an hour. Dry in the shade. The alum will set the colors and brighten them. Dry quickly on a clear day, but out of the sun.

"A rusty grate or range should be wiped free of dust and ashes with a dry soft cloth, then rubbed all over with a cut raw potato, changing as the bits are very dirty and applying others. Do this faithfully. You will be amazed at the grime that the potato will remove. Let it dry and polish as usual with whatever preparation you are in the habit of using.

"To allay the smart and itching of mosquito bites: As soon as convenient, moisten sweet toilet soap and rub the bites well with it. Do not wash it off, but let it dry of itself. Relief will be prompt and no lump will be left from the sting. The alkali of the soap neutralizes the acid of the sting. The same household remedy is good for the sting of wasp, bee, or yellow jacket. Should more powerful applications be required, try household ammonia.

"Fleshy persons should diet wisely. That does not mean abstaining from all foods, but selecting the right sort of dietary. All starchy foods make adipose tissue—i. e., fat. Don't eat sweets, breakfast cereals, potatoes and pastries. Let candy alone! Eat freely of fruits, raw and stewed, and drink little water, making the acid of fruit satisfy thirst. Eat fish, lean meat, and no fresh bread. Dry toast—the drier the better—is excellent for your purpose. Milk, particularly buttermilk, cream, and chocolate are fat makers.

"To clean white felt hats and slippers: Make a stiff paste of powdered magnesia and household ammonia and apply to the article with a perfectly new and clean brush. Rub well into the felt, first against, then with the nap. Set the hat in a box so large that it will not touch the sides and keep it clear of the bottom with a stick fitted into the same, hanging the hat upon the stick. Cover the top of the box with netting to exclude dust and admit the air, and leave it alone for two days before brushing out the magnesia. If it be very much soiled a second application may be needed. Usually one does the work.

"For mildewed cottons and linens: Before risking the threads by using powerful acids or detersives, rub plenty of laundry soap into a paste with a few [illegible] of salt. Wet the stains with [illegible] cover with the paste. Then [illegible] test sunshine you can find and [illegible] all day. Three times during the [illegible] off the paste and rinse. A Button Stitch

FANCY NECK...

DAINTY little neck ornaments that take the place of a brooch or pinning on the lace jabot, a fastening touch at the throat, are made at home by any girl who is handy at embroidery and can handle a needle daintily. These pretty trifles are made in all sorts of fanciful shapes, of heavy embroidery silk or mercerized cotton, and of them are studded with beads in varying colors that look like jewels and give an added touch of beauty to the little ornament.

The method which gives good results is to use the needle-point stitches used in the ornament upon the heavier cords used in point-lace work. Heavy cords were for the foundation of the design, instead of braid. Very pretty effects are obtained when only one or two elementary stitches are used in the outlining of the buttonhole

WHEAT AND DAISY CENTERPIECE

IF YOU have smiles, prepare to shed them now. I am sure that you will forgive my distortion of the line from the famous oration when you look at the lovely design in wheat and daisies that I have for you today.

There is really not much work on this large centerpiece, for the flowers are distributed with space between, and the wheat is to be worked in the quick bullion stitch that is so effective.

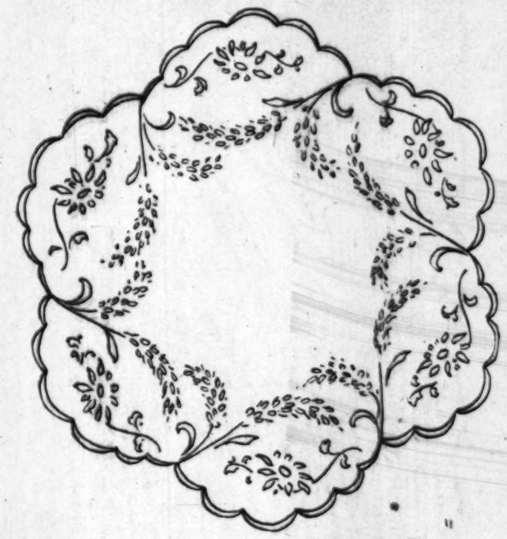
One-third of the design is shown. When transferring on medium-weight linen, you will use the dotted lines for a guide, keeping the same center, and swing the design around until the scallops on the edge are continued in perfect line and the design is pieced out with precision.

The bullion stitch is peculiarly adapted to wheat. It is really a long French knot. You make two or three of these on one of the ovals in the wheat. Wind the thread many times over the needle, for the twilled effect must be solid. When the needle is full, pass the point through so that the bullion stitch will be the length of the oval. Repeat the process, and I think that with coarse thread, soft and mercerized, two will be sufficient for each seed in the spray.

Outline stitches will fill in between the wheat, and the stem should be worked similarly.

The leaves of the wheat can be worked solid, or in the slanting buttonhole stitch that is used by timesavers. This is begun at the top, the point of the needle coming out at the central vein. Work first one stitch on one side, then on the other, allowing the purling to come on the vein. Start the stitches downward, and keep the thread under the point of the needle, as in ordinary buttonholing.

When working the daisies, it will be necessary to pad with soft darning cotton. Work solid with the embroidery thread or floss if you prefer silk. The leaves should be worked in solid French work or in half solid and half seed stitches, which are tiny back stitches. Outline the stem and whip it in order to give a firm cordlike appearance.



The Complete Design.

Pad the scallops and work in buttonhole stitches. If you do not use ... ing cotton, the fine cotton soutache braid is excellent. You hold it along ... edge as you sew.

The centerpiece is lovely in white ... white linen. White on tan or gray l... is very effective, and pale buff and y... low are beautiful for colored work.

Don't neglect the bullion stitch. A l... tle sketch below will show you how ... is made, and how it will fill the ova... with quickness and effect.

I know that you will enjoy working on this design, and I hope that the results are as satisfactory as they are in the piece that I own.

WHEN MAKING A SKIRT

A WOMAN asked me the other day to please give her directions for making a skirt. She said she could manage her blouses all right, but never yet had been able to make a skirt that hung properly.

It is a problem for an inexperienced hand to make a skirt that will set and hang well; and yet, if you know how to go about it, you will find it to be quite a simple matter.

Before buying the pattern have your hips and waist measured. Take the hip measurement six inches below the normal waist line, and compare the measurements with the waist and hip measurements on the pattern. Purchase the pattern by the hip measurement, if possible, for if your hips are large in proportion to your waist the pattern will be too large for you in the waist; but that is easier to alter than enlarging the pattern over the hips.

If, on the other hand, your waist is larger in proportion to your hips, get the pattern to fit the waist measure and make the necessary alterations over the hips. This can be done by folding the pattern in a little at each bias seam on each gore and by fitting it snugly when you try it on.

Cut the material by the pattern according to directions printed on the outside of it, taking particular care to lay each gore of the pattern so that the center of it will be on the STRAIGHT of the goods. As a rule, patterns do not allow for a hem at the bottom of the skirt; but this you can allow for if you find by holding the pattern up to you that it is too short, or the skirt can be faced around the bottom, according to your wishes.

Baste the skirt with a bias edge to a straight edge of the gores, taking care to baste with small stitches to a line below the hips; but from there the bastings can be larger, for there is little strain on that portion of the skirt when fitting.

If the skirt has a raised waist line (and most of them have now), pin an inside belt of stiff canvas belting, that can be bought by the yard, around your waist first, then hang the skirt from that, pinning it to the belt on the outside.

If there is any alteration to make in the waist line, it is best to do it at the side seams, and this also is true of alterations around the hips—take them in or let them out as the case may demand.

Narrow skirts have a distressing tendency of binding in below the hips at the back. This fault can be overcome by letting it out a little below the hips at the back seam or, if the skirt has a panel back, at each side of the panel.

The front and sides should hang perfectly straight from the hips to hem, curving in only over the hips to the waist line.

When the skirt has been fitted and adjusted to the inside belt, take it off the belt and slip it off, then stitch up the seams on the wrong side, press them open with a hot iron over a dampened cloth and try on again. If all is well, readjust it to the inside belt, which has had the top edge bound with a narrow piece of the material of the skirt, and stitch the skirt to the belt, turning in a quarter of an inch at the top.

Fasten the belt with three hooks and peat eyes, and the placket of the skirt with as many more as is required to keep it together firmly. Put the skirt on again and have some one mark it evenly around the bottom, so you can place the hem correctly.

If the skirt touches the floor, this marking can be done with a piece of chalk or a pencil, running a line around the material just at the point where the skirt touches the floor; then you can turn it up as many inches as you wish from that line. Two inches from the floor is a good length for a walking skirt; four inches for an outing skirt for golf or tennis.

If the material does not touch the floor, make a gauge by taking a small piece of cardboard and making a notch in it the distance from one straight edge the number of inches you want the skirt to clear the floor. Place this on the floor and mark the skirt at the point of the notch.

If the skirt is of wash material, baste up the hem, laying the slight fullness at the top in tiny pleats, turn in all the pleats in each half to point toward the back, and be sure each pleat forms a straight line from the bottom of the skirt to the top of the hem.

Turn in the top of the hem a half inch, baste it in place and stitch it on the right side, using the basting thread as a guide. If a facing is used, the skirt must be cut evenly around the bottom and the facing cut to fit the bottom of the skirt, or a plain bias strip can be used if it is stretched a little on one edge. Lay the facing on the right side and stitch the bottom edge of it and the skirt together; then turn the facing up on the wrong side, baste it in place and press; then stitch it as you would a hem.

It is well to press the skirt thoroughly on the wrong side after all the stitching is finished, using a damp cloth over the iron.

There you are! The skirt is ready to wear, and I am sure that if you follow these directions you will have no trouble in the making.

FANCY BUTTON COVERS

BUTTONS are to hold a prominent place in the trimming of all sorts of costumes again this season, and fancy buttons will be more in evidence than ever before. Wooden button molds covered with the same material of which the gown is made will be fashionable, especially if they are decorated with some handwork—a bit of embroidery or a crocheted top.

Of course these can be bought already ornamented, or you can supply your own material and have the buttons covered; but all such expense can be saved if you cover the molds yourself, adding a touch of handwork that will raise them to a position of superiority over any that you could buy.

When covering a mold with silk, first cover the top with a thin layer of cotton wadding, cut just a little larger than the mold and caught in around the edge with loose stitches.

The silk must be cut in a circle nearly twice as wide in diameter as the diameter of the mold itself.

A good way to do is to cut a paper pattern—a circle of paper the correct size—then cut all the silk pieces by this. After the silk is cut it can be decorated in any pretty way you choose. If the gown shows any hand embroidery, work a flower on each button; if the trimming is lace, then cover the buttons with lace, and if beads be the means of adornment, sew these on the silk that covers the buttons in a double ring, crosses or some small conventional design.

Draw the design on each piece of silk with a hard pencil. You will find it an easy matter to do this by drawing one design and then tracing the others from it, as you would trace an embroidery pattern. After working the design, run a drawthread of silk or cotton that has been waxed around the very edge of the circle; lay the center of the circle over the center of the mold and draw the thread tight. Smooth the silk over the mold with the fingers, then sew the silk in place by catching the needle in and out of the drawn-up edge.

Crocheted covers are made in the same way, the crocheted part made first in any design you like best, either of silk, linen or cotton thread worked half as large again as the top of the mold, then drawn up and stitched tight over the edge.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. This latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, pressing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty.

Surely the way is easy.

FANCY NECK ORNAMENTS

If you are able to work well with metal threads, you can use gold or silver thread and colored beads, or the flat "nail heads" of crystal intermingled with the stitches, and make a really beautiful ornament.

The work is done on a lining of stiff glazed chintz, where the pattern is marked or stamped. Fine cotton-covered wire is then basted all around the outline of the pattern and in the center, if it be a flower or a design with a central figure. The wire is tacked firmly to the chintz, using a long stitch on the under side so that it can easily be removed when the work is finished; then fill in the spaces between the outlining wire with any lace stitch that you desire and finish the edge wire with a covering of the buttonhole stitch.

Perhaps you will find it easier to buttonhole around the wire first, then do the filling in; but in either case the wire must be completely covered so that none of it will show through.

No knots are made in the thread; it is caught under the lining, then the ends are cut off short when the work is completed.

A very pretty ornament resembles the outspread wings of a bird, with a cabochon center. The wire outlines the edges and the oval center and each wing has the separate feathers outlined with small crystal beads sewed on after the filling is has been done. A fringe consisting of five separate strings of small beads ending with a larger bead is fastened to the lower edge of the design, a large crystal nail head is placed directly in the center and a safety pin is sewed on the back of the ornament after it has been removed from the lining. This serves to fasten it to the collar of the gown.

A star-and-crescent design is pretty; also pansies, daisies, a wild rose, poppy or any flower that has flat petals. You can choose any small design you wish and work it in the same manner.

The work is not difficult to do, and any girl who attempts it will soon find that it goes rapidly and is exceedingly fascinating.

Besides that, these little neck fixings make delightful birthday and Christmas gifts. You can reproduce the floral emblem of the birth month of your friends, studded with beads that resemble the birth stone. For example, December's flower is the snowdrop and its stone the turquoise. Make the flower of white silk and stud it in the center with the pale blue stone. Then from the lower petals suspend a short fringe of small blue beads.

The idea is well worth reproducing if you want to make an unusual gift with a personal touch in it, and one that is really very inexpensive.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS of WELL-DRESSED FOLK

THE PRIVATE VIEW

DEAR SISTER MADGE:

How I wish you could have been with me on Thursday, when we went to the private view at the Academy.

There is always such a delightful gathering of distinguished artists and literary people present, one feels that he has been refreshed and stimulated with wit and beauty. You, dear child, would have been in your element.

The pictures were really beautiful. Of course, there was the usual amount of chaff. I must tell you, however, of a curious coincidence which appealed strongly to my beauty-loving soul.

As I came into one of the small alcoves, there, standing before a large painting of a beautiful woman and bowing apparently, to her own reflection, was that charming Miss Waite, in a gown which echoed the lines of the Watteau gown in the picture.

It was of reseda-green crepe meteor, made with a bodice and pannier drapery of figured crepe de chine.

Of course, the pannier, which was draped in a triple-puff effect, was not so full as that in the picture, nor was the skirt so short and full. Both followed closely the lines of the figure, with just enough width to carry out the effect.

The bodice opened over a vest of soft white silk mull, which formed a V below the waist line, a note that will be extremely fashionable this fall. A frill of this was used around the neck, and finished the long, close-fitting sleeves, which were also trimmed with a broad cuff of plain green crepe meteor.

Her hat, a large, black satin model, was rolled up smartly in front, and caught to the high crown were several lovely rose-colored plumes.

Really, the resemblance to the portrait lady was quite startling, proving that the wheel of fashion has revolved until we are now standing opposite the Watteau spoke once more. But in this wonderful age fashion makers have combined the different periods in an amazing manner, for, as I glanced above the head of the lovely vision, I saw myself reflected in the portrait of one of the heroes of the French revolution.

Even the color of my costume, a blue broadcloth directoire model, trimmed with black velour and brass buttons, was there in the picture.

My suit, by the way, is a model copied from one direct from Paris. The smart little directoire coat is cut away in front and finished with long square tails in the back. The Robespierre collar of velour opens rather low in front, but this space is filled in with lace frills on the lingerie blouse I wear underneath. Lace frills also fall over the hands at the bottom of deep, pointed cuffs that are trimmed with five brass buttons. A gilt buckle holds the coat together at the high waist line in front. The skirt is quite plain in front, but has four flat-stitched pleats in the back that are left unstitched ten inches from the hem, to give the proper fullness around the bottom, yet retain the narrow line.

With this I wear a smart little black hat, with the brim turned up all around, and trimmed with a broad aigrette directly in front, another note of similarity to the pictured gentleman.

There were many other lovely gowns to tell you of, but I must hurry off now to a club meeting; I've been elected secretary. So, goodby to fashion, while I attend to some of the other serious problems of life.

Give my love to Jack and a kiss to each blessed kiddie.

Your loving sister,
ELEANOR

PRINCE SAVES KINGLY CROWN.

Louis of Orleans Performs Heroic Act.

Frenchman Wants Belgium Cut Into Halves.

Dog Helps Police Catch Suspected Man.

BY PAUL VILLIERS.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The story of how a prince captured a man in the act of stealing an imperial crown was told to me a few days ago by the hero of the adventure. The crown is that of the former empire of Brazil; the prince, Louis of Orleans and Braganza, who still hopes that one day he will reign at Rio de Janero when, as he puts it himself, "my disloyal subjects tire of playing at being republicans;" the affair occurred at the Castle of Eu, near Dieppe, where the young pretender lives with his father, Louis Philippe of Orleans.

The young man is the grandson of Dom Pedro, last Emperor of Brazil. His mother, Princess Isabella, the only daughter of the deposed Emperor, married Louis Philippe of Orleans, Comte d'Eu.

A few evenings ago, after dinner, Prince Louis was walking through the great assembly hall on the first floor of the castle with the little Irish terrier, his inseparable companion, when the animal suddenly rushed to a door leading to a staircase and began to bark furiously.

Opening the door, the prince discovered, crouching on the staircase, an individual whom he recognized as Louis Nieutin, a former footman at the castle, who had been dismissed for dishonesty.

Nieutin, a muscular young fellow of 23, made a rush at the prince, but the latter's athletic training enabled him to overcome the intruder quickly, and he pinioned him before he could make use of the revolver and the poniard with which he was armed.

When searched, Nieutin's overcoat was found to contain the Imperial crown of Brazil, which he had bent and twisted so as to be able to conceal it in the lining of his ample coat.

In the same garment was another smaller crown which had belonged to Dom Pedro, and on the burglar's left hand were three of the late Emperor's priceless rings. The latter had been stolen from the castle last June with a number of other valuable articles, but the police had failed to find any trace of the thief.

The poniard which he carried was a remarkable instrument. On one side of the blade was an Italian inscription, "Che la Mia Ferica sia Mortale," which might be rendered, "May my thrust be mortal," and on the other the words, "Corsican Vendetta," in French, while the handle bore a third inscription, "Memento of Bastia," also in French.

HOME RULE.

Much excitement has been caused in Brussels by the publication of an open letter to the King by M. Jules Destree, a member of the Chamber, calling for the separation of the Walloon (French) and the Flemish provinces of Belgium by means of home rule for each, so as to baffle the violent attempts of the Flemish to make their language dominant over the French, which is the mode of expression of the larger half of the population.

It is felt that such a splitting of a small country like Belgium would weaken it seriously and make it an easy prey to foreign invasion. Yet M. Destree's cry for "separation" seems likely to create a strong agitation towards such an end, as the champions of the Flemish "tael" are doing all they can to influence the French position of the population. Their present action is directed towards turning the French University of Ghent into a Flemish high educational establishment, and they have just induced the State to rule that telephonic communication between any city and a Flemish one must be asked for in the Flemish tongue—an impossibility for half of the Belgians, and for the immense majority of the foreign tourists requiring telephonic communication during their stay.

People connected with the court assert that King Albert is greatly disturbed by this conflict of races and languages, in which he perceives an element of dissolution of the young and prosperous kingdom, which had so far derived its vitality and progress from its national motto, "L'union fait la force" ("Union is strength.")

MONUMENT DEDICATED.

M. Poincare, Prime Minister and Minister for Foreign Affairs, and M. Lebrun, Minister for the Colonies, were present at the inauguration of a monument erected in memory of "the defenders of Longwy." The town, which lies close to the frontiers of Belgium, Luxemburg, and Alsace-Lorraine, has stood since it was fortified by Vauban three particularly severe sieges. In 1792 it was invested by the Duke of Brunswick and 60,000 Prussians. After a short but brave resistance the garrison of 1800, including only thirty artillerymen for sixty guns, evacuated the place, but a few weeks later, after the defeat of the enemy in Champagne, it was reoccupied. In 1815 it was captured by the allies after a ten days' bombardment in the course of which the defenders made a successful sortie, and the garrison, reduced to some 300 men, received from the Prince of Hesse-Homburg the honors of war. On August 27, 1870, the third siege of the place began, and although the garrison never exceeded 1900 men, as against the 15,000 of the besiegers, it was not until January 24, 1871, that Longwy capitulated.

In unveiling a monument by the Sculptor Bussiere, M. Poincare recalled the glorious history of the past, and expressed the hope that the sight of Longwy's old bastions and the memory of its warlike annals would inspire in future generations a lesson of patriotism and national pride.

DOG AIDS POLICE.

While a ball was in full swing at the village of Alstatten, near St. Gall, Switzerland, a police dog, followed by gendarmes, entered the room, and a well-dressed young man was arrested on the charge of murder. He had killed—it was supposed through jealousy—a pretty Swiss girl of 17, Regina Stabler by name.

In Switzerland on a general holiday (as in this case) dancing commences in the afternoon, and is continued until midnight in many villages. Between the dances the young man and the girl were seen together on the road a little distance away from the restaurant, and her body was discovered soon after. The police were informed, and placed a trained dog on the scent, which went in a direct line to the ballroom, and wanted to pull down the murderer. The latter has since confessed to the crime.

The motor bus has invaded Morocco, proclaiming the onward march of progress in this ancient empire of oriental despotism. On the new main road between Ceuta and Tetuan has been inaugurated a service of motor-omnibuses. Tetuan is forty miles from Ceuta, on the Ria Martin, off which the Gibraltar ships of the British fleet carry out their target practice. The service marks a real advance in Northern Morocco.

The national porcelain factory of Sevres is making artificial teeth. An inventor has been allowed to conduct experiments there, which are on a fair way to success. The new idea opens up a varied prospect. Teeth in art porcelain, biscuit de Sevre, or pate tendre, for instance, may be much sought after, and a dental branch of the national factory, managed by the French State, ought to do a big business.

Amity.

THE EMPEROR OF JAPAN AND POPE PIUS FRIENDS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

BY CLEMENT J. BARRETT.

ROME, Sept. 21.—It is not generally known that very cordial relations existed between the late Mikado and the present Pope. Though, of course, they never met, their friendship was a real one, and was brought about by His Imperial Majesty's passion for autograph collecting.

Although he possessed an autographed photograph of Pius X, presented to him by a missionary bishop, the Mikado was not satisfied, and with his own royal hand he wrote to his holiness asking him for a signed letter. His holiness at once fell in with the Mikado's wishes, and wrote him an extremely cordial letter, in which he expressed his satisfaction that Roman Catholics in Japan had been accorded such tolerant treatment during Mutsuhito's reign.

As the present Emperor of Japan will adhere to the foreign policy of his father, there is every reason to believe that the relations of Japan with the Vatican will continue to be of the most cordial nature.

RUSHING THE BUILDING OF HUGE BATTLESHIPS.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Winston Churchill is rushing the building of battleships with a vengeance. The all-big-gun Iron Duke and Marlborough, instead of being launched in November, are to take the water a couple of weeks hence. Before they are in commission progress will have been made on the four battleships but recently authorized. These, it is given out, will be "the largest, the longest and the broadest fighting ships ever built in the history of the world." One of their special features will be a curved upper deck of armor as a protection against the deadly attacks of aerial ships of war.

BANKERS ALARMED.

Bankers have been thrown into consternation by the report of experts who have examined the results of experiments made with a new process of reproducing by photo-mechanism exact facsimiles of bank notes, bonds and script.

The process is the invention of A. E. Bawtree, F.R.P.S., and the experts' report states:

"The reproductions are so exactly similar to the originals in size, strength of color and line, and all details, that there are grounds for fearing the new method, if it becomes known, as it is sure to be, will prove a great source of danger unless those who are responsible for the issuing of bank notes, cheques, script and bonds in their turn adopt some new method for the prevention of forgery. The details of the process are, of course, not being made public, but they are stated to be of extreme simplicity, calling for neither great manipulative skill nor expensive apparatus."

GRAFT IN ENGLAND.

Graft is not unknown to English public offices, but it is so seldom that charges are filed and the scandal aired in court that when a case does crop up everybody sits up and takes notice and professes to be duly shocked.

The alleged grafting proclivities of a Wallasey (Cheshire) office-holder are now being investigated. The defendant is Joseph Roughey, a wealthy real estate agent, member of the municipal government of the Cheshire city. He is being prosecuted by the Attorney-General on the complaint of James Bushell Hutchins, a Liverpool architect, who alleges that the worthy Alderman wanted to hold him up for a gentle $500 in connection with a proposal to take over some of the architect's land for civic recreative purposes. Hutchins says that when rumors of the Alderman's offer got around, Roughey came to him and wanted to know "who had blown the gaff." He induced Hutchins to sign a letter, which Roughey posted himself, refuting the story. Hutchins later decided to tell the truth. The case is to be tried at the Liverpool Assizes on October 4.

LIVES WITH A MUMMY.

For four years, Violet Grange, a working woman of about 23 years, lived in her little room in a Clerkenwell tenement house with the body of her dead infant, perfectly mummified. "I could not bear to part with the little dear," she told the magistrate before whom she was arraigned; "so I steeped it in vinegar when it died and then had a man treat it." She paid the man half her wages in

The Store and the Story.

Latest News From the Emporium of Fashion, Reliability and Solid Values

The Great White Store, to Which the Populace Eagerly Wends Its Daily Way.

Graphic Reports From Our Authorized Corps of Reporters.

If ever anyone had the slightest doubt of being able to find anything and everything in the way of garments, accessories, ornaments—whatever milady's taste or toilet demands in the way of exquisite completeness—at Hamburger's the last shred of it must have vanished with the seeing of their Fashion Show windows.

And the beautiful things displayed along their lilac-decorated aisles and the magnificent costumes that trailed along the Promenade des Toilettes before hundreds of delighted eyes were added evidences of the completeness of the lines and ultra-modernness of the styles at the Big White Store.

Here's a Handful of Hints.

Suggestions of the modes on which Queen Fashion lays most stress this fall. They were gleaned on an "inquiry tour" through Los Angeles' largest store and a series of chats with the men and women who are authorities on fashion subjects—members of that efficient corps who specialize in bringing the best of the fashions to Hamburger's direct from their point of origination.

"Jewel Tones" in Millinery are a distinguishing feature of the autumn styles. Amethyst, emerald, ruby, topaz, etc., are shades in high favor. Taupe, old gold and browns are much liked, as also are the beautiful new blues. The American Beauty tint is still popular, while black and black and white were never in greater vogue.

In trimmings the first place belongs without question to the exquisite plumage of the bird of paradise. French ostrich plumes are lavishly used on many of the handsomest hats and there's a decided preference for fancy feather effects of uncurled ostrich. The best creations of leading Parisian milliners and stunning adaptations of imported models produced in Hamburger workrooms are shown in variety.

The Newest Gloves

await milady's choosing at Hamburger's. All the season's new shades are here, and black, white and the staple tones are plentifully represented. Among the novelty effects are kid gloves for suit or evening wear embroidered in contrasting shades.

Soft, "Clingy" Laces

—the maline and shadow effects from Calais and Normandy—are "the thing" this fall. For centuries the Flemish people have been famous for laces of this character, and the vogue of them was never greater than now. The prevailing pannier and empire styles demand the soft laces, and for the past three months every rich costume shown in the noted style centers has been trimmed with them.

In Tunics Also

the soft, "drapy" effects lead. This season no evening costume is complete without a tunic or the suggestion of one. They are of rich laces or of nets and chiffons beautifully jeweled in a manner that gives them a touch of oriental splendor, an effect further carried out in the bandeau that completes milady's coiffure and even the ornaments that adorn her dainty slippers. Of tunics and the bandeaux that harmonize with them there's a fascinating variety at Hamburger's.

The Promenade des Toilettes was a wonderful demonstration of the charm of the autumn gowns—a vivid portrayal of the best ideas of fashion creators embodied in lustrous satin charmeuse, filmy jeweled or embroidered chiffons and crystal net effects. From the foremost Parisian designers they came, these marvelous gowns for afternoon and evening. They are typical of numerous others waiting in the French Salon of the Big White Store to gladden the eyes of the California woman of fashion.

Costumes for Street Wear are no less striking in their cleverness of design and the flawlessness of their cut and making. In style, fabric and coloring they illustrate fashion's very latest preferences.

Two-Toned Effects in Shoes.

Particularly smart are women's shoes of patent leather with tops of gray suede, white kid or brown cloth. The lace boots that are marked for especial vogue this season are also featured at Hamburger's. Among the evening slippers are some adorably dainty affairs of gold satin exquisitely beaded. Pink ones, too, blue, and the always-wanted white, also black with steel beads.

For Her Dressing Table.

Something entirely new—something to be found only at Hamburger's. It's the Violet Coronation Ware that somewhat resembles the popular Parisian ivory except that it is semi-transparent and of a rich violet shade. There are combs, brushes, manicure articles, picture frames and the most delightful little clocks to be had in this beautiful and "different" material.

Some New Necklaces

are of pearl beads in the rose opaline tint. The woman who likes dainty neck ornaments will go into ecstacies over these. They are distinctly good-looking, not expensive compared to the cost of the real stones, which they closely resemble, and they have the additional advantage of being unbreakable.

Scores of Late Novelties

but only room to mention one more—the new handbags, "El Gamell." The name signifies "the beautiful," and beautiful indeed they are! Egyptian in design and the thing that will most astonish you—except the moderate price—is to discover that part of the decoration that you had supposed to be metal is leather! The secret of this effect is known only to the maker and he guards it so jealously that no one is allowed in the room where he is doing this work. When you see the bags you'll not blame him!

Breaks Altitude Record.

M. G. Le Gagneux,

Famous French aviator who has soared higher than man ever went before, a distance of more than four miles.

Sky Lark.

ALTITUDE RECORD BROKEN BY LE GAGNEUX AT PARIS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Sept. 21.—M. G. Le Gagneux, the aviator, who yesterday reached the tremendous height of 7067 yards, more than four miles, when he broke the man-flying record for altitude, has given a graphic description of his feat and sensations.

That his achievement was even greater than it seemed was proven today by the official and corrected calculations made from the self-registering instruments which he carried on his marine monoplane.

Le Gagneux has gone farther from the earth in a flying machine than any other.

LeGagneux says: "In two and a half minutes I was 1500 yards in the air. In seven and a half minutes I was 2500 yards up, and a little higher I flew into a dead calm. At an altitude of 3125 yards I found myself in a fog so thick that I could see nothing.

"It grew very cold. I was warmly clad but I felt the chill keenly. The moisture turned to iciles on my face. Only by my barometers could I tell I was still ascending. At 5020 yards I began to inhale oxygen, as I had been advised. They tell me I used forty quarts of oxygen. In thirty-five minutes, I had reached 5260 yards, beating all records, but I kept on up, up.

"At 12:45 I remembered my luncheon engagement. Ten minutes later I had reached the height of 7067 yards. I descended like lightning. At 1 o'clock I was at my rendezvous for luncheon, feeling certain that I could have gone higher."

Tarnowska.

WILL PARDON COUNTESS AND THEN EXILE HER.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, Sept. 21.—I learn on good authority that a decree of pardon is about to be issued to the Countess Tarnowska, the leading figure of the Venetian drama, and that at the same time the Countess, who is very ill, will be expelled from Italy.

The Countess was sentenced in 1909 to eight years' imprisonment for complicity in the murder of Count Kamarovski, a wealthy Russian, to whom she was betrothed. She was alleged, with her lover, Prilukoff, to have incited another lover named Naumoff to commit the murder.

A LOVE AFFAIR.

A love affair between a beautiful young music-hall singer named Madeleine Grondona and Nicholas Dikavitz, a wealthy Russian architect, had a tragic ending at Milan.

After a quarrel some time ago the girl is alleged to have become obsessed with the idea that her lover intended to poison her. The couple made up their differences, but Madeleine's nerves were so upset that the Russian sent her to a nursing home for a rest cure. Recently she learned that Dikavitz was married, and, escaping from the home, she went straight to a gunsmith's and bought a revolver.

Thence she hurried to her flat, where she found the Russian and fired at him without a word, discharging the remaining four shots as he turned to flee. Leaving him dead on the floor, the girl surrendered herself at the police station.

BATTLE OF FLOWERS.

A fiscal battle of flowers is threatened between France and Italy. Some months ago the French government prohibited the import of cut flowers from the Italian Riviera into France owing to a flower epidemic caused by certain insects. At a protest meeting of indignant horticulturists at Ventimiglia (the Italian frontier station,) a resolution was passed requesting the King of Italy to demand the recision of the French government's decree.

The resolution added in the event of the French government refusing, the Italian government will be invited to boycott the fresh flowers imported into Italy from Nice and Provence.

NATION PAYS TRIBUTE TO FRENCH ACTRESS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND BY WIRELESS FROM CHICAGO TO THE TIMES.]

BY LADY MARY MANWARING.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Madame Sarah Bernhardt will celebrate her sixty-ninth birthday in London on October 23. The event is to be made the occasion of a national tribute on the part of the British people to the great French actress.

The proposal was recently made and immediately taken up by the leaders of London art life. Max Pemberton, the author, has been chosen to act as honorary secretary, and the committee in charge has been deluged with letters offering assistance.

As part of the testimonial to Mme. Bernhardt an address of congraulation is to be presented. This address will be unique in several respects. It will be bound in several large volumes of fine vellum—one book would not suffice to contain half the signatures already pledged—and it will bear the autographs of the greatest men and women in the empire from the King and Queen down.

Mme. Bernhardt first appeared in London at the old Gaiety Theater in June of 1879. She has grown in favor every year and seats have been at a premium ever since her coming engagement here was announced.

Mr. Pemberton is the author of the address, which will say in part:

"A great artist and a great Frenchwoman, you interpret for us not only the masterpieces of French tragedy, but also the mind of your fellow-countrymen. Every time that you appear on the stage of one of your own theaters you bring France nearer to England, and we have come to look upon you as our own possession, despite the fact it is you who have conquered us by your womanly charm, the sympathy of a magnetic personality, and your incomparable art.

"Madame, you have adorned the stage for fifty years, and nothing that you have touched has not owed its glory to the magic of your gifts and the compelling wonder of your genius.

"It is fifty years since you first appeared at the Theater Francis and bade Paris cease to mourn for Mme. Rachel and her triumphs. These fifty years shall make a golden book when the story of the drama is wholly written."

PRINCE OF WALES GOES TO OXFORD.

Russia Not Willing to Part With Grand Duchess.

Winter of Royal Hospitality at Windsor Castle.

German Grand Opera Season at Covent Garden.

BY LADY MANWARING.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Prince of Wales will take up his residence as an undergraduate of Magdalen College, Oxford, in the approaching Michaelmas term. The college reassembles after the long vacation on October 11. The heir-apparent is to occupy rooms in No. 4 staircase, on

His royal highness will be atoverlooking the deer park, and within a few yards of the Founder's Tower and Addison's famous walk. The apartments are being specially arranged for the Prince's reception.

His Royal Highness will be attanded by his tutor, Henry Hansell, an old member of Magdalen.

ROYAL MATCH-MAKING.

The rumor that the marriage of the Prince of Wales with the eldest daughter of the Czar will be under discussion during M. Sazonoff's visit is not well founded. The marriage might—and probably would—be very popular in England, but it would not meet with much approval in Russia. In the event of the death of the young Tsarevitch a very determined effort would be made to put the Grand Duchess Olga on the throne and to ignore the claims of the next legal heir. Such an attempt would, of course, be impossible in the event of such a marriage, and so, while we are welcome to the Grand Duchess Tatiana, popular feeling in Russia is against a "great" marriage for their beloved Grand Duchess Olga.

KINGLY HOSPITALITY.

It is fully expected in the court entourage that the Windsor sojourn in November will be prolonged over several weeks. The King and Queen will probably go to York Cottage at the end of November, in order to offer to Queen Alexandra in person their congratulations upon her birthday on December 1. The royal children will not be there at that time, and the special birthday party which their doting grandmamma has sometimes given for their enjoyment in previous years will therefore be deferred until the royal family assemble in Norfolk once more. There are also to be some interludes when the King will be the guest of his intimates at country houses in East Anglia and the Midlands, primarily for pheasant shooting. With these exceptions, it is understood that His Majesty will devote more time than he has been able to do since the beginning of the reign to re-establishing the hospitalities of "Windsor Castle in the late autumn. There will be several foreign royalties as guests, although the Edwardian usage of sending out invitations for the state visit of crowned heads is not to be continued in the same way.

CHARITY PAYS COSTLY DRESSES.

It is common knowledge that handsome sums are made in indirect commissions by many ladies whose names figure prominently in regard to charity functions. A striking instance of this has just been brought to light. A big bazaar in aid of a well-known institution was held many months ago, and, although it was a gigantic success, the amount handed over to the institution was surprisingly small. No balance-sheet was ever published; but it is now known that quite a score of the smartest women in society had managed to obtain costly dresses out of the indirect commission they received.

GERMAN OPERA IN LONDON.

Grand opera in German will have a special season of two months at Covent Garden next winter, beginning in the second week of January. The season will be chiefly under the direction of Thomas Beecham, and one of its features will be the production, for the first time in England, of Herr Richard Strauss's "Rosenkavalier" ("Rose Cavalier.") Special performances will also be given in German of "Electra," "Salome," and "The Meistersingers," and for these operas the best available artists will be gathered from all parts of the world. The Russian ballet has been engaged to appear on alternate evenings with the performance of the opera.

Hugh Blaker, an English artist, who has been signally honored by purchase of his charcoal drawing, "Le Viellard," for the British section of the Luxembourg Museum in Paris, is curator of the Holburne Museum at Bath, and has been an exhibitor at the New English Art Club. He is the first English art director to have his work placed in the museum.

The Duchess of Fyfe, who recently attained her twenty-first birthday, is owner of one of the largest estates in North Britain, comprising nearly 250,000 acres of cultivated land, mountain, moor, and forest. She inherited the vast estates and great riches of her father. The duchess is fond of outdoor sport, especially of angling. She is said to have more than the ordinary share of the business capacity of the Duff family.

Dr. Charles Waldstein, who received one of the royal birthday honors in the form of knighthood, is an American by birth, but has lived in England for years. He was born in New York in 1856, and received his education at Columbia and Heidelberg. As an archaeologist he has gained world-wide fame, and has written much on the subject. He is associated with King's College, Cambridge.

Dr. William S. Bruce, the noted Scotch explorer, and a companion, who had been exploring Spitzbergen, were rescued by a steamer at Advent Bay, which they had reached after a long and perilous trip.

Baron Hengelmuller von Hengervar, who has just retired as ambassador of Austria-Hungary, had been in Washington for eighteen years, and was the dean of the capital's diplomatic corps. He has attained the age of retirement in the Austrian diplomatic service, and it is said he may enter the privy council on his return to Austria.

blackmail. When she fell sick and her payments ceased he informed the police. The man was given five years imprisonment, the woman liberated, her child buried at the expense of the parish. The mother went to the little grave, knelt beside it and died.

A NEST OF GOLD.

A woman living at Shinfield, Reading, reported to the police that an envelope containing gold had mysteriously disappeared from her house during the night. The envelope had been securely sealed and placed on a dresser. While the police were making inquiries the woman saw pieces of paper near the fireplace and a closer examination showed that they formed part of the missing envelope. Behind the grate she noticed a large hole. The grate was taken out, and it was found that a rat had made its nest there, using the envelope, which it had bitten into small pieces, as building material. It had taken the sovereigns which the envelope contained and piled them on top of one another behind the grate.

THE SPY FEVER.

The spy fever has spread to the West End clubs, and certain members of two or three well-known clubs, to which many civil and military servants of the crown belong, would be surprised to know that they are really being kept under surveillance by the more suspicious of their fellow-members.

The vicar of Great Barr, near Birmingham, deplores the fact that only one marriage has taken place in the parish in the last year, and asks whatever their young men and maidens are thinking about.

"Great Barr contains many widows, and unless the young men and maidens wake up to their duty we shall have to appeal to the widows to save the situation."

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Gaby Deslys has this week turned up again at the West End. Alfred Butt booked her for the Palace and on Monday last she made her appearance there in a little sketch which has evoked a goodly measure of hostility on the part of some of the critics. "Mdlle. Chic" is not precisely a drawing-room entertainment, while one of the dances called "The Gaby Glide" is, well, to say the least of it, distinctly naughty. Of course, Gaby can do these sorts of things in Paris without raising a blush or offending a susceptibility. But she ought to remember that in point of artistic sensitiveness London is as far distant from Paris as New York from Hong Kong. Frankly, I should not care to take my maiden aunt to the Palace at present, being firmly of the belief that her innate modesty would receive a genuine shock. A small section of the press has been loudly demanding what is the use of a censor if such things are to be permitted? On the other hand, Alfred Butt smiles blandly and merely points to the crowded state of the Palace, from all which you may deduce any particular moral that happens to suit your taste.

Writing from Harrogate, where she is engaged in the gentle process of what she describes as "the horrors of a sulphur water cure," Olga Nethersole informs me that after a long and much-needed rest she is about to start work again. Early in October she begins an autumn tour of the English provinces which will carry her pretty well up to the end of the year. Soon after she will take steps to secure a West End theater. The piece she places chief reliance on is "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie" of which Margaret Anglin, I fancy, made quite a popular success on your side. It is curious how little London has seen of Olga Nethersole. When I first entered the theatrical arena some twenty years ago she was one of the most promising of our young actresses. I am convinced that, had she been taken properly in hand, she would be in a position second to none in this country at the present moment There are, as a matter of fact, very few actresses who possess such a fund of emotional strength or of real dramatic force. But she was tempted to go off to Australia and over there, in answer to the popular demand, her style became exaggerated and melodramatic. From that defect, unfortunately, she never recovered. It is a pity, for, undoubtedly, she had in her the makings of a fine artist. Perhaps time, however, may have had a softening effect on her manner and her reappearance in London may serve to show that she has not entirely lost touch with modern methods.

Prof. Reinhardt is coming over this fall to London in order to give us one of his big productions. We are to have absolutely the first of it, as the piece is entirely new, although possibly it may be played for a week in some out-of-the-way town in Germany just to knock it into shape. I have heard the story of the play which, although differing in many respects, recalls in others that of "Sumurun." Although it contains occasional streaks of melodrama, the main interest of the plot is overwhelmingly comic. I am not yet free to say at which particular house the novelty will be presented, but this I can state, that Reinhardt has been guaranteed a minimum of $5000 a week as his share of the receipts.

A fortnight hence we are to have the Divine Sarah amongst us again at the Coliseum. So far as England is concerned, she seems nowadays to find the vaudeville stage more to her liking than the legitimate. The arrangement, at any rate, deprives her of all monetary risk and leaves her at the end of six weeks with a pleasantly handsome sum to the credit of the account. For the first two weeks of her engagement she promises scenes from Victor Hugo's "Lucrece Borgia," Racine's "Phedre," in which it may be remembered she made her very first appearance in England over thirty years ago, and Emile Moreau's "Elisabeth Reine D'Angleterre." which she recently produced with no great measure of success at her own theater in Paris. For the third week she reserves a little one-act play entitled "Une Nuit de Noel," specially written for her by Henri Cain and her beloved son, Maurice. Of the subject she has sent me some special details. The part she plays in it is that of a great dramatic artist who for love of France has abandoned her career in order to become a Vivandiere during the revolution of 1793. Sarah assures me that it is an exceedingly thrilling little piece, "pittoresque, poignant et superbe," and that it will afford her exceptional opportunity for the exercise of her talent.

Cyril Maude and his family which includes his wife, Winifred Emery, and his two daughters, have been motoring on the continent by way of taking a holiday. They reckoned without the weather, however, which was of so unfavorable a character as completely to upset their plans. At Munich, Winifred Emery declared that she could stand the strain no longer and, turning her back upon the automobile, hurried home by train. She had the more reason seeing that she was wanted for rehearsals of a one-act play in which she is to appear at the Palace next Monday week. It is entitled "The Playwright," and is the work of Maj. Drury, part author of "The Flag Lieutenant." The writer sets out to solve, in humorous fashion, the mystery of Shakespeare's plays. His suggestion is that they were really written by Lord Bacon. Queen Elizabeth is supposed to have witnessed the performance of one, and, somehow, it sets her nerves on edge. She angrily accuses Bacon of being the author. With a view of getting out of the difficulty Bacon sends for a popular young actor-manager, named William Shakespeare, explains the trouble he is in and asks him to put his signature to the manuscript. Shakespeare consents. This documentary evidence is subsequently placed before Elisabeth who good-humoredly answers, "My Lord Bacon may be able to deceive the whole of England, but he cannot deceive his Queen." A sufficiently pleasant conceit, is it not?"

Mrs. Langtry will shortly cross the Atlantic again. She has accepted an offer for a twenty weeks' tour in vaudeville in the United States and sails, accordingly, from Liverpool about the middle of September. For the moment she is in Paris, whither she has gone to order a lot of new dresses from Paquin. Mrs. Langtry fully realizes the value of a becoming and well-fitting gown and would travel a good deal further than Paris to obtain what she wants.

Marie Tempest has been taking a holiday at Geneva and doing a little mountain climbing. It was in reality very little, however, as the rain began to make itself felt in the most unpleasant fashion. So, in sheer despair, she packed her trunks and went off to Paris, where one can always enjoy oneself howsoever bad the weather may be. She is in town again busy rehearsing the new piece called "Art and Opportunity," with which she reopens at the Prince of Wales next Thursday. In that she plays the part of a designing widow who employs all her art in order not to miss the opportunity of marrying an earl's son, little more than a boy. It is the slightest trifle, Marie says, but the characterization and dialogue are clever and she is hopeful it will serve her purpose for a few weeks. Her real autumn production is to be Jerome K. Jerome's new play, now prettily nearly finished.

I have been reading the farce called "Seven Days," by Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood, which I believe coined a lot of money in America. It strikes me as a rollicking, irresponsible bit of work with plenty of knock-about fun in it, but I should be sorely tried how to answer if asked to say whether I thought it would do in this country or not. However, the English rights have been acquired by James Welch, who is going to give the piece a couple of nights' trial in Manchester in about two months' time before bringing it to London. He himself is to play the part of Jimmie Wilson, the fat young man. Now as Welch is thin as a lath it looks as if he would have to go in for a fattening process before making the attempt. But when one remembers the amazing tour de force accomplished by Beerbohm Tree as Falstaff in "The Merry Wives of Windsor," the feasibility of Welch appearing as a fat boy must at once be acknowledged.

THE UNCHLOROFORMED.

Aunt Polly Nauman, said to be the oldest woman in Pennsylvania, celebrated her one hundred and sixth birthday at Good Shepherd Home, in Allentown, Pa. The International Sunshine Society of New York City sent her a beautiful gold medal in commemoration of the anniversary.

On his ninety-first birthday J. H. Thompson, Easton's oldest resident, competed with George Seymour, keeper of Northampton county Courthouse, and the next oldest citizen of Easton, Pa., in a series of high jumps and running races.

On September 14 Mrs. Sallie Furgerson of Paris, Tenn., celebrated the one hundred and third anniversary of her birth.

James Vibert of Wethersfield, Ct., is believed to be the oldest old-time stage coach driver in that part of the country. He is nearly 92 years old. Seventy years ago he drove the stage between Litchfield and Hartford and followed the occupation of a driver in different parts of Connecticut for thirty years until the railroads forced him out.

George P. Holt of New Haven, Ct., 80 years of age, a veteran of the Civil War, and of Indian encounters in the West, has presented to the Historical Society of his native town, Milford, his "Wide-awake uniform," which he wore during the "Wide-awake" organization movement. In this organization, the purpose of which was to promote the election of Lincoln, Mr. Holt was a leader.

Mrs. Mary Ashton, said to be the oldest living army nurses in this country, has just celebrated her eighty-sixth birthday. Dr. Annette Buckle, another woman who gave her services to the country during the Civil War, died recently at her home in Piedmont, Cal.

ODD POSSESSIONS.

James A. Cooper of Providence, R. I., thinks he has a horticultural oddity in a sunflower plant which is bearing thirty-five blossoms. The stalk is two inches in diameter, and he says he expects to get at least a peck of seeds from the plant.

Mrs. G. T. Thompson of Orange, Mass., has a million-dollar house, which stands in what has proved an impossibility as far as its being a lawn is concerned. As grass seemed resolved not to grow there, Mrs. Thompson planted the ground in potatoes, and the first bushel were dug last week. Other residents will try the potato planting another year, it is said.

A red Easter lily, owned by Frank Andrews, is on exhibition at his office in Sanford, Me. Early in the week it had nine blossoms and several buds. The plant was in full bloom last February, and after blooming, it was cut down to a few inches above the earth. It is now about twenty-four inches high.

Mrs. Elmer Nutting of Cambridge, Mass., is said to have the largest collection of post cards in the world. It numbers more than 30,000 specimens. The United States navy presented Mrs. Nutting with a set of souvenir postcards collected when the fleet made its cruise around the world.

Trieste Bonifaces Taught Appropriate Lesson.

BY EMIL ANDRASSY.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—That the realistic dramas which thrill the audiences at the picture palaces are not enacted without some risk was shown once more by a grim tragedy that occurred on the Franz Josef Bridge at Budapest.

A young man rapidly climbed one of the pillars, mounted the stone eagle at its summit, and prepared to throw himself into the Danube. His frenzied gesticulations attracted the attention of large crowds on both banks of the river. Telephone messages were sent for ambulances, and firemen brought ladders, which proved to be too short to reach the supposed would-be suicide. Boats were placed under the bridge, and others waited about to catch the man or rescue him from the water. The young man sprang into the river from a heigth of 180 feet, disappeared beneath the surface, and was never seen again.

It appears that the whole incident was planned by a cinematograph film company, who paid the unfortunate man the sum of 250 kronen for his tragic adventure. He belonged to a respectable Budapest family, and was anxious to go to Paris as a swimming instructor. He accepted the risk in the hope of making a reputation. The two film manufacturers by whom he was engaged have been arrested.

URISING IN PERSIA.

A serious new uprising in Persia is reported in official dispatches to the Chancellor of Vienna.

Prince Firman Firma, the Governor of Kermanshah, Persia, recently left that place for Senna. A portion of his expedition under Yar Mohammed Khan mutinied, demanding the revival of the Meijliss at Teheran. They returned to Kermanshah and occupied the town. It is stated that Salar-ed-Dowleh now offers to restore the Constitution, and is endeavoring to secure the support of the mutineers. The whereabouts of Salar-ed-Dowleh remains uncertain. Mukhbir-ed-Wowleh, the new Governor of Fars, has left for Shiraz, accompanied by Swedish gendarmerie.

GREEDINESS LOSES OUT.

The hotel keepers of Trieste have had a lesson. They had agreed to "put up" at a certain figure the recent touring party in connection with the inauguration of the C.P.R.'s observation cars on the Austrian State railways. But when they learned the party was a very big one, 300 at least, up went their rates three-fold. However, they had reckoned without the Austrian Lloyd Company, who put the Helouan, their finest vessel, at the disposal of the party during its stay in Trieste, with the result that the hotels never made a single crown out of the visitors. So much for greediness.

ON THE ROLL CALL.

William G. Rhoads of Lehighton, Pa., 89 years of age, has been in the continuous employ of the Lehigh Valley Railroad for sixty consecutive years, and is still enjoying good health. Mr. Rhoads helped to lay the first rails through the valley.

J. B. Stranford of Galeton, Potter county, Pa., is 75 years of age, and has been a railway mail clerk on the old Allegheny Valley Railroad for 43 years. Despite his age he has just passed successfully an examination in letter reading, making only seven mistakes in 1000 tests. He will be relieved from further examinations.

John Laws, recently elected register of deeds of Orange county, North Carolina, has held the same position for sixty-three years, and is said to be the oldest officeholder in the world. He is 90 years old, and is one of the two North Carolina survivors of the Mexican War.

William Hart, who resides near Canaan Valley, N. Y., and is in his eighty-fourth year, walked to Winstead, Ct., a distance of seventeen miles, in four and one-half hours. He then left by train for Litchfield to attend the reunion of his regiment, the Nineteenth.

Owen Morris, 72 years of age, of North Adams, Mass., who for fifty years has been actively engaged in the printing trade, is thought to be the oldest machine printer in the country. John L. Niven, also employed at North Adams, is probably the second oldest printer. Mr. Niven, who is a member of the Legislature, is only 68 years of age, but has worked at the machine printing trade slightly longer than Mr. Morris.

MODERN RIFLES FOR ULSTER MEN.

War Office Refusal of Arms Is Publicly Burned.

Home Rule Opponents Defy Irish Chief Secretary.

Hunger Strike Suffragettes Quietly Leave Jail.

BY THOMAS EMMETT.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

DUBLIN, Sept. 21.—Despite the decision of the Right Hon. Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland, that no movement of the kind will be countenanced or permitted by the British government, the Ulster Unionists have determined to organize an armed body to be styled "The Young Citizen Volunteers of Ireland." Irish peers and land owners and wealthy merchants of Belfast are subscribing to the "war chest" to provide modern rifles, uniforms and supplies for this brigade of anti-home rulers, ready to resist Redmond by, if necessary, "dying in the last ditch."

In Belfast the first battalion of 800 husky young Orangemen has already been enrolled. The Unionist women are embroidering silken banners for their champions, and the standards of rebellion are to be presented at a great service to be held in the Ulster Hall. The "colonel" of the rebel volunteer battalion applied to the War Office for terms upon which arms could be purchased from the imperial gun factories. A reply was sent stating that the War Office under no circumstances would assist to arm any body of unauthorised troops. This reply was publicly burned at a mass meeting held on the Belfast custombarac

SUFFRAGETTES LEAVE JAIL.

Without the waving of banners, without brass band, indeed, without demonstration of any kind, four suffragists—Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington, Mrs. Palmer and Misses Murphy—have been released from Mountjoy Prison, on the completion of their term of imprisonment.

These four ladies were arrested for window-breaking, and for which offense they accorded the same treatment as political offenders. They were allowed to wear their own clothes, and after a while were permitted to receive dainty meals daily. Some difficulty was experienced when the other prisoners—Miss Houston, Miss [illegible], Miss Lloyd and Miss Wolfe—refused to eat, and continued until they were also granted the same privileges as the political rivals. The sentences on Miss Houston and her companions will not be completed till about the middle of December.

When the English women were in prison, after being released in connection with the recent Theater Royal outrage, they proclaimed favorable treatment, and in a memorial to that effect the eight Irish suffragists joined. The memorial on their behalf, it is suggested to them that they should await the reply before they do anything desperate.

After waiting more or less patiently for a week the English women inaugurated the hunger strike, and the Irish women ats the first awaited the reply.

Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington, on her release, has said that she and her three companions determined to enter a protest before they came out, and in accordance with that we began to put up a hunger strike for the first few hours as a mark of sympathy with the demands of their English sisters.

They were all agreed on that. The prison officials had treated them with every consideration, but on the part of the ladies made the extraordinary complaint that while the hunger strike was in progress it was "a species of cruelty" to place their usual three meals a day in the cells, as the sight tempt the pledged suffragettes to eat, and, perhaps, be sorry.

"Fortunately," continued Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington, "prison fare is not very tempting, so that soon broke down."

SUFFRAGETTES LEAVE JA

Without the waving of flags, banners, without brass band, indeed, without demonstration of any kind, four suffragists—Mrs. Sheffington, Mrs. Palmer and the Misses Murphy—have been released from Mountjoy Prison, on the completion of their term of imprisonment.

These four ladies were sentenced for window-breaking, and they were accorded the same treatment as political offenders. They were allowed to wear their own clothes, and after a while were permitted to indulge in associated exercise. The lady doctors were also allowed to see them. Some difficulty was, however, experienced when the other prisoners—Miss Houston, Miss Haslam, Miss Lloyd and Miss Webb—arrived, but this continued until they were accorded the same privileges as the earlier rivals. The sentence on Miss Houston and her companions will not expire till about the middle of December.

When the English women arrived in prison, after being sentenced in connection with the recent Royal Theater Royal outrage, they at once claimed favorable treatment, and addressed in a memorial to that effect. Eight Irish suffragists joined in the memorial on their behalf, and it was suggested to them that they should await the reply before they did anything desperate.

After waiting more or less patiently for a week the English prisoners inaugurated the hunger strike, and the Irish women ate their food and awaited the reply.

Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington, since her release, has said that she and her three companions determined to go on a protest before they came out, and in accordance with that vow they took up a hunger strike for ninety hours as a mark of sympathy with the demands of their English sisters.

They were all agreed that the prison officials had treated them with every consideration, but one of the ladies made the extraordinary complaint that while the hunger strike was in progress it was "a refinement of cruelty" to place their usual meals a day in the room as a means to tempt the pledged suffragists to eat, and, perhaps, be merry.

"Fortunately," commented Mrs. Sheehy-Skeffington, "prison food is not very tempting, so that none of us broke down."

FRANK WEDEKIND,

Author of "The Awakening of Spring," and one of the most conspicuous figures in the German dramatic field. Wedekind's "Such Is Life," a play in five acts, is now ready for American readers.

the actual parturition of his ideas and behold them in their period of pregnancy.

"Human, All-Too-Human," following two years later, was the first direct voicing of Nietzsche's philosophy. All else had been mere skirmishing with ideas. Only indirectly and desultorily had his opinions been heretofore voiced. His analysis of history, his criticisms of ancient and modern thought, had actually pried away the superficial manifestations of existence and given him that insight into the undercurrents of causation which was later to inspire him in his work.

Nietzsche realized the necessity of destroying the universe before an understanding of it was possible. And so the two volumes of "Human, All-Too-Human" are almost entirely destructive. In this work we have Nietzsche the trail-blazer; the incendiary; the idol-smasher; the supreme pessimist; the devastater of the world. One by one, the doctrines and tenets strengthened by the accumulative acceptance of centuries go down before his bludgeon. The universe of reality, piece by piece, is neutralized through his analyses. Every human transaction, every phase of human hope and aspiration, is reduced to negation. Nietzsche, at his birth as a thinker, presents himself as the arch nihilist.

This ruthless clearing away of accepted values was necessary for the books which were to come. Already he had outlined in his mind the constructive works which were to come later, although in reading this first definite contribution to his philosophy one finds but little indication—and that little only obscurely hinted at—of that transvaluation of values which was to follow the devaluation.

We have no hint, in "Human, All-Too-Human," of the doctrine of the super-man. Evolution beyond the present is mentioned but indirectly. The future, to this destructive Nietzsche, is non-existent. His eyes are continually turned toward the past; and they shift no further than the present. Only through implication is the Hellenic ideal voiced. Greek culture is used as a means of comparison, or as an arbitrary premise of his dialectic. The doctrine of eternal recurrence which was to form one of the bases of "Thus Spake Zarathustra" is not even suggested.

"Human, All-Too-Human" came as a distinct surprise, even to Nietzsche's most intimate friends. For there were not sufficient indications in his earlier writings for one to predict so devastating and terrible an arraignment as this work. Not only in thought but in form was it a departure from all else he had written. The conventional essay had been abrogated for an aphoristic style. Here we find a series of paragraphs, varying in length from a few lines to a page or more, each dealing with a separate, and syllogistically detached, idea. This form gives the effect of a man felling a giant tree with a thousand blows of an ax, as in contradistinction to the gradual and continous method of sawing it down.

Despite its destructive qualities, the manner of this work is calm. It is, as a whole, an excellent example of those writings which Nietzsche himself has called Apollonian. At times one even feels a tentativeness in its utterings, not unlike the steps of a man might take in a region he knows to be full of quicksands. In this regard, it is interesting to note how a certain insecurity at the beginning of the work, which manifests itself in ultra-obscure passages, later gives way to a clarity and humor indicative of an almost wanton temerity.

A multiplicity of themes comes under Nietzsche's observation in this work. Not only is there a great deal of abstract reasoning, but also a vast amount of brilliant and incisive criticism of men and art. Ancient and modern philosophers, novelists, poets, musicians, dramatists, as well as theories of art, literature and music, here fall under Nietzsche's careful and acute analysis. There are passages of startling poetry interpolated between paragraphs of cynical and destructive research. Nietzsche is here the scholar, the philologist, the historian, the scientist. The amount of knowledge of things in nearly every line of human endeavor is astonishing. In his most elaborate processes of ratiocination he is always capable of adhering to authenticated facts. He never sidesteps into the purely metaphysical, or denies the existence of corporeality once it has been assumed as a hypothesis. He breaks, once and for all, with the verbalistic bats, the word-jugglers, the spiritual hasheesh-smokers and betel-chewers. Denying all reason, he is always scrupulously reasonable.

"Human, All-Too-Human" is the first book of Nietzsche's one should read. It is, in reality, an elaborate introduction to his later works. In his next book, "The Dawn of Day," comes the dawn of his philosophy. It is the first real battle in his righteous warfare. But it cannot be so readily understood or appreciated unless we have prepared ourselves for it by studying "Human, All-Too-Human."

NOVEL FOR ADULTS.

IN COTTON WOOL. By W. B. Maxwell. D. Appleton, New York.

"In Cotton Wool," by W. B. Maxwell—a book which I have mentioned once or twice before in these columns—is no novel for babes. Readers suckled on the pap of romanticism will find their gums unfit for the proper mastication of Mr. Maxwell's ruthless and effective bit of realistic patho-psychology. However, "In Cotton Wool" is a book which every serious-minded reader should become acquainted with. It is a work of rare merit, a work which deals unsentimentally with certain phases of human development, a book in which the benign doctrine of free will does not show its painted face, a novel which attempts to show the great flux and reflux of environmental influence upon the human organisms.

Is it unpleasant? Perhaps. Is it pathological? Perhaps. Does it preach a pious moral of uplift? It does not. But these facts do not imply morbidity. The coddlers of life are forever labelling unpleasantness "morbid." If this were so, half of life would be morbid. Mr. Maxwell has adhered strictly, so far as I can see, to the verities of pathology. He has not attempted to inject his ideas, his ethics, or his prejudices into this life story of Leonard Calcraft: He has merely shown us the inevitable results which follow when a man—even the strongest and most high principled of men, such as Calcraft was—swathes his soul in cotton wool.

At the opening of the book we find "Lennie," at the age of 35, caring for an invalid father. It is no enviable task that the young man has. The father is crabbed, irascible, carping. But during his nurseship, Lennie enjoys a luxurious life. All of his brute needs are satisfied. He is "well off." It is Mr. Maxwell's task to show the disintegrating effect of this pampered and comfortable existence. One by one, the young man's ambitions drop from him. He settles more and more into the rut. His morals atrophy; his brain becomes inactive; he drifts with the tide.

Two women enter his life, but he does not bring himself to marry either. He is too weak to refuse the first one outright, and too comfortable to marry her. The other woman, a widow, kills herself. Those who know Lennie think perhaps the death of his father will be a turning point—that he will regain his early fortitude. But instead he settles in bachelor apartments in London and lives a laggard life of indolence. Then his mental faculties begin to deteriorate. The symptoms of brain softening set in, and we take leave of him in an asylum, babbling and broken.

An excellent and convincing story. Each step of Calcraft's degeneration is shown. The corroding effect of his comfortable life is traced with almost medical accuracy. The book is a potent study of human disintegration.

BORDER LINE ROMANCE.

THE RED LANE. By Holman Day. Harper & Brothers, New York.

HOLMAN DAY can always be counted on for life-like human beings, for adventurous tales untinged with melodrama, for romance, good humor and excitement.

"The Red Lane," his latest book, is no exception. This new story combines love, danger, politics, religion and smuggling in equal proportions. The red lane itself is a secret passage used by the smugglers on the borderland between Eastern Maine and Western New Brunswick. In this story we learn of the partnership of one Dave Roi, the head of the smugglers, and Vetal Beaulieu, whose place of business is on the boundary line of the two nations; how Roi has an eye on Beaulieu's beautiful young daughter Evangeline; how Aldrich, a young American customs officer, falls in love with the girl; how he attempts to rescue her from her evil surroundings; how a certain unscrupulous Blais stirs up political havoc in the community; how Evangeline is eventually abducted by old Beaulieu and Roi; how the dashing young Aldrich gives chase with hounds; how Clifford, the old legislator, fights against the powers of darkness; and how, in the end, Aldrich and Evangeline come together on a happy basis.

Many interesting types are introduced in the story—such as the good old priest, Pere Leclair, and Anaxagoras Billedeaux, the old fiddler; and Mr. Day has painted for us an interesting and sympathetic picture of the quaint life of Aitegate.

ULSTER IN ARMS.

Covenant Is Prelude to Rebellion.

Two Members of Parliament First Sign Declaration of Independence.

Many Pledges Never to Submit to Irish Home Rule Are Being Made.

Women Join With Churches in Formal Defiance to Liberal Act.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELFAST, Sept. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Uuster is bristling under arms today and there is fear that next week will witness bloody clashes between the determined opponents of Home Rule and the authorities. On Saturday, September 28, formal defiance will be registered in the northern counties of Ireland to the Liberal programme to give Ireland local self-government ment.

In many of the churches today, the ministers preached militant sermons and aroused their congregations to a high pitch of excitement. Hotspurs are advising open rebellion and men and women throng to sign the Ulster covenant never to submit to home rule. For weeks already, arms have been gathered quietly while companies of men are drilling openly. What the outcome will be no man can fortell but the show of resistance has aroused apprehension throughout the Island.

WILL NEVER SUBMIT.
DECLARE HOTSPURS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—On Saturday, September 28, Unionists of the northern counties of Ireland propose to register their formal defiance of home rule.

Gathering in halls, market-places and churches, the men of Ulster will sign a covenant pledging themselves never to submit to any government from Dublin which may be imposed upon the country by the Asquith-Redmond home rule bill passed by the House of Commons.

"Ulster day" is the designation chosen for this remarkable political sacrament.

Home rule in its revived form of local self-government, instead of complete separation for Ireland, has aroused no deeper political feeling in England than other questions—the tariff, the lords and Llody George's taxation measures. Indeed, most of the Englishmen appear willing that Ireland should have the power involved in Mr. Redmond's programme if only the constant strife and racial bitterness can be ended.

But the stumbling block has developed in the Unionists of Ulster. Before they will submit to separation they will have civil war, their leaders threaten. Home rulers, however, treat these threats with ridicule.

Members of Parliament like Sir Edward Carson, an Irishman, and F. E. Smith, one of the most conspicuous of the younger Conservatives who is not an Irishman, have made speeches in and out of Parliament, announcing that Ulster will never recognise a home rule government and urging the people to resist.

FIRST TO SIGN.

Sir Edward Carson and F. E. Smith are to be the first to write their names to the "covenant" in Belfast City Hall, where the largest assembly is expected. How many names will appear on this unique declaration of independence is a subject of newspaper contention. Predictions of Ulster enthusiasts range from half a million to a million.

The Belfast corporation has recommended all employers to give Saturday to their men as a "day of rest." The governing body of the Presbyterian church has issued a manifesto declaring that the home rule bill threatens religious freedom and setting apart the day as one for worship and prayer. The covenant is to be signed on the steps of the Belfast cathedral, and religious services will be held there, as well as in many Presbyterian, Methodist and Church of Ireland places of worship in Ulster.

Unionist women have formulated a draft of declaration for members of their sex to sign and are preparing a demonstration.

The signing of the covenant may prove the prelude to a great rebellion, or it may be a flash in the pan. Two years at best must elapse before home rule can begin to be established because the House of Lords can hold up the bill for that time. The present drift of political feeling indicates that the liberal party may go out of office within that period.

David Wilson, a deputy constable, with whom Folsom had been rooming for some time, was found and he was authority for the statement that Folsom had visited him at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and said that he intended starting in an automobile for Santa Barbara to deliver the machine to a woman who had purchased it in Los Angeles.

Then came the discovery of two letters, one of them signed with the name, Thelma Bartee and the other written in a lead pencil and signed simply "Bud,'" a nickname which is used by all of Folsom's friends and which the young man uses himself.

These letters were remarkable in many ways and seemed to show conclusively that Folsom and the young woman had agreed to die together. The letter signed "Bud" was addressed to Thelma Bartee and reproached her for the ruin she had brought into the writer's life and declared that she had been responsible for trouble between him and Miss Jones. The letter expressed a wish to die and stated that the writer was rapidly driving himself to death with absinthe. The letter signed Thelma Bartee also spoke of death.

Folsom was found yesterday very much alive, at the home of his mother in Santa Monica. He declared he knew nothing of the hoax and that he was at a loss to understand who had started the story of his death and why it had been started. He declared that he knew a woman named Thelma Bartee and that she now was in San Francisco.

The Times is bending every effort to discover the author of the hoax and promises that if the perpetrator can be found that he will be prosecuted and exposed to the fullest extent of the power of this paper.

That the hoax was widely spread is shown by the fact that telephone messages to the effect that Folsom had been killed in this way were sent Saturday evening to several of his mother's neighbors at Santa Monica. They all credited it till Folsom turned up alive.

Mr. Folsom and his mother called at The Times office last evening and expressed a determination to assist The Times in running to earth the perpetrator of the hoax, saying that they had no idea who the scoundrel could be.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—When Lawrence B. Rich, under arrest at Grant's Pass, Or., charged with bigamy, is brought to trial, it will not be on complaint of his first wife, who was Norma Cohn of this city.

"Mrs. Rich No. 2, her sister or the District Attorney must have lodged the charge," said Mrs. Rich No. 1 here today. "I have no desire to prosecute him, though it can be shown that we were married here on August 18, 1907, by the Rev. M. S. Levy."

Rich is the son of B. B. Rich of this city, well known in the tobacco business. He will be given a preliminary hearing at Grant's Pass tomorrow. The charge is that he married Miss Jessie Layton of Grant's Pass without having obtained a divorce from Norma Cohn. Dispatches quote him as denying that he had married Norma Cohn. She showed today what purported to be their marriage certificate.

SPANISH STRIKE PREVENTION.

Employees of Railroads to Be Mobilized So as to Bring Them Within Reach of Martial Law.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CEBERE (France) Sept. 22.—The Spanish government is preparing to mobilize the employees of the railroads, bringing them within reach of martial law.

This is the outcome of the decision of the railroad workers at Catalonia to go out on strike next week because of the refusal of the railroad companies to grant their demands for an improvement of conditions. The government fears the present situation may develop a general strike consideration the fact that two sets of candidates for electors designated as "Republicans," each of them, have been certified to him, and continuing on the theory that all matters of vital interest to the people should be finally referred to him for decision, he will have the names of both sets of candidates placed on the ballot—both as Republicans, but with the distinction that one set is for Taft and the other for Roosevelt.

MAY BE ACCEPTED.

In political circles tonight, it was stated that such a plan will meet with the approval of both factions of the Republican party. It is believed also that Jordan's reputed attitude will take away much of the sting that might otherwise have attended the meeting Tuesday, for the reason that both the regulars and the Roosevelters will be sure of a place on the ballot.

were made by the conspirator or conspirators.

According to the story printed the two had plunged over a precipice in Topango Pass Saturday evening in an automobile, which was driven by Folsom. The story of the death of the couple was given to The Times by a man claiming to be K. Mason of No. 1145 Fourteenth street, Long Beach. The real Mason is a member of the National Guard of California and the man who impersonated him said that he and several friends, also members of the National Guard, were returning from a hunting trip and while going through the pass they discovered the overturned automobile lying at the bottom of a ravine seventy-five feet below the road level.

The Times verified the story as far as possible Saturday night and in the investigation discovered several persons in Los Angeles who knew Folsom. The alleged Mason gave to The Times the address of Thomas Jones and his wife, No. 803 California street, claiming that this address and the name Folsom were in a book found in the pockets of the young man whom he and his companions had dragged from beneath the wreckage of the auto.

Investigation by The Times showed that Folsom had lived at the Jones residence for nearly a year, leaving there about a month ago. Jones and his wife said that Folsom had been in love with their daughter, Ethel Jones, a chorus girl, and that he was despondent because she had refused his suit for her hand. They said that Folsom had met a girl friend of their daughter's on the street, Saturday afternoon and that immediately after the meeting, the girl friend had tele-

PRINCE OF WALES GOES TO OXFORD.

Winter of Royal Hospitality at Windsor Castle.

BY LADY MANWARING.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Prince of Wales will take up his residence as an undergraduate of Magdalen College, Oxford, in the approaching Michaelmas term. The college reassembles after the long vacation on October 11. The heir-apparent is to occupy rooms in No. 4 staircase, on

His royal highness will be attended by his tutor, Henry Hansell, an old member of Magdalen.

ROYAL MATCH-MAKING.

The rumor that the marriage of the Prince of Wales with the eldest daughter of the Czar will be under discussion during M. Sasonoff's visit is not well founded. The marriage might—and probably would—be very popular in England, but it would not meet with much approval in Russia. In the event of the death of the young Tsarevitch a very determined effort would be made to put the Grand Duchess Olga on the throne and to ignore the claims of the next legal heir. Such an attempt would, of course, be impossible in the event of such a marriage, and so, while we are welcome to the Grand Duchess Tatiana, popular feeling in Russia is against a "great" marriage for their beloved Grand Duchess Olga.

KINGLY HOSPITALITY.

It is fully expected in the court entourage that the Windsor sojourn in November will be prolonged over several weeks. The King and Queen will probably go to York Cottage at the end of November, in order to offer to Queen Alexandra in person their congratulations upon her birthday on December 1. The royal children will not be there at that time, and the special birthday party which their doting grandmamma has sometimes given for their enjoyment in previous years will therefore be deferred until the royal family assemble in Norfolk once more. There are also to be some interludes when the King will be the guest of his intimates at country houses in East Anglia and the Midlands, primarily for pheasant shooting. With these exceptions, it is understood that His Majesty will devote more time than he has been able to do since the beginning of the reign to re-establishing the hospitalities of Windsor Castle in the late autumn. There will be several foreign royalties as guests, although the Edwardian usage of sending out invitations for the state visit of crowned heads is not to be continued in the same way.

CHARITY PAYS COSTLY DRESSES.

It is common knowledge that handsome sums are made in indirect commissions by many ladies whose names figure prominently in regard to charity functions. A striking instance of this has just been brought to light. A big bazaar in aid of a well-known institution was held many months ago, and, although it was a gigantic success, the amount handed over to the institution was surprisingly small. No balance-sheet was ever published; but it is now known that quite a score of the smartest women in society had managed to obtain costly dresses out of the indirect commission they received.

GERMAN OPERA IN LONDON.

Grand opera in German will have a special season of two months at Covent Garden next winter, beginning in the second week of January. The season will be chiefly under the direction of Thomas Beecham, and one of its features will be the production, for the first time in England, of Herr Richard Strauss's "Rosenkavalier" ("Rose Cavalier."). Special performances will also be given in German of "Electra," "Salome," and "The Meistersingers," and for these operas the best available artists will be gathered from all parts of the world. The Russian ballet has been engaged to appear on alternate evenings with the performance of the opera.

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Gaby Deslys has this week turned up again at the West End. Alfred Butt booked her for the Palace and on Monday last she made her appearance there in a little sketch which has evoked a goodly measure of hostility on the part of some of the critics. "Mdlle. Chic" is not precisely a drawing-room entertainment, while one of the dances called "The Gaby Glide" is, well, to say the least of it, distinctly naughty. Of course, Gaby can do these sorts of things in Paris without raising a blush or offending a susceptibility. But she ought to remember that in point of artistic sensitiveness London is as far distant from Paris as New York from Hong Kong. Frankly, I should not care to take my maiden aunt to the Palace at present, being firmly of the belief that her innate modesty would receive a genuine shock. A small section of the press has been loudly demanding what is the use of a censor if such things are to be permitted? On the other hand, Alfred Butt smiles blandly and merely points to the crowded state of the Palace, from all which you may deduce any particular moral that happens to suit your taste.

Writing from Harrogate, where she is engaged in the gentle process of what she describes as "the horrors of a sulphur water cure," Olga Nethersole informs me that after a long and much-needed rest she is about to start work again. Early in October she begins an autumn tour of the English provinces which will carry her pretty well up to the end of the year. Soon after she will take steps to secure a West End theater. The piece she places chief reliance on is "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie" in which Margaret Anglin, I fancy, made quite a popular success on your side. It is curious how little London has seen of Olga Nethersole. When I first entered the theatrical arena some twenty years ago she was one of the most promising of our young actresses. I am convinced that, had she been taken properly in hand, she would be in a position second to none in this country at the present moment. There are, as a matter of fact, very few actresses who possess such a fund of emotional strength or of real dramatic force. But she was tempted to go off to Australia and over there, in answer to the popular demand, her style became exaggerated and melodramatic. From that defect, unfortunately, she never recovered. It is a pity, for, undoubtedly, she had in her the makings of a fine artist. Perhaps time, however, may have had a softening effect on her manner and her reappearance in London may serve to show that she has not entirely lost touch with modern methods.

Prof. Reinhardt is coming over this fall to London in order to give us one of his big productions. We are to have absolutely the first of it, as the piece is entirely new, although possibly it may be played for a week in some out-of-the-way town in Germany just to knock it into shape. I have heard the story of the play which, although differing in many respects, recalls in others that of "Sumurun." Although it contains occasional streaks of melodrama, the main interest of the plot is overwhelmingly comic, I am not yet free to say at which particular house the novelty will be presented, but this I can state, that Reinhardt has been guaranteed a minimum of $5000 a week as his share of the receipts.

A fortnight hence we are to have the Divine Sarah amongst us again at the Coliseum. So far as England is concerned, she seems nowadays to find the vaudeville stage more to her liking than the legitimate. The arrangement, at any rate, deprives her of all monetary risk and leaves her at the end of six weeks with a pleasantly handsome sum to the credit of the account. For the first two weeks of her engagement she promises scenes from Victor Hugo's "Lucrece Borgia," Racine's "Phedre," in which it may be remembered she made her very first appearance in England over thirty years ago, and Emile Moreau's "Elisabeth Reine D'Angleterre," which she recently produced with no great measure of success at her own theater in Paris. For the third week she reserves a little one-act play entitled "Une Nuit de Noel," specially written for her by Henri Cain and her beloved son, Maurice. Of the subject she has sent me some special details. The part she plays in it is that of a great dramatic artist who for love of France has abandoned her career in order to become a Vivandiere during the revolution of 1793. Sarah assures me that it is an exceedingly thrilling little piece, "pittoresque, poignant et superbe," and that it will afford her exceptional opportunity for the exercise of her talent.

ODD POSSESSIONS.

James A. Cooper of Providence, R. I., thinks he has a horticultural oddity in a sunflower plant which is bearing thirty-five blossoms. The stalk is two inches in diameter, and he says he expects to get at least a peck of seeds from the plant.

Mrs. G. T. Thompson of Orange, Mass., has a million-dollar house, which stands in what has proved an impossibility as far as its being a lawn is concerned. As grass seemed resolved not to grow there, Mrs. Thompson planted the ground in potatoes, and the first bushel were dug last week. Other residents will try the potato planting another year, it is said.

A red Easter lily, owned by Frank Andrews, is on exhibition at his office in Sanford, Me. Early in the week it had nine blossoms and several buds. The plant was in full bloom last February, and after blooming, it was cut down to a few inches above the earth. It is now about twenty-four inches high.

Mrs. Elmer Nutting of Cambridge, Mass., is said to have the largest collection of post cards in the world. It numbers more than 30,000 specimens. The United States navy presented Mrs. Nutting with a set of souvenir postcards collected when the fleet made its cruise around the world.

MARRIAGE THEN LOVE.

ALL THE WORLD TO NOTHING. By Wyndham Martin. Little Brown, Boston.

An absurd but exciting time-killer is to be encountered in Mr. Wyndham Martin's "All the World to Nothing." In it we are apprised of the astonishing adventures of Mr. Chester Dick of New York. Mr. Dick came from a very aristocratic, well-known and wealthy family; for on one occasion, when he was introducing himself, he added, "Perhaps you know the Dicks of New York."

Well, Mr. Dick was up against it, financially, and one night he set out on the unpleasant and difficult mission of making a money-lender disgorge. What would have happened had he found the money-lender? We do not know. Even Mr. Dick confessed later he did not know what he would have done. His end was definite, but his means had been undecided.

The reason that Mr. Dick did not connect with the money-lender was because he was overtaken by that distressing accident which befalls every third hero of light fiction, namely; he mistook the house, and entered instead the apartment—of a lady! Nor was it the apartment of any ordinary lady, whose life moved in the usual conventional routine. Far from it. When, after a few moments conversation and explanation, the young man asked, "Am I allowed to go?" the lady answered him with cold eyes, "Not yet; because you are going to marry me."

A pretty predicament for a Dick of New York to be in. But there was no escape, for the only other alternative was to be arrested for attempted burglary. The Rev. Marcus Plumm was called in and the ceremony was performed. Immediately afterward, the young lady placed a pourboire in Mr. Dick's hand and told him to sneak out the back way.

This brings us to page 68. We will now with one fell leap pass to page 403 and learn that all ends well. What happens in the 335 pages I shall never know. I prefer not to know. Mystery, after all, is the essence of pleasure. There will always be an indefiniteness in my mind about those pages. In imagination I shall fill them full of the most startling events, the most rhapsodic happenings, the most passionate love making, the most flabbergasting adventures. Furthermore, I can change this story at will to suit myself. Given the beginning and the end, I am free to join them with whatever details fit my mood. Had I read these pages I would probably have forgotten them. The concrete always evades us; but the unknowable, the speculative, makes for immortality.

NOVELIZED PLAY.

THE WOMAN. By Albert Payson Terhune. Founded on the play by William C. DeMille. Bobbs Merrill Company, Indianapolis.

Again we encounter the indecent and depressing art of novelizing plays. It seems never to abate. Let a poor play have a "successful" season on Broadway, and some sweating hack pounces upon it, stuffs it, and puts it forth as a novel. I have never yet seen a novelized play as good as the play. And as a general rule, this practice may be said to consist of transforming third-rate plays into tenth-rate novels.

"The Woman," by William C. DeMille and David Belasco, novelized by Albert Payson Terhune, is no exception to the general rule. Nine-tenths of the success of this play was due to the Belasco "effects"—those details which have made Mr. Belasco an idol of the people whose appreciation of a play is limited to a juvenile delight in the spectacular. "The Woman" in dramatic form was a silly and conventional piece, full of those maudlin heroics and sonorous platitudes so dear to the American heart. Like most of Mr. Belasco's productions, it was a distinctly second-rate play—the sort of dramatic claptrap that America must shed before the advent of the drama of ideas is possible. In novel form, it loses what little scenic merit it had in its production; although, let it be said that Mr. Terhune has been conscientious in his rendition. Even if he is a hack, let it be noted that he does his hack-work well.

AN AMBITIOUS MARRIAGE.

THE TURNSTILE. By A. E. W. Mason. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.

A book which is interesting, despite the fact that it has a broken backbone, is A. E. W. Mason's, "The Turnstile." I do not know exactly what Mr. Mason is trying to get at in this book. There are times when I suspect him of writing merely a light novel for the warm weather—a novel of romance and adventure with no "purpose" or "problem." But at other times he drops unexpectedly into the profound, and if one should open the book at these places without reading what preceded, one would immediately suspect him of a serious object.

There is enough adventure in the first half of the book to fill any summer novel. In fact, the book might have ended with Cynthia's marriage to Harry Rames, and been a complete and diverting novelette. But this, to all intents and purposes, is merely the beginning of a serious social and temperamental study which lasts until the closing chapter.

The second half of the book is unconvincing. It is not sufficiently motivated; nor do the details warrant its conclusions. The first part of the book, which tells of Cynthia's early life, the death of her rapscallion father, her adoption and romantic marriage, is entertaining—probably because it is unambitious.

WHITMAN SELECTIONS.

THE ROLLING EARTH. By Walt Whitman. Compiled by Waldo R. Browne. Houghton Mifflin Company, New York.

"THE ROLLING EARTH," with a subtitle "Outdoor Scenes and Thoughts from the Writings of Walt Whitman," compiled by Waldo R. Browne, is one of the happiest selections from Whitman's writings which has come to me. Though dealing mostly with themes of the out-of-doors, the book, in its 220 pages, gives an excellent idea of Whitman's best work. It catches him in his most buoyant and intelligent moods. For in spite of old Walt's maudlin affection for the heaver of wood and the bringer of water, in spite of all his tireless reiteration, he had the heart of a great poet. In the open, when the pious piffle of his socialism was forgotten, he write vividly and passionately. He caught the spirit of the nakedness of things as no other American writer. The best of such of his writings are to be found in Mr. Browne's compilation.

WITH THE AUTHORS.

Thomas Dixon, author of "The Sins of the Father," has been spending the summer in Europe, principally in Paris and England.

For the past several months Booth Tarkington has been hard at work at his home near Indianapolis writing short stories, and he expects soon to begin a new novel.

Pierre Loti, the French author and dramatist, will make his first visit to America this fall. He is part author with Judith Gautier of "The Daughter of Heaven," a drama of modern China, which will be presented in New York the coming season. The play will later be issued in book form. Loti's Eastern sympathies were sufficiently strong to convert him to Mohammedanism. He is a severe critic of British rule in India and Egypt.

George A. Birmingham, well-known for his humorous portrayals of Irish life, is known in private life as the Reverend James O. Hannay. He has recently been elected a canon of St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The new story by Jacques Futrelle, entitled "My Lady's Garter," published this month, derives a pathetic interest from the fact that its author was one of those who lost their lives in the Titanic disaster.

Natalie S. Lincoln, author of "The Trevor Case," a detective story that ran through five editions in as many months, has left Washington for the New England hills, where she is completing her new mystery story.

Mary Johnston, the novelist, has been completing the final chapters of her novel, "Cease Firing," which will be published this fall. While at Hot Springs, Vt., where she has done her writing, she has also been overseeing the building of her new house.

Miss Ada Van Stone Harris, who was recently elected to the vice-presidency of the National Education Association, is the editor of "Favorites from Fairyland"—a collection of the world's best fairy tales arranged for supplementary reading in the graded schools. Miss Harris, who is now assistant superintendent of primary schools in Richmond, Va., was formerly assistant superintendent of schools in Rochester, N. Y.

Mrs. Dell H. Munger's recent book, "The Wind Before the Dawn," was completed in Palo Alto, Cal., where the author lives. Most of her life has been spent on the outskirts of civilization, and she knows the life of the plains, which she pictures in her novel, in its most intimate details.

Arthur C. Train, whose "C. Q., or in the Wireless House," has recently appeared, spends much of his time motoring abroad, frequently driving his own car. He and his family are in England and Scotland this month, and during the summer have been doing Spain, the Pyrenees, the republic of Andorra, Normandy and Brittany.

Nashville, Tenn., is the home of a number of authors of recent successful fiction. Among those who are there creating a new center of literary activities are Mrs. Corra Harris, author of "The Circuit Rider's Wife" and "The Recording Angel;" F. P. Elliott, who wrote "The Haulted Pajamas," and John Trotwood Moore, author of "The Summer Hymnal."

After winding up his contract with several newspapers to write special feature stories of the Republican National Convention in Chicago, George Ade, the humorist, whose new book, "Knocking the Neighbors," is to be brought out this fall, made a brief visit to New York and then left for Europe, where he will make a stay of several months. For the last few years Mr. Ade has been giving the greater part of his attention to his Indiana farm.

Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin is at present in London, where her play, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," receives its first English production next week.

Mrs. Clara Louise Burnham leaves her summer home this week to return to Chicago. Mrs. Burnham's latest book, "The Inner Flame," will be published this month.

Mrs. Mary Agnes Hamilton, whose first novel, "Less Than the Dust," will be published this month, is the daughter of the late Prof. Robert Adamson of Manchester, Aberdeen and Glasgow universities. She was born in Manchester, educated at Glasgow and Newnham, and spent a year in Germany. Then she was assistant to the lecturer in history at Cardiff for a year, and in 1905 married G. J. Hamilton, secretary to the Royal Economic Society. Since then she has lived in London, acting as secretary to the National Poor Law Reform Association and taking keen interest in the non-militant suffragist movement.

Rufus H. Gilmore, author of "The Mystery of the Second Shot," one of the successful detective stories of the year, is spending the summer at Scituate on the Massachusetts coast, writing his new mystery story.

Joseph C. Lincoln, whose stories of Cape Cod has won him a host of friends and a wide circle of readers, has signed contracts to go upon the lecture platforms during the coming year. "How to Be Happy Though a Humorist" is reported to be only one of the topics to be treated. "The Postmaster," his latest story of Cape Cod folks, has gone into another new edition. The reading public likes to smile, and his old sea captains always make this world seem a comfortable, happy place to live in.

James Bryce, British Ambassador to the United States, who has been traveling in Australia for some time, has just left for Washington via San Francisco, where he is due to arrive about a week before the publication of his new book, "South America; Observations and Reflections."

Hostesses who have learned to rely on the "Dame Curtsey" books of games, recipes and general aid to the housekeeper and entertainer, have often wondered just who Dame Curtsey is. The pen name covers the interesting personality of Ellye Howell Glover, who is a staff contributor to the Chicago Record-Herald, and to the International Press Bureau. Mrs. Holbrook—to give the lady her married name—was born in Ohio, spent her early childhood in Michigan, was educated in the South and made a special study of music under Alfred Barili, from whom she received her teacher's certificate. But finding the pen more to her liking than teaching music, she took it up with a success that is measured by the many editions of her "Dame Curtsey" books. Messrs. A. C. McClurg & Co. announce for this fall "Dame Curtsey's Party Pastimes for the Up-to-date Hostess."

When Yelagin was dead, Ryleyeff took his poems to a publisher; but was struck dumb by the publisher's report that the poems were schoolboyish and worthless. Russians are following the example of Germans by attempting to clear their language of words borrowed from Western European countries. A meeting of literary men lately decided to start a Russian Language League similar to the German Language League, to make war on foreignisms and to invent pure Russian equivalents for them. One of the chiefs of the movement is the politician, Volodomiroff, who recently delivered a speech in the Duma protesting against the corruption of the Russian language with new political expressions of foreign origin.

The illiterate peasants in the first and second Dumas had a craze for European political words; and one of them caused an uproar by using the word "prerogative" in the sense of "responsibility." The German Language League which the Russians want to copy, has 30,000 members. It makes relentless war on French menus, English sport terms, Italian music words, and popular Americanisms. The Kaiser backs it up.

BOOK NEWS.

The Putnams have in train for publication about the middle of September a new edition of "Love Poems of Three Centuries (1600-1900,)" compiled by Jessie F. O'Donnell, author of "Heart Lyrics." To cull the love poems from the poets of three centuries was no easy task, though unquestionably a labor of love. The volume contains more than six hundred poems, representing nearly three hundred authors, and includes every phase of love, from the earliest limits of the passion to the perfect consummation of the final heartbreak. Each poem and quotation is topically indexed. The compiler, herself a poet of no mean ability, has shown rare critical ability in the selection she has made.

The publishers of Dr. Maria Montessori's own book, "The Montessori Method," Frederick A. Stokes Company, announces that within a few months they will issue a translation of Dr. Montessori's latest and most extensive book, "Anthropologia Pedagogica," which goes deep into the years of experimentation on which Dr. Montessori has based her new educational methods, and gives to the reader the scientific bases of her theories. The book, which is now being translated by Dr. Frederic Taber Cooper, will be fully illustrated and provided with numerous diagrams.

The educational value of A. Maurice Low's "The American People: A Study in National Psychology" has received fresh proof in the request made to the author to deliver lectures on the book before many of the western universities this winter.

The autobiography of Napoleon prepared by R. M. Johnston under the title of "The Corsican" and published in this country by Houghton-Mifflin Company, has been enjoying a success in France quite equal to its popularity in England and America. Published on May 15 under the title "Napoleon, Par Lui Meme," it has run through two editions in three months and a third has just been announced.

A second printing of Ralph Straus's "The Prison Without a Wall" and a fourth printing of Romain Rolland's much-discussed musical novel, "Jean Christophe," are announced by Messrs. Henry Holt & Co.

Announcement is made by Doubleday, Page & Co. that it has been necessary to postpone the publication of "The Legend of Saint Jerry," by Roy Rolfe Gilson until next spring. The book had been scheduled for fall.

Dr. Albert Hale of the Pan-American Union left New York August 3 for an extended tour of South America to promote friendliness and good feeling for the United States among the countries of the Southern Hemisphere. Dr. Hale is the author of the "Practical Guide to Latin America," which is considered the standard guidebook to the various countries to the south of us, and on his journey will correct proof for a new and revised edition of his "Guide," which his publishers, Small, Maynard & Co., will publish this fall.

"Fires," by Wilfrid Wilson Gibson, the author of the much-discussed "Daily Bread," is published this week. This, like the writer's previous books, deals with the lives of the common people, their little and big tragedies, their joys and their sorrows. Here is the story of the girl whose lover is struck dead by a flying bit of stone; of the wife who has unusual patience with her husband's shortcomings; of the flute player; of the shop and the shopkeeper; of a machine and some of those who feed it.

Doubleday, Page & Co. announce the publication at the end of August of the following books: "Birds of Eastern North America," by Chester A. Reed. Illustrated. "The Dog Book," by James Watson, revised edition. Illustrated.

W. Heath Robinson, one of the best-known English illustrators, and popular here because of his pictures for "The Arabian Nights" and "Midsummer Night's Dream," has, this year, also broken into the ranks of authors. He has both written and illustrated an elaborate gift book entitled "Bill the Minder," and Messrs. Henry Holt & Co. are just issuing it. There are sixteen plates in full color and some hundred line drawings in the text. The story is intended for both old and young. Bill "minds" a delightful assortment of children, and after he and his charges meet the King of Troy—driven from his throne by a too strict populace—the adventures they have will make it unnecessary to "mind" any healthy child while he is hearing about them.

Of the editing of Shakespeare there is no end, but it has remained for the Boston publishing house of Little, Brown & Co. to have the text of Richard Grant White, the Shakespearean scholar, revised for a new pocket edition in twelve volumes, which will be issued in the autumn.

While preserving Richard Grant White's authoritative text in the main, the editors, William P. Trent, M.A., LL.D., professor of English Literature in Columbia University, Benjamin Wells, Ph.D., and John B. Henneman, Ph.D., late professor of English in the University of the South, have made such changes in the light of the investigations and opinions of modern and recent editors—from the Cambridge edition to Furness—as seem desirable in order to embody in this edition the ripest American and English scholarships.

A new, specially imported Scotch type provides a most readable text page and each volume contains four illustrations, most of which have been specially reproduced in photogravure by the renowned house of Goupil & Co., and which represent the most famous artists who have interpreted the scenes and characters of Shakespeare.

That Louis Napoleon was the natural son of Napoleon I is set forth with startling evidence in "Intimate Memoirs of Napoleon III," translated from the private diary of a lifelong and intimate friend of Louis Napoleon, the late Baron D'Ambes, which Little, Brown & Co. will shortly publish in two volumes in this country. The Baron follows his hero from boyhood through the years of exile and adventure as a conspirator in Italy, as a refugee in London, as President of the republic of '48, finally as Emperor, down to the disasters of 1870, the fatal day at Sedan aid the death at Chislehurst. In every phase of that checkered career this unique diary throws illuminating sidelights on a number of interesting and heretofore imperfectly understood episodes.

Many Californians will be interested in a new book entitled "The Three Sisters of Lord Russell of Killowen," which Messrs. Longmans will publish shortly.

Mother Baptist Russell was the pioneer Sister of Mercy in California, and all made their impression on their time. Catherine Russell was a woman of exceptional gifts, doing memorable work in this State, and died in San Francisco in August, 1898. Although the Cuban War was raging at that time, the newspapers devoted columns to accounts of her illness and death.

The three sisters of the late Chief Justice of England devoted their lives to good works. The story of what they did is not exciting, but it is interesting to those who believe in good works, and like to read about them.

The new book by the author of "The Lady of the Decoration" tells the story of "The Lady," married and staying temporarily in Japan while her husband, Jack, is working among the bubonic plague patients in Mukden. The story is related in letters to "Mate," in the manner of "The Lady of the Decoration"—and it is said to be that unusual product, a sequel which is really as good as its successful original.

Alice Hegan Rice's new novel, "A Romance of Billy Goat Hill," is the fourth book since the appearance of her success, "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." The new book is said to be much longer than any of the others, being partly the result of a suggestion made to Mrs. Rice by the late Richard Watson Gilder, that she should try a larger canvas and write a big novel.

Clayton Sedgwick Cooper has put the fruit of many years' travel among educational institutions, both in this country and abroad and of his study of college conditions into a book entitled "Why Go to College," which The Century Company will issue in the fall with many illustrations.

Dr. Alvah H. Doty, formerly Health Officer of the port of New York, is spending the summer in the mountains. His publishers, D. Appleton & Co., have recently issued a new, enlarged edition of his book, "Prompt Aid to the Injured." Dr. Doty has just finished a valuable book dealing with the mosquito and effective methods for its extermination.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—When Lawrence B. Rich, under arrest at Grant's Pass, Or., charged with bigamy, is brought to trial, it will not be on complaint of his first wife, who was Norma Cohn of this city.

"Mrs. Rich No. 2, her sister or the District Attorney must have lodged the charge," said Mrs. Rich No. 1 here today. "I have no desire to prosecute him, though it can be shown that we were married here on August 18, 1907, by the Rev. M. S. Levy."

Rich is the son of B. B. Rich of this city, well known in the tobacco business. He will be given a preliminary hearing at Grant's Pass tomorrow. The charge is that he married Miss Jessie Layton of Grant's Pass without having obtained a divorce from Norma Cohn. Dispatches quote him as denying that he had married Norma Cohn. She showed today what purported to be their marriage certificate.

SPANISH STRIKE PREVENTION.

Employees of Railroads to Be Mobilized So as to Bring Them Within Reach of Martial Law.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

CEBERE (France) Sept. 22.—The Spanish government is preparing to mobilize the employees of the railroads, bringing them within reach of martial law.

This is the outcome of the decision of the railroad workers at Catalonia to go out on strike next week because of the refusal of the railroad companies to grant their demands for an improvement of conditions. The government fears the present situation may develop a general strike.

consideration the fact that two sets of candidates for electors designated as "Republicans," each of them, have been certified to him, and continuing on the theory that all matters of vital interest to the people should be finally referred to him for decision, he will have the names of both sets of candidates placed on the ballot—both as Republicans, but with the distinction that one set is for Taft and the other for Roosevelt.

MAY BE ACCEPTED.

In political circles tonight, it was stated that such a plan will meet with the approval of both factions of the Republican party. It is believed also that Jordan's reputed attitude will take away much of the sting that might otherwise have attended the meeting Tuesday, for the reason that both the regulars and the Roosevelters will be sure of a place on the ballot.

were made by the conspirator or conspirators.

According to the story printed the two had plunged over a precipice in Topango Pass Saturday evening in an automobile, which was driven by Folsom. The story of the death of the couple was given to The Times by a man claiming to be K. Mason of No. 1145 Fourteenth street, Long Beach. The real Mason is a member of the National Guard of California and the man who impersonated him said that he and several friends, also members of the National Guard, were returning from a hunting trip and while going through the pass they discovered the overturned automobile lying at the bottom of a ravine seventy-five feet below the road level.

The Times verified the story as far as possible Saturday night and in the investigation discovered several persons in Los Angeles who knew Folsom. The alleged Mason gave to The Times the address of Thomas Jones and his wife, No. 803 California street, claiming that this address and the name Folsom were in a book found in the pockets of the young man whom he and his companions had dragged from beneath the wreckage of the auto.

Investigation by The Times showed that Folsom had lived at the Jones residence for nearly a year, leaving there about a month ago. Jones and his wife said that Folsom had been in love with their daughter, Ethel Jones, a chorus girl, and that he was despondent because she had refused his suit for her hand. They said that Folsom had met a girl friend of their daughter's on the street, Saturday afternoon and that immediately after the meeting, the girl friend had telephoned to Ethel and told her that Folsom was very despondent.

David Wilson, a deputy constable, with whom Folsom had been rooming for some time, was found and he was authority for the statement that Folsom had visited him at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon and said that he intended starting in an automobile for Santa Barbara to deliver the machine to a woman who had purchased it in Los Angeles.

Then came the discovery of two letters, one of them signed with the name, Thelma Bartee and the other written in a lead pencil and signed simply "Bud," a nickname which is used by all of Folsom's friends and which the young man uses himself.

These letters were remarkable in many ways and seemed to show conclusively that Folsom and the young woman had agreed to die together. The letter signed "Bud" was addressed to Thelma Bartee and reproached her for the ruin she had brought into the writer's life and declared that she had been responsible for trouble between him and Miss Jones. The letter expressed a wish to die and stated that the writer was rapidly driving himself to death with absinthe. The letter signed Thelma Bartee also spoke of death.

Folsom was found yesterday very much alive, at the home of his mother in Santa Monica. He declared he knew nothing of the hoax and that he was at a loss to understand who had started the story of his death and why it had been started. He declared that he knew a woman named Thelma Bartee and that she now was in San Francisco.

The Times is bending every effort to discover the author of the hoax and promises that if the perpetrator can be found that he will be prosecuted and exposed to the fullest extent of the power of this paper.

That the hoax was widely spread is shown by the fact that telephone messages to the effect that Folsom had been killed in this way were sent Saturday evening to several of his mother's neighbors at Santa Monica. They all credited it till Folsom turned up alive.

Mr. Folsom and his mother called at The Times office last evening and expressed a determination to assist The Times in running to earth the perpetrator of the hoax, saying that they had no idea who the scoundrel could be.

ULSTER IN ARMS.

Covenant Is Prelude to Rebellion.

Two Members of Parliament First Sign Declaration of Independence.

Many Pledges Never to Submit to Irish Home Rule Are Being Made.

Women Join With Churches in Formal Defiance to Liberal Act.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELFAST, Sept. 22.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Uuster is bristling under arms today and there is fear that next week will witness bloody clashes between the determined opponents of Home Rule and the authorities. On Saturday, September 28, formal defiance will be registered in the northern counties of Ireland to the Liberal programme to give Ireland local self-government.

In many of the churches today, the ministers preached militant sermons and aroused their congregations to a high pitch of excitement. Hotspurs are advising open rebellion and men and women throng to sign the Ulster covenant never to submit to home rule. For weeks already, arms have been gathered quietly while companies of men are drilling openly. What the outcome will be no man can fortell but the show of resistance has aroused apprehension throughout the Island.

WILL NEVER SUBMIT. DECLARE HOTSPURS.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—On Saturday, September 28, Unionists of the northern counties of Ireland propose to register their formal ...ance of home rule.

Gathering in halls, market-places and churches, the men of Ulster will sign a covenant pledging themselves never to submit to any government from Dublin which may be imposed upon the country by the Asquith-Redmond home rule bill passed by the House of Commons.

"Ulster day" is the designation chosen for this remarkable political sacrament.

Home rule in its revived form of local self-government, instead of complete separation for Ireland, has aroused no deeper political feeling in England than other questions—the tariff, the lords and Lloyd George's taxation measures. Indeed, most of the Englishmen appear willing that Ireland should have the power involved in Mr. Redmond's programme if only the constant strife and racial bitterness can be ended.

But the stumbling block has developed in the Unionists of Ulster. Before they will submit to separation they will have civil war, their leaders threaten. Home rulers, however, treat these threats with ridicule.

Members of Parliament like Sir Edward Carson, an Irishman, and F. E. Smith, one of the most conspicuous of the younger Conservatives who is not an Irishman, have made speeches in and out of Parliament, announcing that Ulster will never recognize a home rule government and urging the people to resist.

FIRST TO SIGN.

Sir Edward Carson and F. E. Smith are to be the first to write their names to the "covenant" in Belfast City Hall, where the largest assembly is expected. How many names will appear on this unique declaration of independence is a subject of newspaper contention. Predictions of Ulster enthusiasts range from half a million to a million.

The Belfast corporation has recommended all employers to give Saturday to their men as a "day of rest." The governing body of the Presbyterian church has issued a manifesto declaring that the home rule bill threatens religious freedom and setting apart the day as one for worship and prayer. The covenant is to be signed on the steps of the Belfast cathedral, and religious services will be held there, as well as in many Presbyterian, Methodist and Church of Ireland places of worship in Ulster.

Unionist women have formulated a draft of declaration for members of their sex to sign and are preparing a demonstration.

The signing of the covenant may prove the prelude to a great rebellion, or it may be a flash in the pan. Two years at best must elapse before home rule can begin to be established because the House of Lords can hold up the bill for that time. The present drift of political feeling indicates that the liberal party may go out of office within that period.

PRINCE OF WALES GOES TO OXFORD.

Russia Not Willing to Part With Grand Duchess.

Winter of Royal Hospitality at Windsor Castle.

German Grand Opera Season at Covent Garden.

BY LADY MANWARING.

[By Atlantic Cable and by Wireless from Chicago to The Times.]

LONDON, Sept. 21.—The Prince of Wales will take up his residence as an undergraduate of Magdalen College, Oxford, in the approaching Michaelmas term. The college reassembles after the long vacation on October 11. The heir-apparent is to occupy rooms in No. 4 staircase, on

His royal highness will be at overlooking the deer park, and within a few yards of the Founder's Tower and Addison's famous walk. The apartments are being specially arranged for the Prince's reception.

His Royal Highness will be attended by his tutor, Henry Hansell, an old member of Magdalen.

ROYAL MATCH-MAKING.

The rumor that the marriage of the Prince of Wales with the eldest daughter of the Czar will be under discussion during M. Saïonoff's visit is not well founded. The marriage might—and probably would—be very popular in England, but it would not meet with much approval in Russia. In the event of the death of the young Tsarevitch a very determined effort would be made to put the Grand Duchess Olga on the throne and to ignore the claims of the next legal heir. Such an attempt would, of course, be impossible in the event of such a marriage, and so, while we are welcome to the Grand Duchess Tatiana, popular feeling in Russia is against a "great" marriage for their beloved Grand Duchess Olga.

KINGLY HOSPITALITY.

It is fully expected in the court entourage that the Windsor sojourn in November will be prolonged over several weeks. The King and Queen will probably go to York Cottage at the end of November, in order to offer to Queen Alexandra in person their congratulations upon her birthday on December 1. The royal children will not, there at that time, and the special birthday party which their doting grandmamma has sometimes given for their enjoyment in previous years will therefore be deferred until the royal family assemble in Norfolk once more. There are also to be some interludes when the King will be the guest of his intimates at country houses in East Anglia and the Midlands, primarily for pheasant shooting. With these exceptions, it is understood that His Majesty will devote more time than he has been able to do since the beginning of the reign to re-establishing the hospitalities of "Windsor Castle in the late autumn. There will be several foreign royalties as guests, although the Edwardian usage of sending out invitations for the state visit of crowned heads is not to be continued in the same way.

CHARITY PAYS COSTLY DRESSES.

It is common knowledge that handsome sums are made in indirect commissions by many ladies whose names figure prominently in regard to charity functions. A striking instance of this has just been brought to light. A big bazaar in aid of a well-known institution was held many months ago, and, although it was a gigantic success, the amount handed over to the institution was surprisingly small. No balance-sheet was ever published; but it is now known that quite a score of the smartest women in society had managed to obtain costly dresses out of the indirect commission they received.

GERMAN OPERA IN LONDON.

Grand opera in German will have a special season of two months at Covent Garden next winter, beginning in the second week of January. The season will be chiefly under the direction of Thomas Beecham, and one of its features will be the production, for the first time in England, of Herr Richard Strauss's "Rosenkavalier" ("Rose Cavalier.") Special performances will also be given in German of "Electra," "Salome," and "The Meistersingers," and for these operas the best available artists will be gathered from all parts of the world. The Russian ballet has been engaged to appear on alternate evenings with the performance of the opera.

The Duchess of Fyfe, who recently attained her twenty-first birthday, is owner of one of the largest estates in North Britain, comprising nearly 250,000 acres of cultivated land, mountain, moor, and forest. She inherited the vast estates and great riches of her father. The duchess is fond of outdoor sport, especially of angling. She is said to have more than the ordinary share of the business capacity of the Duff family.

Dr. Charles Waldstein, who received one of the royal birthday honors in the form of knighthood, is an American by birth, but has lived in England for years. He was born in New York in 1856, and received his education at Columbia and Heidelberg. As an archaeologist he has gained world-wide fame, and has written much on the subject. He is associated with King's College, Cambridge.

blackmail. When she fell sick and her payments ceased he informed the police. The man was given five years imprisonment, the woman liberated, her child buried at the expense of the parish. The mother went to the little grave, knelt beside it and died.

A NEST OF GOLD.

A woman living at Shinfield, Reading, reported to the police that an envelope containing gold had mysteriously disappeared from her house during the night. The envelope had been securely sealed and placed on a dresser. While the police were making inquiries the woman saw pieces of paper near the fireplace and a closer examination showed that they formed part of the missing envelope. Behind the grate she noticed a large hole. The grate was taken out, and it was found that a rat had made its nest there, using the envelope, which it had bitten into small pieces, as building material. It had taken the sovereigns which the envelope contained and piled them on top of one another behind the grate.

THE SPY FEVER.

The spy fever has spread to the West End clubs, and certain members of two or three well-known clubs, to which many civil and military servants of the crown belong, would be surprised to know that they are really being kept under surveillance by the more suspicious of their fellow-members.

The vicar of Great Barr, near Birmingham, deplores the fact that only one marriage has taken place in the parish in the last year, and asks whatever their young men and maidens are thinking about.

"Great Barr contains many widows, and unless the young men and maidens wake up to their duty we shall have to appeal to the widows to save the situation."

GOSSIP OF THE FOREIGN STAGE.

[Special Correspondence of the Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—Gaby Deslys has this week turned up again at the West End. Alfred Butt booked her for the Palace and on Monday last she made her appearance there in a little sketch which has evoked a goodly measure of hostility on the part of some of the critics. "Mdlle. Chic" is not precisely a drawing-room entertainment, while one of the dances called "The Gaby Glide" is, well, to say the least of it, distinctly naughty. Of course, Gaby can do these sorts of things in Paris without raising a blush or offending a susceptibility. But she ought to remember that in point of artistic sensitiveness London is as far distant from Paris as New York from Hong Kong. Frankly, I should not care to take my maiden aunt to the Palace at present, being firmly of the belief that her innate modesty would receive a genuine shock. A small section of the press has been loudly demanding what is the use of a censor if such things are to be permitted? On the other hand, Alfred Butt smiles blandly and merely points to the crowded state of the Palace, from all which you may deduce any particular moral that happens to suit your taste.

Writing from Harrogate, where she is engaged in the gentle process of what she describes as "the horrors of a sulphur water cure," Olga Nethersole informs me that after a long and much-needed rest she is about to start work again. Early in October she begins an autumn tour of the English provinces which will carry her pretty well up to the end of the year. Soon after she will take steps to secure a West End theater. The piece she places chief reliance on is "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie" of which Margaret Anglin, I fancy, made quite a popular success on your side. It is curious how little London has seen of Olga Nethersole. When I first entered the theatrical arena some twenty years ago she was one of the most promising of our young actresses. I am convinced that, had she been taken properly in hand, she would be in a position second to none in this country at the present moment. There are, as a matter of fact, very few actresses who possess such a fund of emotional strength or of real dramatic force. But she was tempted to go off to Australia and over there, in answer to the popular demand, her style became exaggerated and melodramatic. From that defect, unfortunately, she never recovered. It is a pity, for, undoubtedly, she had in her the makings of a fine artist. Perhaps time, however, may have had a softening effect on her manner and her reappearance in London may serve to show that she has not entirely lost touch with modern methods.

Prof. Reinhardt is coming over this fall to London in order to give us one of his big productions. We are to have absolutely the first of it, as the piece is entirely new, although possibly it may be played for a week in some out-of-the-way town in Germany just to knock it into shape. I have heard the story of the play which, although differing in many respects, recalls in others that of "Sumurun." Although it contains occasional streaks of melodrama, the main interest of the plot is overwhelmingly comic. I am not yet free to say at which particular house the novelty will be presented, but this I can state, that Reinhardt has been guaranteed a minimum of $5000 a week as his share of the receipts.

A fortnight hence we are to have the Divine Sarah amongst us again at the Coliseum. So far as England is concerned, she seems nowadays to find the vaudeville stage more to her liking than the legitimate. The arrangement, at any rate, deprives her of all monetary risk and leaves her at the end of six weeks with a pleasantly handsome sum to the credit of the account. For the first two weeks of her engagement she promises scenes from Victor Hugo's "Lucrece Borgia," Racine's "Phedre," in which it may be remembered she made her very first appearance in England over thirty years ago, and Emile Moreau's "Elisabeth Reine D'Angleterre," which she recently produced with no great measure of success at her own theater in Paris. For the third week she reserves a little one-act play entitled "Une Nuit de Noel," specially written for her by Henri Cain and her beloved son, Maurice. Of the subject she has sent me some special details. The part she plays in it is that of a great dramatic artist who for love of France has abandoned her career in order to become a Vivandiere during the revolution of 1793. Sarah assures me that it is an exceedingly thrilling little piece, "pittoresque, poignant et superbe," and that it will afford her exceptional opportunity for the exercise of her talent.

ODD POSSESSIONS.

James A. Cooper of Providence, R. I., thinks he has a horticultural oddity in a sunflower plant which is bearing thirty-five blossoms. The stalk is two inches in diameter, and he says he expects to get at least a peck of seeds from the plant.

Mrs. G. T. Thompson of Orange, Mass., has a million-dollar house, which stands in what has proved an impossibility as far as its being a lawn is concerned. As grass seemed resolved not to grow there, Mrs. Thompson planted the ground in potatoes, and the first bushel were dug last week. Other residents will try the potato planting another year, it is said.

A red Easter lily, owned by Frank Andrews, is on exhibition at his office in Sanford, Me. Early in the week it had nine blossoms and several buds. The plant was in full bloom last February, and after blooming, it was cut down to a few inches above the earth. It is now about twenty-four inches high.

Mrs. Elmer Nutting of Cambridge, Mass., is said to have the largest collection of post cards in the world. It numbers more than 30,000 specimens. The United States navy presented Mrs. Nutting with a set of souvenir postcards collected when the fleet made its cruise around the world, a heigth of 180 feet, disappeared beneath the surface, and was never seen again.

It appears that the whole incident was planned by a cinematograph film company, who paid the unfortunate man the sum of 250 kronen for his tragic adventure. He belonged to a respectable Budapest family, and was anxious to go to Paris as a swimming instructor. He accepted the risk in the hope of making a reputation. The two film manufacturers by whom he was engaged have been arrested.

URPRISING IN PERSIA.

A serious new uprising in Persia is reported in official dispatches to the Chancellor of Vienna.

Prince Firman Firma, the Governor of Kermanshah, Persia, recently left that place for Senna. A portion of his expedition under Yar Mohammed Khan mutinied, demanding the revival of the Meijliss at Teheran. They returned to Kermanshah and occupied the town. It is stated that Salar-ed-Dowleh now offers to restore the Constitution, and is endeavoring to secure the support of the mutineers. The whereabouts of Salar-ed-Dowleh remains uncertain. Mukhbir-ed-Wowleh, the new Governor of Fars, has left for Shiraz, accompanied by Swedish gendarmerie.

GREEDINESS LOSES OUT.

The hotel keepers of Trieste have had a lesson. They had agreed to "put up" at a certain figure the recent touring party in connection with the inauguration of the C.P.R.'s observation cars on the Austrian State railways. But when they learned the party was a very big one, 300 at least, up went their rates three-fold. However, they had reckoned without the Austrian Lloyd Company, who put the Heloüan, their finest vessel, at the disposal of the party during its

LONDON LETTER.

BY SHAN F. BULLOCK.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Ulster just now is much in the foreground; and if forebodings mean anything, the province means soon to make a noise in the world. All that is, however, and happily, none of my business, and I merely refer to the matter here by way of recommending to you George Birmington's new story, "The Red Hand of Ulster." The book, I see, has already gone into a second edition, so the fears I had once, that British powers of humor would not be equal to appreciating it, were unnecessary; and judging by the reviews it gets on all sides, its success is assured. When you find two journals so opposed as the Freeman's Journal and the Spectator waxing enthusiastic over what is manifestly a political skit, you may be sure that its appeal is wider than to your average party man.

And so it is. Your fossilized party hack will hate the thing; your dryasdust will sneer at it; your sobersides in whom is no vestige of fun will throw it across the room; but you and I will read it twice or three times for sheer joy of laughter. It is all so absurd, whimsical, topsy-turvy; and yet, looked at aright, no saner story has been penned by the man whose fame it is to have created that irrepressible cleric and liar J. J. Meldon.

I must not give the fantasia, as the Spectator happily calls it, away, for no description could possibly do it justice, and it would be a sin to keep anyone from reading it. Enough to say that it concerns an imaginary rebellion, the scene of which is loyalist Ulster, the maker of which is an American millionaire named Conroy, himself the son of a Fenian, and the principals in which are Orange leaders, Tory gentry, a professor of Trinity, Ulster unionists and other malcontents. It is to buck up against the British lion that Conroy lays his nefarious plot. It is to show the world that dying in the last ditch is no fashion of speech that the loyalists of Ulster drill and march and sing their war hymns. It is because the nationalists are tame cat pacificists nowadays that they stand aloof, allowing the rebellion to accomplish itself to such purpose that at last British troops and Ulster loyalists meet in Belfast and discharge quantities of lead from rifles and machine guns to the destruction of tramcars and windows.

For the loyalists cannot shoot straight and the troops will not; so in sheer disgust, after a mad, wild while of serio-comic operations, during which McConkey tries to sink the British fleet with his bonny machine gun and the fleet responds by smashing the statue of Queen Victoria before the city hall, the loyalist rebels demand from England—what do you think—an Ireland free of everything English save a pictorial lord lieutenant, whose salary is guaranteed by Conroy. And now I have told you; but read and see, and if you don't laugh, pray to the gods for a sense of humor.

Not many biographers of the late Miss Octavia Hill, that great philanthropist, have referred to the part played by Ruskin in forwarding her career as a social reformer. She had as a girl been one of Ruskin's favorite drawing pupils, and in consequence had the good fortune to keep his lifelong friendship. One day at Denmark Hill the two were talking, when Ruskin confided in her his weariness at the daily round of seemingly unprofitable drudgery. "I paint, take my mother for a drive, dine with friends, or answer correspondents," said he, pointing to a heap of letters; "but one longs to do something satisfying." "Well, why not do something," replied Miss Hill—"try providing better homes for the poor." Ruskin turned round sharply in his seat. "How could it be done?" he asked in his eager way. "Have you a plan?"

Miss Hill had a plan; she unfolded it; Ruskin approved it cordially; and at last he provided a working capital of £3000 for the purpose of financing Miss Hill in her attempt to work three cottages, in a slum neighborhood off the Marylebone road, on model lines and on business principles. How she succeeded, and to what splendid extent her scheme eventually developed, all interested in social work have knowledge, and such of us who are familiar with our Fors Clavigera will recall the several references made therein to Miss Hill and her great work. What specially pleased Ruskin was the proof she gave him that philanthropy could be carried on as a business proposition. Here you had an oasis in the wilderness of London, beautiful homes, happy tenants, a model landlady—yet the oasis paid 5 per cent. on capital. "My own part in the work," wrote Ruskin, "was in taking 5 instead of 10 per cent., which the houses would have been made to pay to another landlord; and in pledging myself neither to sell the property nor raise the rents. . . ."

Anyone who has ever visited the British Museum would agree that it was an ideal spot in which to take refuge from the torrid heat of 1911. But clearly our public does not think so. Compared with 1910, there were 16,266 fewer visitors at the museum last year; and in the months of July and August the attendance fell by nearly 26,000. All this notwithstanding, it is satisfactory to know that the daily average of visitors to the great collection is higher than that recorded at any place of amusement, theater or music hall, in the country. In all 723,571 used the reading-room, the newspaper-room and the Natural History Museum at South Kensington; of whom 223,000 were supplied with a million and a half books under the great library dome. During 1911 not many remarkable acquisitions were made to the collections; the chiefest being the fifty volumes chosen by the trustees from the great Huth Library, and the collection of music, extending to 1000 MSS. and 3000 printed books, hitherto preserved in Buckingham Palace. Of the latter the main treasure is the set of eighty-one volumes in the autograph of Handel—a priceless gift which must be of extraordinary interest and value to all scientific students of Handel's music.

One of the last things written by Andrew Lang was a new preface for the cheap edition of his "Books and Bookmen" to be issued soon in Longman's Pocket Library.

GERHART HAUPTMAN.

It is fitting that the carefully-planned movement to bring Gerhart Hauptmann's works to the notice of English-speaking readers should be actively furthered just at this time, for the great German writer's fiftieth birthday occurs this fall.

The profound impression which Hauptmann's novel, "The Fool in Christ," produced when brought out last year augurs well for his new book, "Atlantis," which is soon to be published by B. W. Huebsch. "Atlantis" is in an entirely different vein and is devoted largely to American life. There is much in it that will appeal strongly to students of the occult. Social life among theatrical and artistic folks runs through it all. This is a reflection from "Atlantis" which we are permitted to quote from the manuscript:

"The lives of unusual men from decade to decade, it seems, enter dangerous crises, in which one of two things takes place; either the morbid matter that has been accumulating is thrown off, or the organism succumbs to it in actual material death, or in spiritual death. One of the most important and, to the observer, most remarkable of these crises occurs in the early thirties or forties. It rarely takes place before thirty; in fact, is more frequently delayed until thirty-five or later. It is the great trial balance of life, which one would rather defer as long as is expedient than make prematurely.

It is in such a crisis that Goethe made his Italian journey, that Luther nailed his ninety-five theses to the church door in Wittenberg, that Ignatius Loyola hung his weapons in front of an image of the Virgin, never to take them down again, and that Jesus was nailed to the cross. As for the young physician, Frederick von Kammacher, he was neither a Goethe nor a Luther nor a Loyola; but he was akin to them, not only in culture, but also in many a trait of genius."

Of equal importance with the new novel is volume I of Hauptmann's dramas. Twenty-five years of ascending fame have placed the author at the head of Continental playwrights. With Ibsen gone, Hauptmann's eminence remains undisputed. The authorized edition of his plays which B. W. Huebsch will publish is being edited by Ludwig Lewisohn, well known for his poetry as well as for his valuable translations, and has the active co-operation of Hauptmann himself. Besides four complete dramas, the first volume will contain an illuminating biographical and critical introduction by Prof. Lewisohn.

AMERICAN WOMEN.

Ellen Key, in "Love and Ethics," comments as follows on the woman movement in the United States:

"The values of the soul are to be found in the world of feelings. It is a pity the modern American reform proposition has so blinded many women that they do not see that the American programme is like the American birds whose colors are magnificent, but who cannot sing. The American soul in general still lacks music. It has no ear for the tones and half-tones of life. The millions of women in America who leave the care of their homes and children to collective work while they themselves follow their professions or their trades only seem to be socially useful. For it is not utilities, but complete human beings, that elevate life. Accordingly, all the outward improvements through legislation and social work remain on the whole without effect, because neither men nor women understand that what counts is the work done in the field of ethical values and in the furtherance of spiritual conditions."

The Century Company announces September 24 as the issue date of Jack London's new novel of Klondike adventure, "Smoke Bellew." Jack London, who has been cruising round South America, was last heard from in San Francisco.

THE NEXT RELIGION.

Mr. Zangwill's much discussed—and censored—play, "The Next Religion," is among the publications of the week. To take religion, a religion that is to be, and make of it a most dramatic theme is no ordinary feat, but this Mr. Zangwill has done. To use his own words, "The Next Religion" treats of "the religion all honest men are coming to, the religion the world is thirsting for, the religion which accepts the revelation of science." While the author's arraignment of certain modern conditions surrounding the church was such as to make its banishment from the stage of England necessary, there could be little doubt but that in this country there will be many who will welcome its ideas. "The Next Religion" is to be produced by a theatrical firm probably in the late fall of this year, but by its publication now the opportunity is presented to those who are interested to be familiar with the work before its presentation on the stage.

WILLIAM DANA ORCUTT.

William Dana Orcutt, author of the new Harper novel, "The Moth," is a young New Englander who has been a Bostonian since he was 10 years old, although his birthplace was West Lebanon, New Hampshire. He is the son of Hiram Orcutt, LL.D., of national reputation as an educator, and is a descendant of R. H. Dana, of distinguished literary fame. Mr. Orcutt is identified in a business way with the Plimpton Press in Boston, and, in a social way, with the University Club, Boston; the Country Club, Brookline; the Longwood Cricket Club; the Garrick Club, London; the Boz Club, London; the Omar Khayyam Club of America; the Societa Dantesca Italiana, Florence; the Boston City Club; the Economic Club, Boston; the Boston Authors' Club; the Caxton Club, Chicago; the Biographical Society, London and the Biographical Society of America.

THE LYRIC YEAR.

If the vitality of American poetry can be gauged by quantity, it is noteworthy that over 9100 poems by 1650 writers were submitted to the Editor of "The Lyric Year" for this forthcoming anthology of modern American verses: A figure more than doubling the most extravagant estimate.
